.-.FALL OVERCOATS.-.

These cool mornings and evenings must make you think of a Fall Overcoat. The ever useful coat you enjoy wearing, and adds dignity to your appearance. Styles are different from last fall, so much so, that your old coat tells on you. We're showing very handsome models in Fall Overcoats. The limit of good taste and fine tailoring.

We've the snappy styles, with the new kinks and quirks for young fellows, and the plain fabrics in conservative length and cut, for business men.

Remember our clothes insurance and assurance goes with our choice garments—for we say, "Money back if you want it."

Men's grey Cheviot Coats, 1 length, perfectly made, at $13.00.

Black Cheviot, silk-faced Coats, 1 length, well tailored, with twill mohair lining, at $14.00.

"In time of peace prepare for war." When business is brisk, advertise and keep it so. A small appropriation spent judiciously during busy times will go much further than much money expended in trying to make a dull business brisk.

All teas deteriorate with age. The flavor consists in an essential oil which decays. Take only fresh tea, and it only in the sealed lead packets of the "Salada" Tea Company. On account of its delicious strength a pound of "Salada" will go as far as a pound and a quarter of other teas.

—Two splendid games of football were played in the park last Saturday, when Picton Juniors met defeat in the morning to the tune of 2-0, and the Seniors in the afternoon to the same tune. Both sides gave a good exhibition of the game, the local teams playing better combination and thus winning. The Napanee boys are justly proud of their victory, giving a great deal of credit to their new sweaters. They hope to repeat their success next Saturday in Picton. REPORT OF NAPANEE DISTRICT W. M. S. CONVENTION.

The annual Convention of Napanee District W. M. S., was held in Selby Methodist church, on the 6th inst., with a very large attendance; the church being well filled at each session. A long and carefully prepared programme rendered the day not only enjoyable but profitable. The reports from Auxiliaries, with the exception of one or two, showed an increased interest in the work, and an increase in finances.

The Consecrative service, conducted by Deseronto Auxiliary, was impressive, and the delegates consecrated themselves anew to be more zealous, and more faithful in their duties towards their heathen sisters.

"Our Work, its Homes and Orphanages" a paper on this subject, given by Mrs. Wilson, Switzerville, showed the importance of these institutions. The outcast and the orphan are to be found everywhere. The writer gave an account of the homes and orphanages maintained by the W. M. S., and showed the effects of the training received there on the future generations.

"Our Schools" was presented by Mrs. Ferris, Harlowe. A limit of ten minutes to present such an extensive work as done in our W. M. S. schools was altogether too short a time. The hope of christianizing heather Countries is in the training and stepping the young. The account given of our schools in China, Japan and Dominion of Canada, was gratifying.

"Our Finances", a practical paper on this subject was given by Mrs. G. I. Perry, Morven. The W. M. S. must be carried on as the successful man does his business, or the economic woman her household, that is, with a treasury filled to meet the demands. Women work to greater advantage when they understand the finances; the history of any enterprise is wrapped up in its financial statements. With the justification that we are not assuming too great responsibilities, let us see that our treasury is adequately supplied.

"Our Workers". Mrs. T. V. Sexsmith, Camden East, gave a comprehensive account of the workers sent out by W. M. S., their qualifications, their duties and our duties toward them.

Mrs. Bovey, Wilton, gave an interesting paper, "The Auxiliary Member's Vision". In this vision the writer saw 2,000,000 instead of 50,000 Women workers in the Methodist church in Canada; saw work-ers offering themselves by the thousands; saw the day when every woman and child would know of a Saviour's love.

Miss Brooks, returned missionary from China, addressed the delegates both afternoon and evening sessions. She pointed out the need of the new hospital for women in Chentu. She gave an interesting account of her work in China, and the peculiar characteristics of the Chinese.

Mrs. (Rev.) Thompson, Selby, welcomed the delegates and visitors, and Mrs. Rev. Emsley, Napanee, thanked the local Auxiliary for their kind hospitality.

Solos by Miss Horton, Roblin; Miss Thomson, Napanee, and Mrs. Friskin, Selby, were highly appreciated.

The Napanee Mission Band gave two selections; "What a Penny will do," and "A Light Along the Way". The L. L. B. of Selby, gave Wen Shun motion song, all of which were interesting.

During the evening session the chair was taken by Rev. C. L. Thompson, Rev. W. S. Boyce, Wilton, and Rev. Mr. McConnell, Morven, were present also.

A communication from Mrs. Gibson, asking the acceptance of her resignation as District Organizer, was read. The Auxiliaries regretted the severance of Mrs. Gibson from them officially, as she had always been a source of helpfulness. A vote of thanks was extended to her for her years of faithful service. Mrs. Wm. Vallean, Morven, was elected subject to approval of Branch to take Mrs. Gibson's place as District Organizer.

An invitation from Wilton Auxiliary to hold our next Convention there was accepted.

THANKSGIVING SUPPER AND ENTERTAINMENT.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of Trinity Methodist Church, the usual Thanksgiving Supper will be served, on Monday evening, Oct. 25th. The ladies whose efforts in the past have met with such conspicuous success and won such praises, are determined to surpass even themselves. The supper will be served from 6 o'clock until all are served. After supper an excellent programme will be rendered. The Committee have secured the services of Miss Ida M. Landers, A.T.C.M., Toronto, pupil of Owen A. Smily. This is a young artist, who has been winning golden praise as an elocutionist and dramatic reader in all our cities and towns. See press notices next week. Miss Lila M. Thompson, A.T.C.M., will also be with us and render vocal selections. Nothing will be spared to make this a most enjoyable evening, Oct. 25th, 1909. Admission, 25c. 42a

DEATH OF LIZZIE CLARKE.

That dread disease, consumption, has claimed another young life for its victim in the person of Lizzie Mae Clarke, the loved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eleazer Kelly, who passed peacefully away a few minutes after eight o'clock on Monday evening, aged 25 years. Deceased had been ill for a long time, having spent several months in Gravenhurst, without any beneficial results. She returned home and was able to be around for some time, but about fourteen weeks ago she was compelled to go to bed. Deceased bore her long illness with great fortitude, and was patiently waited on by her mother and other members of the family. The funeral took place from her parents' residence, on Wednesday morning at 10.30 o'clock. Service was held in S. Mary Magdalene Church, by Rev. Rural Dean Dibb, after which interment was made in Riverview cemetery. The stricken family have the sympathy of their many friends in their hour of trouble.

GOLF.

Napanee 22, Picton 11.

The Picton Golf team came to Napanee on Friday last in Mr. J. D. Hepburn's motor boat, "The Dart", and played a friendly match with the following result:

Picton.	Points	Napanee.	Points
Knight	2	Smith	0
Spencer	0	Daly	1
Sullivan	0	Warner	1
Trumpour	0	Leonard	1
Gearing	0	Robinson	1
W. V. Pettit	0	Hill	1
Tyrrell	0	Travers	1
McMullen	2	Dibb	0
F. Pettit	0	Germain	1
	11		22

The features of the game were the scores of Messrs. Knight, Hepburn, Smith and Daly. The two Picton gentlemen each made a 99, while the Napanee players each made a 101.

Mr. Herb Daly made the best single round for 9 holes—a 38.

The Picton players arrived at 11.30, had dinner at the Queen's House, where several of the Napanee players joined them, and were entertained with a light supper at the Club house before leaving for home at 5.30 p.m.

TOWNSHIP OF RICHMOND.

October 4th, 1909.

The Council met at Selby.

The members present were Messrs. Manly Jones, Fred Sexsmith, E. R. Sills and Chas. Spencer.

Mr. Jones presiding, the minutes of the meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication was read from T. E. McGill, Clerk of Camden, in reference to work on the boundary between Richmond and Camden, which was laid over till the next meeting of the Council.

Three applications were received and read, from James McKittrick, George C. Joyce and H. M. Sexsmith, for Collector. Laid on the table.

Moved by C. H. Spencer, and seconded by E. R. Sills, that we grant Bell Telephone privilege of erecting telephone poles on the road side, between his place and Napanee for the use of telephone line. Cd.

A communication was read from Herrington, Warner & Grange, re the agreement of Messrs. French and Anderson to prevent water from doing damage by overflowing in the winter season by accumulation of snow and ice in the ditches on the sides of the road opposite their farms in the 7th concession. Filed.

Moved by Fred Sexsmith, and seconded by E. R. Sills, that George C. Joyce be appointed Collector for the year 1909, at a salary of $60.00, the taxes to be deposited in the Northern Crown Bank in Napanee, to the credit of the Treasurer of the Township of Richmond as collector. Carried.

Moved by Fred Sexsmith, and seconded by C. H. Spencer, that E. R. Sills be paid $60.45, to pay for work in building a bridge on Sucker Creek, between lots 6 and 7, in the 2nd Concession. Carried.

Moved by C. H. Spencer, and seconded by E. R. Sills, that the following statute labor be refunded: Thomas McGuinn $2.00; James Benn $7.00, Thomas Manion $3.00, John McCann $2.00, J. W. Young $2.00, Henry Jarvis $2.00. Carried.

Moved by E. R. Sills, and seconded by C. H. Spencer, that the following sums be remitted: Mrs. S. Mowers $1.43, Mrs. J. McFarland 73c, Peter Asselstine $1.45. Carried.

Moved by Fred Sexsmith, and seconded by C. H. Spencer, that W. G. Winters be paid $60.00 salary, as collector for the year 1908, and $45.00 for extra services in connection with refunds of statute labor. Carried.

Moved by Fred Sexsmith, seconded by E. R. THE OCTOBER ROD AND GUN.

On the eve of the big game hunting season, the October Number of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, at Woodstock, Ont., gives foremost attention to big game hunting. This issue will be found valued enough in both localities and experiences to interest all sportsmen, and many will contribute record incidents in their own careers corresponding with some related in such picturesque fashion in these pages. In the same way the article on "The Characteristics of a Fine Backwoods Guide" will remind many readers of characters of character features shown by their own guides, and revive many pleasant memories—a rich storehouse of which is the property of every sportsman. Fish culture in Newfoundland will receive attention from every brother of the rod, and its inclusion shows that even at such a time the interests of the devotees of the fishing art are not neglected. Other seasonable pages are given, making the number one that should be the companion of every sportsman either at home or on his vacation, giving him a most pleasant hall hours in perusing what others have done and enabling him to fight some of his own battles o'er again.

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, but I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—MRS. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Bear Mr. Editor,—So many folk have asked me lately, that I wish you would let me make use of your valued paper to say that, God willing, our good Bishop, assisted by many of his clergy, will re-open Enterprise Church and consecrate the Chancel and Tower on Tuesday, Oct. 26th, at 10.30 a.m. We gladly ask our friends to attend. It will be a very great day to us in church life and village history. At noon there is to be in the basement of the church a most delightful banquet when the usual toasts will be proposed and responded to by prominent clergymen and laymen. Tickets 50c. Enterprise is easily reached by road or rail, and tickets on the Bay of Quinte railway will be issued from all stations to Enterprise, at single fare on the 26th inst., good to return up to and including Wednesday 27th inst. Many a one has told me since of his disappointment in being unable, owing to the heavy rains, to be with us last 12th of July. If anything should hinder him this time let him send me a dollar towards the cost of rebuilding. If anyone wishes to encourage missionary romance and church activity, please help the faithful little band of workers at Enterprise.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, believe me,

Yours very truly,
J. W. JONES.

TO GO TO OKLAHOMA.

Charles W. Fanning Has Decided To Locate at Muskogee.

Charles W. Fanning, who established the Union Pacific Tea Company's store here eight years ago, and who since that time has developed the business so that at present 14 agents of the company make the local store their headquarters, and the store ranks as one of the best in the chain of 210 operated by the company, has decided to remove his family to Muskogee, Oklahoma, the twenty-third of this month.

Mr. Fanning is to have a third interest in the Muskogee Wholesale Tea and Coffee Company and to act as its manager. The firm has been established seven years and has done a large wholesale business. Their present intention is to open a chain of retail stores through Texas and Oklahoma.

By Mr. Fanning's removal the city loses one of the most enterprising progressive and public spirited of its younger merchants. Mr. Fanning has always been a booster and always been found taking a prominent part in every movement for civic betterment. He has served as director of the Y. M. C. A. and is an active member of the Chamber of Commerce. Seldom has a business man made as many friends in this community in so short a time and all of them will wish him great success in the new enterprise which offers a wider field for the exercise of his abilities.—Olean, N.Y., Evening Times, Oct. 5th, 1909.

Mr. Fanning is well known in Napanee, having been in business here for some time. His many friends in town will wish him success.

WILL LOSE EYE, RESULT OF ACCIDENT.

Mr. John Walmsley, acting manager of the Old Homestead Canning factory, Picton, will, it is feared, lose the sight of one eye, as the result of an accident on Tuesday night. Mr. Walmsley was underneath the automatic overhead carrier. He did not notice the coming of the carrier, and the great steel rod hanging loose swung and caught the corner of his eye. The optic was fearfully torn, so the local report has it on its way, and Mr. Walmsley suffered excruciating pain. Mr. Walmsley has gone to the Kingston hospital for treatment. Mr. Walmsley is a brother-in-law of the late Mr. A. H. Baker, general manager of the Old Homestead Canning Company.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

SMUGGLERS OFTEN TRY TO MAKE USE OF "THE EMBASSY POST-BAGS."

The embassy post-bag is the secret thing of the office, the bulky red bolster, as it were, which was the writer of "The Recollections of an Ambassador's Attaché" delivered to Mr. Bellwether for November. It is the big leather bag into which go all the diplomatic despatches from the embassy and the confidential letters that illumine the countryside. That being looked at by the embassy, it is not to be searched itself at the customs. Washington is immune from inspection in any official way, and so is the seaport at which the bag is landed.

The families of the embassy staff often find the embassy bag convenient in the ways they have to send home to their friends things that they do not like to trust to the ordinary mails. But, although the bag is supposed to be a secret, it is extraordinary how many people learn to know about it and how many ways they find to use it. I was in the embassy at St. Petersburg the day when a prodigal son, in disgrace, was sending a string of pearls and half a dozen sables to his family. Pearls, with a note to the ambassador from his American uncle, arrived slightly at Washington, and were travelling in the country, instructing the ambassador through the official bag to buy sister in Boston. We heard afterward that she had changed sending also a set of Russian sables for the same sum.

The most curious remarkable inanimate object taken to Europe by the embassy bag was the corpse of the different embassies who became weary of illustrating the careers that nothing can go to America through the official bag. I have heard the men at Rome relate that the bag was too small to carry the Pope.

A work train released by some small boys rushed down hill at 50 miles an hour at Vancouver and collided with a Grand View passenger car, smashing it badly. The passengers escaped with a shaking up.

When to Use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were originally a prescription used in the doctor's private practice and their benefit to mankind has been increased many thousand fold by their being placed on general sale throughout the world with the doctor's own directions for use. They are entirely safe and contain no opiate or habit-forming drugs.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a remedy to use when the blood is thin as in anaemia; or impure as in rheumatism, or when the nerves are weak, as in neuralgia, or likewise in paralysis; or when the body as a whole is ill nourished, as in general debility. They build up the blood, strengthen the nerves and cure the troubles of women and growing girls, and many forms of weakness. That thousands of people have tried this treatment with good results is shown by the constantly increasing number of cures reported.

Mr. Paul Charbonneau, a young man well known in the village of St. Jerome, Que., is one of the host who bear testimony to the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He says:—"When I left school I became a bookkeeper in an important office. Probably due to the confinement, I began to suffer from indigestion and loss of strength. I became pale and seemingly bloodless and was troubled with palpitation of the heart and violent headaches. I tried several remedies, but 'they did not do me a bit of good. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and did so, and the use of eight boxes brought me back to perfect health and strength. I have since enjoyed the best of health and cannot say too much in praise of this valuable medicine.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BY-LAW NO.

A By-law to raise by way of loan the sum of $10,000.

Passed 1909.

Whereas the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the County of Lennox and Addington has resolved to raise by way of loan the sum of $10,000 to cover the expenditure on County Roads during the current year.

And whereas in order thereto, it will be necessary to issue a debenture of the said Corporation as hereinafter provided for the sum of $10,000 (which is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-law.)

And whereas it is desirable to make the principal of said debt and interest repayable by yearly sums during the period of ten years being the currency of the said debenture, said yearly sums being of such respective amounts that the aggregate amount payable in each and every year for principal and interest shall be as nearly as possible equal to the amount so payable in each of the other nineteen years of said period as mentioned in Schedule "A" hereto annexed.

And whereas the total amount required by the Municipal Act" to be raised annually by special rate for paying the said debt and interest will be $1353.46.

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Corporation of the County of Lennox and Addington, according to the last Revised and Final Assessment Rolls of the County is $8,457,626.

And whereas the amount of the existing debenture debt of said County of Lennox and Addington is $6500.00 whereof no part of principal or interest is in arrear.

And whereas it is expedient that not raised by By-law or By-laws for contracting debts or loans any sum of money over and above the sum required for the County's ordinary expenditure since the 6th day of June, A.D. 1908.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the County of Lennox and Addington, enacts as follows:

1. That for the purpose of raising the sum of $10,000 as aforesaid, a debenture of the said County of Lennox and Addington to the amount in the aggregate of the said sum of $10,000 shall be issued on the day of 19, which said debenture shall be dated on the date of the issue thereof and shall be payable within twenty years thereafter, namely in the sums of $1353.46 in each and every year and shall be payable on the day of in each of the years from 1910 to 1929, inclusive, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Corporation at the Town of Napanee, in the County of Lennox and Addington.

2. The said debenture shall bear interest at the rate of 4½ per centum per annum, payable yearly on the day of in each and every year during the currency thereof, and shall have attached thereto coupons for the payment of the said yearly sums of interest and principal and the said debenture, and coupons may be signed by the Warden and countersigned by the Treasurer and Clerk of the said Corporation, or bear their signatures attach thereto the corporate seal of the said County.

3. That during the currency of the said debenture there shall be raised annually by special rate on all the rateable property of the County of Lennox and Addington, the sum of $1353.46, for the purpose of paying the amount due in each of the said years for principal and interest in respect of said debenture, as mentioned in Schedule "A" hereto annexed.

4. That the said debenture shall be issued and negotiated by and under the supervision of the Treasurer of the said County, and the Corporation of the County of Lennox and Addington, and the said County Council hereby authorize and depute on its behalf the Treasurer of the said County to negotiate for the sale of the said debenture under the provisions of the By-law.

5. That the funds derived from the negotiation of the said loan shall be forthwith be deposited in an agency of a chartered Bank at Napanee, to the credit of the said corporation.

6. That this By-law shall come into force and take effect upon, from and after the final passing thereof and shall remain in full force and effect until the debenture to be issued under the provisions hereof have been fully paid and satisfied.

Read a first, second and third time and passed in open Council this day of A.D. 1909.

Warden.
Clerk.

Schedule "A" referred to in the foregoing By-law showing the amount which is hereby required to be raised annually by special rate, as aforesaid.

The "Hecla" Furnace

And The Steel Ribbed Firepots

The greater the radiating surface of the firepot, the greater the heat obtained from the fuel.

In most furnaces, the firepots are made with castiron flanges or points, to increase the radiating surface. Being castiron, these flanges take up so much space that only a few can be used.

In the "Hecla" Furnace we use steel ribs instead of castiron flanges. By applying our Patented Fused Joint Idea, we are able to fuse 97 steel ribs into the Firepot in the same space where before we were able to cast only 17 iron ones.

This gives the "Hecla" three times the radiating surface of any other firepot—and effects a saving of from ⅛ to ½ in fuel, as proved by a three year's test.

This is only one of the many features that are exclusive with "Hecla" Furnaces. They are all described in our new catalogue which we send free on request. Write for a copy.

Important Announcement.

T. B. Wallace desires to announce to the readers of The Beaver that he has secured the agency for Parisian Sage, the marvelous dandruff cure and delightful hair dressing.

T. B. Wallace is glad to state that Parisian Sage is a ridgily guaranteed hair restorer.

It cures dandruff in two weeks by killing the dandruff microbes—it stops falling hair; it cures all scalp diseases, or money back.

It is a most pleasant hair dressing, especially for ladies, as it makes the hair soft and lustrous. The price is only 50 cents—large bottle—at T. B. Wallace's, or by express, all charges prepaid, from Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont.

MARYSVILLE.

We have had a bad mishap in our neighborhood, in which our milk drawer got his leg broken above the ankle. His horses got frightened, and put him in the ditch, upsetting the wagon load of cans, and throwing the driver, Mr. Horrigan, under the wagon, and it ran over his leg. The team was caught by a man going to Napanee. He will be laid up for a few weeks.—Mr. Harold Thompson spent Sunday last with A. Hafoe.—Mrs. Sweeney, of Toronto, is spending a few days with the Misses Darcey, Maple Lane.—We had a beautiful rain on Monday, which will let the farmers in the fields again at the ploughing.

MOUNTAIN VIEW.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Breen spent Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burns, Cedar Hill.—We are sorry to say that Mr. John Morin, who has been seriously ill for the past six months, is not improving. Slight hopes are held for his recovery.—Many people are complaining of colds.—Mrs. P. Lavoie spent Sunday the guest of her mother.—Quite a number of the young men have gone to different places to spend the winter in the lumber woods.—Mining is quiet in this locality at present.—Feed is quite plentiful around here.—Fall has Fairly arrived, and the woods present the most beautiful appearance, especially the maple.—Potato digging is now in full swing. There are an excellent crop.—Miss B. E. Dwyer is spending a few weeks at home.—Mrs. Jas. Burns spent a day recently in Croydon, visiting her mother, Mrs. F. Lynch, who is seriously ill.—Cattle buyers are plentiful this year. Cattle are bringing better prices than they have for the past two years.—Mr. and Mrs. P. Dillon spent Sunday the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Finn.—Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Clair, Chemo, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. Furlong, on Sunday last.

MARLBANK.

On Friday night between 12 and 1 o'clock, fire was discovered in the large frame building occupied by Mr. Lloyd Hughes, as a flour and feed store. The alarm was sounded and soon a large crowd had assembled. Fortunately a raffle and dance was in progress at Mr. Frank Cassiday's, and this assembly all hurried to the scene, and gave willing aid in saving the store and residence of Mr. W. J. Wilson, which stands close by. Mr. Hughes' store was too far gone to make any attempt at extinguishing the blaze, so all bent their energies in saving Mr. Wilson's valuable property. A bucket brigade was formed, and while some of the more daring mounted the roof of Mr. Wilson's store, others carried water, and by keeping the building well watered this property was saved. The fire was so close and so hot that the tin on the roof was appalling, and only by keeping their faces and clothing saturated with water were these brave fellows able to maintain their position. The burning building being only a shallow frame affair, only lasted a short time, and it was with sighs of relief that the fighters realized that they had fought and won against their fiery antagonist. Mr. Wilson gratefully presented the assembled saturated rescuers with dry clothing from his store. A small unoccupied frame house also owned by Mr. Hughes, was partially destroyed also.—Mr. W. E. McHenry, of Grand Mere, Que., visited friends here a week ago.—Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Shangrow spent Sunday at Colebrook.—Mr. Henry Darlington, who suffered a compound fracture of the leg, which was confined to the general hospital at Kingston, has returned to his home here, and is able to be around on crutches.—Mrs. Bell has moved from the village back to her residence at the cement works.—Messrs. Fred Brown and David Cook have returned home from the north, where they were enjoying a duck hunt.—Mr. Martin Lewis left here last week, and after spending a few days with his family in Tweed, will proceed to Cobalt, where he has a position.—Mr. Dorey and bride, of Gannanoque, visited his sister, Mrs. L. Sweet, here, a week ago.—Mr. Wm. O'Keefe has purchased the new frame house near the public school, from Mr. Jackson.—Mr. D. Baxter has moved his family to Belleville.—Miss Maggie Wilson is attending St. Agnes College at Belleville.—Mr. H. Winters is visiting his brother, Mr. John Winters, here.—Mr. D. Axford, unable to attend to station duties a couple of days, was relieved by Miss Stella Larkin.

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with seeming success. Relentless pain in the back, sweet old sore Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep; it is constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is proving the most popular in existence. Goes by word of mouth from one to another everywhere. Grateful patients gladly spread the news. It is an act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

ALBERT.

Anniversary services held at Ebenezer, on the 3d inst., were very well attended. Many were pleased to hear their former pastor, Rev. J. M. White.—Ebenezer congregation are making preparations for a fowl supper on Thanksgiving night, October 25th.—A heavy rain visited this vicinity on Monday, which will improve the land for plowing.—The threshing machines are heard in all directions. The grain is turning out better than expected.—Miss Hull, of Desoronto, is visiting friends in this vicinity.—Some from this neighborhood attended the entertainment at Lonsdale, on Friday evening last.—Our school is progressing favorably, under the able management of Miss Huff.—Mr. Robert Scott, who was quite ill, is able to be around again.

BELL ROCK.

A heavy rain fell here on Monday night.—Lemuel Chatill, a Scotch peddler, was attacked and severely beaten on the Enterprise road on Saturday night, about a mile west from here. He was rescued from his assailants and brought to a house in the village, where he lies in a critical condition.—Mrs. Martin has gone to visit friends in Tweed.—Peter Timmons, of Watertown, N.Y., is spending a few days at his home here.—Rab Pomeroy, D. L. Amey and several others from here attended the Tweed fair on the 1st inst.—Mr. and Mrs. S. Drader, Inverary, at Mrs. Martin's.—Mr. and Mrs. E. M. York at J. Pomeroy's.

CROYDON.

Messrs. A. Hughes and W. McKeown have greatly improved the looks of our new steel bridge, which spans the noble old Salmon River, by giving it a coat of paint.—We are pleased to hear Miss Zelia Nolan is recovering, after a serious illness.—Mr. Edward Dwyer is moving into our midst for the coming winter.—Mr. Thos. Furry called here last week en route for Tweed.—The Misses Mc Donald are busily engaged in taking out their potatoes.—Mr. Jacob Bonnet passed through here on Saturday last with a fine load of produce.—Mr. Geo. Paul and sister Annie, of Tamworth, were guests of Mr. Bashford Close, on Sunday last.—Rev. Mr. Dixon, Tamworth, will preach to the members of L. O. L. Constables had a running fight with three men supposed to be the Wright sale robbers, at Galetta, but the desperadoes all got away.

COLEBROOK.

Farmers are busily engaged digging their potatoes, and report a good crop.—The Rev. Mr. Batsford changed pulpits with the Rev. Mr. Dixon, of Tamworth, last Sunday, who preached a very interesting missionary sermon.—Orland Clement has moved to Williamsville.—F. B. Town send has moved into his own house in Colebrook, vacated by the removal of Orland Clement.—Charlie Lee had a rousing big corn husking last night.—Milton Huffman is working in Napanee, discharging the river. A goodly number from here attended the Odessa fair, and report a large crowd.—An addition is being built to the shed at the Methodist church, which was greatly needed.

ARDEN.

The annual fair in connection with the Kennebec Agricultural Society was held here, on Tuesday, the 5th inst., and was the best fair held here in every respect. The exhibits in live stock were keenly contested and some fine animals were shown. And the exhibits in the hall were exceptionally good, and those who attended the fair in Toronto say that there was nothing there to equal the display of fruit and vegetables shown here. We were told that under local option our fair would go down. But our gate receipts were larger than ever before. Everybody was sober, and when night came one would scarcely know that it was the night of the show, as the people were quiet and orderly. Quite a change from former years, when drinking, carousing and swearing and fighting were in evidence all night, and very often the next day.—The revival meetings being held here by the Misses Sturm and Mr. and Mrs. Garrett, are well attended, and a number have professed a change of heart.

F. S. Richardson & Bro.'s Studio is the best equipped and most up-to-date photograph gallery in Ontario. They have a special instrument for taking babies, the latest invention, one that will take every movement, and is fast. Sills' on Friday.—The people are kept busy attending huskings. There were three last week, one at D. Kirk's, one at Will Smith's, and one at R. Lott's.

Advice From a Mother to All Other Mothers.

The young mother—the inexperienced mother—is always glad to get the advice of the more experienced in the care of her little one. Thousands of mothers have emphatically said that there is no medicine equal to Baby's Own Tablets for keeping little ones well, or restoring health if illness comes suddenly. Every such mother can safely follow the lead of those others. Mrs. John Shortill, Georgetown, Ont., says:—"I would not be a day without Baby's Own Tablets in the house. I believe they saved my youngest child's life. At the age of three months she cried all the time with indigestion. Our doctor did all he could for her, but did not seem to help her. Then I got Baby's Own Tablets and they worked a wonderful change. They seemed to tone the stomach, moved the bowels regularly, and she has ever since been a healthy child." Sold at 25 cents a box by all dealers or by mail from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Get Well First

Don't risk even a grumpy—weak! health first returned.

Just 2 cents puts it right. Just a postal card request to-day to the sick. "I will send you a dollar package, pay for your medicine if it fails to cure you." That's fair and far for you to risk nothing. Thousands have been used and recommended in every prominent hospital in America. Every one cured, and in every community—and every where. Now why pay for rich, and so poor you can't be sick, or borrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

She was gowned in white satin, with silver and pearl trimmings, bridal veil, and carried a shower bouquet of lily of the valley and roses. Dr. and Mrs. Carlisle left on the noon train for the west, the bride travelling in violet broadcloth, with hat to match.

WORLD'S GREATEST SINGER.

Mme. Blanche Marchesi, well termed the world's greatest interpreter of song, is making another tour of the United States and Canada this season, giving her song recitals in all the principal cities. Mme. Marchesi's first tour of this country, made last season, was such a pronounced success in every way that there has been a general demand for her return whenever she was heard. Mme. Marchesi is again accompanied by Mr. Brahm Van den Berg, the Belgian pianist who last season is under the management of Mr. J. Somers Gordon. A number of new programmes will be offered by Mme. Marchesi, who is also to give Americans the benefit of all appropriate musical festivities. Mme. Marchesi will give a song recital at The Kingston Opera House, in Kingston, on Wednesday, Oct. 20th.

Steacy's KINGSTON

Fur-Lined Overcoats

The outer cloths carefully selected, designed, cut and finished, and lined with furs selected whole skins that show at a glance their depth and luxuriousness. Much stress is laid on the integrity of everything that goes into our fur coats, with no little skill manifested, and both workmanship and styles of the highest order. We can give satisfaction because we select it, and we make it distinctly worth your while to buy furs at home instead of sending away for a single garment.

Our Fur-lined Overcoat includes an excellent Christmas present. Come in and see what we call quality and value.

LENNOX AND ADDINGTON TEACHERS' CONVENTION.

The teachers of Lennox and Addington met in attendance at their annual Convention in the N. C. I., on Thursday and Friday last, Oct. 14th and 15th, 1909. The President, Mr. P. D. Shorey, Newburgh, was in the chair. Rev. Mr. Conn, Napanee, opened the meeting by reading a portion of Acts, 17th chapter, followed by prayer.

The minutes of the last session were read and confirmed.

The resolutions of the O. E. A. were then discussed.

Mr. Cornish, B.A., of Peterboro' Normal School, gave three very interesting addresses on Nature Study, its purposes and materials, the method to be followed in teaching the subject and the relation of nature study to geography and hygiene. The speaker showed the difference between nature study and science, why it was important as a school study and the benefit to be derived therefrom. The lecture was ably discussed by Miss Parks, and Messrs. Nesbit, Duncan and Edwards.

Mr. Nesbit gave an address, discussed by Messrs. Denyes and Clarke.

Mr. Flach, B.A., of N.C.I., gave an interesting paper on "The English Sentence."

Misses Ward and Vanluven gave a pleasing instrumental duet.

Friday morning, the Association continued the discussion of the O. E. A. resolutions, and Miss Parks, a delegate to the O. E. A., Toronto, gave a concise report of the proceedings, speaking on a few of the most important points considered by the speakers there.

Miss Parks also on the O. T. A., showing what it could do that the O. E. A. could not do for teachers of Ontario.

It was moved by Mr. Nesbit, I. P. S., seconded by Mr. Huffman, that an O. T. A. be formed. Mr. P. D. Shorey was elected President, Miss Chrysler, Vice President, and Miss Parks, Secretary-Treasurer.

Mr. F. Burrows, an honorary member of the L. & A. T. A., kindly responded to the President's invitation to address the Convention, congratulating the teachers on the improvements lately made in the schools and adding a few kindly words of advice and encouragement, much appreciated by all.

Mr. Huffman, Yarker, gave an able address on "Industrial Arts", followed by a violin solo by Mr. Collins.

It was moved, seconded and carried, that Mr. Cornish, B.A., be made an honorary member of the L. & A. T. A.

The following officers for 1909-10 were elected:—

President—Mr. F. Huffman.
Vice-President—Miss Chrysler.
Secty.-Treas.—E. Harrison.

The members of the Executive Committee are the same as last year with the addition of Mr. Collins.

It was moved by Mr. Nesbit, I.P.S., seconded, and carried that a vote of thanks be tendered those who took part in the programme, the Executive committee and the trustees of the N.C.I.

It was by Mr. Denyes, seconded by Mr. Wagar, that the next Convention be held at Tamworth. Carried. This closed the meeting.

The evening meeting on Thursday was largely attended, the chief attraction being the lecture on "Shakespeare and King Lear", given by Prof. Dyde, Queen's University, Kingston.

SEIZED 3,000 FEET OF GILL NETS.

The Government patrol boat Navarch arrived here Tuesday morning from a trip to Kingston and other ports. On the way up about 3,000 feet of nets were seized, being taken from what is known as the Reach, near Picton. Capt. Fleming, master of the boat, made the seizure. The owner of the nets is not known. On the same afternoon the Navarch left for another trip down the bay.—Belleville Intelligencer.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Dear Mr. Editor,—So many folk have asked me lately, that I wish you would let me make use of your valued paper to say that, after visiting, our good Bishop, assisted by some of his clergy, will re-open Enterprise Church and consecrate the Chancel and Tower on Tuesday, Oct. 26th, at 10.30 a.m. We gladly ask our friends to attend. It will be a very great day to us in church life and village history.

At noon there is to be in the basement of the church a most delightful banquet with the usual toasts will be proposed and responded to by prominent clergymen and laymen. Tickets 50c. Enterprise is easily reached by road or rail, and tickets on the Bay of Quinte railway will be issued from all stations to Enterprise. A single fare on the 26th inst., good to return up to and including Wednesday, 27th inst. Many a one has been told off since of his disappointment in being unable, owing to the heavy rains, to get to us last 12th of July, so if anything should hinder him this time let him send me a dollar towards the fund of rebuilding. If anyone wishes to encourage missionary romance and church activity, please help the faithful little band of workers at Enterprise.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, believe me.

Yours very truly,
J. W. JONES.

NEWBURGH.

It is some time since so many events have been recorded in this vicinity in so short a time as there have been within the last month. The latest is that of Mrs. J. W. Miller, immediately north of the village. Mrs. Miller had been a sufferer since the early summer from enlargement of the liver, supposed to be due to a cancerous growth, and for the last few weeks had rapidly failed until death came on Thursday of last week. The deceased lady was one of the most highly esteemed women, loved by all who knew her for her kindness of heart and grace of spirit. Hers was a character which very clearly exemplified the Christian ideal, and her life was a blessing in her own home and in the community in which she lived. She was naturally active in the church in all the work in which women are interested and in this respect she will be much missed. Her removal, together with that of Mr. Wm. Paul, of the same church, whose death was less than a week previous, constitutes a sore loss. The funeral at Cooley church on Sunday morning last was a very large one, the church not being able to accommodate all who attended. Rev. Mr. Sexsmith conducted the service, after which the remains were placed in the Centreville vault.

Mr. Percy and Miss Pearl Nesbit, in driving to Napanee on Thursday night, were unfortunate in being run into in the dark by a reckless driver. One wheel of the carriage was wrenched off and completely smashed, and other damage done. Both occupants were thrown out, fortunately, with little injury. The offending driver did not stop.

The auto car has resumed its trips to Napanee and Kingston.

Rev. M. E. Sexsmith preached a most outspoken sermon on Sunday night last on the social events of the day. He will preach Anniversary sermons at Moscow on Sunday next. Rev. Mr. Batstone taking his work here, and on the following Sunday, October 31st, the Anniversary services of the Methodist church here will be held, morning and evening, the preacher being Rev. H. Emory, of Picton First church.

Rev. Mr. McLennan, of Bruce Mines, occupied the Presbyterian pulpit last Sunday.

Visitors:—Mr. Garnet Taylor, of Queen's University, at Mr. E. W. Stickney's. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Denyes, Odessa. Mr. and Mrs. Clark, Cherry Valley, and Mrs. Huyeke, Peterboro', at J. M. Denyes'. Dr. Milsap, Napanee, at Mrs. A. Madden's.

We extend sincere commiseration to the happy crowd who in keen expectation of a delightful trip to Kingston to enjoy a theatrical treat on Tuesday night, were suddenly minded to change their plans. "The Burgomaster" may be all the musical critics claim, but how excellent it truly is the Newburgh music lovers really cannot say. A crowd of about twenty were in readiness to leave by auto on Tuesday to witness this production, when a too sharp turn of the machine snapped a rod connected with the steering apparatus, and the trip was off.

Dr. M. I. Berman is at Richmond, Virginia, this week, attending the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association.

MOSCOW.

The annual Anniver-ars concert of the Methodist church will be held on Monday night, 25th Oct. A good programme is expected by home and foreign talent—Mrs. F. P. Johnson and family spend Sunday at Mr. Empey's, Violet.—Mrs. Manly Foster has been on the sick list.—Miss Pearl Sproule and Mr. Curly, of Odessa, spent Thursday of last week at Mr. Will Cairns'.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grant, of Sydenham, visited at A. Asselstine's, last Sunday.—Miss Claney took in the Teachers' Convention, which was held at Napanee.—The many friends of Mr. Dennis Smith, of Yarker, who has been sick in the General Hospital, are pleased to learn that he is convalescent.

CANAAN.

Farmers are busily engaged digging their potatoes, and report a good crop.—Miss Annie Milligan attended the Teachers' Convention at Napanee.—A few young folks of Canaan spent a pleasant evening at Mr. James Carscallen's last week.—Mr. Joe Lockridge called at Messrs. W. Carroll's and Michael Spratt's, on Sunday evening of last week.—Don't forget that church is at seven o'clock now.—Mrs. Isaac Oderkirk spent Thursday the guest of Mrs. James Black.—Mr. Archie Black and Miss Nellie Miss Nellie spent Sunday at Mrs. Will. Frizzell's last week.—Mr. Dan. Rodgers was renewing old acquaintances in this locality on Sunday evening.—Mrs. Selwyn Storring has returned to her father's, Mr. George Black, after the illness of her husband. She has the sympathy of the whole community in her bereavement.—Mr. George Oderkirk made a business trip to Napanee on Wednesday.—Messrs. W. R. Kelly, Edward Baker and Thomas Pierce spent Tuesday at Tamworth, on business.—Mr. George Spratt and sister, Miss Maude, spent Sunday at Mr. Arkright's, Centreville.—Rumor says a couple of weddings soon.—Mrs. Selwyn Storring and sister, Miss Nellie Black, spent Wednesday at Agness Huffman's, Enterprise.

DESERONTO.

Mr. Jack Armitage, of the Toronto postoffice, who spent a few days last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Armitage, left on Monday for the above place.

The Purity Flour advertising medium passed through the town on Monday, and proved an interesting novelty to the younger.

Messrs. A. and J. Armitage spent Sunday in Belleville.

The str. Prince Rupert and Consort Banna arrived on Saturday from Ashland with iron ore for the Deseronto Iron Company. The Prince Rupert, after unloading, goes to Fort William and loads grain for Kingston.

Messrs. Thos. Fox and Joe Roach spent Sunday in Napanee.

Mr. James Therrien, of the Toronto Construction Co., operating in Quebec, was in town a few days last week on his way to Toronto on business in connection with his work and left on Thursday for N. B., where he stops for some time on another branch of their operation.

Mr. Geo. E. Snider left on Monday for Vancouver.

The new furnace has been installed in the town hall, but as it has not been tested yet, nothing can be said for or against it, but people are wondering why a furnace could not have been purchased in town and satisfactory, and thereby patronize home industries, and help those who, are here to pay the taxes which will be very much needed shortly. There have been a good number of furnaces installed by our local workmen, and they all seem to have given good satisfaction.

Mr. Thos. Callaghan was in town this week on business.

P. G. McKeown attended the ball in Enterprise last week.

Henri Contre has returned from the west, where he spent the summer.

Mrs. Curry, of Marysville, is visiting in town at her daughter's, Mrs. P. Wims.

Miss Timlon, of Jones' Falls, is spending a few weeks with her aunt, Mrs. O. Flood.

Mrs. Major Malley and Master Clare are spending Thanksgiving with friends in Oranceville.

Mrs. Joseph Meagher and Master Francis, of North Bay, B.C. are visiting friends for a few weeks in town.

The grand concert and ball on Thanksgiving night promises to be a great success.

On Thursday evening of last week the members of Craig Lodge, I. F. & A. M., Deseronto, held an informal meeting in their hall, the purpose of the gathering being to bid farewell to Bro. George E. Snider, who, after ten years of business life in town, left for Vancouver, B.C., on the following Tuesday. Almost all of the brethren resident in town were present. The chair was occupied by Bro. Fred. J. Frost, W.M., who stated the object of the gathering, and took the occasion to present Bro. Snider with a handsome cabinet, which the speaker hoped would serve to remind the recipient of the friends tried and true he was leaving behind. All were sorry indeed to know that Mr. Snider was leaving Deseronto, but all at the same time were hopeful of great success for him in the sunset Province.

Mr. Snider replied to the address in a few words full of the deep regret he felt at parting from those he had known so long; but he felt that the opportunity offered in Vancouver was so much better than anything in the east that he would be standing in his own light were he to neglect it. He had gone out there to look over the prospect personally, and he had leased a store in the business portion of the city. He had talked with many men in Vancouver, and he was satisfied that the rapid and apparently permanent growth of the city was safe as to lead him to believe that the prospects were exceedlent. He thanked the brethren one and all for their expressions of good will.

Regret was expressed by the brethren at parting, among those who spoke being A. Richardson, M.P.P., Dr. Pasmore, Dr. Vandervoort, Mr. Robert Wilsyte, Principal of the High School; Mr. J. P. Griffith, superintendent of the Iron Works; Mr. H. Hampton, superintendent of the North American Telegraph Company, and others.

The gathering which was of a happy-sorrowful nature, dispersed after "Auld Lang Syne" and the National anthem had been rendered, with "Happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again."

After the service in the Methodist church on Sunday evening many cutters were showered on Mr. and Mrs. Snider, this having been the years most active workers in the church and Sunday School.

Mr. Snider had been a resident of Deseronto from his boyhood, and had been engaged in the jewellery business for many years, he being one of the pioneer merchants of the town. His going away leaves a gap hard to fill, as he was also an active church worker, but for action on the High School Board, and in various lodges.

Robt. Cook, Laird, of Queen's College, Kingston, was visitor to the High School last week, and delivered an address to the pupils. The attendance is 5 per cent. larger than last year. There is also a large increase in Art equipment and they have also improved the facilities for teaching Science. The following is the report for the first week after the re-opening. SUFFERED 15 YEARS CURED IN ONE MONTH

Gin Pills are wonderful.

"If every woman, who has Kidney or Bladder Trouble, could go to Davisville, Ont., and talk with Mrs. A. Simpson, they would do just as she did—take Gin Pills and cure themselves.

Mrs. Simpson grows enthusiastic over Gin Pills. Quite naturally, for she would be dragging out a miserable existence, instead of being the picture of health, had she not taken these pills.

"For 14 or 15 years I had Kidney and Bladder Trouble, suffering at times intense pain. I doctored continually and received sometimes temporary relief, but nothing gave me permanent relief until I was persuaded to try Gin Pills.

Within a couple of days I received great relief, and after taking one box I was completely cured and now would not be without them. I can highly recommend them to all who suffer from any form of Kidney Trouble."

MRS. A. SIMPSON.

We let you try Gin Pills before you buy. Write National Drug & Chemical Co. (Dept. A), Toronto, and a free sample of Gin Pills will be sent you by return mail. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, at all dealers. 2

HALL—MILLS.

(Omitted Last week.

St. John's church was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding this morning at 10:30 o'clock when Miss Daisy Hall, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Mills, 451 Hunter street, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Basil D. Hall, second son of Mr. E. H. D. Hall, city solicitor the Rev. Canon Davidson officiating. The bride entered the church and walked down the aisle on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march played by the organist. Mr. R. J. Devey, who looked charming in a gown of white liberty satin with riches of real lace, and caught with a cabochon of pearls and wore a gold locket which her mother had worn at her wedding. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white asters. A gift to Mrs. (Rev.) Gilmour, an intimate friend. The bridesmaids were Miss Madeine Wilson, who was attired in a becoming costume of pink silk, and Miss Grace Rheinhart, who wore a dress of white silk. The maid of honor was her cousin, little Grace Conway, and the duties of the page were performed by her brother, Samuel. Master Lorne Conway, a cousin of the bride, and Miss Ethel Morrison, cousin of the groom, attended a rope of flowers, permitting the guests to take their seats. Her father gave the bride a costume of primrose satin with bands of lace embroidered with gold and a hat with a black feather bow. Her grandmother, Mrs. H. P. Claringbold, was attired in black silk. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Gerald Hall. The church was tastefully decorated for the occasion and presented a very pretty sight. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held, at which nearly one hundred guests were present, many of which came from Kingston, Ottawa and Toronto. A sumptuous wedding repast was partaken of in the large drawing and dining rooms, which were decorated with asters, and after the bride received the congratulations of those present the happy young couple left on the 11.40 G.T.R. train for a trip to Montreal and Quebec. The bride's travelling suit was of blue broadcloth with a grey hat and gloves. On their return to the city they will reside on Hunter street.

The bride and groom have a host of friends who will join in wishing them a bright and happy future. The groom is one of Peterboro's rising young lawyers, being the junior partner in the law firm of Hesars. Hall, Hall and Hayes.—Peterboro Evening Review.

CARD OF THANKS.

To the workers at the fire in Marlbank, which destroyed my property, I extend my hearty thanks for their efforts to save the same. Also would like to make a correction of the statements of last week's respondent to the Beaver, which reads that the building destroyed was a "shallow frame building". It is the opinion of those who are competent judges that the building was one of the best built structures in the village, and an ornament to the place. Again thanking my friends for their noble work of the morning of Oct. 9th, I remain a friend to all. J. M. HUGHS.

23 COWS OR 60, WHICH.

Some of the September records received from members of cow testing associations show further remarkable variations in different sections of Ontario and Quebec. It is the exception in the Ontario associations to find less than 600 lbs. milk or 25 lbs. butterfat as an average yield for the thirty days. In Quebec associations the average yield is about 500 lbs. butterfat as an average yield for the thirty days. In Quebec associations the average yield is about all lower though one or two are well up, even to 700 lbs. milk and 26 lbs. fat. One association in Quebec has a total production from 23 cows of 17,500 lbs. milk and 775 lbs. fat, while another Quebec association has a little less than that is the total production of 60 cows; the 60 cows average less than 300 lbs. milk. Twenty-three cows, in one case, sixty in the other, which kind of cows is a profit and which is not? What glowing possibilities are indicated by the most likely the 60 cows could be made to give better yields if fed better. The selection of the individuals as revealed by the records, and their mating with good bulls of decided dairy descent would give certain results, better cows in every way, without such glaring indifferences as in this case shown by the world of two fairly good cows is more than the total yield of five poor ones.

STEADY TO THE FRONT.

News come from Montreal that the Publishers' Syndicate, The Montreal Daily Star are doubling their circulation, equipment to meet the enormous demand for subscriptions and advertising patronage of that great Daily. The Star is bound to be to the front always in the newspaper dom. Its growth in circulation has been marvellous, and this is the best paper, and the opportunity is a new paper. We understand most elaborate plans are being completed to make the Star a greater newspaper than ever. No expense stands in the way to furnish the readers with the best news and features of the day.

The Montreal Daily Star, we understand, can be had in this territory at a special rate of $1.00 per year, which is just one-third of the regular price and at that figure no person should be without it.

True bills for manslaughter were returned against Harry and Fred Jopling at Peterboro' Assizes in connection with the death of Arthur Bollard of Toronto last August.

Investigation at Owen Sound shows that the wreck of the Athabasca was caused by the mistake of the wheelsman, who went directly opposite to the captain's orders.

The foreign trade of the Dominion for the first six months of the current fiscal year amounted to $304,200,088. The figures now equal those of the boom times of 1907.

David Reid was drowned while attempting to swim to shore from a boat that upset near Country Harbor, N.S. Two of his companions clung to the boat and drifted ashore.

The bearing of W. L. Russell, who is wanted in Toronto on several charges of fraud growing out of mining flotations, began before an extradition commissioner in Cleveland, Monday.

A fire at Quebec destroyed the Great Northern elevator, the custom house and a number of sheds on the wharves. An immense amount of grain and other merchandise was burned, and Fireman Jeremie Fortin was thrown from a ladder and killed.

On Thursday, Oct. 28th, 1909, S. W. Lee will sell by public auction, for H. Funnell, on lots 28 and 29, north part, on the 6th Con. of North Fredericksburgh, 3 miles from Napanee, at 12 o'clock noon, horses, 5 cows, 2 heifers, sheep, hogs, ducks, spring wagon, lumber wagon, drag, mower, seed drill, cultivator, scuffler, plows, harrows, Wettman piano, leaning mill, harness, robes, 1 sett wood, 10 kitchen stoves, household goods, etc., etc. Usual terms.

When a job of printing comes here it is always under the supervision of some who knows how to get value into the work. It's handled with intelligence, and no risk is taken in placing the order, nor in handling the work.

LADY PAGET ON TIPS.

Lady Arthur Paget, at the magnificent dinner given in her honor by Frederick Townsend Martin over the Plaza, talked of American extravagance. On the subject of tipping she said:

"Tips here are thrice as big as they are in England or France, and five times as big as they are in Italy. And you tip people that abroad we never think of tipping. You tip in fact, every one in sight. It is not right."

She smiled and resumed:

"A man's wife said to him:

"What about this yard-long golden hair on your dress coat?'

"It must have come from the porter at the banquet hall last night, my dear.'

"Ridiculous.' The porter wouldn't put a long golden hair on you.'

"Ah, but he would, though. You see I forgot to tip him for calling me a taxicab."

ON LAZINESS.

Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, said in the course of a brilliant after-dinner speech in Cleveland:

"Laziness is responsible for too much of the misery we see about us. It is not very well to blame alcohol for this misery, to blame oppression and injustice, but to what bights may we not all have climbed but for our laziness?"

He paused and smiled.

"We are too much like the supernumerary in the drama," he went on, "who had to enter from right and say, My lord, the carriage waits.

"Look here, super," said the stage manager one night, 'I want you to come on from the left instead of the right after this, and I want you to throw open your speech. Make it run hereafter, "The carriage waits, my lord."

The super pressed his hand to his brow.

"More study! More study!" he groaned.

WORDS OF GREAT MEN.

Every evil to which we do not succumb is a benefactor.—Emerson.

You will find life full of sweet savour if you do not expect from it what it cannot give.—Renan.

Let us be governed by reason, and be true to the best in ourself, and you will be happy.—Marcus Aurelius.

Nobody does anything well that they cannot help doing; work is well done when it is done with a will.—Ruskin.

It is not possible to secure distant or permanent happiness but by the forbearance of some immediate gratification.—Johnson.

I believe that we cannot live better than in seeking to become better, nor more agreeably than by having a clear conscience.—Socrates.

Let no man turn aside ever so slightly from the broad path of honor on the plausible pretense that he is justified by the goodness of his end.—Dickens.

BOXING.

White Man Outclassed.

In one of the most hard fought battles witnessed in Cuba city in many years, Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight champion of the world, defeated Stanley Ketchel, the middleweight champion in twelve rounds last Saturday afternoon. It was another case of the old saying that a good little man cannot beat a good big man. It was also in other case where Johnson established his right to be regarded as one of the most powerful contenders for the heavyweight championship since the days of J. L. Sullivan, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Corbett and Jim Jeffries.

In this fight Johnson upset the widely existed impression that he could not hit. When the finish came it certainly was spectacular enough to suit the most exacting lover of the manly art of self-defence. He put his smaller opponent away in decided fashion. He left no loop-hole for any chance of a fluke. When Ketchel went down from the last blow he was born de combat for keeps.

The Wise Mother Doctors Baby Wisely.

Now-a-days wise mothers do not dose their children with nauseous, griping castor-oil or purgatives, nor do they give them poisonous opiates in the form of soothing medicines. Baby's Own Tablets take the place of these harsh and dangerous drugs and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that the Tablets are absolutely safe, and will cure all stomach and bowel troubles, destroy worms, break up colds and make teething easy. Mrs. Thos. Craft, Bascarth, Man., says:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for constipation and teething troubles and do not know of any other medicine that can equal them. They are always satisfactory in their results." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer the Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

DESERONTO.

Mr. George E. Snider and family left on Monday night, midnight, for their new home in Vancouver, B.C. The pastor of the Methodist Church on Sunday evening, referring to the loss the local church would sustain, said, that during the past twenty-five years many members of the Methodist Church in Desoronto had removed to other places, many of whom had been very useful in church work, and when they left their loss was greatly felt, but in all those years no one had gone out from this church whose loss would be so deeply felt as that of Mr. Snider and family.

A. A. Richardson, M.P.P., said for twenty-five years Mr. Snider had been a fellow worker whom he greatly valued and implicitly confided in. Dr. Vanderveort said he had known Mr. Snider since he was a boy, and of all his knowledge of and intercourse with him he found him to be a worthy citizen and a Christian gentleman. Mr. Snider also had spoke of the excellent character and the useful life of Mr. Snider. Mr. Proper said for many years I have been associated with Mr. Snider in church work, and always found him to be a man you could trust.

Mr. Snider, in a few well chosen words, thanked those who had spoken so kindly of himself and family, and hoped that he might so live in the future as to retain their confidence and esteem. At the close of the service nearly the entire congregation shook hands with Mr. Snider and family, wishing them God-speed in their new home.

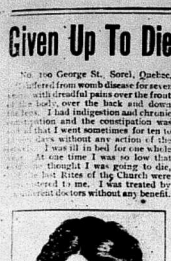
Given Up To Die

Mrs. Joseph Lirette, 100 George St., Sorel, Quebec, suffered from womb disease for seven years, dreadful pains over the front of the body, over the back and down the legs. I had indigestion and chronic constipation and the combination was such that I went sometimes for ten to fifteen days without any action of the bowels. I was ill in bed for one whole week. At one time I was so low that the doctor thought I was going to die, and the last Rites of the Church were administered to me. I was treated by different doctors without any benefit.



MADAME JOSEPH LIRETTE

I got a sample of "Fruit-a-tives," and had no faith in them at all, and I would not have taken them only my husband begged so hard for me to try them. As soon as I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" I grew better, the pain was relieved, the sleeplessness stopped, my stomach acted, and the bowels were moved, but above all the terrible womb pains were made easier. I have taken eighteen boxes in all and am now perfectly well again."

The Younger Set

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS, Author of "The Fighting Chance," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Robert W. Chambers

"Phil," she wrote, "I am a little frightened. Do you suppose Boots suspected who it was? I must have been perfectly mad to go to your rooms that night, and both were—to leave the door unlocked with the chance of somebody walking in. But, Phil, how could I know it was the fashion for your friends to hang like that and then come in without the excuse of a response from you?

"I have been so worried, so anxious, hoping from day to day that you would write to reassure me that Boots did not recognize me with my back turned to him and my face across my eyes.

"But scared and humiliated as I am I realize that it was well that he knocked. Even as I write to you here in my own room, behind locked doors, I am burning with the shame of it.

"But I am not that kind of woman, Phil. Truly, truly I am not. When the foolish impulse seized me I had no clear idea of what I wanted except to see you and learn for myself what you thought about Gerald's playing at my house after I had promised not to let him.

"Of course I understood what I risked in going. I realized what common interpretation might be put upon what I was doing. But, ugly as it might appear to anybody except you, my motive, you see, must have been quite innocent, else I should have gone about it in a very different manner.

"I wanted to see you; that is absolutely all. I was lonely for a word, even a harsh one, from the sort of man you are. I wanted you to believe it was in spite of me that Gerald came and played that night.

"He came without my knowledge. I did not know he was invited. And when he appeared I did everything to prevent him from playing. You will never know what took place, what I submitted to.

"I am trying to be truthful, Phil. I want to lay my heart bare for you, but there are things a woman cannot wholly confess. Believe me, I did what I could.

"I remember what you said about an anchorage. I am trying to clear these haunted eyes of mine and steer clear of phantoms for the honor of what we once were to each other before the world. But steering a ghost ship through endless tempests is hard labor, Phil, so be a little kind, a little more than patient, if my hand grows tired at the wheel.

"What do you think of me? Asking you shows how much I care. Dread of your opinion has turned me coward until this last page. What do you think of me? I am perfectly miserable about Boots, but that is partly fright, though I know I am safe enough with such a man. But what sets my cheeks blazing so that I cannot bear to face my own eyes in the mirror is the fear of what you must think of me in the still, secret places of that heart of yours, which I never, never understood.

ALIXE."

It was a week before he sent his reply, although he wrote many answers, each in turn revised, corrected, copied and recopied, only to be destroyed in the end. But at last he forced himself to meet truth with truth, cutting what cruder he could from his letter:

"You ask me what I think of you, but that question should properly come from me. What do you think of a man who exhorts and warns a woman to stand fast and then stands dumb at the first impact of temptation?

"If words of compendation, of courage, of kindly counsel, are needed by anybody in this world, I am not the man to utter them. What a hypocrite must I seem to you—I who sat there beside you preaching platitudes in strong and self complacency, instructing you how morally edifying it is to be good and unhappy!

"Then what happened? I don't know exactly. But I'm trying to be honest, and I'll tell you what I think happened.

"You are—you; I am—I, and we are still those same two people who understood neither the impulse that once swept us together nor the forces that tore us apart! Ah, more than that, we never understood each other! And we do not now.

"But one thing we do know, and through reason, but through sheer instinct—we cannot venture to meet again—that way, for I, it seems, am a man like other men, except that I lack character, and you are—you, still unchanged, with all the mystery of attraction, all the magic force of vitality, all the esoteric subtlety with which you enveloped me the first moment my eyes met yours.

"There was no more reason for it then than there is now, and, as you admit, it was not love, though, as was also admit, there were moments approaching it. But nothing can have real beginning without a basis of reason, and so, whatever it was, it vanished. This perhaps is only the infernal afterglow.

"So now I end where I began—with that question which answers yours so humbly without the faintest suspicion of reproach, What can you think of such a man as I am? And in the presence of my second failure your answer must be that you now think what you once thought of him when you first realized that he had failed you.

"PHILIP SELWYN."

That very night brought him her reply:

"Phil, dear, I do not blame you for one instant. Why do you say you ever failed in anything? It was entirely my fault. But I am so happy that you wrote as you did, taking all the blame, which is like you. I can look into my mirror now—for a moment or two.

"It is brave of you to be so frank about what you think came over us. I can discuss nothing, admit nothing, but you always did reason more clearly than I. Still, whatever spell it was that mesmerized us I know very well could not have threatened you seriously. I know it because you reason about it so logically.

"By the way, I saw Mrs. Gerard's pretty ward at the theater last night—Miss Erroll. She certainly is stunning."

Selwyn flattened out the letter and deliberately tore out the last paragraph. Then he set it afire with a match.

"At least," he said, with an ugly look, "I can keep her out of this." And he dropped the brittle blackened paper and set his heel on it. Then he resumed his perusal of the mutilated letter, reread it and finally destroyed it.

"Alixe," he wrote in reply, "we had better stop this letter writing before somebody stops us. Anybody desiring to make mischief might very easily misinterpret what we are doing. I of course could not close the correspondence, so I ask you to do so without any fear that you will fail to understand why I ask it. Will you?"

To which she replied:

"Yes, Phil. Goodby, ALIXE."

A box of roses left her his debtor. She was too intelligent to acknowledge them. Besides, matters were going better with her.

And that was all for awhile.

Chapter 10

SPRING ENT had gone and with it the last solled snow of winter.

"Spring, with that nameless fragrance in the air
Which breathes of all things fair," sang a young girl riding in the park. And she smiled to herself as she galloped her mare through the flowering labyrinths.

Behind her, powerfully mounted, ambled the belted groom. She was riding soon in the golden weather because her good friend Selwyn was very busy in his office downtown, and Gerald, who now rode with her occasionally, was downtown also, and there remained nobody else to ride with; also the horses were to be sent to Silverside soon, and she wanted to use them as much as possible while the park was at its loveliest.

It was near Eighty-sixth street that a girl splendidly mounted saluted her and, wheeling, joined her, a blond, well skimmed, rosy thing, smartly groomed and, almost too perfectly seated, almost too flawless and supple in the perfect symmetry of face and figure.

"Upon my word," she said gayly, "you are certainly spring incarnate, Miss Erroll, the living embodiment of the time!" She swung her riding crop in a circle and laughed, showing her perfect teeth. "But where is that faithful attendant cavalier of yours this morning? Is he so grossly material that he prefers Wall street, as does my good lord and master?"

"Do you mean Gerald," asked Eileen innocently, "or Captain Selwyn?"

"Oh, either," returned Rosamund airily. "A girl should have something to talk to on a morning like this. You are continuing to astonish the town, I hear."

"What do you mean, Mrs. Fane?"

"Why, first it was Sudbury, then Draymore, and now everybody says that Boots"—

"Boots!" repeated Miss Erroll blankly, then laughed deliciously. "Poor, poor Boots! Did they say that about him? Oh, it really is too bad, Mrs. Fane. It is certainly horridly impertinent of people to say such things. My only consolation is that Boots won't care, and if he doesn't why should I?"

Rosamund nodded, crossing her crop. For awhile as they rode she was characteristically amusing, sailing blandly over the shoals of scandal, though Eileen never suspected it—willfully gay at her own expense as well as at others, flitting airily from topic to topic on the wings of a self assurance that becomes some women if they know when to stop. But presently the mischievous perversity in her bubbled up again. She was tired of being good. She had often meant to try the effect of a gentle shock on Miss Erroll, and, besides, she wondered just how much truth there might be in the unpleasantly persistent rumor of the girl's unannounced engagement to Selwyn.

"It would be amusing, wouldn't it?" she asked, with guileless frankness. "But, of course, it is not true—this report of their reconciliation."

"Whose reconciliation?" asked Miss Erroll innocently.

"Why, Alixe Ruthven and Captain Selwyn. Everybody is discussing it, you know."

"Reconciled!" I don't understand," said Eileen, astonished. "They can't be. How can"—

"But it would be amusing, wouldn't it? And she could very easily get rid of Jack Ruthven. Any woman could. So if they really mean to remarry"—

The girl stared, breathless, astounded, bolt upright in her saddle.

"Oh!" she protested, while the hot blood mantled throat and cheek, "it is wickedly untrue! How could such a thing be true, Mrs. Fane? It is—is senseless!"

Miserably uncomfortable, utterly unable to comprehend, the girl rode on in silence, her ears ringing with Rosamund's words. And Rosamund riding beside her, cool, blond and cynically amused, continued the theme with admirable pretense of indifference.

"It's a pity that ill natured people are forever discussing them, and it makes me indignant, because I've always been very fond of Alixe Ruthven, and I am positive that she does not correspond with Captain Selwyn. A girl in her position would be crazy to invite suspicion by doing the things they say she is doing."

"Don't, Mrs. Fane, please don't!" stammered Eileen. "I really can't listen! I simply will not! If you knew him as I do, Mrs. Fane, you would never, never have spoken as you have!"

Mrs. Fane relished neither the naive rebuke nor the intimation that her own acquaintance with Selwyn was so limited, and least of all did she relish the implied intimacy between this red haired youngsprig and Captain Selwyn.

"Dear Miss Erroll," she said blandly, "I spoke as I did only to assure you that I also disregard such malicious gossip."

"Eh-if you disregard it, Mrs. Fane, why do you repeat it?"

"Merely to emphasize to you my disdain for it, child," returned Rosamund. "Do you understand?"

"Y-es. Thank you. Yet I should never have heard of it at all if you had not told me."

Rosamund's color rose one degree.

"It is better to hear such things from a friend, is it not?"

"I didn't know that one's friends said such things, but perhaps it is better that way, as you say, only I cannot understand the necessity of my knowing—of my hearing—because it is Captain Selwyn's affair, after all."

"And that," said Rosamund deliberately, "is why I told you."

"Told me? Oh, because he and I are such close friends?"

"Yes. Such very close friends that I"—she laughed—"I am informed that your interests are soon to be identical."

The girl swung round, self possessed, but dreadfully pale.

"If you believed that," she said, "it was vile of you to say what you said, Mrs. Fane."

"But I did not believe it, child!" stammered Rosamund, several degrees redder than before because her end was convinced that it was true. "I never dreamed of offending you, Miss Erroll."

"Do you suppose I am too ignorant to take offense?" said the girl unsteadily. "I told you very plainly that I did not understand the matter you chose for discussion, but I do understand impertinence when I am driven to it."

"I am very, very sorry, that you believe I meant it that way," said Rosamund, biting her lips.

"What did you mean? You are older than I; you are certainly experienced; you are married. If you can give it a gentler name than insolence I would be glad—for your sake, Mrs. Fane."

Fane I only know that you have spoiled my ride, spoiled the day for me, hurt me, humiliated me and awakened not curiosity, not suspicion, but the horror of it, in me."

Her voice became unsteady again, and her mouth curved, but she held her head high, and her eyes were as fearlessly direct as a child's.

"And now," she said calmly, "you know where I stand and what I will not stand."

If Rosamund had anything left to say or any breath to say it there were no indications of it. Never in her flippant existence had she been so absolutely flattened by any woman. As for this recent graduate from fudge and olives, she could scarcely realize how utterly and finally she had been silenced by her. Incredulity, exasperation, amusement, had succeeded each other while Miss Erroll was speaking; chagrin, shame, helplessness, followed as bitter residue, but in the end the very incongruity of the situation came to her aid.

"I'm certainly a little beast," she said impulsively, "but I really do like you. Will you forgive?"

No genuine appeal to the young girl's generosity had ever been in vain. She forgave almost as easily as she breathed. Even now in the flush of just resentment it was not hard for her to forgive. She hesitated only in order to adjust matters in her own mind.

"What sort of government do you think the Turkish Parliament could best imitate?"

"Well, judging from the way things are going there, I think their only choice is on the order of a Finnish Diet."

A CAREFULLY PREPARED PILL.—Much time and attention were expended in the experimenting with the ingredients that enter into the composition of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills before they were brought to the state in which they were first offered to the public. Whatever other pill-may be, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the result of much expert study, and all persons suffering from dyspepsia or disordered liver and kidneys may confidently accept them as being what they are represented to be.

Is this the balcony from which you see the eclipse?

Yes, madame. But you are too late.

Too late?

Yes, madame. The eclipse was over nearly half an hour ago.

"How provoking. And how very strange. Why, nearly every entertainment we ever attend always begins a half hour late."

A SPLENDID REMEDY.—Everyone wishes to be successful in the undertaking in which he may engage. It is therefore, entirely gratifying to the proprietors of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills to know that their efforts to produce a medicine which would prove a blessing to mankind have been rewarded with such unqualified success. The endorsation of these Pills by the public is gratifying, as it has been well deserved which will fully establish their claims for it.

Homebrew—I've heard somewhere that the Chinese will not allow their women to be photographed.

Globetrot—Shows their sense of art, my boy. I've been there, and seen some of 'em.

Proprietary corrodes the intestines and greedily eats away the lining, setting up most dangerous conditions that may cause death. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial cleans the intestinal canals of the germs of disease, is unmatchable, and in protecting the lining from further ravages restores them to healthy conditions. Those subject to dysentery should not be without this simple yet powerful remedy.

The Teacher—Now, Johnny, you may tell me how the earth is divided.

The Pupil—By earthquakes!

Johnny They're making shingles out o' cement now days.

Hickey—I don't mind that so much, but if man ever gets a pair o' cement slippers I'm goin' to run away!"

AN THE OIL IS IN, THE PAIN RUBS OUT.—Applied to the seat of a pain in any part of the body the skin absorbs the soothing liniment under brisk friction and the patient obtains instant relief. The results of the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil have created a host who were unacquainted with its qualities, and once known it will not be dispensed with. Try it.

Teacher—What are heavenly bodies?

Jimmie—Good dead people.

"How do you like your feather boa?"

"Tickles me to death."

Use the safe, pleasant and effectual warm lithia, Mother Seigel's Syrup. Nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

"If you struck one of those golf balls and hit a man in the eye, what would you do?" asked the man who was interested in first aid to the injured.

"Oh, I'd have to play it from just where I found it," replied the enthusiastic golfer.

"You can't make a man a gentleman by calling him one," said the moralizer.

"True," rejoined the thoughtful thinker, "but nine times out of a possible ten you can please him and thereby earn your point, and that is more to the purpose."

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences as many have testified who have tried it.

He (teaching her bridge)—When in doubt it's a good rule to play trump.

She—But that's just it: when I'm in doubt I don't know what the trump is.

"Your honor," said a lawyer to the judge, "every man who knows me knows that I am incapable of lending myself to a mean cause."

"For," said Forge, afterward, "the learned gentleman never lends himself to a mean cause; he always gets down."

"How did you contrive to cultivate such a beautiful black eye?" asked Brown.

"Oh!" replied Forge, who had been practicing upon roller skates, "I raised it from a slip."

A pain prescription is printed upon each 25c box of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. Ask your Doctor or Druggist if this formula is not complete. Head pains, womanly pains, pains anywhere get instant relief from a Pink Pain Tablet. For sale by all dealers.

MONEY TAKEN FROM TRUNK.

John Welsh, a cattle dealer, had one hundred and seventy-five dollars stolen from his trunk, which was broken into on Monday. He missed the money when going to the trunk in his room to pay for cattle. As soon as Welsh missed it he came to Tamworth and had a warrant sworn out for Peter Thompson's arrest. Thompson is an immigrant of about twenty years, who was working for Mr. Welsh. He was searched by Constable McKim, but nothing was found on him. The Magistrate committed him to the County Jail at Napanee.

THANKSGIVING SUPPER AND ENTERTAINMENT.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of Trinity Methodist Church, the annual Thanksgiving Supper will be served, on Monday evening, Oct. 25th. A Word of Caution — The Height of the Women's Coat Season

Don't buy a Coat where the style is bound to be duplicated in a dozen other coats. The best way we know of to please a woman who wants to buy a coat is to give her individual style. So here is a true story. A noted cloak manufacturer sold us about two hundred handsome coats style model garments. One of them. Does that look good to you? If it does we would like to show you Coats.

Our Wool Scotch Blankets

We are into our second lot of pure wool Scotch made blankets. Each one whipped singly. Nice to sleep in these chilly nights. $5.00 pair.

Three Rather Unusual Bargains in Carpets and Rugs

As earners are in line with other merchandise in the "good times boost" values such as these are unusual.

200 yards body Brussels, border to match, red, fawns, tans, 75 cents yard.

100 yards double fold Tapestry, 11 yards wide, $1.00 yard.

Four Rugs now in ledge display, $40 for $30, $35 for $25, $30 for $22.50, $18 for $15.

Sewing Machines

If you haven't thought it, let us tell you that the makers of some articles are unwilling to ever let the article be advertised for name sake or unusually low price consideration.

With shoes they can and do shave the name off, with machines they cannot.

We'll sell you a good machine for $19.75, $26.75 or $32.50, and our demonstration will tell you all you care to know. They are machines that make—its makers proud and famous. Full set attachments. Free lessons at your homes if within delivery zone, or at the store any time.

300 Boys' Odd Pants on Hand.

Made for the sturdy healthy boy who loves out door sports. Made to stand the greatest wear and tear. Not made to see how cheap they can be sold, but made just as well as they can be made and sold at as low a figure as such goods can be sold by anybody. These Knickers of ours are winning us praise from all sides because they are good values.

The New Fall and Winter Caps Are Here.

The patterns and cloths are prettier and the make is better than ever. The Eastern Knit Band Cap" is sold only through us in Napanee. The beauty of this knit band is that it fits closely to the head and ears, thus allowing no wind to whistle in—and besides affording complete protection, it also allows one to hear just as perfectly as if nothing was between. Price range, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50.

Knit Toques, Mufflers, Gloves and Mittens.

Another evidence of our superiority is the fact that we alone sell "Avon" Knit Toques, etc. The "Avon" people produce the most beautiful ranges of knit goods you can find. The combinations of beautiful shades is very pleasing and customers whose shown the range simply say "I never saw such beautiful colors." Toques in Hockey style as well as ordinary shapes, 25c, 35c, 50c. Mufflers, 50c. Mitts 25c and 50c. Gloves, 50c and $1.00.

Mr. Trumpour, of Picton, carried off the honors in the scoring. He made a go for the 18 holes. This would have won by a liberal margin from any player on either team.

The team went to Picton on C. M. Warner's motor boat, and was entertained in fine style by the ladies of the Picton Club.

"THE MERRY WIDOW AND THE DEVIL."

Joe Weber's company, direct from Weber's Theatre, New York, where they have been presenting with wonderful success travesties on "The Merry Widow and the Devil," will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House, in Kingston, on Thanksgiving Day, matinee and night. The chorus, which has been trained by Julian Mitchell, will be one of the largest and prettiest ever seen on the American stage, while the orchestra has been augmented. Sam Collins will head the cast, which includes Helen Redmond, Frank Mayne, Charles Stine, Oscar Ragland, Marcia Harris, Hazel Tupper, Marise Naughton and others.

FOOTBALL.

Napanee vs. Picton.

On Saturday last the N.C.I. football teams travelled to Picton to show them how to play football. The str. Reindeer left the wharf as scheduled and travelled down the bay. The scenery on the high Prince Edward shore was magnificent, and was alone worth the price of the ticket.

On arriving at Picton we greeted them with some yells and landed. We went up to the Royal Hotel, and the Juniors got into uniform, and then went to the fair grounds where the game was to be played.

The N.C.I. Juniors lined up as follows:

Goal, Scott; Backs, Doller and Battle; Half-backs, Z. Joyce, Vrooman, and Card; Forwards, C. Fitzpatrick, R. Sills, B. Stark, Anderson, J. Soby.

The teams were well matched, but Napanee was a little superior, holding them down to nothing in the first half. In the second half the N.C.I. had the wind in its favor, and near the close of the last half J. Soby dropped one right under the bar in the left hand corner, and soon after the game closed with the score 1-0, in favor of Napanee.

In the afternoon the Seniors lined up as follows:

Goal, G. Scott; Backs, McLaughlin and Vanluven; Half-backs, Conway and Stevens; Forwards, Cowan Wartman, Miller, Fraser, Knight, Jemmett, goal keeper, and Hoffman, centre half-back, were to have come down in the gasoline boat, but only got as far as Bogart's on the Bay, when the engine stopped and refused to go. So Scott was put in goal, and the centre-half was dispensed with.

Picton won the toss and had the wind the first half, but no goals were scored, and the first half closed with score 0-0. In the second half a sight was seen near the Picton goal that reminded one of a Rugby scrim. The men were pulled off each other and the ball tossed up. Then it began to rain, but the teams struggled on through it all, but no score resulted, and in a few minutes the game closed with score 0-0.

This was a complete treat out for Picton. Napanee having scored 2 goals to Picton's none. Mr. John B. Allison was a good referee.

Just as the boat was leaving Picton we were stormed with chestnuts, a few injuries resulting. This was a very brilliant send-off, but it was not Collegiate boys, but a band of ruffians who did this dirty trick.

This has been a brilliant season for the N.C.I., we having frozen Picton out completely. The Canadian Locomotive Company Association Football team has challenged, as has also Sydenham High School, but neither challange is likely to be accepted. We are satisfied to rest on our laurels.

The above Inspectors are appointed by the Ontario Government Milk Commission for the purpose of bettering the dairy products of the Province.

Slaughter sale will continue all next week of groceries, at Aylsworth's stand, next door to Hooper's drug store.

THE REASON WHY

Vinol

IS THE BEST STRENGTHENING TONIC

for Feeble Old People, Delicate Children, Weak, Run-down Persons, and to Counteract Chronic Cough, Colds and Bronchitis, is because it combines the two most world-famed tonics — the medicinal, strengthening, body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil and Tonic Iron, without oil or grease, tastes good, and agrees with every one.

We return your money without question if Vinol does not accomplish all we claim for it.

I have found the cure.
I will mail, free of any charge, my home treatment with full instructions to any sufferer from women's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—you, my reader, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home without the help of a doctor. You can cure yourself and maintain a perfect state of health. When we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is safe and sure cure for Leucorrhœa or Whitish discharges, Ulceration, Displacement or Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors or Growths, also pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing down sinkings, nervousness, that tired feeling so the sister, mother, here was a choice opportunity to teach him a bitter lesson. Then, too, Charlie Rice was a splendid dancer. Impulsively she accepted his offer, and half an hour later found them in the midst of the summer crowd dancing and apparently oblivious of all else on earth.

The ball was at its height when Julian Hawthorne entered the room. In the doorway he leaned against the sill as if physically tired, and the lids hung heavily over his black eyes.

As Rice and Grace passed him lost in the ecstasy of a dreamy waltz his gaze followed the two closely and a satirical smile spread over his face. When the dance was over Hawthorne slowly crossed the room.

"May I have the next dance, Grace?" he asked, without seeming to notice Rice, who stood by her side.

"Do you think you could be on time to claim it?" parried Grace, with stinging sarcasm.

"I am here now, waiting." Hawthorne answered as he extended his left arm.

If men but knew the power they have over women who fully love them! There was something within Grace O'Rourke that night which told her to reject the arm he extended, but that greater something—love—made her accept it. In another moment they were whirling round and round the room.

The night was warm, and when the dance was half over they walked out into the spacious grounds surrounding the big hotel.

"I want to tell you why I was late tonight, Grace," Hawthorne began.

"But I don't want to hear," interrupted Grace. "It's always some excuse, Julian, and I'm tired of it all. If it's not the office it's the train, and if it's not the train it's something else."

"Well, then, will you let me tell you something else—something that you've never heard before, at least not from me?" he added.

"Oh, all right," agreed Grace, "only make it a short story, for I've promised the next two-step to Charlie Rice."

"It won't take long to tell you, Jack." Hawthorne's voice seemed very near, and he spoke slowly and with great earnestness. "I just want to try to tell you how much I love you, Grace, how long I have loved you and that at last I am in a position to ask you to be my wife."

"As usual, my dear Julian, you are too late," announced Grace, with assumed nonchalance. "I've just promised to marry some one else."

Hawthorne lighted a cigarette and said nothing. If Grace expected a tirade about the fickleness of women she was disappointed. Hawthorne was the type of man to take defeat gracefully, but he did not fail to note the quickening of Grace's step as they returned to the house near the trembling notes in her voice when she spoke.

He loved her well enough to know her through and through. He was a man who took few chances in life, but he would have wagered that Grace O'Rourke loved him at that moment despite her cool rejection of his suit.

Hawthorne led her to Rice, who was waiting to claim his dance, and, then went up to the smoking room. Long he sat and smoked in silence, when suddenly he realized that the dressing rooms were filling up with guests preparing to go home. The dance was over. A man suggested that he smelled smoke, but the idea was laughed down.

"I guess it's Hawthorne's bitter rot cigar that smells like fire," sang out Charlie Rice. And the listeners all laughed in reply.

Hawthorne slipped on his light overcoat and sauntered toward the closed door that led into the hall. He opened it upon a curling cloud of smoke. At the same instant screams came from all directions. Men and women were in pandemonium. Rice was the first man downstairs, his one idea being self preservation, but above the roar of screams Julian Hawthorne's voice rang out clear and loud.

"Please keep back. Calm yourselves, and no one will be hurt."

They gave him no heed. Madly they tore ahead, fighting like maniacs. All made for the main stairway. Gowns were torn, arms were broken and ankles sprained in the effort to get out of the burning building. Once more Hawthorne raised his voice above the fray.

"I beg of you—I"—, His voice stopped short, for clinging to his arm was Grace.

"Save me, Julian, dear," she pleaded.

Silently he dragged her into one of the dressing rooms and opened a large door leading to a back stairway.

"I've tried to head them all off this way, but they would not listen. But if I can save you, darling, I will have been on time just once."

Grace gave his arm a loving little hug, which meant more to the man than all the words she could have uttered. Close to each other they descended the dark stairs which led through the servants' quarters. The rooms were deserted, and they easily reached the back door. Hawthorne turned and held Grace close for a moment. There was no time for words just then. And, standing alone in the darkness, she watched him rejoin the ranks of fire fighters.

"HAVE HIM, JULIAN, DEAR!" SHE PLEADED mere him, joined the veranda. Finally a man's voice greeted her.

"I say, Miss O'Rourke," he suggested, "let me cut out that tardy Hawthorne, won't you? Come along to the dance with me?"

Annie Grace hesitated. Down in the farthest corner of her heart she really and truly cared for Julian Hawthorne, but he was never on time for any appointment, and here was a choice opportunity to teach him a bitter lesson. Then, too, Charlie Rice was a splendid dancer. Impulsively she accepted his offer, and half an hour later found them in the midst of the summer crowd dancing and apparently oblivious of all else on earth.

FORGIVE AND FORGET.

By Aila Angie McHenry.

No sentence so great that will prove such a winner,
Or bring such relief when we worry and fret,
And soften the heart of the saint or the sinner,
As those magic words, I forgive and forget.

In weighing the acts of the life of another
Let love balance the scale every time;
Remember some things are no sin in another,
That in your own acts would really be a crime.

Ofttimes education will work as a leaven,
Or an unbalanced temper our actions will prove,
And what to our brother is pleasure and heaven,
To us it would sometimes be sorrow and shame.

The sin of an act lies within the intention,
Not measured by passion or impulse at all,
But when the conditions should be a prevention,
'Tis then that the crime the actor should enthrall:

All men God hath made, we can not make them over
Then let us not censure nor worry and fret,
But let us their faults with sweet charity cover,
And learn that grand lesson forgive and forget.

Ofttimes there's a cause that we fail to discover,
That prompts their acts that belongs to their soul growth,
Their innocence, justice and time will uncover,
And prove that it is best to forgive and forget.

The Readiness of Tommy.

"Tommy is such a good boy," said Mrs. Taddells to the minister as she served the pastry. "You know, Dr. Choker, that pie isn't good for little boys."

"That is very true, Mrs. Taddells," the minister assented. "When I was a boy I was not allowed to eat pastry, and all mothers must watch their children's diet very carefully."

"But I am not at all harsh with Tommy, you will understand, doctor," Mrs. Taddells went on. "Whenever I have something for dessert which Tommy cannot eat—pie, for example—I give him 5 cents to pay for his deprivation. And Tommy takes it so cheerfully, doctor. Tommy is such a dear boy, Dr. Choker."

"I am very glad to hear it, Mrs. Taddells. No, thank you, I could not think of eating more than one piece of pie, excellent as it is. But I am truly glad to hear of Tommy's manliness and cheerfulness when deprived of pie. I suppose, Tommy," the clergyman went on, "you like pie?"

"Yessir."

"What makes you take the 5 cents so cheerfully to go without?"

"Oh, with the nickel I can get a whole pie at the grocery around the corner."

Not Introspective.

The minister of a large parish in a certain western diocese had for some time been much troubled by the scandalous gossip that seethed to be occupying the minds of a portion of his flock and after exercising a great amount of tact and perseverance at last succeeded in running to earth the originator of most of the settlement's society misdeeds. The culprit one was a regular attendant at the schoolhouse services, and the minister knew that should he take him to task personally and individually he would inevitably lose a sheep, albeit a black one, so he decided to sermonize him. Accordingly a special discourse was prepared and the following Sunday afternoon literally hurled at the offending member as he sat on a desk in a corner of the schoolroom. Everybody present appeared to fully appreciate the situation and at the close of the service departed quietly and somewhat thoughtfully for home—all except the black sheep, who lingered to assist "parson" to hitch up his team and to remark: "That were a fine sermon, sir. I'll bet that hit some on 'em pretty hard!"—Bellman.

ON TIME.

By JANE LEE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

A slight, girlish form enveloped in a long, loose evening coat restlessly paced the broad veranda of Greymere inn.

Grace O'Rourke was lovely at all times, but tonight her Irish blue eyes flashed an unusual brilliancy, which made her positively irresistible.

"Better join us," called Elizabeth Dwyer as the latter left the porch escorted by a lithe youth.

It was the night of the annual midsummer ball given to the summer guests of Pine Grove. Grace hesitated for a moment.

"Oh, Julian will be along soon, Elizabeth," she cried. "He's late, as usual, but we'll meet you at the dance hall."

Other couples followed the first, but still Grace O'Rourke, the belle of Grey-mere inn, paced the veranda. Finally a man's voice greeted her.

"I say, Miss O'Rourke," he suggested, "let me cut out that tardy Hawthorne, won't you? Come along to the dance with me?"

THE BEST REMEDY

For Women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Belleville, Ont.—"I was so weak and worn out from a female weakness that I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took several bottles of it, and I gained strength so rapidly that it seemed to make a new woman of me. I can do as good a day's work as I ever did. I sincerely bless the day that I made up my mind to take your medicine for female weakness, and I am exceedingly grateful to you for your kind letters, as I certainly profited by them. I give you permission to publish this any time you wish."—Mrs. ALBERT WICKETT, Belleville, Ontario, Canada.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will cure female weakness and so successfully carry women through the Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 20 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—inflammation, ulceration, displacement, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you want special advice write freely to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

LEARNING AND POVERTY.

Writers of books have often declared that it is no unusual thing in out-of-the-way parts of Scotland, under smoke rafters or cottages the thatch of which is kept down by ropes weighted with huge stones, for some young fellow to exercise a passion for knowledge and battle with the evil star of his poverty to some purpose. Mr. D. T. Holmes, in his recent delightful volume "Literary Tours in the Highlands and Islands of Scotland," touches on some aspects of that subject. He talks of Bard Macdonald, of Trotternish, whose croft rent him from Crow came near being impounded for to 14 per annum, and whose only the price of seed potatoes, but who hitched his wagon to the high star of poetry. "I heard him sing a Gaelic poem of his own composition containing twenty-five verses of intricate versification," says Mr. Holmes. He tells also of the shy student who rode to the seaport, crossed the sound, rode across the breadth of Skye and to Aberdeen, and there sold his mount to pay the college fees.

And here is an anecdote if not of learning and poverty at least of learning in adverse surroundings. Two sailors and a shoeless navvy were discussing the subsidence of the land on Scalloway pier. One of the sailors alleged that his grandmother's cabbage patch was covered by the water on which his boat was floating. The big shipman, turning to me, quoted the well-known passage of Tennyson of the sea flowing where the tree used to grow—"It fareth what chances hast thou seen." This quotation led to a literary talk, in which he remarked that of all poets he preferred Homer. "What translator do you like best?" I enquired. "Blackie," he replied. "as being the most faithful to the original. But I rarely read a translation. I prefer Homer in his own Greek. The remark, made by one whose fingers were glistening with herring scales, came to me as a pleasant surprise. Later on in the day I visited his house and saw his fine library and his splendid collection of classical books.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity?

Will you tell some sick friend of this, my remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Blood ailments every where in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves—these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that is specially helpful to the distressed, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the kidneys—but in all wrong, Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the cause of these ailments—the failing, baffling inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the secret of its success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

It is to me a great satisfaction that I am the only physician who will gladly send a full treatment of my prescription for full 30 days, and let it help to help you, before you pay me a solitary penny.

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, whose makers are not willing to just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and I just remedy is covered by the same liberal offer to help, no pay" protective plan.

Do let me send you an order at once. Take the message to some sick friend.

Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis.

I will have an honest and trustworthy druggist to whom you can conveniently go for the 30 day test.

But first, ask me for the order, for all druggists are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

Write me now and save all delays. Before you sleep tonight, tell some sick one to write Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Which Book Shall I Send You?

A FUR YEAR.

This year is pre-eminently a year of furs. Wherever the fur trade furs engage it. Never in millinery were furs worn in such abundance and variety, even by animals.

The hired girl, on her Thursday afternoon, marches up the street in a coat of Australian rat. The sweet little maid who delivers the milk in fast rolls wears round her neck a sheep's tail. The lodger in front just refused to let in the newspaper sister lined with Siberian squirrel.

The butcher's apprentice wears a coat collar and sleeves of Persian raccoon. The messenger boys standing in errors along in ear tabs and handwarmers of black Baltimore rabbit. The fakir selling toffee to children throws open his coat and shows a warm lining of Canadian coon.

GENERAL BOOTH'S ANTI-SUICIDE BUREAU.

A London Bureau of the Salvation Army has been established to assist those in despair, and their death has just been recorded. The annual report of its operations. A correspondent writes a letter in the London Daily Chronicle, in giving an account of the General's report, the latest of Army activities. He says: "It is impossible to begin an organized effort to combat the suicide mania, as opposed to Antisuicide bureau, which operate departments for men and women in London, Berlin, New York, Chicago and Melbourne.

The General says: 'The women take exceedingly much anxiety and cause a painful draining. A sense of loneliness is a common cause of this. Often it is made the privilege of having some one to whom they could freely and with confidence pour their hearts has worked an entire change. Many of this class have no friends, consequently they are ever brooding over their unhappiness of their present state. Each of these cases has to be dealt with on its merits, and the number of the methods applied is legion.'

As in cases of crime, we read, the officers try to get the wrongdoers to see the evil of their actions, to make confession and restitution, to express willingness to suffer punishment if necessary, and to help their courage by accompanying them in the performance of their painful task. It has been found that friends and employers in these circumstances, have been prepared to look on the delinquents with a merciful eye, to retain them in employment, and, in one case at least, have gone so far as to increase the salary. General Booth expresses this opinion:

'It would be safe to say that 75 per cent. of the applicants have been diverted from the commission of the rash act they had contemplated, and been helped either out of, or through and on to the top of their circumstances.'

A few persons have set our counsels at naught and have perished.

The remainder are possibly contemplating the act of self-destruction today.

The Daily Chronicle continues its abstract of the report in these words: 'Painful and tragical though the story be, it is a striking demonstration of the helpful ministry of human sympathy, of religious consolation, and moral courage when brought to bear on the despairing and the hopeless by such an organization; and the General is thoroughly entitled to contend that the results have more than justified the origination of the Anti-suicide Bureau, and the expectations formed respecting it. It will undoubtedly hold a permanent place in the army's operations.'

A TOUCHING INSTANCE.

"One story, selected from several which are given in this report, may serve as a concluding example of the efficacy of this new agency.

"There is particular pathos in the story of the poor man, from the London docks, who, for thirty years, had been a teetotaler, frugal and industrious, and had brought up a small family in respectability. His son held a position in a banking house in London. There came a tragic change. The son, in a moment of temptation, took money from the bank. The father, to avoid disgrace, drew the savings of his lifetime, and handed them to the bank in order to save his son from prison. In his grief he resorted to drink, lost his situation, became one of the unemployed, gradually sold up his home, and took a room for himself and his wife, who died broken-hearted, while he was left all alone in his sorrow and starvation. 'Four times,' said he, 'I have walked across the bridge, looked into the water, and thought of my wife, and felt that I would rather join her than live on as I have been doing.'

He came to the bureau, was comforted even by the interview, felt he had a friend, and is now in employment.

Teacher: "Children, what creature is that in ornithology which has a very long neck, has something to do with trimming big hats, and fights by scratching and often gives cause to men to be afraid?"

Eager Pupil: "I know, teacher."

Teacher: "Well, Sammy, what is it?"

Sammy: "An old maid."

From an eastern city comes a sad story of a pawnbroker. He was enjoying a beauty sleep when a furious knocking at the street door brought him to the window with a jerk, according to the Rochester Sunday Herald.

"What's the matter?" he shouted. "Come down," demanded the knocker.

"But——"

"Come down!"

The man of many nephews hastened down stairs and peeped around the door.

"Now, sir," he demanded.

"I want to know the time," said the reveller.

"Do you mean to say you waked me up for that? How dare you!"

The midnight visitor looked injured. "Well, you've got my watch," he said.

The incumbent of an old church in Wales asked a party of Americans to visit his parochial school. After a recitation he invited them to question the scholars, and one of the party accepted the invitation. "Little boy," said he to a rosy-faced lad, "can you tell me who George Washington was?" "Iss, surr," was the smiling reply. "He was a Merican gen'ral." "Quite right. And can you tell me what for?" "Iss, surr. 'E was remarkable fond o' 'is country." "Merican air told the trewth." The rest was silence.

He was the only man at the table full of lovely girls, and, like all only men, he was spoiled. So when the belle of the table remarked that she was very fond of pepper and then sifted half the contents of the pepper box over her food he sprang an old trick on her.

"It won't hurt you. This pepper is half peas."

"What is that you say?" asked the landlady from the next table. "Speak a little louder, please."

He reiterated his remark.

"That isn't true," retorted the landlady hotly. "I do not use adulterated goods on my table."

"My dear madam," said the bland joker, "there are always a lot of peas in pepper."

There was an impressive pause. Then the landlady said in a crushing voice:

"Oh, yes, just as you always burnish part of the dessert."

"I don't understand."

"The chestnuts."

Her Majesty is very fond of visiting the tenants at Sandringham, and some time she had an amusing conversation with a poor old woman who was busy darning stockings. Thinking to put the old lady at her ease, the Queen said: "I am sure you cannot heel a pair of stockings as quickly as can."

"Oh, so the King wears stockings, do he?" asked the dame in surprise. "Only you an' me, mum, who mends stockings, knows what terrible bad 'oles men do make in their 'eels."

A certain great preacher who is a foe to all bigotry and narrowness gives the following illustration of how a minister was fittingly rebuked for uncharitableness:

The clergyman arose one Sunday evening with a fresh green walnut in his hand, and held it up so that all might see.

"Dearly beloved," he said, "with this walnut I am going to give you an object-lesson. See me now remove the rind of the nut. This rind is soft, dirty, useless, profitless. It is like the —— church.

"Now I come to the shell. It is hard, and a difficult thing to crack; but there is no nourishment in it. It is valueless, a thing to be thrown away. This shell, my friends, is like the —— church.

"And finally, breaking the shell, we come to the kernel, which is like our own church. I——"

At this point he opened it to show the kernel—and found it rotten.

EVER SEE A WHALE BLUBBER!

Capt. H. P. Nuse, of the Celtic, one afternoon a little group of ladies with sea stories.

"One trip," he said, "there was a woman who bothered the officers and me to death about whales. Her one desire was to see a whale. A dozen times a day she besought us to have her called if a whale hove in sight.

"I said rather impatiently to her one afternoon:

"But, madam, why are you so anxious about this whale question?"

"Captain," she answered, "I want to see a whale blubber. It must be very impressive to see such an enormous creature cry."

HIS TURN TO MOVE.

He was afraiaid to tell her right out and out that he loved her, so he began in a roundabout way, hoping she would catch his drift, then betray, by her confusion, her own feelings. He didn't dream but that she loved him, but thought that she, like himself, was afraid to demonstrate it.

"Heart trouble?" she repeated. "Are you sure you've heart trouble, Alfred? You know indigestion is very like it at times."

"Oh, I know I've got heart trouble all right, I—can't you see it your self?"

"Why, how silly, Alfred; no one can see heart trouble; they have to feel it. Have you taken anything for it?"

"No, not yet, but I—I want to, don't you know."

"Then why don't you?"

"I would; that is, if I could get it."

"Can't you get it, Alfred?"

"—I don't know."

"Have you tried?"

"No, not yet."

(Silence for two provoking minutes.)

"Alfred" (coldly).

"Yes?"

"Let's have a game of checkers."

NOT YET.

Smith has just become the owner of an automobile—or to be more correct to say that an automobile has just become Smith's owner. On Sundays he inspects all the machinery, stocks up with gasoline, and takes his family for long rides. For the purpose of diversity and variety he has purchased a road map, so that he can hook-hook without bothering any one with questions.

The other Sunday, however, Smith found himself at a spot he could not locate on his map, and he hunted up a native. He stumbled, as it were, across a tall, thin man wearing overalls, a calico shirt, a big pair of shoes and a broad-brimmed hat.

"Say, friend," said Smith, "do you know the roads hereabout?"

"Yes."

"Macadamized?"

"Nearly all."

"Town nearby?"

"Five miles."

"Live around here?"

"Yes."

"Quite awhile I suppose?"

"Yes."

Smith hazarded a guess. "All your life?"

The tall man smiled quizzically. "Not yet," he replied.

BENTHEVING THE LAW.

The young minister tremulously floating at Hankie Falls for the summer met Ehud Leningwell as he was walking to church Sunday morning.

"How do, Mester Leningwell?" he cried, cheerfully. "Going to church this beautiful morning?"

"Hev?" asked Ehud, who was pretty hard of hearing. "Hev I going to church? roared the minister.

"Nuh," Ehud responded. "I—ain't got my cayow. She must a got out the barn las night. I shouldn't like to, I allate, an just stay—"

"Come on to church," the minister shouted, cordially, and after preaching I'll tell the congregation and they'll help you. You'll get your cow much quicker.

"If looks," I'll say so, said Ehud heartily, and he fell into step. At the church door he was introduced to modest and—declaring that he didn't have his Sunday-go-to-meetin clothes on, insisted upon sitting in one of the most distant pews. He didn't hear the sermon at all, but he could tell when it was over by seeing the young minister fold his manuscript. This done, the young man began to make announcements. Ehud raised his right hand behind his ear, but still he heard nothing.

"My dear friends", said the minister, "it affords me great pleasure to tell you that on Tuesday evening at the hour of 6 o'clock, there will be celebrated at the home of the bride's parents the wedding of Edward Stoutenboro, one of our most esteemed young men, and that charming young lady—Miss Mehitabel Dodsworth."

As the minister ceased, everybody was astonished to see Ehud Lefingwell arise in his pew.

"An' ye might add, parson," he shouted, "that her ever ain't as an she's a leetle mite lame in the off hind leg."

A MORE PRACTICAL WAY.

It was the dreamy hour when the Christmas dinner, having been eaten, was doing its best to digest itself and the girls were talking in hushed tones appropriate to the occasion.

"I've just heard of a new charm to tell whether any one loves you, and if so, who it is," whispered Elsie.

"What is it?" queried Sophie, absently fingering her new diamond ring.

"Well, you take four or five chestnuts, name them each after some man you know, and put them on the stove, and the first one that pops is the one that loves you."

"H'm," said Sophie. "I know a better way than that."

"Do you?"

"Yes, indeed. By my plan you take one particular man, place him on the sofa in the parlor, sit close to him with the light a little low, and look into his eyes. And then, if he doesn't pop, you'll know it's time to change the man on the sofa."

THE DUFFER.

Nine little golf holes; bogy thirty-three.
Duffer badly tops his ball driving from the tee.

Eight little golf holes—first one cost eleven—
Buried in a bunker deep. Now there are seven.

Seven little golf holes. What an awful fix!
Three balls swimming in the brook. Now there are six.

Six little golf holes. When he tried to drive.
Sliced into the high grass. Now there are five.

Five little golf holes. Gracious, how he swore
As he dug the turf up! Now there are four.

Four little golf holes. Stymied by a tree.
Ball stuck in the branches. Now there are three.

Three little golf holes. Sphere just fairly flew.
But he missed a six inch putt. Now there are two.

Two little golf holes. In his face the sun;
Approaching, overran the green. Now there is one.

One little golf-hole. Down a steep incline.
Driver's broken; ball is lost. Score is ninety-nine.

IT IS AUTUMN.

It is autumn in the country, where the leaves are turning brown.
Where the farmer gathers in his crops, the summer's work to crown;
Where he figures up expenses and the profits he will make,
And anticipates the comfort that next winter he will take.

It is autumn in the city, where the coal is being drawn,
Where three-ball shops are visited for overcoats in pawn;
Where candidates are buzzing as election day draws near,
As politicians always buzz at this time of the year.

It is autumn in the country, it is autumn in the town,
Where the sky is gray and raindrops come a-drizzle-drizzling down;
Where the winds are growing chilly and the trees are getting bare,
Where the birds are flying southward—it is autumn everywhere.

BY-LAW NO.

A By-law to raise by way of loan the sum of $15,000.

Passed 1909.

Whereas the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the County of Lennox and Addington have resolved to raise by way of loan the sum of $15,000 to cover the current expenditure on County Roads during the current year.

And whereas in order thereto, it will be necessary to issue a debenture for the said sum of $15,000 (which is hereinafter provided for the same is intended to be created by this By-law).

And whereas it is desirable to make the principal and interest thereof repayable in annual sums during the period of twenty years next after the issue of such debenture, which said annual sums being of such respective amounts that the aggregate payments of principal and interest in each and every year for principal and interest will be as nearly as possible equal to the amount so payable in each of the other years and for that purpose special regard is had to Schedule A hereto annexed.

And whereas it is expedient that the Municipal Council of the County of Lennox and Addington do borrow the said sum of $15,000 and issue debentures therefor to be repaid annually and interest as hereinafter provided in the manner aforesaid.

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the Corporation of the County of Lennox and Addington according to the last Revised Assessment Roll is $3,671,876.

And whereas the amount of the existing debenture debt of the County of Lennox and Addington is $nil. Exclusive of debts incurred for local improvements secured by special assessments.

And whereas the amount of the interest in arrear, and the amount of the sinking fund actually in hand for redeeming any debentures issued for local improvements is $nil.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the County of Lennox and Addington enacts as follows:

1. That for the purpose of raising the said sum of $15,000 mentioned in the preamble hereto, the Corporation of the County of Lennox and Addington may borrow the said sum of $15,000 and issue debentures therefor to the amount of $15,000 in sums of not less than $100 each.

2. Which said debentures shall be dated on the 1st day of the issue thereof, and shall be payable within twenty years from the date of the passing of this By-law, with coupons attached for the payment of interest at the rate of 5 per centum per annum, payable on the 1st day of January in each and every year during the currency of the said debentures, the first of the said interest coupons to become payable on the 1st day of January, 1910.

3. That the said debentures shall be signed by the Warden and by the Treasurer of the said Corporation, and that the seal of the said Corporation shall be affixed to the said debentures and countersigned by the Treasurer and Clerk of the said Corporation, and that the said debentures shall be issued under the corporate seal of the said County.

4. That the said debentures and the interest coupons thereto attached shall be payable at the office of the Treasurer of the County of Lennox and Addington, Napanee, Ontario.

5. That there shall be raised annually by the Council of the County of Lennox and Addington, during the currency of the said debentures, the sum of $1,000 for the payment of the principal and interest in respect of said debentures as shown in Schedule "A" hereto annexed.

6. That the said debentures shall be issued and negotiated by and under the supervision of the Finance Committee of the County of Lennox and Addington, and the said Committee is hereby authorized and empowered on behalf of the said Committee to issue and negotiate the said debentures under the provisions of the By-law.

7. That the said debentures issued in pursuance of this By-law shall be payable at the office of the Treasurer of the County of Lennox and Addington, Napanee, Ontario.

8. That this By-law shall come into force and take effect upon and after the final passing hereof and shall remain in full force and effect until the said debentures and the interest coupons thereto attached have been fully paid and satisfied.

Passed in Council this 12th day of October, 1909.

W. G. WILSON, County Clerk.

The above is a true copy of a proposed By-law submitted to and considered by the County Council of the County of Lennox and Addington at its Special Session to be held at the Court House, in the Town of Napanee, in the said County, on Tuesday, the 26th day of November, A.D., 1909, at the hour of 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time and place the members of the Council are hereby required to attend for the purpose aforesaid.

Dated July 2nd, 1909.

Mrs. Fane swung her horse and held out her right hand:

"Is it peace, Miss Erroll? I'm really ashamed of myself. Won't you forgive me?"

"Yes," said the young girl, laying her gloved hand on Rosamund's very lightly, "I've often thought," she added naively, "that I could like you, Mrs. Fane, if you would only give me a chance."

"I'll try, you blessed innocent. You're torn me into rags and tatters, and you did it adorably. What I said was idle, half witted, gossiping nonsense. So forget every atom of it as soon as you can, my dear, and let me prove that I'm not an utter idiot if I can."

"That will be delightful," said Eileen, with a demure smile, and Rosamund laughed, too, with full hearted lightheartedness, for her eyes, lightly on her perfect shoulders in the nostalgic of her strength and youth. Sin and repentance were rapid matters with Rosamund; cause, effect and remorse a quick sequence to be quickly reckoned up, checked off and canceled and the next blank page turned over to be ruled and filled with the next impeachment. There was in her more of mischief than of real malice and unfeigned liking and respect for the turning worm.

* * * * * * *

"And, my dear," she said, concluding the account of the adventure to Mrs. Ruthven that afternoon at Sherry's, "I've never been so soundly abused and so soundly trounced in my life as I was this blessed morning by that rad hounded novice. Oh, my! Oh, la! I could have screamed with laughter at my own undoing."

"It's what you deserved," said Alixe, intensely annoyed, although Rosamund had not told her all that she had so kindly and gratuitously denied concerning her relations with Selwyn. "It was sheer effrontery of you, Rosamund, to put such notions into the head of a child and stir her up into taking a fictitious interest in Philip Selwyn which I know—which is perfectly plain to me, to anybody—never existed."

"Of course it existed," retorted Rosamund, delighted now to worry, Alixe. "She didn't know it; that is all. It really was simple charity to wake her up. It's a good match, too, and so obviously and naturally inevitable that there's no harm in playing prophetess. There is the youthful brother of our red haired novice now. He sees us, and he's coming to inflict himself with another moon faced creature. Shall we bolt?"

Alixe turned and stared at Gerald, who came up boyishly red and impetuous.

"How d'ye do, Mrs. Ruthven? Did you get my note? How d'ye do, Mrs. Fane? Awfully jolly to collide this way. Would you mind if—"

"You," interrupted Rosamund, "ought to be downtown unless you've concluded to retire and let Wall street go to smash. What are you pretending to do in Sherry's at this hour, you very dreadful boy?"

"I've been lunching with Mr. Neergard, and would you mind—"

"Yes, I would," began Rosamund promptly. But Alixe interrupted. "Bring him over, Gerald." And as the boy thanked her and turned back: "I've a word to administer to that boy, Rosamund, so attack that arrogant creature with moderation, please. You owe me that at least. Here he is now, and don't be impossible and frighten him, Rosamund."

The presentation of Neergard was becomingly without disaster to anybody. On his thin nose the face glistened, and his thick, fat hands were hot. But Rosamund was too bored to be rude to him, and Alixe turned immediately to Gerald:

"Yes, I did get your note, but I am not at home on Tuesday. Can't you come—Wait a moment. What are you doing this afternoon?"

"Why, I'm going back to the office with Mr. Neergard."

"Oh, no, Mr. Neergard, would you mind"—very sweetly—"if Mr. Erroll did not go to the office this afternoon?"

Neergard looked at her—almost—a fixed and uncomfortable smirk on his round, red face, "Not at all, Mrs. Ruthven, if you have anything better for him."

"I have—an allopathic dose of it. Thank you, Mr. Neergard. Rosamund, we ought to start, you know. Gerald"—with quiet significance. "Goodby, Mr. Neergard. Please do not buy up the rest of Long Island, because we need a new kitchen garden very badly."

Mrs. Ruthven's motor moved up from its waiting station. Rosamund was quite ready to enter when Alixe said cordially: "Where can we drop you, dear? Do let us take you to the exchange if you are going there."

Now, Rosamund had meant to go wherever they were going merely because they evidently wished to be alone. The abruptness of the check both irritated and amused her.

"If I knew anybody in the Bronx I'd make you take me there," she said vindictively, "but as I don't you may drop me at the Orchids, you uncivil creatures. Gerald, I know you want me anyway, because you're promised to adore, honor and obey me. If you'll come with me now I'll play bubble dummy with you. No? Well, of all ingratitude!"

And she smiled dazzlingly upon Gerald, then turned up her pretty nose at him, but permitted him to attend her to the Orchids' door.

When he returned to Alixe and the car was speeding parkward he began again eagerly:

"Jack asked me to come up, and, of course, I let you know, as I promised I would. But it's all right, Mrs. Ruthven, because Jack said the stakes will not be high this time."

"You accepted?" demanded Alixe in quick displeasure.

"Why, yes, as the stakes are not to amount to anything."

"Gerald!"

"What?" he said uneasily.

"You promised me that you would not play again in my house!"

"I—I said for more than I could afford."

"No; you said you would not play. That is what you promised, Gerald."

"Well, I meant for high stakes. I—well, you don't want to drive me out altogether, even from the perfectly harmless pleasure of playing for nominal stakes."

"Yes, I do."

"W-why?" asked the boy in hurt surprise.

"Because it is dangerous sport, Gerald."

"What! To play for a few cents a point!"

"Yes, to play for anything. And as far as that goes there will be no such play as you imagine."

"Oh, come now, Alixe—I beg your pardon—but Jack Ruthven said so."

"Gerald, listen to me. A bo—a man like yourself has no business playing with people whose ignes may never interfere with their appetites next day. A business man has no right to play such a game anyway. I wonder what Mr. Neergard would say if he knew you"—

"Neergard! Why, he does know."

"You confessed to him?"

"Yes; I had to. I was obliged to—to ask somebody for an advance."

"You went to him? Why didn't you go to Captain Selwyn or to Mr. Gerard?"

"I did; not to Captain Selwyn. I was ashamed to. But I went to Austin, and he fired up and fit into me, and we had a muss-up, and I've stayed away since."

"Oh, Gerald! And it simply proves me right."

"No, it doesn't. I did go to Neergard and made a clean breast of it. And he says he have what I wanted it—a good fellow."

"And made you promise not to do it again?"

"No, he didn't. He only laughed. Besides, he said that he wished he had been in the game."

"What!" demanded Alixe.

"He's a first rate fellow," insisted Gerald, reddening, "and it was very kind of him to let me bring him over today. And he knows everybody down town too. He comes from a very old Dutch family, but he had to work pretty hard and do without college. I'd like it awfully if you'd let me—if you wouldn't mind being civil to him once or twice, you know. I'm going to propose him for the Stuyvesant and the Provincium. Why not?"

"I see. And now you propose to bring him to my house?"

"If you'll let me. I asked Jack, and he seemed to think it might be all right if you cared to ask him to play."

"I won't!" cried Alixe, revolted. "I will not turn my drawing rooms into a clearing house for every money laden social derelict in town! I've had enough of that. I've endured the accumulated wreckage too long—weird creatures full of steel and oil and coal and wheat and heaven knows what! I won't do it, Gerald. I'm sick of it all—sick, sick!"

The sudden, flushed outburst stunned the boy. Bewildered, he stared round eyed at the excited young matron who was growing more incensed and more careless of what she exposed every second.

"I will not make a public gambling hell of my own house!" she repeated, dark eyes very bright and cheeks afire, "I will not continue to stand sponsor for a lot of queer people simply because they don't care what they lose in Mrs. Ruthven's house. You babble to me of limits, Gerald. This is the limit! Do you or does anybody else suppose that I don't know what is being said about us—that play is too high in our house, that we are easy in our choice of intimates as long as they can stand the pace? Do you think I was educated for this—for the wife of a chevalier of industry?"

"M-Mrs. Ruthven!" he gasped. But she was absolutely reckless now, and beneath it all perhaps lay a certainty of the boy's loyalty, because he was to be trusted—was the safest receptacle for wrath so long repressed. She let prudence go with a parting and vindictive slap and opened her heart to the astonished boy. He listened, bested a few seconds. Then she ended as abruptly as she began.

To him she had always been what a pretty young matron usually is to a well bred but harebrained youth just untethered. Their acquaintance had been for him a combination of charming experiences diluted with gratitude for her interest and a harmless scorpion of sentimentality. In her particular case, however, there was a little something more—a hint of the forbidden—a troubled enjoyment, because he knew, of course, that Mrs. Ruthven was on no footing at all with the Gerards.

"Dear Mrs. Ruthven," he blurted out with clumsy sympathy, "you mustn't think such things, b-because they're all rot, you see, and if any fellow ever said those things to me I'd jolly soon—"

"Do you mean to say you're never heard as criticised?"

"I—well—everybody is—criticised, of course—"

"But not as we are. Do you read the papers? Well, then, do you understand how a woman must feel to have her husband continually made the butt of foolish, absurd, untrue stories, as though he were a performing poodle? I'm sick of that, too, for another thing. Week after week, month by month, unpleasant things have been accumulating, and they're getting too heavy, Gerald, too crushing for my shoulders. Men call me restless. What wonder! Women link my name with any man who is kind to me! Is there no excuse then for what they call my restlessness? What woman would not be restless whose private affairs are the gossip of everybody? Was it not enough that I endured terrific publicity when—when trouble overtook me two years ago? I suppose I'm a fool to talk like this, but a girl must do it some time or burst. And to whom am I to go? There was only one person, and I can't talk to that one. He—that person—knows too much about me anyway, which is not good for a woman, Gerald; not good for a good woman—I mean a pretty good woman, the kind people's sisters can still talk to, you know."

"I want you to believe me your friend," said Gerald in the low, resolute voice of unintention; melodrama. "Why, thank you. Are you so sure you want that, Gerald?"

"Yes, as long as I live!" he declared, generous emotion in the ascendant. A pretty woman upset him very easily even under normal circumstances. But beauty in distress knocked him flat, as it does every wholesome boy who is worth his salt.

And he said so in his own naive fashion, and the more eloquent he grew the more excited he grew and the deeper and blacker appeared her wrongs to him.

She was very light hearted that evening when she dropped him at the Stuyvesant club and whizzed away to her own house, for he had promised not to come again on her premises, and she had promised to be nice to him and take him about when she was shy of an escort.

On her way home Alixe smilingly reviewed the episode until doubt of Selwyn's approval crept in again, and her amused smile had faded when she reached her home.

Chapter II

THE house of Ruthven was a small but ultra modern limestone affair, between Madison and Fifth, a pocket edition of the larger mansions of their friends, but with less excuse for the overelaboration which the dimensions were only twenty by a hundred. The handsome bonbon box tripped Mrs. Ruthven, who mounted the miniature stairs with a whirl of her several skirts, peeped into the drawing room, but continued mounting until she whipped into her own apartments, separated from those of her husband and master by a locked door.

Into this limestone bonbon box tripped Mrs. Ruthven.

That is, the door had been locked for a long, long time. But presently, to her intense surprise and annoyance, it slowly opened and a little man appeared in silhouette. Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the cause of trouble was removed from the stomach. Then the effect would soon into practice. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is to "treat the stomach," fail, then the cause, the latter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directly responsible. Think of that when "Stomach Relief" is offered you. Write Dr. Shoop for a free book telling more about Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Racine, Wis. Sold by all dealers.

He was a little man and plump, and at first glance his face appeared boyish and round and quite guiltless of hair or of any hope of it.

But as he came into the electric light the hardness of his features was apparent. He was no boy. A strange idea that he had never been acquainted some people. His face was puffy and pallid, and faint blue shadows hinted of closest shaving, and the line from the wing of the nostril to the nervelss corners of his thin, hard mouth had been deeply bitten by the acid of time.

For the remainder he wore pale rose pajamas under a silk and silver kimono, an obl pierced with a jeweled cigarette, and he was smoking a cigarette as thin as a straw.

"Well!" said his young wife in astonished displeasure.

"Send her out a moment," he said, with a nod of his head toward the maid. His voice was agreeable and full—a trifle precise and overcultivated.

The only nourishment that bread affords is that which the flour contains.

Bread baking is merely putting flour in appetizing form.

Flour making is merely putting wheat in shape for bread making.

Royal Household Flour

is made from carefully selected Manitoba Hard spring wheat. Every pound is almost a pound of food; clean, and nutritious.

It goes farther, does better baking and is more satisfactory in every way than any other flour. Ask your grocer.

NAPANEE AGAIN FOOTBALL VICTORS.

Napanee did well in the football line, in Picton, on Saturday. The Collegiate footballers of Napanee met the Picton student players on the fair grounds. The Juniors played in the morning, and the local bunch was defeated to the tune of 1-0.

The Senior game was hard fought in the afternoon. It ended a tie 0-0. The Napaneans, however, won not having run up the higher score a week ago in Napanee. Quite a number were over from Napanee for the game.—Picton Gazette.

HOSPITAL AID SOCIETY.

The ladies of the Hospital Aid Society wish to announce to the public the following donations since October, 1908:—There were thirty-six members, who paid fees, making $18.00. At a tea given at Mrs. Young's $30.35 was realized, with which money the following things were procured and sent to the hospital, 4 dozen table napkins, 14 pair towels, 6 yards kitchen towelling, 25 yards pillow casing, 14 yards hemstitched linen, 12 tray cloths, costing $29.64. In April a box of fruit, maple syrup and marmalade was sent by the ladies, valued at $20.25. With the three hundred dollars made by the Society at the "Made in Canada Fair", held in Kingston in 1907, and one hundred dollars in the year 1908. A metal and glass cabinet with one hundred and fifty instruments, chosen by a committee of doctors, was presented to the hospital and placed in the Fenwick operating room. At a tea given at Mrs. Wartman's, the sum of $56.00 was realized, and donations in money for the year to the amount of $24.00 were received. The ladies wish to thank all those who contributed so generously to the good work.

AXES

In this line, more than any other, quality counts. The customer's satisfaction lies in one of two things—expert knowledge of goods which few have, or in knowledge of the store selling them, which all should have.

We don't guess and sell at random. We investigate and compare, and we want you to do the same. You are welcome to take away any axes you may get anywhere you like, if the head and helve on them is not right in every particular with all that we say of them, you get your money back.

THANKSGIVING COMPLETE

Exhibit of Autumn's Authoritative Feminine Fall Fashions

An invitation is extended to all to attend our supreme achievement for this Fall season in our complete Authoritative Feminine Fall Fashions.

Thanksgiving makes an epoch in this store, as it completes the entire exhibits in all departments of all that is correct, approved and elegant in Women's and Misses' outer attire for the Fall season. There is always an aftermath in styles, new ideas and cloths, later designs and these depict.

NEWER AND RADICAL CHANGES IN TAILORED SUITS, DRESSES, SKIRTS, COATS, WAISTS, DRESS GOODS AND ACCESSORIES.

We do not wait until the styles have been worn out before we offer them to our patrons, and a personal buying trip to the fashion centres enables us to show the newest ideas from Fashion's source for this Thanksgiviug. Whatever is approved of fashion is here.

Complete Fall Display of Dress Goods

We thought we had stocked up sufficiently in every line of Dress Goods to be fashionable this season, but owing to a demand and a showing by the manufacturers of several new weaves and shades in Worsted Diagonals, Cheviots and Broadcloths and newer fabrics, which are perhaps a little ahead of the season and are shown mostly in the larger fashion centres. This exhibit reveals the exclusive fabrics, which promise to command first place in fashionable women's favor. It is the most correct showing of autumnal styles in this vicinity. Nothing which would add to its attractiveness has been omitted.

The New Jet Hat Pins

12 different styles of new Jet Hat Pins to choose from. Round, flat, oval and oblong styles and plain and diamond studded. This is one of the extreme novelties this season. Other styles with brilliant settings.

15c each to 25c each

Smart Fancy Belts and Neckwear

You will find at our belt and neckwear counters an infinite variety of novelties and later styles bought for this Thanksgiving. Dozens and dozens of stunning effects, exclusive to this store.

25c each to $1.50 each.

Women's Smart Gloves

The proper new shades in street and evening gloves are here in abundant variety. Cashmere, Ringwood, Silk, Kid, Mocha and Suede. Better gloves cannot be procured anywhere at the prices we have marked them.

Beautiful Fancy Handkerchiefs of the Finest Swiss and Linen

The collection of Handkerchiefs which has been assembled for Thanksgiving shoppers exceeds all excelled and embraces the finest product efforts in embroidered, cross bar and hemstitched linen and swiss muslin.

5c each to $1.00 each.

Correct Models in Corsets

No matter how good a figure you may have you should be very careful to get a good fit in your Corsets if you expect to get the best effect in your gowns.

When you wonder how you are going to get the slender waist line with the small hips that are required by present fashions, see the models shown in our Corset department, and choose those adapted to your figure.

All Prices up to $2.50 Pair

Thanksgiving Linens

Plain Linens and Fancy

Our unusually comprehensive range of plain and fancy Linens enables us to serve our customers with greater satisfaction on Thanksgiving than ever before. We have established the confidence of buyers in this section of the country for fine linens, and this season we are better prepared than heretofore to supply the requirements of Napanee linen loving people. Handling as we do a large and complete range of Table Damasks and Doylies, Tray Cloths, Bureau Scarfs and Covers, Napkins and matched sets in Japanese hand-drawn work, Madeira, Italian and Irish hand-embroidered linens, we can show a range unequalled in variety of styles and a range of prices that no woman no matter how fastidious or discriminating she may be, will be turned away with anything but the highest opinion of our standing as Linen importers.

Tailored Suits of Superb Style - - - Separate Skirts are Smartly Stylish

THE INFLUENCE OF THE "MOYEN" "MEROVINGIAN" OR "MIDDLE AGES" PERIOD HAS PROVED AN INSPIRATION TO FASHION DESIGNERS, AND IS THE DOMINANT NOTE IN THE GARMENTS WE ARE SHOWING THIS WEEK. TWO SPECIAL SHIPMENTS OF THE VERY LATEST NOVELTY COATS, SUITS AND SKIRTS PASSED INTO STOCK FOR THANKSGIVING. LEADING FEATURES ARE SHOWN IN THE LOWER WAIST LINES AND THE DRAPINGS AND TRIMMINGS AT THE HIPS. ESPECIALLY PRONOUNCED IS THE SHOWING OF NEW DIAGONAL CLOTHS, STRICTLY TAILORED.

You'll find the latest style endorsement represented in our suits. Here is the new elongated waist close figure lines, snug hips, full length sleeves, trimmings massed rather than distributed, and you'll find a suit exactly pleasing to your taste and adapted to your figure. Two piece suits are leading. See our exclusive styles.

Quite a variety of the new styles in Dress Skirts. The Draped effect is especially noteworthy, with its smart lines and dressy panel effect. The "Moyen Age" tendency of style is also exemplified in a new skirt effect of which we show a complete assortment. Many other ideas are shown, and if you make your selection you'll find decided advantage presented by our prices.

Sudden Disappearance of a Commercial Traveller.

Mr. B. F. Rapley, of Belleville, Mysteriously Disappears on Tuesday Night of Last Week.

On Friday last a sensation was sprung in Napanee when the news was spread that a commercial traveller, who had registered at the Campbell House on Tuesday night had suddenly and mysteriously disappeared the same evening. The matter was kept very quiet, with the expectation that the missing man would turn up, and the absence of publicity would be advantageous to him.

The missing man is Mr. B. F. Rapley, of Belleville, a highly respected and valued traveller for the firm of Brophy, Parsons & Rodden, Montreal. On Tuesday of last week he reached Napanee on the 8.11 p.m. train and, upon arrival at the Campbell House, he registered. The night clerk, Mr. Frank H. Stevens, assigned him to room 39, and, as Mr. Rapley knew the location of the room well, he went up alone. Later, he came down again and was seen about 10 p.m. for the last time as far as can be ascertained. After registering and going to his room Mr. Rapley stayed there for some time, evidently writing out orders to the firm he represented. Why he went out and where he went is a mystery to all. He did not leave Napanee either by train or livery rig, the only two available ways.

Mr. Rodden, of the Montreal firm, arrived in town shortly after being notified of his employer's disappearance, and a detective has also been on the scene for the past few days.

Any possible chance of his having committed suicide by jumping in the river here has been exploded as the river has been thoroughly dragged and no trace of the missing man has been found. He stood well with his firm, and had no reason from that source to get out so suddenly. Also, he was not in financial difficulties as he has $7,000.00 in the bank. A reward of $500.00 has been offered as follows:

$500.00 reward for information leading to the finding of B. F. Rapley, dead or alive, missing from the Campbell House, Napanee, since October 26th. Age 24 years, height 5 feet, one inch, weight 175, to 180 lbs., clean shaved, parts hair in centre, when last seen he was wearing dark suit, dark grey overcoat with silk lapels, and black derby hat. Persons having any information regarding the above person kindly communicate with Chief of Police Graham, Napanee."

ODESSA.

The concert in aid of the W. M. S. was a great success. They had a full house and a barrelful of fun. —Our village is getting pretty well lighted. We hope the Methodist church will soon get some new lights as they are badly needed. Mr. Sherm. Bond lost his house and nearly all its contents by fire on Saturday morning.—Mr. P. A. Mawe is attending the S. S. Convention at Toronto this week.—Visitors —Mr. Woolard at J. Jones'. Sid Peterson at his father's; Grace Sharp, Miss Grange and Bert Sprouls at B. G. Hamm's, on Sunday; Mrs. Storrar at Mrs. Barley's; Mr. Shaver at Mr. M. Asselstine's.

PLEASANT LAKE.

The farmers are digging their potatoes, and report the best crop they have had in years.—Miss Alma Heise spent Thanksgiving day at her home.—Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Helman were the guests of her brother, Mr. H. Woodcock.—Mr. D. Detlor has purchased a potato digger.—Mr. and Mrs. L. Woodcock is all smiles; it's a boy.—Messrs. Andrew Boomhower and Levest Woodcock took a trip to Tamworth, on Tuesday.—Rev. Mr. Woodcock attended prayer meeting at Mountain Vale on Tuesday night.—Mrs. Jack Finn has returned home, after spending a few weeks under the parental roof.—Miss Mora Detlor was the guest of Mrs. Will Tryan, on Sunday evening.—A heavy thunder storm visited this district recently, but no all appearance nere weather is at hand.

CHURCH STREET.

Mr. Simon Shane and family intend starting for Alnnie Harbor on Monday.—Mr. E. Snider has purchased the farm formerly known as the old Snider homestead at Fifth Line.—Mr. N. Wagar's bee on Friday was a success.—Messrs. W. Keech and S. King took dinner at Mr. Donovan's, at Tamworth, on Saturday.—Mr. W. Dowling, of Trafford, at W. Wagar's, on Friday, on business.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Hartin spent Wednesday evening at R. King's.—Mr. and Mrs. S. King and Misses E. Olderkirk and S. Salsbury at J. B. Kellar's, on Sunday. Mr. Robert Kime returned home on Saturday after spending the past three months at Alnnie Harbor.—Misses M. and I. King at J. Kellar's, on Sunday evening.—Miss Ella Herkirk, of Tamworth, spent Sunday under the parental roof.

MOSCOW.

The Anniversary services held in the Methodist church on Sunday last were well attended. The Rev. Mr. Sexsmith, of Newburgh, was attentively listened to by an appreciative audience, both morning and evening.—On Monday evening the concert was well attended. On account of some who were to take part in the programme not being able to be present, Mr. and Mrs. Black, of Napanee, who were down for a part of the programme, had to do much more than their share. They were equal to the task, however, and responded to a number of encores in addition very cordially. It was a financial success also, for which the ladies are to be thanked, as the proceeds will be very handy in connection with church work, thus all interested will be benefitted. Some have gone to the bark woods for their annual hunt.—Amos Huffman brought a car load of stoves from Toronto to feed this winter.—Mr. J. W. Anderson is doing a rushing butcher business. His customers can always count on getting fine meat.

MORVEN.

The farmers are busy gathering in their fall crop.—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hell, of Belleville, are spending a few days with friends here.—The Social held on Wednesday night, was a success in every respect.—Mr. Wm. Sale on Thursday was largely attended. They intend leaving for their new home in Toronto in a few days. On Thursday night of last week about forty of their friends and neighbors gathered at their home to spend a social evening. After refreshments were served the family was called to the drawing room, where Mrs. Jas. Miller read an address, and Mrs. C. H. Garrison presented them with a handsome four piece silver tea service. Mr. Funnell replied in a very feeling manner, as they were completely taken by surprise, and words were not easily spoken. Following is the address:

Morven, Oct. 21st, 1909.

Mr. and Mrs. Funnell and Family. —We, a few of your many friends and neighbors of this community, have assembled here in a social manner to express to you our regret in your removal from our midst. We look over the long summers and stormy winters since first we knew you, think of you as we friends and obliging neighbors, and especially Miss Ophia, for her efficient services rendered to us here in the church choir and Sabbath School work.

We have been with you in your joys as well as in your sorrows and shall ever prize your fidelity to duty, your self-denying labors, and your kind sympathy. In the future home, you will still have our best wishes for your future prosperity both in social and religious circles. As a slight token of esteem in which you are held by us, we take this opportunity of presenting you with this silver tea service, and as you look upon the different pieces, we trust that it will ever keep fresh in your memory of your many friends of the Morven circuit.

Signed on behalf of the Morven circuit.

NEWBURGH.

The unfavorable weather inilitated greatly against the attendance at the annual Convention of the County Sunday School Association held in the Methodist church here last Friday.

The programme, nevertheless, was of a very high character, and was carried out almost to the letter under the able chairmanship of the President of the Association, Mr. T. A. Dunwoody. A report of the Convention appears in another column. At the evening session a united choir of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches led a song service, and contributed an anthem in splendid style, and Miss Aleta Server and Mr. Percy Nesbit also contributed vocal solos during the day's sessions.

The anniversary services of the Methodist church on Sunday next promise to be inspiring. Rev. W. F. Emory, of Picton, preaches at 10.30 a.m. and 7 p.m., and the choir will furnish special music.

These was an exodus of teachers on Friday for the holiday. Miss Grose and Mr. Jimmie Grose, of the H. S. staff, spent the holiday at their respective homes in Newcastle and Toronto, and Miss Mona Scott at the father, Mr. John Moore, in Toronto.

Mrs. H. J. Wood spent Thanksgiving with her daughter, Mrs. Hall, Toronto, and Mrs. A. Madden with Mrs. Finkle, in Napanee. Mrs. H. Kelly and son Jimmie accompanied Miss Annie Hill to her home in Godfrey.

Mr. G. M. Walker has laid a cement walk south of his store, preparation to erecting a balcony the length of the building. He is completing the fitting of living apartments over the store.

The Thanksgiving holiday passed off quietly. Among the influx of visitors were noticed our contingent of public school teachers, Misses Gertrude Clancy, Pearl Patterson, Mary Nesbit and Edith Husband, and the following: Dr. H. A. and Mrs. Nesbit and son Lamey, Lindsay, at Mr. D. A. Nesbit's; Messrs. Percy Patterson and Harold Fairbairn, Queen's University, and Harry Beeman, Toronto University, at their homes; Mr. T. D. Scriver, Belleville, with his family; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Herrington, at Mr. Grace Ward, Napanee, at Mr. C. H. Finkle's; Miss Mary Beeman and Mr. Macalister, Athens, at Dr. H. J. Beeman's; Misses Minnie Breezy and Myrtle Hallman, and Messrs. Sheldon Denison and Reg. Martin at Mr. F. A. Breeze's; Miss Mary Reid, Belleville, at Mr. Lewis Jones'.

Miss Cicely Kennedy visited with friends in Napanee last week and over the holiday.

Miss Annie Beeman, at home for three months, returned to Fort William on Tuesday.

Rev. M. E. Sexsmith is at Toronto this week, a delegate from the county Sunday School Association to the Provincial Association.

Rev. Mr. Batstone, of Yarker, was the preacher in the Methodist church here on Sunday night, and Mrs. Batstone sang a solo very sweetly at the service.

The remains of the late Mrs. John D. Hamm were deposited in the family vault here on Saturday.

Miss Beth Wilson entertained a number of her young friends on Monday night.

Mr. F. A. Breeze made a business trip to Montreal this week.

Mr. J. K. Fraser, Manager of the Standard Bank, spent the Thanksgiving holiday at his home in Bradford.

Dr. M. I. Beeman returned on Tuesday from Richmond, Virginia.

For the last few weeks the Mission Band of the Methodist church have been engaged in a strenuous effort in getting contest, being divided for the contest into two bands, captained by Miss Leila Johnston and Mr. Edgar Sexsmith. At the close of the contest over ninety members had been added to the roll of membership, and a lively interest awakened generally in the work of the boys and girls. The conclusion of this effort was marked on Wednesday night by an evening of social enjoyment and entertainment to which all the new members were invited. The evening was a rather unique and furnished a delightful couple of hours to a crowd which almost filled the basement of the church. A number of gruesome Jack-o-lanterns, suggestive of the approach of Hallowe'en, furnished part of the illumination, and the appearance of the room was further enhanced by decorations in the Band colors, white, green and yellow. After a half hour's thorough enjoyment of games by the younger members, an excellent programme was introduced. Mrs. J. M. Denyes, President of the Mission Band, presided, and expressed the thanks of the Band to those who had assisted towards the success of the membership effort. She also outlined the work of the Band, which, besides having a regular course of missionary study, is supporting a native girl in one of the Mission Schools in West China. The musical programme comprised Recitations by Misses Nesbit and Scriver, a piano and violin duett by Miss Louise and Mr. Harry Lewis, and a vocal and mandolin duett by Miss Winnie and Mr. Herbert Eckardt, and two choruses by girls of the Band. Miss Lottie Patterson also contributed a recitation. The feature of this part of the programme, however, was the ten little "pumpkins", who certainly did themselves credit. A most entertaining address was made by Mr. W. A. Duncan, who concluded his address with a very interesting game of the pleasantest evenings spent in Newburgh in many a day.

Mr. Dewsry, of the grist mill, has been greatly inconvenienced this fall by scarcity of water in Napanee river, but it has risen sufficiently now for him to do his usual custom work.

DESERONTO.

With almost made to order weather on Thanksgiving Day the different events in the Driving Park were keenly contested before 1500 or more spectators. The track was in good condition, and every thing favorable to make it the success it was. To the energetic committee belongs the credit; they spared neither time or trouble to assure success, and give those who attended a good day's sport.

The horse races were as follows:

2.50 class.

Jap, Stewart, Deseronto, 1st.
Jessie Smith, Ashley, Foxboro', 2d
Harry Direct, Teasdale, Wooler, 3d

Running broad jump—McKay Pritchard, Belleville, 17 ft., Fred Whiting, 15 ft. 8 in., H. Ayles-worth, Deseronto, 15 ft. 1 in.

The baseball match between Deseronto and Belleville resulted in Capt. Tom Donaldson's team defeating the C. Fe. Score, Deseronto 12, Belleville 3.

The soreness of the day was some what marred by the deplorable accident to a young man, Thos. Cornell, of Belleville. He boarded a train he fell, his hand going under the wheels and badly crushing it. First aid was rendered by Dr. Newton and Vandervoort, and he was removed to Belleville Hospital, where his hand was amputated.

Miss Katie Nichols, of Belleville, spent the holiday with her friend, Miss Mary St. Louis.

Wm. Davidson, of Belleville, spent Sunday with T. H. Fet.

Miss Ethel Fitzpatrick, of Selby, spent Thanksgiving with her aunt, Mrs. Thos. Johnston, Edmond st.

Messrs. Ed. Davey and Walter Smith, Toronto, spent Thanksgiving at their homes here.

Mr. C. J. Wilson, Gananoque, spent a few days this week in town.

Miss Clara Ryan, Detroit, Mich., is a visitor at her sister's, Mrs. J. Dunn, Mill st.

Miss Hudson and Miss Nellie Garland, Toronto, Miss Logue, Belleville, Miss Annie Williams, Belleville, and Miss Topping, Kingston, Chief Calder and Mrs. Snider, Trenton, spent their Thanksgiving holidays with friends in town.

Mrs. Chas. Brennan was a visitor at her sister's, Mrs. Geo. Topping's, Gananoque, last week.

Miss Ida Shaw, of Kingston, is visiting Miss M. Marrigan, Mill st.

Miss R. Baxter and Master Willie have returned, after spending two months visiting friends at Fort William, Port Arthur and Port Colborne.

The concert and ball on Thanksgiving evening was a success. A good number patronized the ball and enjoyed themselves. The music was first class, and the ladies who served the lunch came in for a lot of praise as it could not be surpassed. The concert was splendid and drew a good house, and compliments to the ladies take part in the programme.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church are to be congratulated on the success of their bazaar. In spite of very inclement weather about $225 was realized.

Miss Wilkins, of the manse, Trenton, was the guest of Mrs. R. Whyte, for a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Loyst and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Loyst, of Bath, spent Thanksgiving with Mr. H. W. Kimmerly.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Harper and children, of Kingston, spent a few days at Mr. H. W. Kimmerly's.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Kimmerly spent Sunday at her father's, Mr. Geo. Loyst, Parma.

SWITZERVILLE.

The farmers are very busy at present.—Rev. Mr. Batstone, of Moscow, filled the pulpit on Sunday, and pleased every one very much. On Nov. 7th, service will be held here in the church in the evening at 7 o'clock.—Miss Wilson, of Miller has returned home, after visiting her sister in New York.—Mr. C. W. Neiles is attending the Exhibition at Toronto, this week.—Mrs. James A. Dawson is visiting at her father's, Mr. J. Miller's.—Mrs. Jas. Empey has returned home, after taking a course in her business, she is very ill.—Miss Olive Switzer and Miss Alma Vanalstine spent Thanksgiving at their respective homes, here. What about our treameeting? Good things come late.

WESTBROOK.

Thanksgiving day was observed here in the Methodist church Sunday afternoon. Rev. F. Cassidy preached an eloquent and appreciative sermon. The choir, with Mr. Thomas Sproule as leader, gave some fine selections. Also Miss Myrtle Stevens sang a solo.—Miss Jennie Hyland, visiting friends the past week in Kingston, has returned home.—Mr. and Mrs. D. McDonald and children, Mountain Grove, are visiting friends here this week.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, of Odessa, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. F. Caton, Hemlock Grove, recently visited Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Smith.—B. Toomey's potato digger is operating in this neighborhood.—Mrs. Mary Ann Snider, of Maple Avenue, spent last week with her brother, Mr. H. Rose.—Walter Bush, of Tapum, spent last Sunday with Edwin Bell.—Chester Cottage.—Mrs. J. A. Sproule and Mrs. H. Snook spent last Wednesday with Mrs. W. L. Grass.—Edwin Bell shot a fox the last week, the first one captured this fall.—Mrs. Joseph Howie and Mrs. Arthur Sears were recent guests of Mrs. J. L. F. Sproule.—Miss Edith Saunderscok was the guest of Miss Myrtle Snider a few days last week. —Thanksgiving day passed off quietly here.

ERNESTOWN STATION.

Thanksgiving passed off quietly, with family reunions the order of the day; the change being much appreciated by all.—The funeral of the late Emery Sharpe took place at the Union, on Sunday, 17th inst., on arrival of the remains from the west. Although not altogether unexpected, the news came as a shock to friends and acquaintances here. He came home last winter to pay a short visit. His friends then were very solicitous about his health, and did all they could to persuade him to remain with them, but to no avail. When death overtook him he had all in readiness to return, but had not quite the journey to make. In his death a bright young life is cut off which gave promise of great usefulness. His was a genial disposition and beloved by all as testified by those in Dakota, with whom he was his last, an electrical engineer by profession and one on whom every reliance could be placed. He was but thirty-three years of age when the summons came. Rev. Mr. Bell, Odessa, preached a powerful sermon, taking as his text Luke 12-40, and their singing effectively "Dear Ones Are Waiting for Thee" and "One by One" as the procession was going out. An aged father, two brothers, Wesley and Edgar, and three sisters, Mrs. T. Davidson, Mrs. Milton Thompson, of this place, and a sister in the Northwest, mourn a loving son and brother. The remains were accompanied home by a friend from Walhalla, and was enclosed in a beautiful mauve covered casket, covered with floral offerings, the choicest to be found. After the ceremony the cortege proceeded to Morven vault, interment will be made later in Bath plot.—Arthur Kilpatrick has recovered from his recent accident, and has resumed his duties on the G.T.R. Lamb Creek Section, also shipped hogs and cattle on Saturday last to Montreal. Farmers are busily engaged with potato digging. Mrs. Charlotte Ames has placed a waste gate in the dam of her mill, which no doubt will be a great improvement.—Miss Eva Doyle has been wearing her right arm encased in plaster of paris for several weeks, as the result of a fall down stairs.—Mr. and Mrs. James Cummings and little daughter left on Saturday last to take up their abode in Watertown, Success.—A party from here took in the Sports at Deseronto on Monday last.—Mr. and Mrs. Ross Paul and Mrs. A. Amey attended the Council of Sports Convention at Newburgh, on Friday last.—Mrs. A. Amey has returned from visiting friends in Napanee, Camden East and Millhaven.—Mr. Stewart Paul is attending the Provincial S. S. Convention at Toronto West, this week.—Much sympathy is expressed here for the Lucas family in the death of their sister, Mrs. M. J. Snider. Man had not known of her illness.—Mr. and Mrs. F. Thoms spent a day recently at A. Amey's.—Messrs. W. Loree and T. Reid, of Queen's, and Miss Patterson were guests of Miss Laidley, on Sunday.

Recommended As An Ideal Remedy

W. S. BOND, Esq.

Lloydtown, Ont., March 19th, 1909.

"For some years I have been greatly troubled with headaches and indigestion, brought on by stomach disorders, constipation and biliousness. I had tried many remedies with only indifferent success, until "Fruit-a-tives" came to my notice. Being a general storekeeper, I was selling a good many "Fruit-a-tives" to my customers and, remarking how pleased they were with the results obtained from using "Fruit-atives," I decided to try them and, I might say, the effects were almost magical. Headaches and biliousness disappeared and to-day I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" to my customers as 'An ideal remedy.'

"I might also add that about three years ago I was laid up with LUMBAGO AND SCIATICA—couldn't get out of bed or lift one foot over the other. A good treatment of "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of these pains and banished the Sciatica and Lumbago so that to-day I am as well as ever and can lift anything necessary."

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bedwetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 227 Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

When the maid retired Alixe sat up on the lounge, drawing her skirts down over her small stockinged feet.

"What on earth is the matter?" she demanded.

"The matter is," he said, "that Gerald has just telephoned me from the Stuyvesant that he isn't coming."

"Well!"

"No, it isn't well. This is some of your meddling."

"What if it is?" she retorted, but her breath was coming quicker.

"I'll tell you. You can get up and ring him up and tell him you expect him tonight."

She shook her head, eying him all the while.

"I won't do it, Jack. What do you want him for? He can't play with the people who play here. He doesn't know the rudiments of play. He's only a boy. His money is so tied up that he has to borrow if he loses very much. There's no sport in playing with a boy like that."

"So you've said before, I believe, but I'm better qualified to judge than you are. Are you going to call him up?"

"No, I am not."

He turned paler. "Get up and go to that telephone!"

"You little whippet," she said slowly, "I was once a soldier's wife—the only decent thing I ever have been. This bullying ends now—here, at this instant! If you've any dirty work to do, do it yourself. I've done my share, and I've finished."

He was astonished. That was plain enough. But it was the sudden overwhelming access of fury that weakened him and made him turn, hand outstretched, blindly seeking for a chair. Rage, even real anger, were emotions he seldom had to reckon with, for he was a very tired and bored and burned out gentleman, and vivid emotion was not good for his arteries, the doctors told him.

He found his chair, stood a moment with his back toward his wife, then very slowly let himself down into the chair and sat facing her. There was moisture on his soft, pallid skin, a nervous twitching of the under lip. He passed one heavily ringed hand across his closely shaved jaw, still staring at her.

He swore at her.

"I want to tell you something," he said. "You've got to stop your interference with my affairs, and stop it now."

"I am not interested in your affairs," she said unsteadily, still shaken by her own revolt, still under the shock of her own arousing to a resistance that had been long, long overdue. "If you mean," she went on, "that the ruin of this boy is your affair, then I'll make it mine from this moment. I've told you that he shall not play, and he shall not. And while I'm about it I'll admit what you are preparing to accuse me of. I did make Sandon

They Help Your Stomach Out!

And Save You a World of Wretchedness

A stomach that cannot digest a good meal is certainly a sore trial. It has been responsible for almost everything in the way of human misery, up to suicide.

The trouble is most cases is that the stomach and other digestive organs lack vigor. Not enough of the juices necessary to digestion are secreted, nor does the stomach work up the food properly.

The worst of it is that there is not sufficient nourishment taken out of the food to restore the system's vigor, and the trouble goes from bad to worse. The stomach needs help.

"Little Digesters" meet the need exactly. One "Little Digester" after each meal will ensure perfect digestion, provided, of course, that the food is good and wholesome.

"Little Digesters" are guaranteed to cure Indigestion, and Dyspepsia, or your money will be refunded.

Craig promise to keep away. I did try to make that little fool Scott Janin promise, too, and when he wouldn't I informed his father. And every time you try your dirty bucket shop methods on boys like that I'll do the same."

He swore at her quite calmly. She smiled, shrugged and, imprisoning her knees in her clasped hands, leaned back and looked at him.

"What a ninny I have been," she said, "to be afraid of you so long!"

A gleam crossed his faded eyes, but he let her remark pass for the moment. Then, when he was quite sure that violent emotion had been exhausted within him, "Do you want your bills paid?" he asked. "Because if you do Fane, Harmon & Co. are not going to pay them."

"We are living beyond our means?" she inquired disdainfully.

"Not if you will be good enough to mind your business, my friend. I've managed this establishment on our winnings for two years. It's a detail, but you might as well know it. My association with Fane, Harmon & Co. runs the Newport end of it and nothing more."

"What did you marry me for?" she asked curiously.

A slight color came into his face. "Because Rosamund Pane lied about you."

"Oh! You knew that in Manila? You'd heard about it, hadn't you—the western timber lands? Rosamund didn't mean to lie. Only the titles were all wrong, you know. And so you made a bad break, Jack. Is that it?"

"Yes, that is it."

"And it cost you a fortune and me a husband. Is that it, my friend?"

"I can afford you if you will stop your meddling," he said coolly. "You have made a point of excluding Gerald?"

"Yes."

"Very well. I'll telephone Draymore. And"—he looked back from the door of his own apartments—"I'll send Neergard on the wire this afternoon, and he'll dine with us."

He gathered up his shimmering kimono, hesitated, halted and again looked back.

"When you're dressed," he drawled, "I've a word to say to you about the game tonight and another about Gerald."

"I shall not play," she retorted scornfully, "nor will Gerald."

"Oh, yes, you will, and play your best too. And I'll expect him next time."

"I shall not play!"

He said deliberately: "You will not only play, but play cleverly, and in the interim, while dressing, you'll have time to think much more agreeable it is to play cards here than the fool at 10 o'clock at night in the bachelor apartments of your cousin Innerleff."

And he entered his room, and his wife, getting blindly to her feet, every atom of color gone from lip and cheek, stood rigid, both small hands clinching the footboard of the gilded bed.

Chapter 12.

DIFFERENCES of opinion between himself and Neergard concerning the ethics of good taste involved in forcing the Slowitha club matter. Gerald's decreasing attention to business and increasing intimacy with the Fane-Ruthven coterie began to make Selwyn very uncomfortable. The boy's close relations with Neergard worried him most of all and, though Neergard finally agreed to drop the Slowitha matter as a fixed policy in which Selwyn had been expected to participate at some indefinite date, the arrangement seemed only to cement the man's confidential companionship with Gerald.

This added to Selwyn's restlessness, and one day in early spring he had a long conference with Gerald—a most unsatisfactory one. Gerald for the first time remained reticent, and when Selwyn, presuming on the cordial understanding between them, pressed him a little the boy turned sullen, and Selwyn let the matter drop very quickly.

But neither tact nor caution seemed to prove sure. Gerald, more and more engrossed in occult social affairs of which he made no mention to Selwyn, was still available and friendly, even at times cordial and lovable, but he was no longer frank or even communicative, and Selwyn, fearing to arouse him again to sullenness or possibly even to suspicious defiance, forbore to press him beyond the most tentative advances toward the regaining of his confidence.

Gerald and Neergard left the office together frequently now. They often lunched uptown. Whether they went to each other's luxurious evenings Selwyn did not know, for Gerald no longer volunteered information as to his whereabouts or doings. And all this hurt Selwyn and obsessed him, too, for he was clearly coming to the conclusion that he did not like Neergard, that he would never sign articles of partnership with him and that even his formal associations with the company was too close a relation for his own peace of mind. But on Gerald's account he stayed on. He did not like to have the boy alone for his sister's sake as well as for his own.

Matters drifted that way through early spring. He actually grew to dislike both Neergard and the business of Neergard & Co., for no particular reason perhaps, but in general, though he did not yet care to ask himself to be more precise in his unuttered criticisms. But Neergard broke his word to him.

And one morning before he left his rooms at Mrs. Greeve's lodgings to go downtown Percy Draymore called him up on the telephone, and, as that overfed young man's usual rising hour was notoriously nearer noon than 8 o'clock, it surprised Selwyn to be asked to remain in his rooms for a little while until Draymore and one or two friends could call on him personally concerning a matter of importance.

First there was Percy Draymore, overgroomed for a gentleman, fat, good humored and fashionable—one of the famous Draymore family noted solely for their money and their tight grip on it; then came Ranzos Orchil, the famous basker and promoter, small, urbane, dark, with that rich, almost oriental, coloring which he may have inherited from his Cordova ancestors, who found it necessary to dehumanize their names when Rome offered them the choice, with immediate eternity as alternative.

Then came a fox faced young man, Phoenix Mottly, elegant arbiter of all pertaining to polo and the hunt—slim legged, hatchet faced and more presentable in the saddle than out of it. He was followed by Bradley Harmon, with his washed out coloring of a consumptive Swede and his corn colored beard, and, looming in the rear like an amiable brontosaurus, George Fane, whose swaying neck carried his head as a camel carries his, nodding as he walks.

"We heard last night," said Draymore, "how that fellow—how Neergard had been tampering with our farmers—what underhand tricks he has been playing us, and I frankly admit to you that we're a worried lot of near sports. That's what this dismal matinee signifies, and we've come to ask you what it all really means."

"Why did you not call on Mr. Neergard?" asked Selwyn coolly. Yet he was taken completely by surprise, for he did not know that Neergard had gone ahead and secured options on his own responsibility, which practically amounted to a violation of the trust between them. "I know nothing about it. I did not know that Mr. Neergard had acquired control of the property. I don't know what he means to do with it. And, gentlemen, may I ask why you feel at liberty to come to me instead of going to Mr. Neergard?"

"A desire to deal with one of our own kind, I suppose," returned Draymore bluntly. "And, for that matter," he added, turning to the others, "we might have known that Captain Selwyn could have had no hand in and no knowledge of such an underbred and dirty"—

Harmon plucked him by the sleeve, but Draymore shook him off, his little piggish eyes sparkling.

"What do I care?" he sneered, losing his temper. "We're in the clutches of a vulgar, skinflint Dutchman, and he'll bring us to our knees or not we come him out. Didn't I tell you that Philip Selwyn had nothing to do with it? If he had, and I was wrong, our journey here might as well have been made to Neergard's office, for any man who will do such a filthy thing"—

"One moment, Draymore," cut in Selwyn, and his voice rang unpleasantly. "If you are simply complaining because you have been outwitted, go ahead, but if you think there has been any really dirty business in this matter go to Mr. Neergard. Otherwise, being his associate, I shall not only decline to listen, but also ask you to leave my apartments."

"Captain Selwyn is perfectly right," observed Orchil coolly. "Do you think, Draymore, that it is very good taste in you to come into a man's place and begin slanging and cursing a member of his firm for crooked work?"

"Besides," added Mottly, "it's not crooked; it's only contemptible." And to Selwyn, who had been restlessly facing first one, then another: "We came—It was the idea of several among us—to put the matter up to you, which was rather foolish, because you couldn't have engineered the thing and remained what we know you to be. So"—

"Wait!" said Selwyn brusquely. "I do not admit for one moment that there is anything dishonorable in this deal, nor do I accept your right to question it from that standpoint, because I personally have not chosen to engage in matters of this—ah—description, is no reason for condemning the deal or its method."

"Every reason!" said Orchil, laughing cordially. "Every reason. Captain Selwyn. Thank you; we know now exactly where we stand. It was very good of you to let us come, and I'm sorry some of us had the bad taste to show any temper."

"He means me," added Draymore, offering his hand; "goodby, Captain Selwyn. I dare say we are up against it, but"—

"Because we've got to buy in that property or close up the Slowitha," added Mottly, coming over to make his adieu. "By the way, Selwyn, you ought to be one of us in the Slowitha."

"Thank you, but isn't this rather an awkward time to suggest it?" said Selwyn good humoredly.

Fane burst into a sonorous laugh and wagged his head, saying: "Not at all! Not at all! Your reward for having the decency to stay out of the deal is an invitation from us to come in and be squeezed into a jelly by Mr. Neergard. Haw! Haw!"

And so, one by one, with formal or informal but evidently friendly leave-taking, they went away. And Selwyn followed them presently, walking until he took the subway at Forty-second street for his office.

He went into his own office, pocketed his mail and still wearing hat and gloves came out again just as Gerald was leaving Neergard's office.

He walked leisurely into Neergard's office and seated himself.

"So you have committed the firm to the Slowitha deal?" he inquired coolly.

Neergard looked up and then past him: "No, not the firm. You did not seem to be interested in the scheme, so I went on without you. I'm swinging it for my personal account."

"Is Mr. Erroll in it?"

"I said that it was a private matter," replied Neergard, but his manner was affable.

"I thought so; it appears to me like a matter quite personal to you and characteristic of you, Mr. Neergard. And, that being established, I am now ready to dissolve whatever very loose ties have ever bound me in any association with this company and yourself."

Neergard's close set black eyes shifted a point nearer to Selwyn's. The sweat on his nose glistened.

"Why do you do this?" he asked slowly. "Has anybody offended you?"

"Do you really wish to know?"

"Yes, I certainly do, Captain Selwyn."

"Very well. It's because I don't like your business methods, I don't like several other things that are happening in this office. It's purely a difference of views, and that is enough explanation, Mr. Neergard."

"I think our views may very easily coincide."

"You are wrong; they could not. I ought to have seen that when I came back here. And now I have only to thank you for receiving me, at my own request, for a six months' trial, and to admit that I am not qualified to cooperate with this kind of a firm."

"That," said Neergard angrily, "amounts to an indictment of the firm. If you express yourself in that manner outside, the firm will certainly resent it."

Wagg—Don't you think Miss Antique keeps her age remarkably well.

Wagg—Sure, she never gives it away.

A CURE FOR COSTIVENESS.—Costiveness is more than the refusal of the excretory organs to perform their duties regularly. It also manifests itself in a highly disordered digestion. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are prepared on scientific principles, and so compounded that certain ingredients in them take through the stomach and act upon the bowels so as to remove their torpor and cause them to resume proper action. Many thousands are prepared to bear testimony to their power in this respect.

Mrs. Given—Mr. Given, don't you go west and work on the harvest?

Weary Willie—Mum, the office should seek the man.

IN NATURE'S STOREHOUSE THERE ARE CURES.—Medical experiments have shown that combining the tonic and deobstruent virtues in even ordinary plants growing up around us, there is often a remedy which cannot be estimated. It is held by some Chi Nature provides a cure for every disease which neglect and ignorance have visited upon man. However, this may be, it is well known that Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, distilled from roots and herbs, are a sovereign remedy in curing all disorders of the digestion.

Mr. Green—Now, I'm going to tell you something, Ethel. Do you know that last night, at your party, your sister promised to marry me? I hope you'll forgive me for taking her away.

Little Ethel—Forgive you, Mr. Green? Of course I will. Why, that's what the party was for!

The transition from winter's cold to summer's heat frequently puts a strain upon the system that produces internal complaints, always painful and often serious. A serious form of this disorder is dysentery, which many are prone in the spring and summer. The very best remedy to use in subduing this painful ailment is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It is a standard remedy, sold everywhere.

A number of drummers were sitting in a hotel lobby when one of them began to boast that his was the most powder puff pushing its line of goods.

There was a little argument, and then a drummer who had said much to say before suddenly rose and said, "I'll bet any man in the house that my firm has the most people pushing its line of goods."

"Done!" exclaimed the boastful one. The money was accordingly put up with a stakeholder, and then the boastful drummer asked: "Now, what is your firm's line of goods?"

"Baby carriages," murmured the quiet man, as he took the money and made for the side door.

PAINS DISAPPEAR BEFORE IT.—No one need suffer pain when they have available that household friend, Pain Pill. If not in the house when required it can be procured at the nearest store, as all merchants keep it for sale. Rheumatism and all bodily pains disappear when it is applied, and should they at any time return, experience teaches the user of the Pill how to deal with them.

"Quality" and "Castle"

I am putting in new brands of Flour called "Quality" and "Castle." The former we can recommend as being equal to none and a little better than the best. The second grade is A. No. 1 and a trial of either brand will convince the most fastidious that these Flours will produce the most palatable bread in the world. "Quality" will cost you $3.50 per 100, and "Castle" $3.20. Give her a trial for your next order, and you will become a steady customer.

Again We Say it is Pure

TWO more strong reasons cannot be laid upon the absolute purity and goodness of our olive oil. To illustrate how difficult it is to get really pure Olive Oil, we quote from an address of Dr. Leeds, before the Chemical Section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"Pure Olive Oil was not to be had in the market, except from a few high class dealers. The amount of fraud practiced is directly proportional to the safety of practicing it. Nobody but the deliver in official publications knows anything about it. The consumer don't hear that So and So's oil is a fraud, and learn to rely upon it at the grocer's.

Try a bottle of Pure Imported Olive Oil. If you have, we warrant you are still using it. Its best friends are those who know it best. Its cost is moderate.

JUMPED IN THE RIVER.

Gananoque, Oct. 27.—Alfred Pranell, an old gentleman 80 years of age, lived with his son, Wm. Pranell, at the north end of the ferry street. He disappeared this morning by jumping into the Gananoque river at the rear of his son's property. The old gentleman had been in poor health for some time and the family had been watching him, but this morning about 1.30 o'clock he got away from the house unnoticed. The deceased was formerly a resident of Napanee where he is highly respected.

FIRE AT STRATHCONA.

On Saturday evening last about 6.30 o'clock fire broke out in the rear of Mr. A. S. Bird's general store at Strathcona and completely destroyed the whole building. Willing hands helped to save as much of the stock as possible, but the household effects over the store were a complete loss. The building was of stone with a brick front, and only the walls remain standing. We understand the loss is partly covered by insurance. The dwelling house next door owned and occupied by Mr. Sidney Grant, was also somewhat damaged, although all the furniture was removed without damage. His building was also insured, the amount being $250.00.

THE LATE EMERY A. SHARPE.

One of the most sorrowful deaths that has been recorded for years in our midst was that of Emery A. Sharpe, son of John G. Sharpe, of Ernestown. On Friday evening, Oct. 8th, 1909, at 6.30 p.m., in his room at the Hotel Metropole, Walhalla, N.D., Emery passed to his eternal rest, at the early age of 33 years, 7 months and 10 days. He has been from his former home in Ernestown about thirteen years, ten years of which he has spent in and around Walhalla. Here he got his education and laid up those stores of knowledge which were to be of use to him in the journey through life. However, it seemed there was a vacancy on High that needed Emery's attention, and his journey here was made short. Last winter he spent at home with his aged father, who knew at that time his son's health was failing, and advised him to spend the summer at home, but Emery was in such a demand at the electric light plant, Walhalla, that he deemed it necessary to go west again on the 7th of March, and stayed at his post as engineer of the plant until Sept. 5th, when health failed completely. At once arrangements were made to start for home, but strength failing him so rapidly in this he was denied. For a number of years he has been suffering from a keloid on the face, which, eating through the tissues of the throat, went to the lungs and produced tuberculosis. His last illness was very brief, as he was fully stricken down to his bed about eleven o'clock a.m., and passed peacefully away at 6.30 p.m. The career was bright and rapid, he was well cultured and attractive, and his company was in great demand by the leveled and by the best society of the town of Walhalla. His relatives received a letter from Mr. A. M. McDonald, of the Citizens' Bank, Walhalla, stating there was not a person in the little town who did not know Emery, and respected him for a good, kind, earnest, honorable fellow. He will indeed be regretted. The funeral took place at his father's home on Sunday, Oct. 17th, and was largely attended. Rev. Mr. Bell preached a very impressive sermon from Matthew 24th chapter and 44th verse, "Therefore be ye also ready; for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of Man cometh."

Relatives wish to thank Emery's many friends in Walhalla for their kindness to him in his last sickness and death, especially Mr. A. M. McDonald, and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Gilmour. The latter accompanied the remains from Walhalla to Ernestown, Kingston papers please copy.

SUPPER AND PRESENTATION.

The Wesley meeting, Oct. 14th, Victoria Hall, was well attended. After the bountiful supper and presentation to the Rev. Mr. Lindsay, B.A., B.D., on the eve of his departure for Carberry, Man., to assume the pastorate of that parish.

The hall was tastefully decorated with fall attractions and in a number instances, and the well filled table was artistically laden with delicacies, which did much credit to the Ladies' Guild, who had charge of the arrangements.

Mr. Fosser acted as chairman, and in a happy speech on behalf of the Official Board, to read the subjoined address, and the purse of which Mrs. J. S. Neilson presented the beautiful silver cream pitcher and the purse of gold.

Mr. Lindsay, in reply, made an eloquent address, in which he dwelt upon the happy relations which had existed between pastor, himself and the congregation.

The Rev. Jas. Cumberland, Rev. Dr. Parker and the Rev. A. E. Millmar, of Bath, also spoke, and a very pleasing feature was the reading by Mr. Edgar Redden, accompanied by Mrs. K. D. McDonald on the piano.

The proceedings terminated by the singing of the National Anthem and the Benediction was pronounced by Mr. Lindsay.

To the Rev. J. R. Lindsay, B.A., B.D.

Dear Mr. Lindsay,—When we heard only a short time ago that you had received a call to the Hillsdale charge, many conflicting feelings regarding our movement filling in our hearts. We thought the people out there were disturbing the happy relations existing between a pastor and his people by taking away from us, who is doing a good work in our midst?" But learning from you that you considered it to be your duty to accept this call, and remembering that the church is one, then the people who have given you so noble support call are our brethren, and that we are called to take a part in the glorious work of building up the Kingdom of God in this new and promising part of our domain, we have become reconciled.

In parting with you we assure you that it is with much regret that we part with you and your family, who is a highly esteemed daughter of this parish, yet we wish you both a hearty God-speed, and trust that you may have a long life of happiness and usefulness in your new field of labor.

We shall always remember with gratitude that during the three years your name has been in our midst you have with much earnestness and consecration conducted the work of this parish both in temporal and spiritual affairs, and we trust that long after you have departed from us we shall still continue to profit by your good and wise precepts and example.

We ask you to accept this present as a small token of our esteem and good wishes for you and Mrs. Lindsay and your little daughter, accompanied with our prayers for your safety, happiness and continued success in the Lord's work wherever your lot may be cast.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

That the work of the Children's Aid Society needs to be placed before the people of Napanee is evident from the very small audience that gathered in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening to listen to the address of Mr. Gunn, of Chatham. He said: "The adopting of the human family, unlike that of the lower animals, is to be entrusted even to 2% of the population, fostering care and protection of the parents. During the period child training a of the most importance in preparing them for future citizenship. To give a detailed account of the methods of discipline adopted must be kind of a stereotyped character. Much trouble is caused by parents misunderstanding their children. Parents must retain the confidence of their sons, and mothers that of their daughters as a safeguard against the vileness of the street, and it is recommended that all girls have proper chaperonage after dark. All children belong to the Province, and are kept under the stewardship of their parents, only when the latter prove themselves unsuited for natural parents, and those who have shown their incapacity are required by law to hand over the guardianship to the Children's Aid, whose duty it is then to see good homes, under the supervision of the Society, where they receive education and good christian training. That even bad heredity may be overcome is proven by the fact that of all those who have been made wards of the Children's Aid Society, only 2% have turned out badly." The Napanee Branch of the Children's Aid has done good work in the past, and deserves the hearty co-operation of its best citizens in the service it renders the community.

Recommends

Vinol

For Weak, Run-Down People.

"I was run down and weak from indigestion and general debility, also suffered from vertigo. I saw a cod liver preparation called Vinol advertised and decided to give it a trial, and the results were most gratifying. After taking two bottles I regained my strength, and am now feeling unusually well." — HENRY CUNNINGHAM, Elder Baptist Church, Kinston, N.C.

Vinol contains the two most world-famed tonics—the medicinal, strengthening, body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil and Tonic Iron. Vinol contains no oil, and is by far the Best Strengthening Tonic obtainable. We return your money without question if Vinol does not accomplish all we claim for it.

VANITY IN WOMEN.

Even Leads Them to Fall in Love With an Eye to Effect.

When a man is in love, writes Alice Marston French, he doesn't care whether the woman he is distinguished for this or that or for the other thing—in fact, he would rather not have her distinguished for anything in particular, because to that extent others would have some claim upon her, and he is absolutely indifferent to what other persons think about her, for if she pleases him, that's quite enough; and moreover, if she does please him he cannot imagine that she should be anything but pleasing and, indeed, absolutely fascinating, to all the world besides. With a woman it is entirely different. She has been trained to ask herself, first of all, what will be said by her acquaintances and friends concerning anything she does or says or wears; and, therefore, naturally enough, in the most important decision which she ever has to make, she will be guided largely by the same standard in which she has been accustomed to refer all other things. She wants a conquest of which she can be proud, not with herself alone, but before her friends and acquaintances and potential rivals. She wishes, in other words, to capture something in order to show it off. She is not single-hearted, for she has always an eye to what some one else will say. The story of King Cophetua and the beggar maid is familiar to every one; but do not know of any story so widely known in which it is a queen who stoops to conquer. In a word, vanity is with many women, perhaps with most, the door to love.

Through its promptings women are led to put aside their natural preferences, the impulse of their hearts, and the instinct of selection and affinity that have been given them for the assurance of their own happiness; and to it they will sacrifice much that belongs to the spirit and to the better life, exerting in turn the empty tribute of the admiration of envy.

WHEN MAKING HOUSE DRESSES.

In making up a shirtwaist frock of washable material it is well to see hard service it is a good idea to make two waists on one skirt. The skirt wears twice as long as the bodice, and in this way the life of the frock is prolonged.

They will fade unequally? Not a bit, of it, if the waists are worn alternately, not keeping one the other is worn out.

Another useful tip for the morning frock is to have stocks made out of the material with white picquettes for a finish in hand. These should be at least two to each waist as a frock that is worked in and soiled more quickly in the collar than elsewhere. If the stock is not detachable the blouse must often go to the tub before its time.

Have the skirts cut to clear the ground by two inches, and do not select a model with many plaits if laundering is an item. With such a costume, covered by an apron, the woman is presentable at any minute, though she does her own housework.

THE ECHO CALLED HIM.

"A great country," said Mr. Gaswell, speaking of the land of stars and stripes at the wife's at-home—"a great country! Been all over it, have."

"Yes," queried the uninterested visitors.

"Yes, indeed!" continued Gasser. "Noo York, Seattle, The Pryrie, the Rockies — everywhere! Wonderful range, those Rockies!"

"Indeed!" murmured the company.

"Yes, indeed! It takes eight hours there before you can hear the sound of your own voice. When I was camping up there, every night before I pulled the blanket around me I used to shout out, 'Time to get up!' And—do you believe it?—the echo used to wake me up next morning!"

FOR D. D. D.—GOT A TRIAL BOTTLE, AND IS CURED OF ECZEMA.

21 Givens St., Toronto, June 20, 1909.

D. D. D. Company,

Dear Sirs,—

I was a sufferer for about two years with eczema on the legs and ankles. I tried three or four different doctors and some of them did me any good. I then went to a skin specialist and he was no better.

I was reading the "Sunday World" and I happened to see your ad. I am very glad of that I did. I sent for a sample bottle and it did me so much good I sent for a $1.00 bottle, also a cake of soap. That is all I used and I am perfectly well, and I don't think it will return. I have advised several others to use it and the results have been the same.

(Signed) I. W. CORNS.

The results are the same in every case—D. D. D. Prescription instantly soothes and relieves the awful itch and permanently cures Eczema, and all kinds of skin diseases.

You are a sufferer why not try D. D. D. at once?

STINGY MEN TAKE HEED!

Crosby had always been inclined to conservatism in household expenses, especially in the matter of his wife's dress bills. He went so far as to say that he was penurious.

She had been in need of a new hat for a long time, and after she hinted that her happiness would never be quite complete till she had one, he at last consented to make the purchase. He went into a store and picked out two, one of which was a cheap imitation affair, and the other a fine expensive one. Taking them to his office before going home, he changed the price marks, the expensive tag on the cheap boa and vice versa.

His wife examined them for a long time very seriously indeed, and then said: "Now, dear, the expensive hat is a beauty, and it is very good of you to allow me my choice. Some women would take it without a word; but really I don't think we can afford the more costly one, and besides, dear, I think the cheap one is more stylish, too. Why, Cros, dear, what's the matter? Are you ill?"

But dear old Cros had made his get-away into the night where he could kick himself as hard as he felt like doing. But what he would like to know is this: Did his wife happen on the more expensive boa by pure accident, or—

TALCUM POWDER.

Talcum powder is not advisable as a face powder. It is not in any way injurious to the skin, but is not the proper consistency or tint to make the skin look clear and natural, as there are few skins white enough for a perfectly white powder to look good upon. A good vegetable powder is as harmless as talcum, and when it is the same tint as your skin will greatly improve the looks of your complexion, when cold cream is first put on as a foundation for the powder to adhere to.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Toronto, Canada.—"I shall endeavor to describe to you how I felt before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I scarcely knew what it was to be well. I had awful bearing-down pains and usually before my monthly periods I suffered terribly and had to go to bed. I was not able to walk across the floor the pain was so bad. I doctored for a long time, but the doctor's treatment did not do me any good. I gave up all hopes of ever being well again until one day my husband saw the Compound advertised in the paper. He decided to get me a bottle, and I am thankful he did. I had not taken one bottle before I began to feel better, and I kept on taking it until now I am a different woman. It also helped me during maternity and childbirth. I can thoroughly recommend your Vegetable Compound to any woman who is afflicted with female troubles."—Mrs. J. M. Twamley, 18 Nassau St., Toronto, Canada.

The success of Lydia. E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

Don't Risk even a penny—until health returns. And I mean just exactly that.

I am now a physician who says to the sick, "I will, out of my own pocket, buy for you a full $5 day treatment of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and let it cure you before you pay me a penny."

And for 20 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively standard in every community, every town and village. Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for other unwarranted and unworthy medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the past 20 years used Dr. Shoop's Restorative and found it truly genuine.

Test with your own health as order. This will save delay and disappointment.

All Druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and will be authorized to supply you at once—for Dr. Shoop's Restorative will be recommended and sold on a positively "no money back" guarantee. They know that when Dr. Shoop's Restorative will help it will gladly pay the druggist for your health back in full 30 day treatment is freely granted

The hard work of bread-making should be done in the flour mill—not in the kitchen.

When it is necessary for you to make bread by main strength, the miller hasn't done his part. His flour is not fine enough.

Royal Household Flour

is made from hard Spring wheat—which is capable of finer grinding than any other wheat—and milled by a process that insures the finest, and most nutritious of flours. Get enough to try from your grocer. 13

The "Hecla" Furnace

These Grate Bars Mean a Clean Fire and no Coal Wasted.

There are four grate bars in the "Hecla." Each can be shaken separately. When the center of the fire is bright, and the outside dead, simply shake the outside bars. If any part of the fire needs cleaning, that one part may be cleaned without disturbing the live coals or unburnt fuel in any other part of the fire-pot.

"Hecla" Grate Bars are easy to shake, clean the fire without a poker, save coal and make sifting ashes unnecessary.

The "Hecla" also has the famous Fused Joints—that make this furnace absolutely and permanently gas, smoke and dust proof.

Have you our latest catalogue? You should, if you are going to put a new furnace in your house this season. Write for free copy. 92

CURE THAT OBSTINATE SORE.

WHERE ORDINARY SALVES FAIL ZAM-BUK SUCCEEDS.

Chronic sores which cause trouble by "breaking open" may be cured by Zam-Buk, as well as recent injuries and diseases. If you suffer from some old sore—hidden, perhaps, but none the less painful for that—don't delay to apply Nature's healing essences as provided in Zam-Buk. Mrs. E. F. Ashton, of 111, Vickers Street, Fort William, tells how valuable Zam-Buk is as a family balm. She says:—"We first used Zam-Buk for cuts and bruises, etc., and found it so satisfactory that my husband started using it for a chronic sore. For a long time I had been bothered with an old sore on his leg, and had used various preparations, yet nothing had permanently cured it. He began applying Zam-Buk balm, and it was very soon agreeably surprised to notice a great improvement.

"It was only a matter of a short time before Zam-Buk had thoroughly cleansed the sore of all foul matter and healing commenced. It is now some months since the sore was completely closed, and there is no likelihood of it breaking out again.

"Since then my baby, eighteen months old, has been afflicted of eczema on the scalp by dandruff. The eczema came in red pimples, and if rubbed or scratched, formed into sores. The child got great relief from the irritation of the scalp, but whenever Zam-Buk was applied it soothed and healed. Frequent applications were effective in clearing all traces of the disease which remain in a very short time."

Zam-Buk is equally recommended by all sufferers from chronic sores, bad leg, or eczema.

Try Zam-Buk on Nature's own healing balm, being composed of pure herbal essences. It is a sure cure for eczema, ringworm, ulcers, cuts, burns, bruises, poisoned sores, chronic wounds, bad leg, piles, festering sores, chapped hands, cold-sores, frost-bite, and all skin injuries and diseases. Druggists and stores everywhere sell at 50c a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto; 3 boxes $1.25. You are warned against harmful imitations represented to be "just as good."

Safety for Children.

Mothers should never give their little ones a medicine that they do not know to be absolutely safe and harmless. The so-called soothing medicines contain opiates that stupify the child without curing its ailments. An over dose of these medicines may kill the child. Baby's Own Tablets is the only medicine that gives the mother the guarantee of a government analysis that it contains no poisonous opiate or harmful drug. The Tablets cure constipation, indigestion, sour colic, diarrhoea, destroy worms, break up colds and make teething easy. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

I have a good assortment of the new Church Hymn Books for the coming season, also my usual supply of other literature. Call and see it. JAS. GORDON. 46p

CORRECTION.

Mr. Editor,—In last week's Strathcona items I noticed how there were 13 cases and 6 families of scarlet fever, but the correspondent was mistaken about it; there were only 3 families and 8 cases of it. I think he ought to be better informed before he has it published.

GEO. VS. PETER JACKSON.

The opening item was charged and tried before the County Judge's Criminal Court with having stolen one hundred and seventy-five dollars from John Walsh. The matter came up for trial before Judge Price on Thursday, 28th inst. The prisoner was selected in this matter, but conducted a charge of stealing two gold rings, the property of John Walsh, and received for two months in gaol. H. M. Pewtress, K.C., was counsel for the Crown; W. G. Wilson, for prisoner.

"THE BARRIER" IN KINGSTON.

The element of a mystery and of that sudden love which from its rewards in self-sacrifice are the two leading characteristics of the Canadian Northwest, is the great "Rex-Hurt" on Wednesday evening, Nov. 3rd, at the Grand Opera House in Kingston. "The Barrier" is a thrilling, romantic drama, it is said, of love so late in a new country—the Yukon—at the time of the discovery of the gold centres there, the last section of the United States. Several of the plays are at Flamboro, which Mr. Rex Beach assures is Ramsay City, the town from which Carmen went to the Klondike more than a decade ago. Beach has studied the characters that lonelily and all the incidents of the play are taken from his actual experience.

Ask Her This Question

"Do you know of any woman who ever received any benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

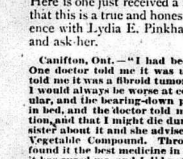
If any woman who is suffering with any ailment peculiar to her sex will ask her neighbors this question, she will be surprised at the result. There is hardly a community in this country where women cannot be found who have been restored to health by this famous old remedy, made exclusively from a simple formula of roots and herbs.

During the past 30 years we have published thousands of letters from these grateful women who have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and never in all that time have we published a testimonial without the writer's special permission. Never have we knowingly published a testimonial that was not truthful and genuine. Here is one just received a few-days ago. If anyone doubts that this is a true and honest statement of a woman's experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound write and ask her.

Canifton, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor told me it was ulcers of the uterus, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor. No one knows what I suffered. I would always be worse at certain periods, and never was regular, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor told me I would have to have an operation, and that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Through personal experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for female troubles, for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me while passing through Change of Life."—Mrs. Letitia Blair, Canifton, Ontario.

Any woman who is sick and suffering is foolish surely not to give such a medicine as this a trial. Why should it not do her as much good as it does Mr. Blair.

McPHERSON SHOES.



It isn't difficult to sell one pair of almost any shoes to almost anybody, if the shoes look well, and the salesmanship is good. But to sell the same person more shoes later, the shoes must be good—and the salesmanship matters but little.

McPherson Shoes are so thoroughly well made and so scrupulously finished they look well and keep looking so well that practically every person becomes a friend—and that's pretty everything.

In McPherson Shoes style, correctness and elegance are combined with distinct originality and with high leather quality in a degree that discounts all competition.

Only Medicine That Did Any Good

After Suffering Tortures For Years, This Lady Found Happy Relief In "Fruit-a-tives".

Brankville, Ont., June 11th, 1908.

"I have received most wonderful benefit from taking "Fruit-a-tives". I suffered for years from headaches and pain in the back, and I consulted doctors and tried every remedy obtainable without relief. Then I began taking "Fruit-a-tives" and this was the only medicine I ever did me any real good. I took several boxes altogether, and now I am entirely well of all my dreadful headaches and backaches.

MRS. FRANK EATON

I take "Fruit-a-tives" occasionally and I am quite cured of a trouble that was said to be incurable. I give this testimony voluntarily, in order that others who suffer as I suffered may try the wonderful medicine and be cured."

(Signed) MRS. FRANK EATON.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50 or trial box, 25c — sent post-paid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

The Younger Set

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS, Author of "The Fighting Chance," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Robert W. Chambers.

"My personal taste will continue to govern my expressions, Mr. Neergard, and I believe will prevent any further business relations between us. And as we never had any other kind of relations, I have merely to arrange the details through an attorney."

Neergard looked after him in silence. The tiny beads of sweat on his nose united and rolled down in a big shining drop, and the dyspeptic shade on his broad and brightly mottled features deepened to a snarl when Selwyn had disappeared.

For the social prestige which Selwyn's name had brought the firm he had patiently endured his personal dislike and contempt for the man after he found he could do nothing with him in any way.

He had accepted Selwyn purely in the hope of social advantage and with the knowledge that Selwyn could have done much for him after business hours, if not from friendship, at least from interest or a lively sense of benefits to come. For that reason he had invited him to participate in the valuable Slowitha deal, supposing a man as comparatively poor as Selwyn would not only jump at the opportunity, but also prove sufficiently grateful later. And he had been amazed and disgusted at Selwyn's attitude. But he had not supposed the map would sever his connection with the firm if his broad—Neergard, went ahead on his own responsibility. It astonished and irritated him. It meant, instead of selfish or snobbish indifference to his own social machinations, an enemy to block his entrance into what he desired—the society of those made notorious in the columns of the daily press.

He was fairly on the outer boundary now, though still very far outside. But a needy gentleman inside was already compromised and practically pledged to support him, for his meeting with Jack Ruthven through Gerald had proved of greatest importance. He had lost gracefully to Ruthven and in doing it had taken that gentleman's measure. And, though Ruthven himself was a member of the Slowitha, Neergard had made no error in taking him secretly into the deal where together they were now in a position to exploit the club, from which Ruthven of course would resign in time to escape any assessment himself.

Neergard's progress had now reached this stage. His programme was simple—to wallow among the wealthy until satiated, then to marry into that agreeable community and found the house of Neergard. And to that end he had already bought a building site on Fifth avenue, but held it in the name of the firm, as though it had been acquired for purposes merely speculative.

Chapter 13

ABOUT that time Boots Lansing very quietly bought a house on Manhattan Island. It was a small, narrow, three storied house of brick, rather shabby on the outside and situated on a modest block between Lexington and Park avenues, where the newly married of the younger set were arriving in increasing numbers, prepared to pay the penalty for all love matches.

It was an unexpected move to Selwyn; he had not been aware of Lansing's contemplated desertion, and that morning, returning from his final interview with Neergard, he was astonished to find his comrade's room bare of furniture and a hasty and explanatory note on his own table:

Phil! I've bought a house! Come and see it! You'll find me in it! Carpetless floors and unpapered walls! It's the happiest day of my life! BOOTS!

(House Owner!

And Selwyn, horribly depressed, went down after a solitary luncheon and found Lansing sitting on a pile of dusty rugs, ecstatically inspecting the cracked ceiling.

"I'm going to have the entire thing done over, room by room, when I can afford it. Look there, Phil! That's to be your room."

"Thanks, old fellow—not now."

"Why, yes! I expected you'd have your room here, Phil—"

"It's very good of you, Boots, but I can't do it."

Lansing faced him. "You'd Found Lansing sitting on a pile of dusty rugs.

Selwyn, smiling, shook his head, and the other knew it was final.

"Well, the room will be there, furnished the way you and I like it. When you want it make smoke signals or wigwag."

"I will, thank you, Boots."

Lansing said unaffectedly, "How soon do you think you can afford a house like this?"

"I don't know. You see, I've only my income now."

"Plus what you make at the office."

"What!"

"This morning; for good."

"The deuce!" he murmured, looking at Selwyn; but the latter volunteered no further information, and Lansing, having given him the chance, cheerfully switched to the other track.

"Shall I see whether the Air Line has anything in your line, Phil? No? Well, what are you going to do?"

"I don't exactly know what I shall do. If I had capital—enough—I think I'd start in making bulk and dense powders—all sorts; gun cotton, ultra powders"—

"You mean you'd like to go on with your own invention—chaosite?"

"I'd like to keep on experimenting with it if I could afford to. Perhaps I will. But it's not yet a commercial possibility—if it ever is to be. I wish I could control it; the ignition is simultaneous and absolutely complete, and there is not a trace of ash, not an unburned or partly burned particle. But it's not to be trusted, and I don't know what happens to it after a year's storage."

"Anyway," said Lansing, "you've nothing to worry over."

"No, nothing," assented Selwyn listlessly.

After a silence Lansing added, "But you do a lot of worrying all the same, Phil."

Selwyn flushed up and denied it.

"Yes, you do! I don't believe you realize how much of the time you are out of spirits."

"Does it impress you that way," asked Selwyn, mortified, "because I'm really all right?"

"Of course you are, Phil. I know it, but you don't seem to realize it. You're morbid, I'm afraid."

"You've been talking to my sister?"

"What of it? Besides, I knew there was something the matter."

"You know what it is too. And isn't it enough to subdue a man's spirits occasionally?"

"No," said Lansing, "if you mean your—mistake—two years ago. That isn't enough to spoil life for a man. I've wanted to tell you so for a long time."

And as Selwyn said nothing: "For heaven's sake, make up your mind to enjoy your life! You are fitted to enjoy it. Get that absurd notion out of your head that you're a failure, that you're no home life in prospect, no family life, no children."

"Do you mean to say, Boots, that you think a man who has made the ghastly mess of his life that I have ought to feel free to marry?"

"Think it! Man, I know it. Certainly you ought to marry if you wish, but, above all, you ought to feel free to marry. That is the essential equipment of a man. He isn't a man if he feels that he isn't free to marry. He may not want to do it, he may not be in love. That's neither here nor there. The main thing is that he is free as a man should be to take any good opportunity, and marriage is included in the list of good opportunities."

Sitting there in the carpetless room piled high with dusty, linen shrouded furniture, Selwyn looked around, an involuntary smile twitching his mouth.

"What about your marrying," he said, "after this talk about mine? What about it, Boots? Is this new home the first modest step toward the matrimony you laid so loudly?"

"Sure," said that gentleman airily. "That's what I'm here for."

"Really?"

"Well, of course, idiot. I've always been in love."

"You mean you actually have somebody in view?"

"No, son. I've always been in love with—love. I'm a sentimental sentry on the ramparts of reason. I'm properly armed for trouble now, so if I'm challenged I won't let my chance slip by me."

After a little while Selwyn went away, first to look up a book which he was having bound for Eileen, then to call on his sister, who, with Eileen, had just returned from a week at Silverside with the children preliminary to moving the entire establishment there for the coming summer.

"Silverside is too lovely for words!" exclaimed Nina as Selwyn entered the library. "Nobody wanted to come away. Eileen made straight for the surf, but it was an Arctic sea, and as soon as I found out what she was doing I made her come out."

"I should think you would," he said. "Nobody can do that and thrive."

"She seems to," said Nina. "She was simply glorious after the swim, and I hated to put a stop to it. And you should see her drying her hair and helping Plunket to roll the tennis courts—that hair of hers blowing like gold flames and her sleeves rolled to her armpits—and you should see her down in the dirt playing marbles with Billy and Drina shooting away excitedly and exclaiming 'Ten dubs!' and 'Knuckle down, Billy!' like any gamin you ever heard of—totally unspoiled. Phil, in spite of all the success of her first winter! And do you know that she had no end of men seriously entangled? Phil!"

"What?" he said.

His sister regarded him smilingly, then partly turned around and perched herself on the padded arm of a great chair.

"Come over here, Phil; no, close to me. I wish to put my hands on your shoulders, like that. Now look at me. Do you really love me?"

"Sure thing, Ninette."

"And you know I adore you, don't you?"

"Madly, dear, but I forgive you."

"No. I want you to be serious, because I'm pretty serious. See, I'm not smiling now. I don't feel like it, because it is a very, very important matter, Phil, this thing that has—has—almost happened. It's about Eileen. And it really has happened."

"What has she done?" he asked curiously.

His sister's eyes were searching his very diligently, as though in quest of something elusive, and she gazed serenely back, the most unsuspicious of smiles touching his mouth.

"Phil, dear, a young girl—a very, young girl—is a rapid and uninterest ing proposition to a man of thirty-five or more."

"Rather—in some ways."

"In what way is she not?"

"Well, to me, for example, she is acceptable as children are acceptable—a blessed, sweet, clean relief from the women of the Fanes' set, for example."

"Like Rosamund?"

"Yes. And, Ninette, you and Austin seem to be drifting out of the old circles, the sort that you and I were accustomed to. You don't mind my saying it, do you? But there were so many people in this town who had something besides millions—amusing, well bred, jolly people who had no end of good times, but who didn't gamble and guzzle and stuff themselves and their friends, who were not eternally hanging around other people's wives. You have just asked me whether a young girl is interesting to me. I answer, yes, thank God, for the cleaner, saner, happier hours I have spent this winter among my own kind have been spent where the younger set dominated. They are better than those who bred them, and if in time they, too, fall short they will not fall as far as their parents. And in their turn when they look around them at the younger set, whom they have taught in the light and wisdom of their own shortcomings, they will see fresher, sweeter, lovelier young people than we see now. And it will continue so, dear, through the ugly generations. Life is at its best, only, like art, it is very, very long sometimes."

Nina sat silent upon the padded arm of his chair, looking up at her brother.

"Mad preacher! Mad moliah! Dear, dear fellow!" she said tenderly. "All ills of the world canst thou discount, but not thine own."

"Those, too," he insisted, laughing. "I had a bulk with Boots. But anyway I'd already arrived at my own conclusion that—that—I'm rather overdoing this blighted business."

"Phil" in quick delight.

"Yes," he said, reddening nicely; "between you and Boots and myself I've decided that I'm going in for—for whatever any man is going in for—to live my life to the full and up to the hilt for mine!"

"I am going to say something that is very, very serious and very near my heart," said Nina.

"I remember," he said. "It's about Eileen, isn't it?"

"Yes, it is about Eileen."

He waited, and again his sister's eyes began restlessly searching his for something that she seemed unable to find.

"You make it a little difficult, Phil. I don't believe I had better speak of it."

"Why not?"

"Why, just because you ask me 'Why not?' for example."

"Is it anything that worries you about Eileen?"

"N-no, not exactly. It is—it may be a phase, and yet I know that if it is anything at all it is not a passing phase. She is different from the majority, you see—very intelligent, very direct. She never forgets, for example. Her loyalty is quite remarkable, Phil. She is very intense in her—her beliefs, the more so because she is unusually free from impulse, even quite ignorant of the deeper emotions, or so I believed until—until"—

"Is she in love?" he asked.

"A little, Phil."

"Does she admit it?" he demanded, unpleasantly astonished.

"She admits it in a dozen innocent ways to me, who can understand her. But to herself she has not admitted it. I think—could not admit it yet, because—because"—

"Who is it?" asked Selwyn, and there was in his voice the slightest undertone of a growl.

"Dear, shall I tell you?"

"Why not?"

"Because—because, Phil, I think that our pretty Eileen is a little in love with—you."

He straightened out to his full height, scarlet to the temples. She dropped her linked fingers in her lap, gazing at him almost sadly.

"Dear, all the things you are preparing to shoot at me are quite useless, I know. I don't imagine, I don't forestall, I don't predict."

"Nina, you are madder than a March hetrem!"

"Air your theories, Phil, then come back to realities. The conditions remain. Eileen is certainly a little in love with you, and a little with her means something. And you evidently have never harbored any serious intentions toward the child. I can see that, because you are the most transparent man I ever knew. Now, the question is, What is to be done?"

"I am, of course, obliged to believe that you are serious," he said. "A man cannot choose but believe in that manner. There is no very young girl, nobody, old or young, whom I like as thoroughly as I do Eileen Erroll. She knows it; so do you, Nina. It is open and above board. I should be very unhappy if anything marred or distorted our friendship. I am quite confident that nothing will."

HE ELLOYS HIS MEALS NOW

For He Keeps a "Little Digester" Handy.

Mr. Glassco, of Toronto, writes us on May 13th last:

THE COLEMAN MEDICINE CO.,
509 Church St., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—

I wish you would send me another box of your "Little Digesters". All the members of my family have been using them and have obtained the most satisfactory results.

I congratulate you on your success in putting up a tablet for the cure of Indigestion. I suffered for years and tried everything that was recommended to me. Nothing gave me relief, until I was persuaded to try "Little Digesters". Now I never suffer from Indigestion. I enjoy my meals and am not afraid to eat, because I know a "Little Digester" after each meal will digest my food.

I recommend them to all my friends who suffer from Indigestion and would further say that you may publish the above if you wish. I know there are thousands of people suffering from Indigestion who will be glad to know there is a safe and sure cure for them.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) E. S. GLASSCO.

"Little Digesters" cost 25 cents at your druggists, or by mail from Coleman Medicine Co., Toronto.

ONE HAIRDRESSER'S EXPERIENCE.

"The most ticklish job I ever tackled," said the hairdresser, "was accompanying a bride to church and curling her hair en route for the ceremony. The wedding took place in that hot spell in June. The bride had plenty of hair, but it was limp and stringy. I curled and waved her hair beautifully just before leaving home, but by the time she was ready to start her hair was a sight. "It's no use," she said. "I never can face people looking like this. There is only one thing to be done. You must take an alcohol lamp and curling tongs and come in the carriage with me; then you can put on the finishing touches just before we get to the church."

"At the risk of blowing us all up with a spirit lamp, that is what we did, and by means of that horrible expedient the bride reached the altar properly curled."

GENEROUS CONTRIBUTION.

Lennox County Council after kindly listening to a deputation from the Town Council on Tuesday, kindly took up the question of a grant to Napanee bridge on Wednesday and gave the town a liberal grant of $66.66 to assist in building the new bridge, being considered necessary to replace the old covered bridge. The Town Council is elated and especially Reeve Ruttan, are to be congratulated upon the result. The bridge will be completed and open for traffic in about ten days.

NAPANEE LADIES' MUSICAL CLUB.

The first regular meeting of the Napanee Ladies' Musical Club for the season 1909-10, will be held in the Town Hall, on Friday afternoon, November 12th, at four o'clock. A short programme will be given and tea served. The officers hope to see all the old members and as many new ones as possible. Membership tickets may be obtained from the Secretary. Adults $1.00, students 50c. Non-residents will be admitted for a fee of 25c.

"THE LILY AND THE PRINCE."

Companion play to "When Knighthood Was in Flower." Is a new and interesting story. The lines are splendid, the action well sustained and the situations strong and logical. The first act contains an exceptionally fine love scene, novel in its conception and admirably worked out, and is splendidly followed by the introduction of the principal motive. The third act opens with the scene of remarkable strength in the historic inquisition chamber, a magnificent spectacular drama of dramatic standpoint, with lines of great force and considerable beauty. The fourth and last act is of almost equal strength as the third, and ends happily. The following constitute the company:

Hon. Prue—Mr. E. J. Flach.
President—Bidwell Conway.
Directress—Miss Hudson.
Secretary—George Scott.
Treasurer—Arthur Cornish.

Program Committee:
Mr.—Alice Preston.
Mr.—Gertrude Simpson.

WILSON—BLACK.

A pretty marriage in the new St. John's Church, at Enterprise, was solemnized the day after it was re-opened by the Lord Bishop of Ontario. The bride Edmund Ross Wilson and Lillie May Black. Both of the contracting parties. The Rector, the Rev. J. W. Jones, officiating. The bride was given away by her father, and entered the church to the strains of the Wedding March, played by Miss Laura Clancy, ably assisted, and was crowned in pale blue mull with an exquisite old time hat. The happy couple and friends drove to the bride's home where a dainty breakfast awaited them, after which they proceeded to Napanee. They will return soon and reside at the homestead of Raphiel Wilson, Lot 10, wishing them a happy wedded life.

THE BIGGEST BUSINESS FROM NOW UNTIL CHRISTMAS

We are aiming at the largest volume of sales from now until Friday night, December 24th, that we have ever had. Three weeks ago we announced our big Thanksgiving Sale. We gave you wonderful value and you responded with the biggest week's business this store ever knew in any October.

Now we are out for seven weeks of push and hum and energy. Every Department is crowding us for advertising space to tell about specials — but "hand's salve" if we used all of The Beaver we could not tell you of one-half of the things we would like to tell you about. Something new every day. Goods arriving—special bargains, etc. This store is doing big things. It had its babyhood and colic; tiresome nights and long days. It cut just one tooth at a time. It got you to loving it by being a good baby, a better boy and a great man. We haven't fooled you, and by that token we wouldn't.

Just think—only seven short weeks till Christmas. You had better prepare early. Get your list ready for Grandpa, Father, Mother, Bob, Susie and all the rest of your friends, and come and see how easily you can buy presents for each one of them from our immense stock.

We're Clearing the Odd Lines of Women's Separate Skirts.

Once a season we unload stocks of the singles and broken lots of Skirts. To do so quickly we cut the price to the quick. Hence beautiful Skirts made from best materials and perfectly made go at prices much below value. Look the lists over carefully and you may see some that you or your family may use.

This Store is Helpful with Women's Wraps

Helpful first of all, from the price standpoint; as more and more women are recognizing, day by day. But as helpful in style-point—in suggestion for the right sort of wrap for this specific use or that, or for general all-round service. Not too many of any one kind, but ranks crowded with varieties of fashionable wraps—which results in as wide a range of styles as in price. And such variety emphasizes helpfulness in a mighty practical money saving way. This picture is an exact reproduction of one of our $5.00 Coats. The material is a plain wool cheviot in all black and plain dark grey. Trimmed with velvet, buttons, braid exactly as pictured.

"Quality" and "Castle"

I am putting in new brands of Flours called "Quality" and "Castle." The former we can recommend at being equal to none and a little better than the best. The second grade is A 1 and a trial of either brand will convince the most skeptic that these Flours will produce the most palatable Bread in the world. "Quality" will cost you $3.00 per bbl. and "Castle" $2.75. Give us a trial for your next order, and you will become a steady customer.

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

Ever stop to think that no man is ever too old to dress neatly and in good style?

We've smart clothes for young men and for men who stay young.

A man is as young as he feels. Why should he not keep as young looking as possible—and good clothes will help him amazingly!

There's no law to require a man to dress in accordance with his age—not even a law of custom—and custom is stupid, while style is life.

Men's Ready-to-wear Suits from $7.50 to $15.

Our Suits at $7.50, $8 and $9 will surprise you both in the style they are made in and the quality of tweed and trimmings used.

We are showing a number of all-wool latest pattern Tweed Suits at $10 and $12.

Fancy Worsted Suits at $12, $14, $15 and $16.

We have 500 Men's Suits for you to select from, and all sizes from 34 to 44.

We buy every dollar's worth of clothing for spot cash, and this fact alone enables us to sell you clothing at a smaller margin than the buyer that is compelled to buy on credit.

WALLACE DRUG CO.

OBITUARY.

MARY THOMAS.

widow of the late Thomas Thomas, died at the residence of her son, Mr. J. F. Thomas, on Saturday, Nov. 6th, 1909, aged 82 years. The deceased lady was born in Wales, and came to Canada with her husband and family about 50 years ago, settling in Napanee, where she has since resided. Mrs. Thomas was a member of the Methodist church, and was highly respected by a wide circle of friends. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon, leaving the residence of her son at 2 o'clock, for Cataraqui cemetery. Friends and acquaintances are invited to attend without further notice.

BATH.

Mr. Dan. McKenty, of Winnipeg, is visiting here this week.—Mr. Stanley Purvis has returned from Carlton Beach, where he has been for the past few months, and is attending Queen's University, Kingston.—Mr. Frank Priest, of Toronto, visited at D. Y. Priest's on Sunday last.—The piano Sc. Sc. awards arrived on Wednesday, with a load of coal for Dan. Johnson.—Mrs. Jenkins' store here, which has been closed for a few weeks, was opened on Saturday last with Mr. H. F. Gordon in charge.

BELL ROCK.

The farmers are very busy ploughing these days.—The cheese factory is closed up for the season.—Mrs. D. Allen spent last week with friends here.—Joseph Thompson and Harold Grier have returned home from the Northwest.—Peter Timmons has gone back to Cropbook, N.Y.—Miss Goldie Struthers, of White Lake school, and Miss Olivia Struthers of Norwood High School, spent Thanksgiving with their parents.—Visitors: Mr. Geo. Wheeler, Northcote, at Mrs. Martin's; Mrs. D. Allen, Marlbank, and Mr. J. L. Perry, Verona, at D. L. Amey's.

BICKNELL'S CORNERS.

The weather is very warm and pleasant, but very hard on fall wheat, as the potatoes have been such an abundance crop that the farmers have been delayed in their fall ploughing this year.—Mr. A. Bottum's corn husking bee was well attended.—Mr. James Hawley has been drawing apples to Yarker this week.—Mrs. Perry Scott has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, Tamworth.—Miss Hannah spent a few days in Yarker, the guest of Miss Lena Stewart.—Mrs. Scott and daughter, of Sydenham, are visiting her brother, Mr. Robt. Blakely.—Miss Gertie Easterly spent Sunday with Miss Violet Perry, Bethel.—The cheese factory is only running every other day.—Orr & Co.'s progressing nicely under the management of Miss Mitchell.

TAMWORTH.

Judge Madden held Court here on Tuesday. Docket small.—Dave Ring is visiting his uncle, Gilbert Harkness.—Hallowe'en passed off very quietly, with very little sport. Gilmour Bros. had one of their large plate glass broken on Hallowe'en by some of the boys, which will be expensive for them.—Adrin Way, of Kamloops, B.C., is visiting his parents.—The potato crop in this section is very large. Every farmer has more than he knows what to do with.—Geo. Reid and C. G. Coxall were in Arden on Wednesday last.—John Storring is fitting up his store.—Archie Carscallen has his house almost completed.—Mr. Fitzgerald is putting in water works and a wind mill.—New stock of boots and shoes just in, at Floyd & Co's.

HAWLEY.

No, Hawley is not dead; has just creditably escaped publication for a few weeks, and now yields to the constant strain.—Miss Alice Patterson, who has been spending a greater part of the summer with Mrs. M. Parks, returned last week to her home in New York.—Mrs. Will. Cranston, Gosport, spent last Sunday with her parents.—Mrs. Samuel Asselstine returned home last Saturday after a pleasant two months' visit in Minneapolis, with her daughter and other relatives.—The W. M. S. held a special meeting on Monday afternoon, Nov. 1st, at the home of Mrs. Perry Detlor, when Miss Paul, recently returned from Port Simpson, and who, after spending fourteen years in the Crosby Girls' Home, delighted her hearers by a brief narration of experiences, and gave encouraging testimony that many of the people with whom they had been labouring so readily accepting the Gospel of Christ. Too much praise cannot be given to Mrs. H. Creighton for her splendid report of the District Convention held at Selby, Oct. 6th. Delightful music was rendered throughout the afternoon by Misses Aleta Garrison and Florence Schryver, and by the addition of two new members and dainty refreshments partaken of, the meeting stood adjourned until December 1st, at the home of Mrs. Wm. Charters.

The meeting is open for the public, and every one is welcome.

LENNOX AND ADDINGTON HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Last Friday evening the October meeting of the Historical Society was held. The Historical Hall was taxed to its utmost capacity.

The program presented was one of the best given.

The President of the Society opened the meeting with his usual address on the work which had been done during the summer, and referred to the necessity of further increasing the membership in order to place the Society on a firmer financial basis. Correspondence was then read by the Secretary, Mr. Wm. Ponton, after which Mr. Cumberland addressed the meeting on the subject of "Early Days in Napanee." Mr. Cumberland referred to his visit to the Society's log room ago, when the first settlers in the county were discussed, and he was pleased to see that a number of those present had come to hear of the early days of the county. He had been born in the county, and had lived here all his life, and had seen many changes. He had been a member of the Society from its inception, and was pleased to see the interest which was being taken in it. He had been asked to speak on the early days of Napanee, and would do so briefly. He was born in the village

WARREN TOPPAN, Lynn, Mass.

Cured of severe compound cold and cough by

Vinol

"From Dec. 20, '08, to March 1, '09, my son was sick with a severe cold and cough. I got Vinol, and it cured him right away. I had a cough myself that was dreadful and could not sleep. Vinol cured me in a few days. I recommend Vinol to everyone who is sick, for it cures when all else fails. I have used it myself and given it to my children and it has helped me for 30 years. Vinol is certainly a wonderful medicine."

Mr. Toppan is one of Lynn's most prominent and highly respected merchants, whose word is as good as his bond.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains the two most world-famed tonics—the medicinal, strengthening, body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil and Tonic Iron.

IN MEMORIAM.

Again has the grim reaper entered into our midst, and claimed from among us one of our most respected citizens, one who was beloved and revered by all, Mr. William Clancy, who departed from this life on October 25th, 1909, after a kindly disposition and gentle manner, no burdened heart came into his presence for consolation of Christ but went away comforted and sustained. As a son of Cornelius and Alice Clancy, he first saw the light of day in the Township of Camden, November 15th, 1834, being one of a family of sixteen children, seven of whom lived to years of maturity. All of his life he continued to make his home in the Township of Camden, having in the year of 1862 he was united in marriage with Miss Mary Lew, daughter of Mr. Samuel Low, of Camden East. Four children came to bless this union, three of whom, Charles William and Emma, have preceded him into the life beyond. In 1897 Mrs. Clancy died, and in June, 1899, he contracted a second marriage with Mrs. Annie MacCormack, who survives him.

On Saturday, October 30th, the body was followed by a large concourse of relatives and friends, to the Methodist church at Enterprise, of which church deceased was a member, where the funeral services were conducted by Rev. Whyte, after which the body was placed in the vault at Centreville.

Besides the widow, there remain to mourn his loss, a daughter, Mrs. Norman Hard, of Camden East, a step-son, Dr. William MacCormack, of Napanee; three sisters, Mrs. Sophia Jackson, Mrs. Mary Wagar, and Mrs. Matthew Shannon, and five brothers, George, Thomas, Cornelius S., James and Chas. A. Clancy, respectively, besides a host of other relatives and sorrowing friends. The bereaved family have the heartfelt sympathy of the whole community.

"There is no flock, however watched and tended,
But one dead lamb is there;
There is no fireside howsoe'r defended,
But there is one vacant chair."

PRESENTATION TO DR. HOUSTON.

Dr. Houston has been a resident of Tamworth but little more than two years, but is given to few to be followed by so many hearty good wishes and prayers on leaving a place. Among those who keenly feel the loss are the members of one of the Adult Bible Classes of the Methodist church. They assembled at Mr. T. M. Barry's, on Saturday evening, Oct. 30th, and after some time in games, the teacher, Rev. S. F. Dixon, was asked to take charge of the proceedings. Mr. Ed. Huffman then read the following address, during which a beautiful Morris chair was presented to the Doctor. To our Friend and Pastor—Teacher,

Dr. G. W. Houston—

We, the pupils of your Sunday School class, and a few of your many other friends, have met to-night for the purpose of expressing to you our great regret at losing you from among us.

During the time of your stay among us you have made a place for yourself in our hearts which will not soon be filled by any other.

Your genial, sociable manner has always made it a pleasure to be in your society, and as our teacher, your faithfulness to duty, the manner taking way in which you have endeavored to teach us the truth of the Bible, and the lives which you have always upheld in your every day life and conversation have been an example worthy of being followed, and should help us each and all to a better life.

We know if this should be the case you would feel well repaid for what you have done for us, and we trust that through the combined effort the influence of your life may remain with us.

We feel, though, that in parting with you, we would like you to take with you some tangible evidence of our affection and appreciation, both of your worth and work. We therefore, ask you to accept this chair, and if, when tired with the duties of the day, you recline in it, you will sometimes think of your class in Sunday School class of Tamworth, and be grateful.

We pray God's best blessings may rest upon you and your dear wife and children, and that you may be spared for many years to come to labor for Him.

Signed on behalf of the Class,
Ed. Huffman,
Secretary.

Mr. Houston replied in a few appropriate words, thanking the class for the kindness shown him, and that he had been helped by their presence. Mrs. Barry, Mrs. Houston and Mrs. Dixon, also added a few words of thanks to the class for the kindness shown them, and to the community, and that an aspiration was the law of progress, they all wished the Doctor every success in his new and larger field of usefulness. He carried with him the best wishes of the community.

"Blest be the tie that binds" was then sung, and after refreshments, the gathering dispersed.

Perfect Underwear-Fit Means Perfect Gown-Fit

ANY woman knows that no gown can possibly look well if fitted over ill-fitting underwear. Watson's Underwear overcomes this weakness most common in most other underwear. The graceful, snug and perfect fit of Watson's is knitted into the Underwear in the making, instead of being stretched in afterwards. This wonderful glove-fit is permanent, regardless of washings.

Watson's UNDERWEAR

is skilfully made of the finest materials, in a sanitary factory by clean people. The lovely softness and smoothness of Watson's affords Underwear-Comfort you never even dreamed of. And the wearing qualities of Watson's is worth about two suits of ordinary underwear, yet Watson's costs you no more. Ask to see some of the many different Watson styles.

BLACK KNIGHT STOVE POLISH

Look how much "Black Knight" Stove Polish you get for 10c.

None of your stingy little tins of fine powder (that must be mixed with water) or a hard cake (that must be scraped)—but a big generous tin of coal black paste, that is easily spread, and bursts into a brilliant, lasting shine after a few rubs.

You certainly do get 10c. worth of the best stove polish, in the big 10c. cans of "Black Knight."

Send us 10c. for a large can postpaid if your dealer does not handle "Black Knight."

R. J. Reid, Auditor.

Moved by Coun. Gibbard, seconded by Coun. Rogers, that the Auditor be instructed to prepare a statement showing the financial standing of the Township of Ernestown for the year 1909, and that the Clerk be instructed to publish the same in the Napanee Beaver and Tamworth Observer. Carried.

Moved by Coun. Gibbard, seconded by Coun. Rogers, that the Council meet in the Council Chamber, Napanee, on the first Monday in January, 1910, at 10 o'clock a.m. for the purpose of appointing Auditors, and for the regular business of the Council. Carried.

Council adjourned.

COMMUNICATIONS

From W. G. Wilson, County Clerk, asking that the Reeve sign the document showing that the grant for Model School purposes has been satisfactorily spent in Napanee. Reeve signed the paper and handed it to the Clerk.

From Mrs. A. Grange, saying the Women's Institute Musical Union intend holding their annual rummage sale on Friday and Saturday, November 26th and 27th, and asking for the use of the Town Hall on those dates, and also on the 13th and 14th instant, on the 17th for the purpose of a concert. They also asked for the usual grant of $25.00. Permission was granted for the use of the hall and the donation of $25.00.

From Geo. D. Perry, Sec.-Treas. of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Co., enclosing payment of $40.00 for the privilege of stringing electric light wires on their poles. On motion the request of the communication was ordered to be entered on.

From the Canadian Fire Engine Co., London, Ont., saying they are in a position to fill all wants in the fire fighting appliance line, and asking for a reply.

Moved by Coun. Gibbard, seconded by Coun. Rogers, that the matter be handed over to the Fire, Water and Light Committee to see what arrangements could be made to exchange the present steam engine for a chemical engine, and report at some future meeting. Carried.

From W. S. Newman, saying his attention had been called to taking out a transient trader's license, and the taxes on the Aylsworth estate and M. Pizzariello were rebated, he was willing and prepared to pay the business tax.

Moved by Reeve Ruttan, seconded by Coun. Gibbard, that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee to report. Carried.

From F. E. Vine, Secretary Exelsior Fire Brigade, saying he had been instructed to call the attention of the Council to the conditions as they have been found to exist several times of late in the fire hall. Different members of the fire brigade have visited the fire hall on different occasions during the past month, and instead of finding everything in proper shape, as it should be at all times, they have found a deplorable state of affairs. On one occasion if a fire had occurred there would have been more than 1,000 feet of hose for immediate use without stopping to gather it up, and place it on the carts. Hose wrenches, hydrant wrenches and nozzles were scattered around the premises and about 300 feet of wet hose lying on the floor. The support was also knocked out from under the wagon and the full load left on the springs. We hope this matter will be attended to and whoever is guilty be given to understand that they must abide by the motion on the minute book of the Council.

Moved by Coun. Gibbard, seconded by Coun. Alexander, that the communication be referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee to investigate.

A communication was received from the Napanee Ladies' Musical Club, asking the Council to repair the seats in the Town Hall, kalsomine the walls, put up blinds to the windows, etc., in order to make the hall more attractive and comfortable.

Moved by Coun. Gibbard, seconded by Coun. Bogart, that the matter be referred to the Town Property Committee to report at the next meeting of the Council. Carried.

A communication was received from J. J. Graham, Chief-of-Police, asking for a ten days leave of absence to begin on the 6th inst. On motion the request was granted.

On motion Rev. A. Jarvis was given a rebate of $7.20 on his assessment of $600.00 income tax.

REPORTS.

Reeve Ruttan, Chairman of the Finance Committee, presented the Treasurer's monthly statement, as follows:

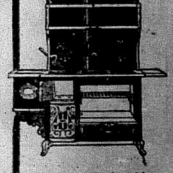
"Monarch Peninsular"

Is The Only Range Made With "A Reversible Reservoir"



The Illustration shows a "Monarch Peninsular" Steel Range with the reservoir or hot water tank on the left. If, for any reason, it is desired to have the Hot Water Tank on the right, the change can be made without tools or trouble by lifting the Reservoir from one side and placing it in the sockets provided for the purpose on the other side.

"Monarch Peninsular" is the only range having this convenience, and the only one which fits in any kitchen and economizes space.

The Hot Water Tank, or Reservoir, is made of copper, coated with tin, to insure water being always clear.

Our booklet describes and illustrates many other exclusive "Monarch Peninsular" features which every prospective stove buyer should know. Write for free copy.

INDIAN SUMMER.

Those who deplore the sudden advent of King Winter are urged to be cheerful in the prospect of a wee spell of Indian Summer before the coming of the cold season permanently. Indian Summer, properly so called, is not due until the end of October or first of November. True, it may not come at all but in the meantime it is something to look forward to.

IT'S COMING! WHEN?
NOVEMBER 11th, 1909.

What? Switzerville teameeting. The teameeting at Switzerville will be the event of the season. The programme promises to be a rare treat. Rev. W. H. Emsley, Napanee, and Rev. M. E. Sexsmith, B.A., Newburgh, will deliver addresses, and Miss L. Thomson, A.T.C.M., choric directress of W. M. C. Napanee, and other foreign and home talent will render the musical numbers. Tea served at 7.30. Admission, adults 25c., children 15c. Remember the date, Wednesday evening, Nov. 11th. 45b

GEORGE ARLISS IN "SEPTIMUS."

George Arliss, under the management of Harrison Grey Fiske, was seen in "Septimus" for the first time of any stage in Toronto, October 25th. The play made a splendid impression. Of Mr. Arliss' work in the title role, Mr. Charlesworth said in the Mail and Empire: "It is a truly memorable stage creation. This great production will be brought to the Grand Opera House, in Kingston, on Thursday, Nov. 11. Mr. Arliss came to America first in 1901 with Mrs. Patrick Campbell. He was the conspicuous figure in Belasco's production of "The Darling of the Gods," and for five seasons created some wonderful characterizations as a member of Mrs. Fiske's company. Last year his performance of "The Devil" was rather one of the greatest pieces of character acting in modern times. His "Septimus" is said to be a character absolutely new to the stage. Mr. Fiske will send the same perfect production to this city that will be seen in New York at the close of Mr. Arliss' Canadian tour.

INGOLDSBY—ALLORE.

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place at the Church of St. Anthony, Centreville, when Miss Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ingoldsby, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Alfred, son of Mr. Frederick Allore, of Tweed. The bride was attired in a superb gown of grey taffeta silk, made Empress, with white picture hat, while the bridesmaid, Miss Annie Lou Barge, Tweed, cousin of the groom, was attired in a suit of blue chiffon broadcloth with white hat. Mr. Michael Ingoldsby, of Watertown, brother of the bride, performed the duties of best man. After the ceremony the wedding party returned to the home of the bride's father, where a sumptuous repast awaited them. Mr. and Mrs. Allore received many beautiful and costly presents, testifying to the esteem in which they are held.

Prepare for Winter and Cold Weather

These bright sunshiny days are but the forerunner of cold and chilly wintry weather to come. Of course we can't expect to have all warmth and sunshine in this Canada of ours. There must be some cold, vigorous weather to start the pulses beating faster, and to put a glow of health in the faces of every one. This is November, and we must prepare ourselves for the wintry weather and the chilly blasts with warm, comfortable clothing, and be able to disregard the terrors of the winter, bound to come.

$12 Never Bought a Better Coat Than We Are Offering At That Price

This is a Coat offering that will make a lot of new friends for the Madill Store. In our own experience we have never seen their equal at $12.00, and we are convinced that the manufacturer of these coats must have done some very close figuring to get them out at the price he named to us. You will discover finer materials in them than usually find their way into coats at this price, and the tailoring could not be better at any price.

The Styles are Smart Semi-fitting Effects, "Moyen Age" Styles, Ankle Length, Body and Sleeves Lined.

25 only Stunning styles in Women's Coats, in navy, green, brown and black. Don't fail to see these garments before purchasing. We are showing several of these models in our window.

On motion the Clerk was instructed to return tenders for Court House heating plant to respective tenderers.

Moved by Mr. Walker, seconded by Mr. Allison, that this Council request D. A. Nesbit, P.S.I., to visit the school sections in and around Odessa, and confer with the various school boards in reference to the formation of a Continuation school district, and report at our next session. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Dawson, seconded by Mr. Walker, that account of Samuel Gunsmer, $33.00, in connection with Link's Mills bridge, be paid, and charged to Ernestown County Road account. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Ryan, seconded by Mr. Ritton, that the financing of the sale of the $18,000 debenture and the payment of the expenses in connection with the By-law be left with the Finance Committee with power to act. Carried.

On motion Council adjourned at the call of the Warden.

D.D.D. WAS THE RIGHT MEDICINE.

Trial Bottle Relieved—Two Bottles Cured Mr. Alexander of Eczema.

If all the people who suffer from Eczema and other skin diseases, even those who have given up hope of ever being cured—would just write for a trial bottle of D.D.D. Prescription, they would quickly find that here is a positive cure.

That is what Mr. Wm. Alexander, of Consecon, Ont., did.

"I wish to inform you", he writes on July 3rd, 1903, "that I was very badly afflicted with eczema in both my legs. I tried doctor's medicine but got no relief. I was told by one that I would be crippled for life. I saw your advertisement in the paper and sent for a trial bottle, which you very kindly sent me.

A few applications told me it was the right medicine, and I sent for two bottles. A cake of your soap which is a few weeks made me a well man. I have used the whole bill, and saved several dollars in doctor's bills, and never had a sore. It cured every time."

Why go on suffering when you can so easily get instant relief?

For free sample bottle of D.D.D. Prescription write to the D. D. D. Laboratory, Department N.B., 23 Jordan St., Toronto.

AN INDIAN LOVE SONG.

Beautiful art thou, my little white owl,
Thou art very beautiful!
Thou standest out from among the trees,
Thou art fair like the moon and the silver,
Thou art fair like the moon and the stars,
Oh, my little Maxpusis,
Thy cheeks are soft as the gold from the autumn.
Thy lips are as wild roses,
They are beautiful!
Thine eyes are like the water shining,
And they have the depths of the pools,
Oh, my little Maxpusis.

—Kathleen Morpby, in the November Canadian Magazine.

FLOWING BY STEAM IN OLD ONTARIO.

Woodstock Man is Trying It.

Plowing by steam is a novelty in old Ontario, but the process is being carried out by Hugh Cuthbert, a farm. Reeve W. Fewster, of Blandford, a progressive farmer, has decided to have steam engine and plow at work on his farm, turning four furrows at once, and has contracted with Mr. Cuthbert to do the work. The latter expected to finish in four days, at a much less cost than the cost of plowing in the usual way. It will require the use of four horses three weeks to plow the field. The experiment is being watched with a great deal of interest, and plowing will be commenced in a few days. If it is successful it is proved that steam is less. Coal and water both are used as fuel.

MAKING BLOOD A FINE STORY.

It is a common boast that our blood is the best in the world. Perhaps it is, but it is a fact that the blood of the average man or woman is not as rich and red as it should be. Pale cheeks, dizziness, headaches, backaches, and a general feeling of weakness are all signs of poor blood. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the best blood builder in the world. It makes new, rich, red blood, and in this way cures all diseases arising from poor blood. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is sold by all dealers at 50 cents a box. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Kidney Disease Put Down

This Well Known Canadian Strongly Recommends "Fruit-a-tives" to all Sufferers.

JAMES BOWMAN, Esq.

"I have much pleasure in testifying to the almost marvellous benefit I have derived from taking "Fruit-a-tives". I was a lifelong sufferer from Chronic Constipation, and the only medicine I ever secured to do me any real good was "Fruit-a-tives." This medicine cured me when everything else failed. Also, last spring I had a severe ATTACK OF BLADDER TROUBLE WITH KIDNEY TROUBLE, and "Fruit-a-tives" cured these complaints for me, when the physician attending me had practically given me up.

I am now over eighty years of age and I can strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives" for chronic constipation and bladder and kidney trouble. This medicine is very mild like fruit, is easy to take, but most effective in action."

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average baldheaded man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A term causes baldness, Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, incriminated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.

"Destroy the cause—you remove the effect."

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Chapter 16

"To that frame of mind," continued Gerald, reclining, "you owe the delightful connection in the world to her, for she would not have met me but for you, and it is all right now, isn't it, Nina?"

"Certainly, if will be all right," he said carelessly.

For a few minutes he gazed on the fair form of Nina, outside the circle of the white, and his mind was filled with admiration for her beauty.

"I'm going up to see the kids," he said abruptly.

The children were not all, were in the park, but they were growing in the nursery, and he stared and sent call him back to be rowing out of the water and up the stairs. But when he had disappeared Nina, drew back into the shade, and her face was pale and utterly severe that she had lost her last card prematurely, turned to her husband, who had just left for that moment, and was looking down upon her sorrowfully, bound by her own duplicity.

"Gerald," she said, "I am going to tell you something that you know I was born to know."

"Have you the children?" he asked.

"In the park, my very rude friend. You will find them at the mill if you want of them."

"Thanks," he said, but dimly sensed himself, omitting the little formal hand-shake with which they always part, even after an hour's separation. Of course she noticed this and, heedless her above her sewing, wondered why.

It occurred to him for a moment as though he were looking at a woman he had heard about and had just met for the first time. His observation of her very keen intensely, calm and thoughtful as to color, however, when, impatient of his rather long stay, she raised her dark blue eyes to his, her head remaining lowered. The event, short though it was, had a result. Nina's complexion there could ever be for Nina Bowman.

Lately, too, Allan had secretly been at pains to conceal her countenance by her husband, it what was to her a terrible fear. It was only one more heaping burden, this second daughter, and Nina knew Allan was enough to expand the horror of her own misfortune. But part of Allan's duties was to look after the progress of Nina's health, and for every day for three days she had been taking it in the street, the weather, the cool breeze, and the sunshine, but the result was not satisfactory. "Quality" and "Castle"

I am putting in two brands of Flour called "Quality" and "Castle." The former we can recommend as being second to none and a little better than the best. The second grade is A. No. 1 and a trial of either brand will convince the most sceptic that these Flours will produce the most palatable Bread in the world. "Quality" will cost you $3.00 per 100, and "Castle" $2.75. Give me a trial for your next order, and you will find a steady customer.

DISTRICT CONVENTION

this means of giving would lead to a better life we should not deny it.

Mrs. Wilson, of Strathcona, followed with the "Benefits of the Method." Gladstone said: "I believe that the diffusion of the principles and practice of systematic beneficence will prove the moral spectic in our age." Solomon said: "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth, and there is that withholdeth more than is meet but it tendeth to poverty." Mrs. Wilson gave the benefits to be derived from the method, viz.:

(1) In order to render unto the Lord one-tenth of the income a man must keep a personal account of receipts and expenditures, which not only makes one systematic in giving but also in spending.

(2) Giving is not so unwelcome a medicine but taxed.

(3) Makes one more careful of the ninth tenths. Tithers spend carefully; tithers are God's stewards.

(4) It crushes selfishness.

(5) In most cases givings are greatly increased.

(6) Takes away all worry and perplexity, and makes one free from condemnation as he reads such passages as "Will a man rob God?"

(7) Tithing requires definite consecration.

(8) Makes one more interested in all the enterprises of the church, for the tither has money for every thing.

(9) Brings one into closer and more constant relation with God the Father, "The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof."

(10) The blessing of God will surely rest upon the cheerful, systematic, prayerful giver.

Mrs. J. W. Courtney, of Newburgh, read a third paper on the subject, "How It Helps the Church," for ever the church measures up to the duties and responsibilities of the times her membership must recognize the fact that extraordinary money and the grace of christian giving sustain an essential relation to the evangelization of the world." The next paper on the gain was "the disappearing of all secular methods for gain in order to carry on the work of the church." She thought many of the schemes for raising church money to-day were unworthy and belittling. The social and benefit given was that it prevents embarrassment of repeatedly presenting the claims of the church to those who are not in sympathy. Religious begging would go out of fashion and the church would no longer stand as a mendicant by the wayside soliciting alms from every passerby. Begging is degrading, but giving is elevating and Godlike. The third benefit would be to settle the financial problem and give the minister more time to the other interests of the church. The fourth benefit would be a spirit filled church. The channels through which the power of spiritual life flow are the channels of prayer and the tithe. The fifth benefit will be the temporal blessings. This has been proved by the personal experience of many. She gave some interesting statistics which show the difference in tithers and non-tithers' givings. In a Toronto church composed largely of wage-earners the tithers gave an average of $3.84, while the non-tithers averaged 37c. In one of the Brantford churches the tithers averaged $16.80, while the non-tithers averaged 57c. The principles are scientific and proportionate giving are absolutely necessary to spiritual growth.

Two ways of conducting the Watch Tower prayer meeting, the members of Tamworth Auxiliary. The first presentation was not given, but the second proved to be a very helpful way of making this part of our programme a failure. This was followed by hope and faith that is beneficial to many.

The closing address was given by Miss Paul, our own returned missionary from Port Simpson. In the echo field of the work we cannot but admire the devotion and consecration that came to the Indian through coming in contact with the gospel and civilization. An evidence of this was Paul of the interest of the Indian child was shown in the number of the Band Branch connected here. Ex. Paul.

This district is honored in having such a faithful and earnest worker as Miss Paul at the front in the church's fight for the evangelization of our own Dominion.

The Enterprise Mission Band, under the leadership of Miss Dafoe Wagar, deserve great credit for their excellent work in giving and highly appreciated exercises.

The delegates were well entertained during the day and two excellent lunches were served in the Sunday School room.

Mrs. Rose was unanimously elected District Organizer.

An invitation from Moscow for next year was extended to the convention and accepted.

Proceeds of the day, $18.01.

AT HOME.

On Thursday, October 7th, Ann Amelia Phillips, beloved wife of Mr. Wm. Wilson, at their home near here. Deceased was one of the oldest and most respected residents of this locality, and a consistent and Christian bearing toward all she met will not soon be forgotten by her many sorrowing friends and acquaintances. She was born at Loborough, Ont., May 29th, 1850, where she resided till September, 1870, when she married T. R. Wilde, of Napanee. Here the happy couple resided till the spring of 1882, when they decided to move to Western Canada. They settled on the Red River, about sixty miles south of Winnipeg, near the little French town of St. Jean Baptiste. Here they engaged in farming for a period of ten years, but repeated frosts and hailstorms discouraged them so badly that they decided on farming and try ranching farther west. They therefore came east to Sheho during the fall of 1892, where they engaged in ranching till the spring of 1903 when they again moved to the creek-bank, south of Foam Lake in order to procure a better ranching site.

For the past two years the deceased has had very poor health, suffering greatly at times from heart trouble, and for the past few months she had been confined to her bed with no hope of recovery. Always patient and self-sacrificing in her home the long suffering with Christian fortitude and her last thoughts were for the welfare of her beloved family. She is survived by her husband and six children, Mrs. S. J. Wood, of Winnipeg, Mrs. Albert Haw, of Sheho, Edwin Claire, of Foam Lake, and Percy D. and Flossie, at home. The funeral, which took place on Saturday, was largely attended, and the many beautiful floral tributes show the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

"She was a tender mother here,
And left a little flock behind;
We know our loss will be her gain,
And that with Christ she has gone to reign."

OBITUARY.

Mr. Joseph Hambly, one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of North Fredericksburgh, died at his residence, on the north shore of Hay Bay, on Saturday, 6th inst., at the age of 72 years and 8 months. Mr. Hambly was born in England, and came out to Canada, with the rest of his father's family, when he was about 22 years of age. By his untiring industry he had secured a competency, and naturally looked forward to a few years of rest, but it was not so to be. Last March he suffered a paralytic stroke, and had since been comparatively helpless. On Tuesday, 2d inst., he had another stroke, and lingered until Saturday last, and then passed away. Mr. Hambly was an honest and upright man, and he will be much missed by his neighbors, being an obliging and helpful friend in any case of need. Deceased was a member of the Presbyterian Church, and held the office of elder in his church, and until lately superintendent of the Sabbath School. He leaves a widow and one son, John N. Hambly, at home; also two brothers, William and Matthew, of Michigan, and one sister, Mrs. Raysworth, of Bowmanville, Ont., to mourn the loss of a kind husband, father and brother. The funeral service was held at Sand Hill Presbyterian Church, Rev. Mr. Macdonald, of Napanee, his pastor, having charge of the service, and the remains were placed in the vault of Riverside cemetery, later to be buried in the family plot in the Sand Hill cemetery.

From London, England, to Napanee, for Linens

A lady who spent the summer abroad, paid our Linen Department a compliment the other day. After making the purchase from us, she informed us that "she had enquired for the same goods at the leading linen House of London, England, and did not find them." They did not know what they were. We know of twenty homes in Napanee that we have supplied with "Guest Towels."

THE NEW LINENS.

Lovers of beautiful Linen weaves will enjoy an inspection of the new fabrics here. Art weaves—pictures in flax. Many hand embroidered pieces showing exquisite needlework designs. And in most instances these linens come direct from source of supply to us—a fact that means lowest prices to you.

A Table of Odds and Ends

In Men's Furnishings . . . . 20 Per Cent. Reduction

We have some lots of Under wear that we have only left perhaps a few Shirts of one line, and a few drawers of another. All lots of Top Shirts, odd lots of Sweaters, odd lots of a great many different lines. These you will find out on a table in the centre of our Furnishing Store, and you will save 20 per cent. on every dollar's worth you buy.

Overcoats for Man, Youth or Child

Overcoats that are made right. Overcoats that will give the best wear. Overcoats that have the acme of style—and sold at prices that no one can do better. We quote you only the lowest price, we do not tack on a big price in order that we may trap you into a purchase—and then sell you for less. Your youngest child is as safe to buy here as you are—and our guarantee is broad and generous. Your money back if you are not satisfied. Children's Overcoats $2.50 to $7.50. Boys' Overcoats $3.50 to $12.00. Men's Overcoats $5.00 to $20.00.

Men's and Youths' Clothing and Furnishings

We have had our manufacturers make up a great many more garments than last year, because the Robinson Co. Clothing business is greater than ever, but it is the same up-right and down-right honest clothing that won your favor then and holds it now.

Woolens are scarce, tailors complain of slow delivery, that is honest goods are scarce. Our care as to securing honest wearing goods is well known, our care as to fabrics is no greater than our care to know that the fabrics are absolutely shrunk, that linings and stays are shrunk, that the tailoring is honest and thorough too. The cutting of the garments by our great supplying tailors brings to the work the best experts in the land.

New Overcoats and Suits for Men and Youths.

This week we have received some very handsome Overcoats and Suits in the better grades. Fit for a King. Style excellent, fit perfect, quality guaranteed. Prices $12.50 up to $20.00.

Specials in Boys' 3-piece Suits at $5.00 and $6.50

We have a large assortment of Worsteds, Tweeds and Serges at these prices; specials that you could not find elsewhere at the same money. We make a fad of these two prices, and endeavor to give you extraordinary value at these prices.

Boys' and Children's Overcoats

Our Boys' Coats are made with a style that is strictly up-to-date. The fabrics are of the kind that for the money will give the best wear. Children's Coats in pretty effects with smart buttons and trimmings. Prices from $2.50 to $7.00.

Boys' Coats, sizes 27 to 33.—Motor Coats with the straight lasting collar, made by The "Stanford Mfg. Co.", also Blue, Grey and Black Coats with velvet collar. Prices, $3.50 to $6.50. You cannot buy better Clothing for Boys, than "Sanfords".

Men's Reefers and Working Coats

No. 2359.—An all wool D. B. Grey heavy Frieze Reefer, lined with unbreakable tweed, extra warm and durable. Guaranteed to give satisfaction. Regularly sold at $7.50. Our Price, $6.50.

No. 4535.—An all wool D. B. Grey Frieze Reefer, storm collar, lined with heavy corduroy. All sizes, 36 to 42.

No. 3847.—Heavy Frieze Reefer, storm king collar, plaid lined. Special $4.00.

Jobs—Nine Reefers, principally large sizes, worth $3.00 to $4.00. Grey Union Frieze. Clearing Price, $2.50 each.

Again We Say it is Pure

TOO much stress cannot be laid upon the absolute purity and goodness of our Olive Oil. To illustrate how difficult it is to get really pure Olive Oil we quote from an address of Dr. Leon L. Watters, before the Chemical Section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"Pure Olive Oil was not to be had in the market, except from a few high class dealers. The amount of fraud practiced is directly proportioned to the safety of practising it. Nobody but the deliver in officials of nations knows anything about it. The consumer don't hear that he and he's oil is a fraud, and learn to refuse it at the grocery."

Try a bottle of Pure Imported Olive Oil. If you have, we warrant none are still using it. Its best friends are those who know it best, its cost is moderate.

For Reeve—Coun. Bertram.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach to stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the seat of ailing and treat of those organs", said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "muscle nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. This tired truth. Dr. Shoop's leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A 50c dose's test will surely tell! Sold by all dealers.

A Scientific Wonder.

THE SECRET OF A FAMOUS HEALING-BALM.

The re-discovery of a secret that has lain hidden in the dust of 20 centuries is an event full of fascinating interest, and the story of Zam-Buk, the world-famed first-aid and skin cure will always enlist attention. Zam-Buk is the virtual descendant of those wonderful and mysterious herbal balms by the use of which the manly athletes of Ancient Greece and the slatwart gladiators of Rome ensured the healthiness and ready-healing of their skin.

Many are the attempts that were made to produce a perfect balm for the skin, but only in Zam-Buk has the ideal been realized. Since its discovery Zam-Buk has been welcomed in mansion and cottage, and the people of two hemispheres realized that they have been placed in possession of an absolutely unique cure for skin complaints.

The reasons for this triumph of science are simple and few. Taking a lesson from the Ancients, the proprietors of Zam-Buk first of all wisely decided that the ideal balm must be purely herbal and contain not the slightest trace of rancid animal fats or poisonous minerals. Then Zam-Buk is made solely from rich and pure essences obtained from certain rare medicinal herbs. These juices and extracts are prepared and refined by ingenious scientific processes and then so skilfully blended that a unique, effective, and yet perfectly natural preparation for dispelling skin-illness is secured.

Zam-Buk has an affinity for the human skin such as no ordinary ointment or liniment can possibly possess. Besides soothing pain and allaying irritation, it possesses unique antiseptic and germicidal qualities which virtually chase disease germs out of their hiding-places in the skin tissues; at the same time it purifies the pores and invigorates the natural functions of the skin in a way that no other preparation can.

Zam-Buk solves in a perfect manner the problem of always having handy at home or at one's work an ever-ready and reliable first-aid for cuts, burns, scalds, bruises, lacerations, scratches, etc. Zam-Buk is without equal for eczema, ulcers, piles, bad leg, ringworm, scalp sores, festering sores, sprains, stiffness, poisoned wounds of all kinds, face sores, chafing, chapped hands, cold-sores, frost-bites, sore feet, diseased ankles, and all itching, irritation, and inflammation.

Zam-Buk is a daily need in every household and is sold by all druggists and stores at fifty cents a box. Refuse harmful and dangerous substitutes sometimes "pushed" as being "just as good."

Now is the Time to Build Up the System

To enable it to withstand the ravages of a Canadian winter, Cod Liver Oil is admitted by the cleverest medical men to be the best fortifier against colds, coughs, or to fort any disease of the lungs.

A good way to take it is in the form of Jessop's Tasteless Extract of Cod Liver Oil. This is a scientific preparation, in which all the disagreeable qualities of Cod Liver Oil have been eliminated, and at the same time the medicinal strength is retained. This is the most palatable of all Cod Liver Oil preparations, and if ever strength is needed to build up the system it is needed to do this. Our regular size bottles for 50c.

If you have not confidence in the Extract, use Jessop's Emulsion. It is more pleasant to take than the Extract. Emulsion made. Put up in 25c and 50c bottles.

FATHER 80-MOTHER 76

The aged father and mother of a prominent Boston lawyer safely carried through the last two winters by

Vinol

The son says: "My father and mother owe their present strength and good health to Vinol. During the last two trying winters neither of them had a cold, and were able to walk farther and do more than for years. I think Vinol is perfectly wonderful. It certainly is the greatest blood-making, strengthening tonic for old people I ever heard of."

We want every feeble old person in this town to try Vinol. We will return their money without question if it does not accomplish all we claim for it.

DANGEROUS DANDRUFF

WILL MAKE CANADA A BALD HEADED NATION IF NOT CHECKED.

M. Pasteur, the great French Physician of Paris, once said: "I believe we shall one day rid the world of all diseases caused by germs." Dandruff is caused by germs, a fact accepted by all physicians.

Dandruff is the root of all hair evils. If it were not for the little destructive germs working with a persistency worthy of a better cause, there would be no baldness.

Parisian Sage will kill the dandruff germs and remove dandruff in two weeks or money back.

T. B. Wallace guarantees it. It will stop itching scalp, falling hair and make the hair grow thick and abundant.

It puts life and lustre into the hair and prevents it from turning grey.

It is the hair dressing par excellence, daintily perfumed, and free from grease stickiness. It is the favorite with women of taste and culture who know the social value of fascinating hair.

A large bottle costs only 50 cents at leading druggists everywhere, and at Napanee by T. B. Wallace. Don't be a girl with the auburn hair is on every package.

"THE LILY AND THE PRINCE."

There were fair audiences at both performances at the Grand Opera House on Saturday to witness the presentation of "The Lily and The Prince." The students of this beautiful drama are laid in the early part of the sixteenth century, both Florence and Rome being the centres of the stirring events. Miss Ethel Barrymore in the leading role of "Angela," has ample opportunity to display her marked talent and cleverness. In the several acts she held the intense interest of the audience by the manner in which she carried out her part. She had good assistance. The costumes were rich and appropriate to the time. The stage settings were magnificent, especially the fountain in the garden scene and the impressive chamber in the Castle of San Angela at Rome.—Whig.

"The Lily and The Prince" will be at the Bijou Opera House, Napanee, on Monday evening, Nov. 15th. Popular prices, 25c., 50c., 75c.

A COW'S ACCOUNT.

Farmers, do you keep records? It is doubtful if there is any one thing that will add more to the interest of farm labor, or make its usefulness more apparent in shorter time than one simple method of figuring. For instance, supposing that mixed farming is followed: An answer is desired to the query: what pays best, sheep, poultry, fruit, cows, steers or grain? It may be found after a year's record that the farm is best adapted for dairying. Then will naturally follow the investigation, which cow pays best? This phase of the question has not yet appealed to all owners of dairy herds, but is, in truth, at the very foundation of profitable dairying. Every farmer is interested in cutting out all unprofitable features of his business. He wants to produce plenty of good milk at the least cost, and to this end dairy records are indispensable. Why? Simply because they enable the watchful owner to detect those cows that give the most milk and fat in proportion to the feed consumed. Which cows will respond to a little extra grain? Which cow can I least afford to sell? Are any in my herd not paying? Will it pay me to get a good purebred sire? The dairyman needs to know such points definitely, hence he must keep records of feed and milk. Forms are supplied free on application to the Dairy Commissioner, Ottawa.

Baby's Own Tablets A Little Life Saver.

There is no other medicine for little ones as safe as Baby's Own Tablets, or so sure, in its beneficial effects. These Tablets speedily cure stomach and bowel troubles, destroy worms, break up colds, thus preventing deadly croup, allay simple fevers, and bring the little teeth through painlessly. Mrs. C. A. Weaver, Saskatchewan Landing, Sask., says: "I have Baby's Own Tablets for my little one in cases of colds, stomach and bowel troubles, and other minor ailments and have never known them to fail in speedily restoring the child's health. I think there is no medicine for babies like the Tablets." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEW BOOKS IN THE LIBRARY.

The Home of the Soul, by Rev. Charles Wagner, (author of The Simple Life).—This is the first volume issued by Mr. Wagner since he departed from his Alsatian home to become Paris as institution for religious culture, which he called "The Home of the Soul."

Tuberculosis, by S. Adolphus Knopf, M.D. This book is written by one of the well known authorities on tuberculosis, to show that consumption is now positively known to be curable, and to help all people to enter into a world campaign for its suppression.

Science and Immortality, by Sir Oliver Lodge.—It will fascinate those who take pleasure in thoughtful reading. There is not a dull line in it.

The Calling of Dan Matthews.—This is a great book. It will repay the careful and honest reader quite as good a book for the layman as the priest.

Principles of the Good Intent.—A story with an excellent moral. All people like to get a bit sentimental, and as there are still people like a long quiet story, this ought to suit them very well.

Dan Merrithew, by Ralph Marden.—A gun every man and every boy should read, and if they begin it they will be compelled to read it it grips you.

The Bible and Modern Thought.—Those who were interested in the lecture of Dr. Lasell in the Hall last year, or were unable to hear him, will find this book will have a peculiar value, as it treats on the same subjects. Every thoughtful man will make details, making it a very valuable volume.

The Serpent Book.—This handsome volume is one of the latest nature series to be issued. It is handsomely illustrated and will be a great demand by the boys and girls, who will be able, through the information to be gathered from it, to distinguish the different members of the reptile species and learn their habits and peculiarities. And it is to be hoped that instead of regarding every snake and turtle as dangerous, and ruthlessly despatched regardless of its innocence, our young people may see something both interesting and good in these despised creatures.

Trust is King, a story of Gunnatack, by George Barr McCutcheon, Trustee, is a very humorous, good natured and young story, full of fun, mischief, love, romance and adventure, and finding those ends in the happy marriage of two young people to happen with a much character-ized Scotch gentleman.

The Danger Mark, by Robert W. Chambers.—Here is a story of the present time, part of the artificialities of New York society, but a girl, who, in spite of her artificial fortune, who find that a romance is not necessarily confined to the poor. Her romance contains inherited instincts for real, healthy love. The hero of the story, John Steele is smooth contented of a quiet home and domestic happiness, but he is not. But when an opportunity comes he wakes and triumphs over all. The scene is laid in the place where he could not be and is full of interest.

British Cycling, by Joseph F. Connolly, author of "Fifty Years of Road Racing," and "Captain Eric" and other Yarns.—Cycling is a sport which is so universally known and popular that it is hardly necessary to say that this book is a most interesting one. Northern Lights, by Sir Gilbert Parker, is a story of Canada, and the scene is laid in the characters are French Canadian, English, American and Canadian. The story they might as well be entitled the struggle of the Right and Wrong in the heart of a people, as the hero, Pierre Le Noir, Baptiste Wright. The author has taken for the historical background of her love romance the rebellion of 1837. The passing generation Popes is the daughter of a Scotch Highland chief, and her book tells of her romantic love. The Man of the Hour, by Richard Harding Davis, is a tale of the Franco-Prussian War in the year 1871. The fortunes of two young Americans furnishes the background for the story, which gives a delightful picture of social family life, even in the stirring scenes of war.

The Turkish Government will advise the expenditure of $1,000,000,000 on a varied programme within seven years.

If Sick

Don't risk even one single penny!

And I will tell you why I say this.

It is because every package of Dr. Shoop's medicine is absolutely free if it fails.

No one need risk even one single penny.

Just think what this means to the suffering sick!

No risk, no promise, nothing whatever unless health follows. Not for 30 days, and without the risk of a penny. Not even the risk of my word. Ask your druggist about Dr. Shoop's Restorative or Dr. Shoop's Prescription.

Then why take any chances whatever?

Why purchase any medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

And besides, I am no stranger to you.

In the last twenty years Dr. Shoop's Restorative has become thoroughly established all over America.

And I have learned the real reasons why the multitudes of Restorative users in village, everywhere, so urgently and persistently demand the selected druggist's supply of medicines with the sick—and that's the only one in those towns.

But write me first for an order.

I have yet a great health secret very common in—but all druggists are not authorized to grant the special test.

Postdrop me a line, please—and thus save all disappointments and delays.

Remember, you are free to consult me by letter as you would your home physician. Free, too, and fully—if you desire. My advice and the book below are yours for the asking. Don't delay a day. A word or two from you will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands this way.

Get my private prescription or personal advice plan.

Besides, the books will explain up new and helpful ideas to you. They tell of my 20 years experience at the sick. Of my methods and reasons. All phases of health are explained in Heart, Stomach, Kidney and Nerve troubles. Also rheumatism, no larger than a silver dollar, that gives the Heart its trouble. How the Stomach is put right, such have their inside or power nerves. How Constipation simply fades when these nerves or master nerves begin to fail. How Dr. Shoop's Restorative acts to bring lasting health, power and rebuild. And how it restores the last spark of nerve force. All explained fully—and in the within the power of medicine to do so. My best effort is surely worth a postdrop to me, so write now, while it is fresh in mind, for tomorrow you may forget. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

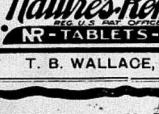
The "Hecla" Furnace



And The Steel Ribbed Firepots

The greater the radiating surface of the firepot, the greater the heat obtained from the fuel.

In most furnaces, the firepots are made with castiron flanges or points, to increase the radiating surface. Being castiron, these flanges take up so much space that only a few can be used.

In the "Hecla" Furnace we use steel ribs instead of castiron flanges. By applying our Patented Fused Joint Idea, we are able to fuse 97 steel ribs into the Firepot in the same space where before we were able to cast only 17 iron ones.

This gives the "Hecla" three times the radiating surface of any other firepot—and effects a saving of from ¼ to ⅓ in fuel, as proved by a three year's test.

This is only one of the many features that are exclusives with "Hecla" Furnaces. They are all described in our new catalogue which we send free on request. Write for a copy.

MACDONALD.

Quarterly service on Sunday was well attended at Hay Bay. Also the joint Sunday School meeting at Gretna in the evening.—Ploughing and other fall work is about through, and deer and duck hunting is the order. Quite a number of ducks on the bay this year.—Cottage prayer meetings on Thursday evenings are largely attended.—On Friday evening last before Mr. and Mrs. James Keech moved a number of their many friends wended their way to their home with a surprise party, and a very enjoyable evening was spent. At the close, Mr. C. Hawley, on behalf of the company presented them with a very handsome centre table and carving set, and an address, to which Mr. Keech, although taken by surprise, made a very nice reply. All join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Keech every success in their new home.

The many friends of Mrs. Laugh thought they could not let her leave our midst without expressing in some small measure their esteem and regret at her leaving us. Accordingly about sixty of their numerous friend met at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. John Bartley, and presented them with a kitchen shower, many useful things being given, following is a list of some of them:—

Mr. and Mrs. Goodman, roasting pan; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Clark, potato ricer; Mr. and Mrs. Blake Hayden, frying pan, agate spoon and flour sieve; Mr. and Mrs. John Galt, nickle tea pot; Mr. and Mrs. C. Hawley, vegetable strainer; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Richardson, celery dish; Mrs. S. Miller, cake basket; Mr. and Mrs. J. Martin, coffee can, dipper and cake dish; Mrs. Goodfellow, jelly tins; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bedell, set of bread pans; Mr. and Mrs. Guy Keech, a vase; Mr. and Mrs. W. Dingman, flour and potato holder and tea pot stand; Mrs. W. R. Miller, ball dozen knives and forks; Mr. and Mrs. W. Crawshaw, pair of towels; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Keech, square cake dish and fancy pastry pans; Mr. and Mrs. G. Wilson, tea pot; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hicks, bread pan; Mrs. Bert Miller, fancy comb case; Mrs. W. J. Dingman, sauce pan; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Disfiguring, Torturing Skin Trouble.

Cannot be Cured by Salves and Ointments—The Blood Must be Purified.

A blemished skin, irritating sores, pimples, eczema, salt rheum and other skin disorders are all signals of distress, telling that your blood is impure or weak. You cannot cure eczema and other skin troubles with ointments and outward applications. These things may give temporary relief, but cannot cure, because the trouble is rooted in the blood and can only be removed by purifying and enriching the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills speedily cure skin troubles because they enrich, purify and build up the impoverished blood that caused the trouble. As they feed and cleanse the blood the skin grows fair, the blood-wed health returns and new strength is found. No other medicine has ever had such wonderful results in curing all diseases due to bad blood. Miss Elizabeth Gillis, Kensington, P.E.I. says:—"Words can hardly express how grateful I feel for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. For seven years before I began their use I was troubled with salt rheum. My hands and arms were nearly always a mass of torturing cracks and sores. I tried several doctors and spent a great deal of money without getting any benefit. Indeed my hands seemed to be getting worse all the time. Finally my brother persuaded me to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial and I am happy to say they have completely cured me. I used in all seven boxes, and I would not be without them in a case of this kind if they cost five dollars a box instead of fifty cents. I hope my experience will be of benefit to some other sufferer from skin trouble."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE NOVEMBER ROD AND GUN.

While notable for the variety and range of its contents, the November number of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, at Woodstock, Ont., in accordance with the season has no less than seven hunting stories. In addition to the opening one, descriptive of an official visit to the Indian reserves for the purpose of paying the treaty money, will attract much attention. An account of a Trip to Nipigon, after an absence of twenty-eight years, contrasting conditions then and now, brings forcibly before the readers the advances made in Canada in the last quarter of a century. A Winter's trip through the Algonquin Park, the great National play ground of Ontario, by the Superintendent, shows how well the public interests are guarded by those in charge.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

THE POPE HAS A PIANOLA.

In his apartments in the Vatican the Pope has a piano and a pianola. There are innovations. In communion he finds spiritual relief and solace from the weighty cares under which he struggles. He has always been particularly fond of his own favorite organist to St. Peter's, a man for whose education he himself paid, the late Abbe Perosi. The world knows well that it was the present Pope who restored to the Roman Catholic Church the old Tyrgorian music, which of recent generations had fallen somewhat into disuse. Pianola music is also a favorite instrument of the Pope, and in his younger days he even conducted a considerable number of the how.—The Delineator for December.

BARDOLPH.

Mr. Editor, it is a long time since you have heard from this quiet little place. We are beginning to think we are, somehow, in pace with the times since we have the daily mail, which seems very much appreciated by everyone. But we do not get through the mail yet over the telephone, which is giving good satisfaction between Bath and Odessa and Enterprise, but we are still in the dark. Mrs. Keech, one evening last week, before she moved away, by taking possession of their home for the evening. They were cordially received, and spent a very enjoyable evening. Before leaving for their respective homes, Rev. and Mrs. Keech were called to the front and a short address given.

To Mr. and Mrs. Keech:—

We, your neighbors and friends, feel that we cannot let you leave us without giving you a token of the esteem in which you are held, and we take great pleasure in presenting you with this centre table and carving set. We trust you will appreciate them, not for their intrinsic value, but as a token of regard, and we hope if ever you have occasion to move again that the same good feeling prevail with neighbors and friends that prevails here to-night.

Signed in behalf of the neighbors and friends.

After which Mr. Keech replied in a few well chosen words, thanking them for their kindness and expressing regret on leaving to leave.

CHAMBERS.

Well, Mr. Editor, it is some time since you have heard from our little hamlet.—Nearly all of our sports are enjoying a holiday in the north country.—A hallowe'en party at Mr. E. Young's, on 1st Nov. was largely attended. Masquerade costumes were worn. All report an enjoyable time.—Mrs. Garrison is visiting relatives at Moscow.—Mrs. Peter Laughlin, Bethany, spent a few days in our midst. Song service was largely attended on Sunday evening, at the Lutheran church. Some fine selections were given by the choir.—Mr. and Mrs. Lake Young, and children spent Sunday with his brother at Sandhurst.—Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, Hawley, spent Sunday with his brother here.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Joyce and children, of Desoronto, spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. T. Chambers.—Miss Gertie Baker returned to her home here from Port Union.—Come one, come all, to our teameeting on 19th Nov., in Lather church. Particulars later!—Mr. Harry Woodruff is doing a rushing business in his new mill.

KALADAR.

Our ideal weather for hunting is becoming more obstreperous.—Friday we had snow, Monday we were treated to a little puree, in the shape of a down pour.—Everything is very quiet here, and silence reigns supreme since the habitants went north.—Mr. Limerick Thompson, of Webbwood, is expected home Monday. His father says he has been suffering for some time from fractured nerves.—Amongst the hunters here are a couple of sports from the front, whom we have had the pleasure to meet. They are protecting their own appetites in tomato soup. Camp Chief cook Oswald and fireman Kennedy and chambermaid Peters arrived at the above camp on Oct. 28th. Oct. 28th, fireman Kennedy took to himself a stroll in the woods and returned with a fatted porcupine, which made a good potash kettleful for the whole camp. Chambermaid Peters has been under the chief's care for two days.—Fireman Kennedy made a trip to Elm Tree, and there traded his backing horse for a gun and mare. Chambermaid Peters is cleaning his frontir daily and pushing him in order to meet coming fall assizes.—No doubt there will be something doing, and when the Tomato Camp cannon roars every one blesses himself and eries for more ammunition. You might think it was Peter Oswald Kennedy, or Oswald Peter Kennedy, or Kennedy Peter Oswald. Just in honor of Tomato camp, Oswald, Peter and Kennedy.

NEILSON'S CHOCOLATES AGAIN.

These Chocolates are so far superior to any other Chocolates ever sold in Napanee that we would like everyone to try them. Have you tried their Chocolate Almonds yet? Sold only at Wallace's Drug Store.

JUST BEFORE THE SPANKING.

"Pop, does a chicken come from an egg?"

"Yes, my son."

"And does an egg come from a chicken?"

"Yes."

"Well, if a chicken comes from an egg, and an egg comes from a chicken, which—"

"Now, see here. If you are going to prolong this line of thought you can go right to bed."

"But, pop!"

"Well, what?"

"How does a chicken come from an egg?"

"Oh, any hen can sit on an egg and hatch it."

"Gee! I'm glad I ain't a hen. It must hurt to sit on a hatchet!"

Women's Woes.

NAPANEE WOMEN ARE FINDING RELIEF AT LAST.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up"—must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, tearing-down pains; they must stoop over when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many others from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know.

"For over four years I had suffered with many annoying kidney symptoms and backache. I tried every possible remedy or relief but could find nothing to help me. The kidneys were so disordered that I would have to get up as often as half a dozen times each night with the frequency of the kidney secretions. My back was constantly aching and very odorous. My general health was run down, work was a burden and I grew weaker more tired and nervous than on account of my kidneys. Finally I took the advice of a friend and procured them at Wallace's Drug Store. Before I had taken them all my health began to improve. I felt stronger than for years, my kidneys were in good shape and I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers."

DON'T CODDLE YOUR BOY.

Indulgence by Overfond Parents Often Cause a Ruin.

Many parents who think they love their children are in reality their greatest enemies. They bring out the worst that is in them because they appeal to the worst, comments a writer in Success. They appeal to all that is frail, weak, timid and unlovable in their nature, by catering to their selfishness, indulging every whim—no matter how unreasonable or vicious—by doing everything for them instead of allowing them to do things for themselves and thus strengthen their faculties and power of self-reliance.

They are allowed to stay at home from school when they "play" sick, as so many children do, and are petted and coddled and fussed over, when there is really nothing the matter with them. If they fall or hurt themselves they are sympathized with and encouraged to cry, by expressions of pity, instead of being taught to bear a little pain or hurt bravely and manfully and not whimper like a weakling.

In a hundred such ways weak, foolish parents cultivate the selfishness of their children, until they become unbearable; they destroy their courage and self-reliance, make cowards and weaklings of them, and prepare the way for their destruction.

Many men and women have lived to blame in bitterness of heart the weak, criminal indulgence of overfond parents, who were the primal cause of their ruin.

To not do for your children what they ought to do for themselves, but help them to help themselves. Do not allow them to trample on the rights of others in order to gratify their selfish desires. Show them the beauty of the Golden Rule, and insist upon their practicing it in their games with their playmates and with other people. Teach them to respect the rights of others, and do not forget that they also have rights which should be respected.

The Canadian Northern Railway have floated five million dollars of bonds in London and will use the money in adding to their railway line.

TO KILL RATS AND MICE.

Rats and mice are always detested. They are not only filthy but are carriers of disease germs as well as being very destructive. You can rid your premises of them for 15 cents. Ask how at Wallace's Drug Store.

AFTER SUFFERING TEN YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MARLTON, N.J.—"I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has given me new life. I suffered for ten years with serious female troubles, inflammation, ulceration, indigestion, nervousness, and could not sleep. Doctors gave me up, as they said my troubles were chronic. I was in despair, and did not care whether I lived or died, when I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so I began to take it, and am well again and relieved of all my suffering."—Mrs. GEORGE JORDY, Box 40, Marlton, N.J.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousandsof voluntary testimonials sam on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass. Women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

AN INFLUENCE FOR GOOD.

In every home possessing a copy of "The Soul's Awakening" the picture will have an inspiring influence. One never tires of looking at it. It has something in it that appeals to the soul and from which one cannot turn away. Parents should see that this picture finds a place in their homes. The family will be the better of it. The Publishers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal certainly deserve credit for placing such a beautiful picture within the reach of all. It is 19x24 inches ready for framing, and is given absolutely free to every person subscribing to that great weekly, the best on the continent and only one dollar a year. No time should be lost in ordering that paper and making sure of a copy of the picture. It is certainly a charming subject for any home. 46a

DOYLE—McDONALD.

The marriage took place quietly on Wednesday, Oct. 20th, at St. Patrick's R. C. Church, Napanee, of Miss Nellie McDonald, Bath, to Mr. Thos. P. Doyle, of Forest Mills, Rev. Father O'Connor officiating. The bride was becomingly attired in her travelling suit of navy blue with hat to match and sable furs, her only ornament being a handsome gold cross and chain set in pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Mamie McDonald, also in navy blue, while Mr. D. J. McHenry performed the duties for the bridegroom. After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the Campbell House, after which Mr. and Mrs. Doyle left on the 1.17 train for London, and other western points. On their return they will take up their residence at Forest Mills. Their many friends join in wishing them every happiness.

COUNTY DEBENTURE SOLD.

The $18,000.00 County Debenture, which the County Council authorized to be issued at the last sitting, at 4½ per cent., payable in twenty years, was sold on Wednesday to the Merchants Bank of Canada for $18,050.00, $50.00 premium on the par value of the Bond and the accumulated interest from the Second day of November, 1908. Considering the state of the money market and the fact that the rate of interest is increasing and that recently City Debentures of the City of Kingston sold at 4?, the Finance Committee of the County, of which Mr. M. Ryan is Chairman, should be congratulated on the excellent sale they have made of the County Debenture, it being the best sale that has been made for many years in the County or Town and shows the high financial credit that the County is justly entitled to. The Committee making the sale will start driving the debenture or placing it with the bands of Brokers, has saved a large amount of expense for the County. The County debt on the 1st of January will be reduced to $30,000.00, with the addition of the $18,000.00 debenture just issued, will make the whole County debt $56,000.00.

The Tailor, Newburgh.

NEWBURGH.

On Friday evening last, through the kindness of Mrs. C. H. Finkle, a number of her friends met Mr. W. S. Herrington of Napanee at her home for an evening with Shakespeare. Needless to say the evening was very pleasantly spent. The object in view was the formation of a Shakespeare Club, and this preliminary evening was given to an interpretation by Mr. Herrington of a number of Shakespeare's characters, from four of his best known plays. At the close of the reading it was decided to form a Club with Miss A. R. Grose, of the High School staff, as leader, and the next meeting will be held at Mr. Finkle's, on Friday night of this week, when Mr. Herrington will again be present to give the class a start.

Another very interesting literary evening was that given by the choir and League last week, under the direction of Miss Pearl Nesbitt, leader of the choir. Rev. Mr. Seymour presided and introduced a splendid programme. The two chief literary numbers were an essay by Miss Grose on Tennyson's treatment of woman, and an address by Mr. D. A. Nesbitt, in which he compared Tennyson and Browning. Miss Grose made a most admirable presentation of her subject, showing how supreme a place the great Victorian poet gave to the influence of pure womanhood. The musical part of the programme comprised instrumental solos by Misses Nesbitt, Hanna and Scriver, an instrumental duett by Miss Nesbitt and Mr. Edgar Seaxsmith, a vocal solo by Mr. Percy Nesbitt, a vocal trio by Mrs. G. H. Thomson, Miss Brisco and Mr. Percy Nesbitt, and a chorus by the choir, "Crossing the Bar." The whole formed a most enjoyable entertainment.

Are you in need of Xmas gifts? Then attend the Bazaar to be given by the Woman's Guild of St. John's church on Dec. 15th. Any number of suitable gifts of all kinds will be on sale.

Mrs. Williams, of Camden East, music teacher, has arranged a recital to be given by her piano pupils in Finkle's Hall, on Saturday afternoon of this week at 1.30. The public are invited.

Miss Hannah Paul, missionary in the Crosby Girls' Home at Port Simpson, B.C., gave a very interesting talk to the Epworth League on Monday night on her work among the Indians. A reception was held last week in honor of Miss Paul by the ladies of the W. M. S. here, at the home of Mrs. A. M. Denyes.

ENTERPRISE.

The annual Christmas tree under the auspices of the Methodist Sunday School will be given on Wednesday evening, Dec. 22d.—Mr. and Mrs. P. Kellar have been spending a number of days at his brother's, Mr. H. Kellar.—D. A. Nesbitt, I.P.S., paid an official visit to our school on Wednesday of last week.—Mrs. Thomas, of the late Mrs. Kenny passed through here on Wednesday to Camden cemetery.—On Nov. 28th, a bazaar will be held in the basement of the Anglican church. In the evening an entertainment will be given. Admission, 15c and 10c.—Mrs. A. E. Macdonald's fall sale in millinery begins to-morrow. A large number of dress hats, etc., have been prepared for this sale. Call and see for yourself the bargains to be had in up-to-date millinery.

The work on Mr. A. Walker's new store is progressing favorably, and when completed will be one of the finest stores in town.—Miss. Edna Clark has returned to her home in Frankford, having spent the summer with her sister, Mrs. W. S. Fenwick.—Miss Ada Storms spent Sunday the guest of Miss Nellie Bell.—Mr. J. Waters has moved into the house lately owned by Mrs. Josie Horan, deceased.—Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Bell have moved in our midst.—We have been enjoying ideal autumn weather for the past few weeks.—Mr. T. Kenny has returned from his trip to New Ontario.—Mrs. Sparks is confined to her bed suffering from an uncurable disease.—Dr. and Mrs. Kennedy are the guests of their daughter, Mrs. G. M. Dean.—Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell Lockwood spent Sunday with her father, at his home near Selby.—The Woman's Guild of St. John's church purpose holding their annual at home and bazaar in the basement of the church, on Wednesday, Nov. 24th. In the evening a good programme will be given and refreshments served. Admission 10 cents and 15 cents. Everybody welcome. Come and get your Xmas gifts. Everything in the line of Xmas novelties. Proceeds in aid of the new church fund.

BATH.

One of our oldest residents passed away on Saturday last, Mrs. Mary Johnson, who was stricken down with paralysis a few days before, and never recovered consciousness. The deceased was well known and the sympathy of every one is extended to the family. She left one daughter, Mrs. H. F. Forward, of Bellville, and two sons, Thomas, of New York City, and Joseph, at home. The funeral services were held in St. John's church, by Rev. A. L. Tear, on Tuesday morning, after which interment took place.—Mrs. F. K. Baker and daughter Florence of Guelph, are visiting at Mr. Max Robinson's.—Mrs. John Bain and daughter, of Kingston, visited at Thos. Bain's, for a few days this week.—Miss Bridgs, of Napanee, is visiting at Miss Aylesworth's.—The str. Alexandria made her last trip this week.—Mr. Deacon, of Bellrville, is visiting at Mr. D. T. Rowse's.

The fire in the St. Paul mine at Cherry, Ill., is burning as fiercely as ever.

In a speech at Manchester, Mr. Arthur J. Balfour declared that tariff reform was the only practical alternative to the present budget.

Welcome to the New Bridge.

ERECTED NOVEMBER, 1909.

As time goes by old things wear out,
And new ones take their place,
That seems the way of all the earth
As well's the human race.

While travelling up to Napanee
And over Roblin's ridge,
I miss the land-mark of my youth
The time-worn Covered Bridge.

'Tis but the way of mortal man,
When usefulness is past,
We're doctored, nourished and kept up,
Then ground to dust at last.

I greet your son with out-stretched hand,
The sturdy, solid youth;
But not with pleasure like thyself,
I say with sober truth.

Long may he stand, majestic, grand,
Substantial, towering o'er
The rolling flood, for public good,
And reach from shore to shore.

My wishes all are for your good,
May nought your mission foil
For ages, when my weary soul
Has shed this mortal coil.

—J. FRANK ROSEBURGH.

CAMDEN EAST.

We are having excellent weather now. Surely the farmers will not complain, but rejoice, for they will be able to get their ploughing done without any trouble.

A. Ahkenbrack is building a fine barn on his lot purchased from Mr. J. Robinson.

Mr. J. Judge has purchased the mill property, and we are glad to hear he is going to put the mill in first class shape. He will build a new dam, put in a new water wheel and a first class cranker. We wish him success. How much better it would be for our village if we had more such men.

Miss Sproule is still improving in her house.

Mr. Anderson moved here Saturday with the stone crusher to fix up the road south of the village. It will be an improvement.

We are glad to welcome some of our former citizens to our village. Mr. and Mrs. John Saul and two daughters, of Winnipeg, also Mrs. Marselle, nee Edith Calder, of Winnipeg. They are visiting friends in Camden East.

The repairs to the Methodist church taken in hand by the ladies, are progressing fine, and the committee haven't given the job over to the men of the church as your correspondent stated last week, but they are going to see that the work is done in first class shape, so that it will be a credit to the community. We wish them success.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Pringle at Mr. I. H. Hartman's, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lesby Skinner at Tamworth last Sunday.

W. Saul shot a fine fox last week.

Geo. Babcock came home on Saturday night with a fine deer.

We think it would be a wise move if our trustees would call a special meeting of the ratepayers of this school section, and see if one teacher would be sufficient to teach all the scholars we have at the present time. Surely something ought to be done to lower our taxes. Our taxes are very high this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Sperry Shibley, of Milton, at Mr. I. H. Hartman's, on Sunday.

Mrs. A. Amey is quite smart again after a number of months.

A number of ranges have been sold in this locality this fall.

Miss Smith is not much better at time of writing.

It is time the officials of the Methodist church took some steps towards stopping young men talking, laughing and even smoking in the House of God. Not in the main body of the church, but they congregate in the anti room and on the front steps and are a hindrance to those inside. I understand their names have been taken, and we do hope if they are not men enough to stop this rowdyism that they will be brought before a magistrate and have to answer for their evil doing. It's a shame the way some of these parties make a practice on Sunday nights of running horses through our streets, and not one has had the bone enough in him to put a stop to it. Just let us make an example of them for once.

Rev. Mr. Boyce will preach in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening, Nov. 21st.

VIOLET.

The rural telephone is being accomplished with great rapidity in this locality.—A large number from Violet gathered at the home of Mr. Geo. Robson, on Thursday evening, to bid them farewell, as they intend moving to Napanee.—Look ahead for the pie social to be held in the Violet Methodist church, on Wednesday evening, Nov. 24th. Addresses will be given by Rev. R. A. Whattam, of Woodville, and Rev. W. S. P. Boyce, of Milton. The music will be furnished by Napanee talent. Also an American phonograph will give some good selections. Abundance of pie and coffee. Admission 15 cents. Full ploughing is nearly all completed.—Mrs. C. A. Robinson has returned home, after spending a few weeks visiting her mother, Mrs. Wm. Bryers.

The Nicaraguan insurgents have seized the Dictator, a Norwegian fruit steamer, and pressed it into their service.

CENTREVILLE.

Quarterly service in the Methodist church on Sunday morning was very well attended.—Our teacher, Miss. F. Patterson, spent Sunday with her parents at Moscow.—Miss Florence McGill visited her parents here on Sunday.—A few of the youngsters from here took in the dance and husking at Mr. D. McGregor's, on Friday evening, and report a swell time.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hawley and Mr. and Mrs. Bingley Clancy and little daughter spent Sunday at Mr. Fred Milligan's.—Mr. Sparry Close and Harold Galbraith called at Mrs. Fairbairn's, on Sunday evening.—Mr. and Mrs. F. Green spent Sunday at Mr. Noble McGill's.—Visitors: Mr. and Mrs. James Henderson at Mr. M. C. Wagar's.—Mr. and Mrs. Alcombrack at T. E. McGill's.—Mr. Stuart Close and Harold Galbraith at A. N. Lapum's.—Mr. Bert Loft's bead at J. Weese's, and Mr. Will Hinchey at home.

WESTBROOK.

D. J. Birmington, Cataraqui, and A. Croy, Kingston, accompanied on Saturday last by Mr. and Mrs. Smith and E. Bell on a hunting expedition.—Sympathy is extended to Mr. Sperry Burt in his loss by lightning of four fine cows. The Ladies' Auxiliary meeting was held at Mrs. J. A. Sproule's, on Wednesday of last week.—Miss Florence Smith spent the week-end in the lime stone city, the guest of Miss Edith Graves.—Mrs. R. Finnigan, Parrott's Bay, spent last week with Mrs. J. O. Finnigan.—George Gates is on an extended trip, deer hunting in the bark countries.—Miss Myrtle Stevens spent Saturday and Sunday with Miss Edith Redden.—Miss Edith Saunderscock and Mrs. H. E. Smith recently visited Mrs. Shane.—Mr. H. Rose with Mrs. Maggie Kenny, on Bertie Kimmerly.—Miss Edith Saunderscock and Miss Katie Sheehan with Miss Jennie Howie, on Friday afternoon.

NORTHBROOK.

Everything is quiet here, and hunting reports are somewhat slim since the season is over. Yesterday and to-day the sports from the front have been returning home with game, but not with laden wagons, showing they were not unsuccessful.—We are very sorry to say Ed Armstrong and Leslie Storey are both ill with typhoid fever. We hope for a speedy recovery.—Mr. Cephas Bell, of Enterprise, returned to his home on Monday, after spending the past week at W. B. Cade's.—Our school is progressing favorably, under the management of Miss Mae Flinn.—Mr. Lou Turner was successful in shooting a bear last week. It would be well if the hunters since deer hunting is over would turn in and hunt bear, as there has been a great number of bears killed in this vicinity lately.—Miss Eva Bleecker was the guest of Miss May Bosely, last week.—Miss Bertie Kimmerly called on Miss Florence Cade on Friday last.—The Misses Florence and Delma Cade spent Sunday afternoon the guests of Miss May Mulvihill.—Rumor says a wedding soon. I wonder who?

CANAAN.

Mr. George Spratt made a flying trip through here on Sunday evening.—Mr. Allan King spent Tuesday afternoon at Geo. Black's.—Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. G. Black visited Mrs. Isaac Oderkirk, on Thursday.—Mr. John L. Sullivan, of Felton, N.Y., intends leaving for his home this week, after visiting Mrs. Isaac Oderkirk, for a few weeks.—The hunting season is over, and a few "deas" have been caught.—A number of teams are engaged hauling iron ore from Mr. Burns' mine to Enterprise.—Mrs. Myrtle Storring is spending a week visiting friends in Parham.—Mrs. Isaac Oderkirv and Mesars. Irvine Wells, John L. Sullivan, Earle Oderkirk, Silas Wells and Ashley Spratt took tea and spent Friday evening at Mr. Geo. Black's.—Mrs. S. Shannon and granddaughter, Miss Annie, spent a few days the guests of Mrs. W. Carroll.—Miss Annie Shannon and Mr. Earle Oderkirk at Mr. Geo. Black's, on Sunday.—Mr. Harvey Cronk visited at Mr. Geo. Black's, on Friday and Saturday.—Miss Tessy Milligan spent Saturday and Sunday, visiting with friends at Tamworth East.

DESERONTO.

What might have been a serious accident occurred one day last week. A horse belonging to one of the local butchers, a very high spirited animal, while being driven rapidly along Thomas st., the wheel of the vehicle came off and let the wagon drop in the street. Fortunately the John was an adept horseman and stuck to his seat and reins, and stopped the horse before much damage was done. He stabled the horse in Mellow's blacksmith shop and started on a hunt for the missing wheel.

The str. Jeska cleared on Friday last for Oswego laden with lumber consigned to E. W. Rathbun & Co.

Collector Valleau was in Picton on business one day last week.

James McVicker has resumed the proprietorship of the Deseronto House, having purchased the interests of the Stewart Bros.

Mrs. John Murphy, of Read, is a visitor at her aunt's, Mrs. Ed. McKenny, Brant st.

Mr. Fred Whiting has accepted a good position in one of the leading drug stores in Toronto.

Percy Armitage has accepted a position in the Bank of Commerce, and is now in the Branch at Toronto Junction.

Clem. Graves is now numbered as one of the staff of the Bank of Toronto, situated at Harrietsmith.

Deseronto is turning out a number of bankers and there is more to come as it is rumored there are a number of aspirants.

Mr. Fred D. Frost was in Belleville last week on business.

Thos. Hart, who is in the employ of the Department of Railways and Canals, spent Sunday at his home on Thomas st., and left again on the mid-night train for Washburn, where he is stationed at present.

F. Armitage was in Toronto last week. Semi-ready trip, business and pleasure.

The Grand Trunk Railway Company has their president a prayer by proxy. There are some presidents being voted bouquets by the dozen.

The fire alarm sounded for a small blaze on Brant st. in Mrs. McNeil's residence, caused by defective pipes. It was extinguished before any damage was done.

Mr. Wm. Harvey has returned from Cobalt.

Mrs. T. Cauchlin, of Port Arthur, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ed. Gaulin, Green street.

Sam. Allen, the popular liverman, suffered the loss of a very valuable horse on Tuesday.

Mr. Jas. Booth has nearly completed a new brick house for Mr. R. Smith, near Shannonville.

A large number from here intend taking in the Freeman's Ball in Bellville on Wednesday, which promises to excel all the excellent gatherings of this Association which are held annually.

The ladies of the Methodist church give their annual Tea on Thursday evening of next week. Nov. 25th. A splendid programme will be submitted after the tea.

A MAGISTRATE'S EVIDENCE IN FAVOR OF ZAM-BUK

MR. PERRY JP

Zam-Buk wins favor where ever tried! The Magistrate whose words are quoted below tried it thoroughly and now tells the result. If you suffer from any skin disease or injury mark well his words!

The Pavilion, Cold Fields, B.C.

After a very fair trial I have proved Zam-Buk eminently satisfactory. I cured me of a claim of five years standing which no doctor had been able to do any good for. I do certainly encourage any person to keep Zam-Buk in their homes. It truly does more than you claim for it. Yours very truly,

ROGER P. PERRY, Justice of Peace for B.C.

Chronic Sore Quite Healed.

Mrs. M. A. Harris of 59 Chestnut St., St. Thomas, Ont., says:—"My husband had a running sore on his ankle for about two months. Zam-Buk showed satisfactory results from the first application (although other salves had failed), cleaning and healing the open wound. We have also found Zam-Buk unequalled for Cuts, Burns, Sores, etc., and have great confidence in recommending it to others."

ZAM-BUK CURES eczema, ringworm, scalp sores, chronic sores, abscesses, ulcers, chronic sores or open wounds, barber's rash, blood poisoning, cold sores, cracked hands, cuts, scalds, salt rheum and all skin injuries and diseases. It is also a sure cure for piles.

FREE BOX

Mail this coupon to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, send 1c stamp and we will forward free sample box.

Of all stores and druggists, 50 cents, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price 50 cents.

LETTER OF CONDOLENCE.

To Johnson Graham:—

We, the officers and members of Enterprise L.O.L. No. 431 desire to express our deepest sympathy to you in this your hour of bereavement. Whereas, it has pleased our Heavenly Father to take to Himself your beloved daughter, although we know it is a dispensation of our Heavenly Father which we cannot understand, we hope that you will look to a glorious resurrection when we shall meet those who have gone before, and He who is able to bear your burden and sustain you in your hour of greatest trial and need.

THREW A BOMB AT LORD MINTO.

Ahmedabad, British India.—Lord Minto, the Viceroy of India, and Lady Minto had a narrow escape on Thursday when one was killed by bombs. They were driving through one of the streets, when, without warning, two bombs were thrown at their carriage. A dragoon, who was riding alongside, spurred forward and with sword raised, sabre intercepted the first bomb, hurling it some distance away into a sandheap. The second bomb struck the Viceroy's semidar, a native lieutenant, who was holding an umbrella over Lady Minto, and fell harmlessly to the ground.

Neither bomb exploded, as the soft sand acted as a buffer.

On examination they were found to contain picric acid, and a piece of the carriage passed through one of the streets, a bomb exploded some little distance away, killing police and others, attracted by the explosion, ran on and found a man on the ground with his hand blown off. He proved to be an innocent by-stander. The bomb-throwers made their escape. The excitement is great and as yet no arrests have been made.

Attempts have been made in India during the last year or two against the lives of Lord Minto, Lord Kitchener, Sir Andrew Fraser, Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and many other officials.

Andreas Slander, who is believed to have helped rob the Bank of Nova Scotia at Rainy River in July and the Canadian Express office at Niagara Falls, Ont., on November 7th, committed suicide when cornered by the police at St. Louis, Mo.

Now for a Little Coffee Talk

It seems there is a great jealousy with an opponent of mine about my coffee trade. He is not satisfied with selling the people coffee that go from the shop, but has resorted to the low, mean, contemptable means of canvassing my customers and telling them that he has got Paisley's secrets in Coffee, and every time he tells it, he tells what he knows to be false. So he knows—made about my secrets, if I have any, that the people in the house.

Tubs are lots of them men get into the grocery business, and I have had dirty things done to me in the business, but this I think puts the climax on it all. I just got in one hundred and sixty-five pounds this morning, and what is this friend of mine going to do? I know, he will just use one month. That is what breaks his grasping heart. Paisley has the best Coffee in town, and he can't get the secret.

THE SOCIAL LIFE OF PITTSBURGH.

Socially, Pittsburgh may be likened to a huge pie, with upper and lower crust a plenty, but a noticeable lack of what the good housewife realizes is the chief feature of the culinary triumph, the filling. The top crust is extremely light, and therefore has various elevations or excrescences. Sticking to the under surface of this upper crust you will find many traces of what was once Pittsburgh's social filling, or middle class. Their connection is a bit precarious, almost perilous, but they manage somehow to stick, for below, through a great space, they see the under crust, absorbing that part of the filling which failed to rise and cling to the upper crust. In no other city of America will you find the words "middle class" regarded as a form of contumely. In no other American city will you see so many individuals drawing comfortable salaries and yet regarding life as a hopeless sort of game, hardly worth the playing. Pittsburghers have reduced the art of being pessimistic to a science.—From "Woman's Home Companion for November."

TO THE EPWORTH LEAGUERS AND OTHER METHODIST YOUNG PEOPLE OF THE NAPANEE DISTRICT.

Announcement is made of a Missionary Conference and District E. L. Convention to be held in the Western Church, Napanee, on June 1st. In behalf of the District E. L. Executive we desire to address a special word to the young people. It is two years since you were last called together in convention. Since that time a change has been effected in the allotment of the Forward Movement missionaries, and Rev. R. Embersom, whom we have been assisting to support, has been assigned to Lindsay and Cannington Districts, leaving us without a missionary of our own. In this day of advanced missionary effort among all the churches, and at a time when our Canadian Methodist church has adopted a great forward movement in more fully accepting our share of the responsibility of evangelizing the world, it would be unfortunate indeed, if we in this District should in the least degree fall behind in the effort that is being made. Last year however there was a decrease in our Forward Movement subscriptions of nearly one hundred dollars, and we should speedily effect such an organization if our forces that out 16-to ground shall be returned and a further advance made.

While the calls from the foreign field are imperative and must not be neglected, the call for the present demand that we should not neglect the work among our foreign immigrant population. Forward Movement Secretary, Dr. F. C. Stephenson, an opportunity to arrange a definite responsibility as support of an additional missionary at Pakan, Alberta, to be associated with Dr. Lapland, in the magnificent work which he is carrying on there among the Galicians. Rev. Dr. J. E. Smith, B.A., is to be appointed to this work, and we may have the privilege of his support. This district is doing well co-operate with the Home Missionary work.

This proposal will be discussed and action will be taken at our approaching Conference and Convention, and we strongly urge you to plan to be with us and assist in the measures that may be taken to discharge any responsibility we may accept. We are anxious that every circuit, yes, every appointment in our District, should be represented. On many of our appointments the Epworth League is not organized, but our young Methodists should not depend on that organization entirely for their interest in the great missionary problem of the world. Every young man and woman of our church will be heartily welcomed at our Convention. We want you to plan to be with us and your help and we want you all to consider this word a call to service for our cause, and to act in a manner that is dear to His heart.

We urge that everyone of our ministers should be present and give attention to encourage the move that will be made and to lead their young people in an intelligent way to the real forward movement we wish to make.

There will be three sessions of the Conference on Dec. 1st, and an excellent programme is prepared, and will be sent to every pastor in the District for distribution.

Yours in the Master's service,

W. H. EMSLEY

OBITUARY.

Death's messenger came with but little warning on Tuesday, November 9th, to Joseph Magee, at his home, Bellevue Farm. The Pines postoffice. Although he had not been in the best of health for some time, Mr. Magee was able to be out and attend to his ordinary duties, and on the Saturday preceding his death finished up his plowing, and other fall work. He did not complain before retiring on Saturday night, but early Sunday morning he got up to attend to one of the children and was seized with a hemorrhage of the brain. He was unable to get back to bed without assistance and soon afterward lapsed into unconsciousness. Relatives and a doctor were speedily summoned, but the could do but little for him and he sank gradually until Tuesday morning, when he passed away shortly before o'clock. In the opinion of the family doctor and his friends the unfortunate man's death was hastened by an accident which happened a few days before he was taken ill. His team ran away from the front of the house as he was preparing to drive to the stable and he had a long chase after the horses. The excitement caused his nose to bleed very freely, and from that time on he was troubled with nose bleeds. Putting the affairs of his estate in order, he who was drowned in Hay Bay while skating last winter, also thought he would have hastened the end, Mr. Magee not being exposed to the cold or bad weather that unfortunate occurrence.

The late Joseph Magee was a member of one of the oldest and best known families in Lennox County, and being of a genial disposition and generous almost to a fault, was highly esteemed by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. He was born in Ireland 74 years ago, but when a mere lad came to Canada with his father, the late Robert Magee, who passed away two years ago. The family first located near Picton, but very shortly afterward took up land at The Pines, and has resided there ever since. In politics deceased was a staunch Liberal, while in religion he was prominently identified with the Methodist church. He was also a member of the Orange Order, and one of the most public spirited residents in the neighborhood in which he spent the greater portion of his life. A widow and three children survive to mourn, but they have the sincere sympathy of the entire community.

The funeral took place on Thursday of last week, and was one of the largest ever held in Lennox County, friends driving many miles to pay a last tribute of respect to the memory of deceased. Relatives were present from Toronto and friends from Toronto, Hamilton, Grand Trunk Bridge and Bath hamlets and other places. An impressive funeral service was conducted at the house by the Methodist minister after which the remains were taken to Napanee and placed in the vault, where they will be transferred to the family plot in Greenwood cemetery in the spring of the latter and son of deceased. The pall bearers were his brothers, William Magee, of Bath, and Alex. and Jas. Magee, of Robert, of Toronto and a brother-in-law, James Dickson, of Selby.

SAVED FROM SUFFERING IN HIS OLD AGE

Gin Pills cured him.

Annapolis, N.S., March 12, 1909.

I am over 80 years of age and have been suffering from Kidney trouble for fifteen years. I tried every medicine but got no help, and I thank you for sending me a free box of Gin Pills, which helped me.

I have taken about three boxes altogether but got relief before I took near that amount. I have recommended them to my friends, and had to use an instrument for the last time. Now, I can be up and around for hours without getting tired, and that Gin Pills have nearly cured me shall always keep a box in the house. Thanking you for your kindness, I am your sincere friend,

And all as a result of sending for a sample box of Gin Pills.

Do you suffer with your kidneys or Bladder? Send to the Nerviline Co. Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto, and get a sample free by return mail. Regular size, at all druggists, 50c—or 6 for $2.50.

HER DEATH WAS HOURLY EXPECTED

Enterprise, Ont., Oct. 1st, 1908.
"For seven years I suffered with what physicians called a "Water Tumor." I could neither sit, stand, nor lie down in comfort—morphine had to be given me to ease the pain.

MRS. JAMES FENWICK

My cure seemed hopeless, and my friends hourly expected my death. I was advised that I wanted to die, and it was during one of these very bad spells that a family friend brought a box of "Fruit-a-tives" to the house. After much persuasion I commenced to take them, and was so bad that it was only when I had taken nearly two boxes that I commenced to experience relief. I kept up the treatment, however, and after taking five boxes I was cured, and when I appeared on the street my friends said "The dead has come to life," and it seemed literally true, because I certainly was at death's door."
(Signed) MRS. JAMES FENWICK.
"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box—6 for $2.50, or trial box, sent post-paid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

DISCRIMINATING LADIES.

Using Herpicide on Account of its Distinctiveness.

Ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide say it is the highest type of hair dressing. It has a quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the hair fresh and it allays the itching which dandruff will cause. Herpicide effectively cures dandruff as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes falling hair and later baldness; in killing it, it stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing. It lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

The Younger Set

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS, Author of "The Fighting Chance," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Robert W. Chambers

She sank back, drew one small hand across her eyes and rested a moment; then, leaning forward, she set her elbow on one knee and bracketed her chin between forefinger and thumb.

"I've not had you to talk to for a whole week," she said, "and you'll let me, won't you? I can't help it anyway, because as soon as I see you—crack—a million thoughts wake up in me and clipper-clapper goes my tongue. You are very good for me. You are so thoroughly satisfactory except when your eyes narrow in that dreadful, far-away gaze which I've forbidden, you understand. What have you done to your mustache?"

"Clipped it."

"Oh, I don't like it too short! Can you get hold of it to pull it? It's the one thing that helps you in perplexity to solve problems. You'd be utterly helpless mentally without your mustache. Shall we take up our Etruscan symbols again when you come down to stay with us at Silverside?"

"Indeed we shall," he said, smiling. "Which also reminds me"—

He drew from his breast pocket a thin, flat box, turned it round and round and glanced at her, balancing it teasingly in the palm of his hand.

"Is it for me? Really? Oh, please don't be provoking! Is it really for me? Then give it to me this instant!"

He dropped the box into the pink hollow of her supplicating palms. For a moment she was very busy with the tissue paper, then said:

"Oh, it is perfectly sweet of you!" turning the small bronze lamp over. "An Etruscan gold. "Whatever can it be?" And, rising, she opened it, stepping to the window so that she could see.

Within, the pages were closely covered with the minute, careful handwriting of her father. It was the first notebook he ever kept, and Selwyn had had it bound for her gold.

For an instant she gazed, breathless, lips parted. Then slowly she placed the yellowed pages against her lips and, turning, looked straight at Selwyn, the splendor of her young eyes starred with tears.

Chapter 15

ELAINE RUTHVEN had not yet dared tell Selwyn that her visit to his rooms was known to her husband. She was now afraid of her husband's malice, afraid of Selwyn's opinion, afraid of herself most of all, for she understood herself well enough to realize that if conditions became intolerable the first and easiest course out of it would be the course she'd take—wherever it led, whatever it cost or whoever was involved.

In addition to her dread and excitement, she was deeply chagrined and unhappy, and, although Jack Ruthven did not again refer to the matter—indeed, appeared to have forgotten it—her alarm and humiliation remained complete, for Gerald now came and played and went as he chose, and in her disconcerted cowardice she dared not do more than plead with Gerald in secret until she began to find the emotion consequent upon such intimacy unwise for them both.

Neergard, too, was becoming a familiar figure in her drawing room, and, though at first she detested him, his patience and unfailing good spirits and unconventional adaptation for her softened her manner toward him to the point of toleration.

And Neergard, from his equivocal footing in the house of Ruthven, obtained another no less precarious in the house of Fane—all in the beginning on a purely gaming basis. However, Gerald had already proposed him for the Stuyvesant and Prosceniun clubs, and, furthermore, a stormy discussion was now in progress among the members of the famous Slowitha over an amazing proposition from their treasurer, Jack Ruthven.

This proposal was nothing less than to admit Neergard to membership in that wealthy and exclusive country club as a choice of the upper-crust, for it appeared, according to Ruthven, that Neergard, if admitted, was willing to restore to the club free of rent the thousands of acres vitally necessary to the club's existence as a game preserve, merely retaining the title to these lands for himself.

Draymore was incensed at the proposal, Harmon, Orchil and Fane were disgustedly nonconmittal, but Phoenix Mottly was perhaps the angriest man on Long Island.

"In the name of decency, Jack," he said, "what are you dreaming of? Is it not enough that this man Neergard holds us up once? Do I understand that he has the impudence to do it again with your connivance? Are you going to let him saudbag us into electing him? Is that the sort of holdup you stand for? Well, then, I tell you I'll never vote for him. I'd rather see these lakes and streams of ours dry up. I'd rather see the last pheasant snared and the last covey leave for the other end of the island than buy off that Dutchman with a certificate of membership in the Slowitha!"

"In that case," retorted Ruthven, "we'd better wind up our affairs and make arrangements for an auctioneer."

"All right. Wind up and be hanged," said Mottly. "There'll be at least sufficient self respect left in the treasury to go round."

Which was all very fine, and Mottly meant it at the time, but outside of the asset of self rspsect there was too much money invested in the lands, plant and buildings, in the streams, lakes, hatcheries and forests of the Slowitha. The enormously wealthy seldom stand long upon dignity if dignity is going to be very expensive. Only the poor can afford disastrous self respect.

So the chances were that Neergard would become a member, which was why he had acquired the tract, and the price he would have to pay was not only in taxes upon the acreage, but secretly a solid sum in addition to little Mr. Ruthven, whom he was binding to by every tie of love could give for.

He suffered Gerald and little Ruthven to pilot him. He remained cheerfully oblivious to the snubs and indifference accorded him by Mrs. Ruthven, Mrs. Fane and others of their entourage whom he encountered over the card tables or at card suppers. And all the while he was accumulating a fortune with an energy and activity that ought to have shamed Gerald and did at times, particularly when he arrived at the office utterly unfit for the work before him.

But Neergard continued astonishingly tolerant and kind, however, advancing him what he required, taking up or renewing notes for him until the boy, heavily in his debt, plunged more heavily still to sheer desperation, only to flounder the deeper at every struggle to extricate himself.

Also Ruthven suspected something of this, but it was useless as well as perilous in other ways for her to argue with Gerald, for the boy had come to a point where even his devotion to her could not stop him. He must go on.

Meanwhile the Ruthvens were living almost lavishly and keeping four more horses. But Eileen Mroll's bank balance had now dwindled to three figures, and Gerald had not only acted offensively toward Selwyn, but had quarreled so violently with Austin that the latter, thoroughly incensed and disgusted, threatened to forbid him the house.

"The little fool," he said to Selwyn, "came here last night attaking of wine and attempted to lay down the law to me—tried to dragoon me into a compromise with him over the investments I have made for him! By God, Phil, he shall not control one cent until the trust conditions are fulfilled, though it was left to my discretion too. And I told him so flatly. I told him he wasn't fit to be trusted with the coupons of a repudiated South American bond"—

"Hold on, Austin. That isn't the way to tackle a boy like that!"

"Isn't it? Well, why not? Do you expect me to dicker with him?"

"No; but, Austin, you're always been a little brusque with him. Don't you think"—

"No, I don't. It's discipline he needs, and he'll get it good and plenty every time he comes here."

"I—I'm afraid he may cease coming here. That's the worst of it. For his sister's sake I think we ought to try to put up with"—

"Put up! Put up! I've been doing nothing else since he came of age. He's turned out a fool of a puppy, I tell you. He's idle, lazy, dissipated, impudent, conceited, insufferable"—

"But not vicious, Austin, and not untrustful. Where his affections are centered he is always generous; where they should be centered he is merely thoughtless, not deliberately selfish. And, Austin, we've simply got to believe in him, you know—on Eileen's account."

Austin grew angrier and redder.

"Eileen's account? Do you mean her bank account? It's easy enough to believe in him if you inspect his sister's bank account. Believe in him? Oh, certainly I do. I believe he's pup enough to come sneaking to his sister to pay for all the foolories he's engaged in. And I've positively forbidden her to draw another check to his order."

"It's that little bangled whelp Ruthven," said Selwyn between his teeth. "I warned Gerald most solemnly of that man, but"— He shrugged his shoulders and glanced about him at the linen covered furniture and bare floors. After a moment he looked up. "The game there is, of course, notorious. I—if matters did not stand as they do"—he flushed painfully—"I'd go straight to Ruthven and find out whether or not this business could be stopped."

If Alice had done her best to keep Gerald away, she appeared to be quite powerless in the matter; and it was therefore useless to go to her. Besides, he had every inclination to avoid her. He had learned his lesson.

To whom then could he go? Through whom could he reach Gerald? Through Nina? Useless. And Gerald had already defied Austin. Through Neergard, then? But he was on no terms with Neergard. How could he go to him? Through Rosamund Dane? At her thought he made a wry face. Any advances from him she would willfully misinterpret. And Ruthven? How on earth could he bring himself to approach him?

And yet he had promised Eileen to do what he could. What merit lay in performing an easy obligation? What courage was required to keep a promise easily kept? If he cared anything for her, if he really cared for Gerald, he owed them more than effortless fulfilment. So first of all, when at length he had decided, he nerved himself to strike straight at the center, and without the hour he found Gerald at the Stuyvesant club.

The boy descended to the visitors' room. Selwyn's card in his hand and distrust written on every feature. And at Selwyn's first frank and friendly words he reddened to the temples and checked him.

"I won't listen," he said. "Thee—Austin and—and everybody has been putting you up to this until I'm tired of it. Do they think I'm a baby? Do they suppose I don't know enough to take care of myself? Are they trying to make me ridiculous? I tell you they'd better let me alone. My friends are my friends, and I won't have them said Mottly. "There'll be at least sufficient self respect left in the treasury to go round."

"Gerald"—

"Oh, I know perfectly well that you dislike Neergard. I don't, and that's the difference."

"I'm not speaking of Mr. Neergard, Gerald. I'm only trying to tell you what this man Ruthven really is doing."

"What do I care what he is doing?" cried Gerald angrily. "And, anyway, it isn't likely I'd come to you to find out anything about Mrs. Ruthven's second husband!"

Selwyn rose, very white and still. After a moment he drew a quiet breath, his clinched hands relaxed, and he picked up his hat and gloves.

"What?" whispered Selwyn.

"They are my friends," muttered Gerald, as pale as he. "You drove me into speaking that way."

"Perhaps I did, my boy. I don't judge you. If you ever find you need help come to me. And if you can't come and still need me send for me. I'll do what I can always. I know you better than you know yourself. Goodby."

He turned to the door, and Gerald burst out: "Why can't you let my friends alone? I liked you before you began this sort of thing"—

"I will let them alone if you will," said Selwyn, halting. "I can't stand by and see you exploited and used and perverted. Will you give me one chance to talk it over, Gerald?"

"No; I won't!" returned Gerald hotly. "I'll stand for my friends every time! There's no use bothering me!"

"You are not standing by me very fast," said the elder man gently.

"I said I was standing by my friends!" repeated the boy.

"Very well, Gerald, but it's at the expense of your own people, I'm afraid."

"That's my business, and you're not one of 'em," retorted the boy, infuriated, "and you won't be, either, if I can prevent it, no matter whether people say that you're engaged to her"—

"What?" whispered Selwyn, wheeling like a flash. The last vestige of color had fled from his face, and Gerald caught his breath, almost blinded by the blaze of fury in the elder man's eyes.

Neither spoke again, and after a moment Selwyn's eyes fell, and he turned heavily on his heel and walked away, head bent, gray eyes narrowing to slits.

A Positive Cure For Indigestion

If you have indigestion, your food ferments in the stomach and bowels. It does more; it decays, and the nutritious matter which should go to make new blood decays with it, and this leads to an impoverished condition of the blood, to nervousness, biliousness, constipation, sick headache, bad breath which disgusts your friends, and other disagreeable and unpleasant conditions.

And all this trouble is caused by the food that doesn't digest, but ferments and oftimes rots in the stomach.

And fermentation is caused by the stomach not being strong enough, and energetic enough to thoroughly mix the food with the digestive juices.

M-I-O-N-A is responsible for tens of thousands of cures. In fact, it is such a positive cure for indigestion and all stomach troubles that it is guaranteed by T. B. Wallace to cure or money back. The price of a large box of Mi-o-na tablets is 50 cents, and they are sure to promptly relieve the worst case of indigestion or gastritis. Try them.

DARE YOU EAT HEARTILY?

Or Is Every Good Meal Followed By Discomfort?

Be certain are we that "Lift's Digester" will cure Indigestion every time—for every person—for YOU—that we will give you your money back without a word if they fail.

You can enjoy a good, hearty meal of wholesome food three times a day, if you take a tablet after each meal.

Read how "Little Digesters" cured Mr. Thody.

"For two years I suffered with Indigestion, and obtained no relief from anything I took, including several prescriptions from prominent physicians. Every meal was followed by acute pain until I feared to eat, consequently became run down for lack of nourishment. "Little Digesters" were recommended to me by a friend and I tried them with remarkable results, two boxes completely curing me. It is three months since I took any, and I have not suffered a pain, no matter how heartily I eat. I would certainly recommend them to anybody suffering with Indigestion."

(Signed) E. THODY,
141 Yorkville Ave., Toronto.

June 12, 1909.

"Little Digesters" can be had from your druggist or by mail from Coleman Medicine Co., for 25 cents a box. 26

A Positive Cure For Indigestion

If you have indigestion, your food ferments in the stomach and bowels. It does more; it decays, and the nutritious matter which should go to make new blood decays with it, and this leads to an impoverished condition of the blood, to nervousness, biliousness, constipation, sick headache, bad breath which disgusts your friends, and other disagreeable and unpleasant conditions.

And all this trouble is caused by the food that doesn't digest, but ferments and oftimes rots in the stomach.

And fermentation is caused by the stomach not being strong enough, and energetic enough to thoroughly mix the food with the digestive juices.

M-I-O-N-A is responsible for tens of thousands of cures. In fact, it is such a positive cure for indigestion and all stomach troubles that it is guaranteed by T. B. Wallace to cure or money back. The price of a large box of Mi-o-na tablets is 50 cents, and they are sure to promptly relieve the worst case of indigestion or gastritis. Try them.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATIONS

To what class does each of your dairy cows belong? A business man bends his energies towards making every dollar expended earn as much as it possibly can. From some October records received from members of our cow testing associations it would seem that many cows are not expected to earn anything above the bare cost of feed from now till next spring. But here and there are cows in another class altogether, giving as high as 750 lbs. milk and 25 lbs. fat in October, not freshly calved cows, but cows that freshened in April or May. Supposing the ordinary factory patron divides his cows into just two classes, those that pay, and those that do not pay, he is by even then in a position to show each cow unerringly. Has he records to show how much milk and fat each cow gives month by month, and how much per head cost? Such records are not only very convenient, but are invaluable in determining which cows are paying the best and which are not on the profit and loss account list. With this information at hand it will be but a material step to let one or two go off to the butcher, thereby saving unprofitable feed, while the gram they would have consumed may be used in fattening their development of those that are already fitted for turning it economically into milk and butter fat. Keep records, keep no drones, but keep only such cows as prove themselves by the records to be in the top class, producing plenty of milk from a reasonable amount of suitable feed.

Again We Say it is Pure

2000 more stress cannot be laid upon the absolute purity and goodness of our Olive Oil. To illustrate how difficult it is to get really pure Olive Oil we quote from an address of Dr. Leon L. Watters, before the Chemical Section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"Pure Olive Oil was not to be had in the market, except from a few high class dealers. The amount of fraud practiced is directly proportional to the safety of practicing it. Nobody but the dolcer in official publications knows anything about it. The consumer don't hear that So and So oil is a fraud, and learn to prefer it at the grocer's.

Try a bottle of Pure Imported Olive Oil. If you have, we warrant you are well using it, but the best friends are those who know it best. Its cost is moderate.

Our little hamlet has been stirred to its centre by the sudden taking away of the late Joseph Magee, and I am sure The Beaver will join in sympathy with the family and friends in their great sorrow. The whole countryside turned out to show their respect for a life-long resident. Amongst those who attended the funeral from a distance were Messrs. Magee and Kirkpatrick, of Hamilton; Robert Magee and Miss Lillian Pringle, Toronto; Mr. J. Laird and wife, Mr. Wm. McCormack and wife, of Picton; Mr. J. Miller and wife and Mrs. Geo. Love and Mr. A. Love, of Milford; Mr. D. T. McCormack, wife and daughter and Mr. Mas. Bird, Bongard's Corners; Mrs. A. Pringle, Napanee; Mr. Jas. Keyes and Mrs. Wm. Cooper, Wolfe Island; Mrs. Fairfield and B. Bird, Millhaven. I am sure the family feel very grateful for the kind sympathy and attention shown by Messrs. Meng & Hambly, and the splendid equipment they provided for the occasion. The floral tributes were beautiful.—Capt. Brooks has been investing in real estate, having bought the J. Rutter farm. Wish you luck, Charlie.—Messrs. Irvine and P. Brooks left for Toronto on Saturday.—Our bustling milk drawer expects to finish next Saturday, and the patrons will have nothing to disturb their slumbers until next spring.—Visitors: Miss Blanche Love of Milford, at Mr. A. Magee's; Mr. and Miss Price, Mountain Grove, at Wm. Magee's; Mr. and Mrs. Cook, Cataraqui, at S. L. Peterson's.

CLAUSE 41 WATERWORKS AGREEMENT.

There are many objections to the agreement between the Corporation and Waterworks Company, which the ratepayers are asked to confirm. Most of these objectionable features are evident to any one who reads the proposed agreement carefully.

But there is one clause, the full import of which cannot be appreciated without information outside of the verbiage of the agreement.

Clause 41 says: "The contract dated November 9th, A.D. 1892, heretofore entered into between the parties hereto is hereby abrogated and is hereby declared to be void and of no effect, and neither of the parties hereto shall have or claim any rights or make any demand upon the other thereunder."

The contract mentioned here is separate and distinct from the original agreement entered into between the Corporation and the Company. It was entered into for the mutual benefit of the town and the Company, whereby the Company agrees to aid in the proper sewerage with which closets might be connected without the menace to health that exists where stone drains are used for such purposes. By this contract dated Nov. 9th, 1892, the Company agrees to pay the town one-third of the revenue from closets connecting with sewers hereafter constructed, up to five per cent. on the town's outlay on same sewer (one-third of cost, each side of street paying one-third) annually.

The only obligation of the town under this contract is to make a proper report to the Company of cost and situation and extent of the sewer.

At this time, 1892, a by-law was introduced into the Council prohibiting the use of stone drains for sewage carriers, and it was prospectively advantageous to the Company as well as the town to enter into such an agreement.

The by-law was passed but in such an emasculated form that it fell short of full efficiency. Added to this condition followed lax enforcement, and ever since closets have been placed in connection with all sorts of drains. In one case it is said a drain used for such purposes ends in a crack in the bedrock.

This is the contract that could not be found when Mr. H. Meng was Mayor. Some people, who with ordinary memories, would be expected to know, declares it was never executed. Now that it has been produced, I think it would be much better to act upon its provisions, than to abrogate it. If the town closed up pit closets and supplied proper sewers it would increase the revenue to the Waterworks, and, I would suppose under such circumstances, the Company would readily comply with the terms.

There are sewers now constructed that should bring a revenue to the town as soon as the proper information is supplied to the Company as required by the contract

Council met in special session on Friday evening, at the call of Mayor Simpson, for the purpose of looking over the proposed agreement with the Napanee Waterworks Co., which will be voted on by the electors next January. The document referred to is a very lengthy affair, and will be put before the electorate in its entirety before election day.

Members present—Reeve Ruttan, Councillors Gibbard, Bogart, Steacy and Burrows, and Mayor Simpson presiding.

Moved by Coun. Gibbard, seconded by Reeve Ruttan, that the Waterworks By-law be read a first time. Carried.

On motion the By-law was taken as read, and on motion the Council went into Committee of the Whole on the second reading of the By-law. Carried.

Moved by Coun. Burrows, seconded by Reeve Ruttan, that any elector present be given the liberty of joining in the discussion of the by-law. Carried.

Moved by Reeve Ruttan, seconded by Coun. Gibbard, that the Committee rise and report schedules B. and C. of By-law as amended, and ask leave to sit again. Carried.

Council adjourned.

Council Chambers,
Napanee, Nov. 15th, 1909.

Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Mayor Simpson in the chair.

Members present—Councillors Gibbard, Bogart, Alexander, Burrows, Steacy, and Reeve Ruttan.

Minutes of last session were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From W. E. Vine, Secretary of Napanee Fire Brigade, asking for payment of Firemen's salary, $300.00

On motion the prayer of the petition was granted.

From F. P. Miller, C.E., in reference to amount of sand on floor of new bridge, and asked the Council's opinion of same before he finally accepted the bridge as completed. He had allowed Mr. Hyde, the erector, to go last Saturday. It was agreed by Council that the amount was sufficient for relieve contract.

From R. A. Scott, Casper, Ont., asking if the town had a hand power engine that they wished to dispose of. Laid on the table.

From Mrs. R. G. Sager, asking to have the taxes remitted on the property of the late William Appleby. On motion ordered filed.

From H. R. Bedford, Town Clerk of Deseronto, saying they were fayer able to having electric power in their town.

Moved by Coun. Gibbard, seconded by Coun. Burrows, that a special committee be appointed to take the matter up, in conjunction with the electric light Commissioners, and co-operate in every way possible with other municipalities to get cheap electric power, and that the Mayor and Clerk be instructed to reply to this communication. Carried.

From E. S. Lapum, Town Treasurer, asking that amount of his bond, $28.00, be remitted, on account of extra services rendered collecting dog tax, which had not been formerly done by other treasurers. On motion the matter was left in the hands of the Finance Committee to investigate and report.

The attention of the Council had been called to the gas nuisance on Centre street, and the matter was left in the hands of the Street Committee to investigate and report.

The report of the Finance Committee was received and adopted.

Reeve Ruttan reported on cost of bridge, as follows:

Transfer from Contingent account.....$1800 00
Transfer from County grant 600 00
Special appropriation for bridge..... 1300 00

Total cost of bridge.....$3700 00

This does not include Mr. Miller's salary, and a few other small amount. The sale of the old material would also not the town considerable.

Moved by Reeve Ruttan, seconded by Coun. Bogart, that the town grant to the County Council the sum of $300.00 for repairs to road on Robbin's hill. Lost.

Moved by Coun. Gibbard, seconded by Coun. Steacy, that the matter be referred to the solicitor as to the legality of this donation. Carried.

A By-law for the appointment of deputy returning officers, polling subdivisions and places for holding election on January 3rd, 1910, re Waterworks agreement, received its first and second readings, with amendments:

Centre Ward No. 1.—Frank Kinkley, residence—W. C. Bowen, D. R. O.; N. Matheswon, poll clerk.

East Ward—W. J. Sorville's shop. —H. V. Fralick, D. R. O.; Harry Fralick, poll clerk.

It was moved and seconded that the Street Committee see that the accounts for arrears of granolithic walks be placed in the hands of Street Commissioner Lowry for collection.

The collector was instructed to return his roll by December 10th.

The Clerk was authorized to put notice in local papers that all accounts contracted by the present Council must be paid by the present by December 10th.

Moved by Coun. Gibbard, seconded by Reeve Ruttan, that the Napanee Waterworks Co., to avoid the danger of hydrants being frozen during the winter, test the same every ten days. Carried.

The Napanee Pigeon, Poultry and Pet Stock Association were granted the use of the town hall for Dec. 20th, 21st, 22d, 23d and 24th, providing those dates do not interfere with other engagements already arranged.

FOR D. D. D., GOT A TRIAL BOTTLE, AND IS CURED OF ECZEMA.

21 Givens St., Toronto, June 29, 1909.
D. D. D. Company,
Dear Sirs,—

I was a sufferer for about two years with eczema on the legs and ankles. I tried three or four different doctors and none of them did me any good. I then sent to a skin specialist and he was no better.

I was reading the "Sunday World" and I happened to see one of D. D. D.'s ads there, but that I did. I sent for a sample bottle and it did me so much good I sent for a $5.00 bottle, also a cake of soap. That is all I used and I am perfectly well, and I don't think it will return. I have advised several others to use it and the results have been the same.

Signed I. W. COBNS.

The results are the same in every case. D. D. D. Prescription instantly soothes and relieves the awful itch and permanently cures Eczema, and all kinds of skin diseases.

Why not are a sufferer why not try D. D. D. at once.

For free sample bottle of D. D. D. Prescription write to the D. D. D. Laboratory, Department N.B. 27 Jordan St., Toronto.

I. O. F. INSPECTION COMMITTEE'S REPORT

Office of the Inspection Committee
Temple Building, Toronto,
September 9th, 1909.

The Inspection Committee beg respectfully to report on their trip through the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

We left Toronto on 6th July last, and returned 15th August. Before inspecting the properties we examined carefully the mortgages, title papers and insurance policies covering all the loans in those Provinces. We visited the following cities and towns and inspected the lands in and around same, namely: Winnipeg, Carman, Portage la Prairie, Brandon and Minnedosa, in Manitoba; Yorkton, Broadview, Wolseley, Alexandria, Indian Head, Moose Jaw, Prince Albert, and Saskatoon in Saskatchewan; Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Calgary, Innisfail, Red Deer, Lacombe, Strathcona and Edmonton in Alberta, and Vancouver and Victoria in British Columbia; and we took note of the other towns and the country through which we passed, namely: On the Canadian Northern Railway from Winnipeg to Carman, the Canadian Pacific Railway branch line from Carman to Winnipeg, the Canadian Pacific main line from Winnipeg to Portage la Prairie and Brandon, and the Souris branch Canadian Pacific from Brandon to Minnedosa, and Minnedosa to Yorkton on main line Canadian Pacific from Brandon through to Calgary, Lethbridge branch Canadian Pacific, Medicine Hat to Lethbridge and Calgary and on through north to Edmonton, the Canadian Northern main line to Edmonton to Winnipeg, the Regina and Prince Albert branch of the Canadian Northern from Prince Albert to Regina, through Warman Junction and Saskatoon; and the Canadian Pacific main line, Calgary to Vancouver, noticing particularly the nature of the soil and the condition of the crops, the number of elevators at each station or town and the progressiveness of the towns and country through which we passed, and we made entries of what we witnessed as we went along. In addition to driving out from the various cities and towns at which we stopped, inspecting the country, we drove from Wolseley through a splendid country north-westerly to Abernethy, 37 miles, and back in a south-easterly direction, 25 miles, to Indian Head, crossing both ways the famous Qu'Appelle Valley.

We found the country through the three first named Provinces being settled up speedily, met many persons on the trains and in hotels from United States, and different parts of older Canada, looking for homesteads or for speculation in land, and we found particularly in Alberta a great inrush of Americans from North Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota, Washington and other states.

In all the places which we visited we inspected some of the properties on which the Order has loans, paying particular attention in this regard to the securities in the City of Winnipeg. We also drove out from all the above places which we visited with the exception of Minnedosa and Medicine Hat. We found all the loans we inspected well secured except in three instances in which we think the loans should be carefully watched and reduced as soon as possible.

We found the crops in all sections we visited in which the Order has moneys invested healthy and well advanced with the exception of a few places where the crops were backward owing to the late seeding on comparatively low land, but healthy, and we found the quantity and condition of the cultivation and the buildings in satisfactory condition, considering the amount of the loan and the extent of the lands in each particular case.

In regard to the localities in which the Order has moneys loaned, but which were personally unable to visit, and made enquiries of real estate men, commercial travellers, railway men, and others having a knowledge of those localities, and we conferred carefully about same with Mr. Evans the manager of the Winnipeg branch of the Union Trust Company, who has the I. O. F. loans in those Provinces under his supervision, and who has visited all sections of the country, and has personally inspected nearly all the securities, and considering his watchfulness and sagaciousness in looking after the loans, we are of the opinion that the Order does not stand to lose anything in regard to the present loans in that country, unless a somewhat lengthy period of depression takes place, and even in that case very few, if any, loans would not be reasonably well secured. We found Mr. Evans to be an able, active and painstaking manager and one who has had a great deal of experience in connection with the loaning of money on real estate securities, and he has with him a good staff of clerks so that all matters of insurance premiums and of moneys coming due are looked after promptly.

We found the rules of the Order and of the Union Trust Company in regard to loans to be as follows:—Farm loans are made only to progressive farmers, who have prospects of succeeding, and there must be sufficient land under cultivation so that the farmer will be able to get sufficient return to enable him to live as well as make his mortgage payments. It is also required that the necessary farm buildings shall be erected on each property and that the land shall not be more than a reasonable distance from an operated railway. City and town loans are made on residences in desirable residential districts and on business properties where the owners are successful or have reasonable chances of becoming so. And we also found that that rule has been and is being practically adhered to.

We predict a great rush of settlers and purchasers of land into that country this fall and next spring, and consequently a great increase in prices both in town and country. The cities of Winnipeg, Vancouver, Brandon, Regina, Moose Jaw, Medicine Hat, Calgary, Edmonton and Lethbridge and the towns of Yorkton and Saskatoon, not to speak of many smaller towns, are growing at a great pace and the prices of properties on the main streets and residential lots in the best parts are so great as to surprise all visitors.

We shall be pleased to make a special report in greater detail for the use of the Investment Board.

We expend seven hundred dollars for our expenses during our visit to the Order. Mr. Alex. S. Evans, who had spent some seven years as valuator for the Union Trust Company, and the Order in the West, and who accompanied us throughout our journey, has the great knowledge of the country, and particularly of the localities where loans were made, and of the values of securities in those localities, surprised us. We found Mr. Evans very clear in his opinion that he is an efficient, safe and honest valuator.

All of which is respectfully submitted in L. B. and C.

Boastful Stranger: We New York citizens don't let any grass grow under our feet.

Rural Resident: Then you got right off on lawn?

Caller Snip & Co. have employed me to collect the bills you owe them. Owens: You are to be congratulated, sir, on securing a permanent position.

Elsie: Do you approve of long engagements?

Madge: If the man has lots of money to spend on you. Otherwise it is better to rush it through and start a fresh one.

JUDICIAL SALE.

Pursuant to the Judgment made on the 22nd day of October, A.D. 1909, in an action pending in the High Court of Justice for Ontario, between Alex. Hall, Plaintiff, and Mary Hall, Defendant, with the approbation of the Local Master at Napanee, I will offer for sale by auction with the approbation of the Local Master at Napanee, in the Court House, on Friday 3d day of December, 1909, at the hour of 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the following farm property:

Being all that part of Lot No. 22, in the 6th concession of the Township of Ernestown, in the County of Lennox and Addington, lying south of the travelled road except a small parcel off the northwest part thereof owned by one Stephen Mosher, containing 111 acres more or less.

There are erected on said lands a frame house one and a half storeys, with woodhouse attached, and also a large shed and two drive houses, one shed and the other stingler. The premises are watered by a small creek running through the property between the house and barns, and also by three wells.

The farm fronts on the Bay Road and the Coneseston line. The premises are about two miles from Napanee on the York road. There is a cheese factory on the corner of the premises and a school house at the end of the farm.

The property is sold subject to a reserve bid fixed by the Master.

Cash or Sale.—The purchaser shall pay down a deposit in the proportion of $200.00 on the execution of the purchase money, and the balance within one month thereafter with interest.

In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale shall be the standing conditions of sale of the High Court of Justice.

For further particulars apply at the law offices of John English, Esq., and G. F. Ruttan, Esq., K.C., Napanee.

Dated the 1st day of November, 1909.

Don't Risk even a penny—until health returns. And I mean just exactly that.

I am the one physician who says to the sick, "I will, and of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you health."

And for 20 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively sold and in every community—and that means you. Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for what you have already found to fail to do? Thousands upon thousands have in the last few months used Dr. Shoop's Restorative with much success. Why not you? Dr. Shoop's Kidney Remedy is for the kidneys. Rheumatism is kidney trouble. Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again, but—better still—it will positively take no money from you. They know that when health fails to bring back their money they will themselves gladly pay the druggist for it. Then and then only is full 50 cent dose freely granted.

Just write me first for an order.

This will save delay and disappointment.

All druggists in Dr. Shoop's Restorative are authorized to sell on the above plan, but no druggist is authorized to pay the purchase price. That is between you and me, and I pay every penny, every penny, without any "ifs" or "buts" or "ands" or "maybes" to it. Is not that fair?

Tell me also which book you need.

The books below will surely open up new and brighter doors to many. Those who are pestered with kidney, bladder, rheumatism, nerves, stomach, bowel, bed-wetting, female ailments, or even running sores on the body, may have a home physician's counsel, and the book or books they want, entirely free. Simply send your name and address and mark those books you want sent, and they will be sent by return mail, postpaid. Address me personally, Dr. Shoop, Box 71, Racine, Wis.

Which Book Shall I Send You?

No. 1 On Dyspepsia and Indigestion
No. 2 On the Heart
No. 3 On the Kidneys
No. 4 For Women
No. 5 For Men
No. 6 On Rheumatism

Dr. Shoop's Restorative will be found to be sold by druggists in your own town. If not, write me personally and I will tell you how you can obtain it without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My head—there is no charge.

Twenty-five years ago it was difficult to sell spring wheat flour for pastry at any price.

People didn't want it—they were using soft, winter wheat flour, and saw no reason for changing.

But hard wheat flour was persistently pushed. The women tried it and succeeded with it, to-day hard wheat flour is the favorite for Pastry as well as for Bread.

Ogilvie's Royal Household

is hard wheat flour at its best—milled by modern methods, retaining all of the good of the wheat. It is without an equal for every kind of baking in which flour is used. 16

THE WOLF, QUEEN'S THEATRE NIGHT.

Sam S. and Lee Shubert's production of "The Wolf", a drama of the Hudson Bay country, is said to be one of the greatest successes of the season. It deals with a rugged manhood of that far northern country which resists and defeats the plans of an adventurer among women. The cast is made up of the pick of the dramatic profession, and the Shuberts take pleasure in offering it at the Grand Opera House in Kingston, on Saturday, November 20th, matinee at 2.30, evening at 8.15 Queen's theatre night. The drama is by Eugene Walter and, when first produced, ran for six months in New York. It played a return engagement there this season.

CHRISTMAS AND NOW

CHRISTMAS COMES BUT ONCE A YEAR

Christmas is coming, but there isn't much difference between Chrislmas and now. Christmas will soon be here with its gifts, in fact the gift spirit has already arrived. Its just waiting to take firm root and then the buying will begin in earnest. Now is the time to buy; the best time to prepare and start buying anyway. It will save you lots of time and worry and pay you too. Its the easiest way. Its the most sensible. Remembering the advice of other years, "it pays you to shop early." The Reliable Store is going to take this advice, and we have decided to show our natty new Christmas goods at once.

READY WITH CHRISTMAS FURS

There is no richer gift nor one more to be welcomed than a Fur Set, and each year more and more are buying them for Christmas presents. The styles and qualities we have ready for Holiday trade were put together by experts who know the business from beginning to end. They are absolutely right in style and quality and in color, too.

Fully Guaranteed

There's no guesswork about them, nothing haphazard. You can buy with perfect confidence that every penny you spend here is worth more than if you paid it elsewhere. For one thing our prices are no less than the best, and our margin of profit is less. In addition we have the buying power of the biggest Wholesale House in Canada as regards the style and quality of every Fur we sell.

Now for a Little Coffee Talk

It seems there is a great solicitude, and an opposite of mine about my Coffee trade. He is not satisfied with selling the people coffee that goes to his store, but has resorted to the low mean, contemptible means of endeavoring my customers and telling them that he has got a Paisley coffee. Coffee, and every time he tells it he tells what is known to every intelligent person to be false. Coffee is not to be mixed, and I have not mixed coffee since I have been in the coffee trade.

There are lots of mean things in this world, but the meanest business, and I have had many things done to me in the business, but the meanest thing I ever had done to me was for a hundred and sixty-five pounds this morning. I had a shipment of coffee under my trade, which I know to be good, and I will just tell you the story. I got a shipment of coffee on the 10th of last month. That is what they claimed it was. It was shipped from Montreal on the 10th of last month. That is what they claimed it was. It was shipped from Montreal on the 10th of last month. That is what they claimed it was. "Fruit-a-tives" Promptly Cured Him After Doctors Had Failed To Give Relief.

CHARLES BARRETT, Esq.

Harbor au Bouche, [illegible] Co., N.S., March 24, 1909.

"I wish to express my sincere appreciation of the great benefit I received from using "Fruit-a-tives." I suffered from Eczema and Dyspepsia for fifteen years and I consulted physicians and took many kinds of ordinary medicine, but got no relief. I was in miserable health all the time and nothing did me any good. I read the testimonial of Archibald McKechnie, of Ottawa, and decided to try "Fruit-a-tives." I have taken a number of boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" but before I had taken one box I felt better and now am entirely well. I am thankful to be well after fifteen years suffering, and I am willing to have this statement published for the sake of other sufferers, and to them I strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives."

(Signed) CHARLES BARRETT.

"Fruit-a-tives" is put up in boxes, 6 for $2.50—or trial box, 25c. At all dealers or sent post-paid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

PAUL KILLORIN, Proprietor

The Younger Set

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS, Author of "The Fighting Chance," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Robert W. Chambers

Yet through the brain's chaos and the heart's loud tumult and the clamor of pulses run wild at the insult long into his very face the grim instinct to go on persisted, and he went on and on for her sake—on, he knew not how, until he came to Neergard's apartment in one of the vast west side constructions bearing the name of a sovereign state, and here after an interval he followed his card to Neergard's splendid suite, where a manservant received him and left him seated by a sunny window overlooking the blossoming foliage of the park.

When Neergard came in and stood on the farther side of a big oak table Selwyn rose, returning the cool, curt nod.

"Mr. Neergard," he said, "it is not easy for me to come here after what I said to you when I severed my connection with your firm. You have every reason to be unfriendly toward me, but I came on the chance that whatever resentment you may feel will not prevent you from hearing me out."

"Personal resentment," said Neergard slowly, "never interferes with my business. I take it, of course, that you have called upon a business matter. Will you sit down?"

"Thank you, I have only a moment, and what I am here for is to ask you as Mr. Erroll's friend to use your influence on Mr. Erroll—every atom of your influence—to prevent him from ruining himself financially through his excesses. I ask you for his family's sake to discountenance any more gambling, to hold him strictly to his duties in your office, to overlook no more shortcomings of his, but to demand from him what any trained business man demands of his associates as well as of his employees. I ask this for the boy's sake."

"I am not aware that Gerald requires any interference from me or from you either," said Neergard coolly. "And, as far as that goes, I and my business require no interference either. And I believe that settles it."

He touched a button. The manservant appeared to usher Selwyn out.

The latter set his teeth in his under lip and looked straight and hard at Neergard, but Neergard thrust both hands in his pockets, turned squarely on his heel and sauntered out of the room, yawning as he went.

It did fair to become a hard day for Selwyn. He foresaw it, for there was more for him to do, and the day was far from ended, and his self restraint was nearly exhausted.

An hour later he sent his card in to Rosamund Faue, and Rosamund came down presently, mystified, fluttered, yet shrewdly alert and prepared for anything since the miracle of his coming instilled such preparation.

"Why! in the world," she said, with a flushed gayety perfectly genuine, "did you ever come to see me?"

"It's only this," he said—"I am wondering whether you would do anything for me."

"Anything! Merci! Isn't that extremely general, Captain Selwyn? But you never can tell. Ask me."

So he bent forward, his clasped hands between his knees, and told her very earnestly of his fears about Gerald, asking her to use her undoubted influence with the boy to shame him from the card tables, explaining how utterly disastrous to him and his family his present course was.

"Could you help us?" he asked.

"Help us, Captain Selwyn? Who is the 'us,' please?"

"Why, Gerald and me—and his family," he added, meeting her eyes. The eyes began to dance with malice.

"His family," repeated Rosamund—"that is to say, his sister, Miss Erroll. His family, I believe, ends there, does it not?"

"Yes, Mrs. Faue."

"I see. Miss Erroll is naturally worried over him. But I wonder why she did not come to me herself instead of sending you as her errant ambassador."

"Miss Erroll did not send me," he said, flushing up. And, looking steadily into the smiling doll's face confronting him, he knew again that he had failed.

He smiled. "Come to me on your own errand, for Gerald's sake, for anybody's sake, for your own prettenally, and I'll listen, but don't come to me on another woman's errands, for I won't listen even to you."

"I have come on my own errand," he repeated coldly. "Miss Erroll knew nothing about it and shall not hear of it from me. Can you not help me, Mrs. Faue?"

But Rosamund's rose chian features had hardened into a polished smile, and Selwyn stood up wearily to make his adieu.

But as he entered his hansom before the door he knew the end was not yet, and once more he set his face toward the impossible, and once more the hansom rolled away over the asphalt, and once more it stopped, this time before the house of Ruthven.

Ruthven's greeting was a pallid stare, but as Selwyn made no motion to rise he lounged over to a couch and, half reclining among the cushions, shot an insolent glance at Selwyn, then yawned and examined the lungles on his wrist.

After a moment Selwyn said: "Mr. Ruthven, you are no doubt surprised that I am here."

"I'm not surprised if it's my wife you're come to see," drawled Ruthven. "If I'm the object of your visit, I confess to some surprise—as much as the visit is worth and no more."

The vulgarity of the insult under the man's own roof scarcely moved Selwyn to any deeper contempt and certainly not to anger.

"I did not come here to ask a favor of you," he said coolly, "for that is out of the question, Mr. Ruthven. But I came to tell you that Mr. Erroll's family has forbidden him to continue his gambling in this house and in your company anywhere or at any time."

"Most extraordinary," murmured Ruthven, passing his ringed fingers over his minutely shaven face—that strange face of a boy hardened by the depravity of ages.

"So I must request you," continued Selwyn, "to refuse him the opportunity of gambling here. Will you do it—voluntarily?"

"No."

"Then I shall use my judgment in the matter."

"And what may your judgment in the matter be?"

"I have not yet decided. For one thing I might enter a complaint with the police that a boy is being morally and materially ruined in your private gambling establishment."

"Is that a threat?"

"No. I will act, not threaten."

"Ah," drawled Ruthven, "I may do the same the next time my wife spends the evening in your apartment."

"You lie!" said Selwyn in a voice made low by surprise.

"Oh, no, I don't. Very chivalrous of you—quite proper for you to deny it like a gentleman—but useless, quite useless. So the less said about invoking the law the better for—some people. You'll agree with me, I dare say. And now, concerning your friend Gerald Erroll—I have not the slightest desire to see him play cards. Whether or not he plays is a matter perfectly indifferent to me, and you had better understand it. But if you come here demanding that I arrange my guest lists to suit you you are losing time."

"M-murder!" stammered Mr. Ruthven.

Selwyn, almost stunned at Ruthven's knowledge of the episode in his rooms, had risen as he gave the man the lie direct.

For an instant, now, as he stared at him, there was murder in his eye. Then the utter hopeless helplessness of his position overwhelmed him as Ruthven, with danger written all over him, stood up, his soft, smooth thumbs hooked in the glittering sash of his kimono.

"Scowl if you like," he said, backing away instinctively, but still nervously impertinent, "and keep your distance! If you've anything further to say to me, write it." Then, growing bolder as Selwyn made no offering, moved: "Write to me," he repeated, with a venomous smirk. "It's safer for you to figure as my correspondent than as Mrs. Ruthven's. Let go of me! W what the devil are you d-d-doing?"

For Selwyn had him fast, one sinewy hand twisted in his silken collar, holding him squirming at arm's length.

"M-murder!" stammered Mr. Ruthven.

"No," said Selwyn, "not this time. But be very, very careful after this."

And he let him go with an involuntary shudder and wiped his hands on his handkerchief.

Ruthven stood quite still, and after a moment the livid terror died out in his face and a rushing flush spread over it—a strange, dreadful shade, curiously opaque—and he half turned, blindly, hands outstretched for self support.

Selwyn coolly watched him as he sank on to the couch and sat huddled together and leaning forward, his soft, ringed fingers covering his empurpled face.

Then Selwyn went away with a shrug of utter loathing, but after he had gone and Ruthven's servants had discovered him and summoned a physician their master lay heavily amid his painted draperies and cushions, his congested features set, his eyes partly closed and possessing sight, but the whites of them had disappeared, and the eyes themselves, save for the pupils, were like two dark slits filled with blood.

There was no doubt about it. The doctors, one and all, knew their business when they had so often cautioned Mr. Ruthven to avoid sudden and excessive emotions.

That night Selwyn wrote briefly to Mrs. Ruthven:

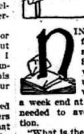
I saw your husband this afternoon. He is at liberty to inform you of what passed. But in case he does not there is one detail which you ought to know—your husband believes that you once paid a visit to my apartments. It is unlikely that he will repeat the accusation, and I think there is no occasion for you to worry. However, it is only proper that you should know it, which by my only excuse for writing you a letter that requires no acknowledgment. Very truly yours, PHILIP SELWYN.

To this letter she wrote an excited and somewhat incoherent reply, and, rereading it in troubled surprise, he began to recognize in it something of the strange, illogical, impulsive attitude which had confronted him in the first weeks of his wedded life.

Here was the same minor undertone of unrest sounding ominously through every line; the same illogical, unhappy attitude which implied so much and said so little, leaving him uneasy and disconcerted, conscious of the vague recklessness and veiled reproach, dragging him back from the present through the dead years to confront once more the old pain, the old bewilderment at the hopeless misunderstanding between them.

Chapter 16

DINA had run up to town for a day from Silverside and had telephoned Selwyn to take her somewhere for luncheon. She urged him to return with her, insisting that company anywhere or at any time."



a week end at Silverside as the best method to avert physical disintegration.

"What is there to keep you in town?" she demanded. "The children have been clamoring for you day and night, and Eileen has been expecting a letter. You promised to write her, Phil."

"I'm going to write to her," he said impatiently. "Wait a moment, Nina. Don't speak of anything pleasant or intimate just now, because—because I've got to bring up another matter—something not very pleasant to me or to you. It is about—Alice. You knew her in school years ago. You have always known her."

"Yes."

"You—did you ever visit her—stay at the Varians' house?"

"Yes."

"In—in her own home in Westchester?"

"Yes."

There was a silence. His eyes shifted to his plate; remained fixed as he said: "Then you knew her—father?"

"Yes, Phil," she said quietly, "I knew Mr. Varian."

"Was there anything—anything unusual—about him—in those days?"

"Have you heard that for the first time?" asked his sister.

He looked up. "Yes. What was it, Nina?"

She became busy with her plate for a while. He sat rigid, patient, one hand resting on his claret glass. And presently she said without meeting his eyes:

"It was even farther back—her grandparents—one of them"— She lifted her head slowly. "That is why it so deeply concerned us, Phil, when we heard of your marriage."

"What concerned you?"

"The chance of inheritance—the risk of the taint—of transmitting it. Her father's erratic brilliancy became more than eccentricity before I knew him. I would have told you that had I dreamed that you ever could think thought of marrying Alice Varian. But how could I know you would meet her out there in the orient? It was—your cable to us was like a thunderbolt. And when she—she left you so suddenly—Phil, dear—I feared the true reason—the only possible reason that could be responsible for such an insane act."

"What was the truth about her father?" he said doggedly. "He was eccentric. Was he ever worse than that?"

"The truth was that he became mentally irresponsible before his death."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Haven't you a home? asked the sympathetic citizen.

Yes, answered Plodding Pete. I had a pretty home there at one time; I knew it had a woodpile and a garden and a pump. And dog it don't seem much like home since the cyclone.

DEFICIENCY OF THE BLOOD QUARTER-CUPS: Impurities in the blood rob them of their vitality. If you have a bad complexion, or troubled by pimples and unsightly blotches on the skin, you may be sure that your blood is not right. You need a tonic and blood purifier, and for this purpose there is simply no better medicine than Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. They act directly on the liver and stomach, setting right the processes here, and thereby effect also the blood, so that the skin clears immediately.

KIDNEY TROUBLES ATTACK NAPANEE MEN AND WOMEN OLD AND YOUNG.

Kidney ills seize young and old. Come quickly with little warning. Children suffer in their early years. Can't control the kidney secretions. Girls are languid, nervous, suffer pain.

Women worry, can't do daily work. Men have lame and aching backs. The cure for man, woman or child. Is to cure the cause—the kidneys. Booth's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys.

Cure all forms of kidney suffering. Napanee testimony proves it.

Mrs. Benjamin Johnson, of Robert St., Napanee, Ont., says:

"Headaches were frequent and usually accompanied by spells of dizziness and spots before the eyes. I would be scarcely able to walk across the floor at times and would have to support myself to keep from falling. My back was weak and a dull, beating down pain settled across the small of it and in the region of the kidneys. I would be more tired and done out on waking than on going to bed as I was restless and would get but little sleep. Booth's Kidney Pills were recommended and procuring a box at Mr. Wallace's Pharmacy, I commenced treatment. I soon found relief and it was but a short time until I was well and strong again and I have felt better in every way."

FELLOWS.

A cold rain passed over here on Monday, which lasted all day, and which will make it very wet for the farmers to plow. A young daughter has taken for board at Mr. Will. Hagerman's; also one at Mr. Asselstine's.—Mr. Jas. Pitman spent Saturday in Kingston.—Miss Cleo Parrott, of Napanee, spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents.—Mrs. Lillian Snider and children spent Sunday with friends at Yarker.

BATH.

Mrs. Eva Prinzer, of Wolfe Island, visited her mother, Mrs. C. Wemp, on Sunday last.—Mr. John Thompson went on Tuesday to Belleville, to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, formerly of this place.—Mrs. James Stevenson, jr., has returned from her visit with friends in North Dakota.—The mains of Mr. Robert Smith, of Fesserton, were brought here on Sunday last and interred in the Methodist cemetery. The late Mr. Smith was formerly a resident of this place, and was a teacher in the old Grammar School here 50 years ago.—Mrs. F. S. Baker, of Guelph, also Miss Hattie Smith, of Toronto, were daughters and attended the funeral.—One of the heaviest rainstorms of the season took place on Tuesday last, but it was needed very much.

WILTON.

The Methodist congregation held their anniversary on Sunday and Monday of this week. The church was filled at both services on Sunday, but the attendance at the concert on Monday was not large, owing to the storm.—Rev. R. A. Whattam and wife, of Woodville, a former pastor here, were visiting friends and taking part in the anniversary services.—J. Gallagher has installed a gasoline lighting plant in his store, and Mr. S. Stevens has also had one put in his store and house. It certainly makes a big improvement to the village.—Miss Hazel Patterson, Harrowsmith, and Mrs. Dr. Gabey, Skagway, Alaska, are guests of Mrs. Gallagher.—Mrs. and Mrs. C. F. Miller and Ruth, of Smithhurst, were visiting friends in this village this week.—Blake Switzer has returned from a couple of months' trip in the west.—Mrs. Barnard Mills is spending a few weeks with friends in London, Ont.

TAMWORTH.

Messrs. Richard Richards and C. A. Jones, Toronto, spent Sunday last in town with friends.—Mrs. McCall and Mrs. Harkness, of Tweed, spent Sunday at Gilbert Harkness'.—Mr. and Mrs. Postal Wait intend moving to Mattawa in a few days.—Rev. Mr. Dixon exchanged pulpits with Rev. Mr. Barber, of Rossmore, on Sunday last.—Call and see the bargains in winter millinery now being offered at Mrs. C. H. Curran's.—The Women's Auxiliary of Christ Church, Tamworth, will hold a sale of useful and fancy articles, on the Town Hall, on December 8th, commencing at 1.30 p.m. Tea served from 5 to 6 o'clock.—Mr. and Mrs. John Sant and two daughters, of Winnipeg, spent part of last week visiting at Napanee.—Mrs. Shields'—Mr. Hoyeke, Mr. Coulter and wife, and Mrs. Lander, all of Tweed, spent Sunday with Jay Taylor.—Mrs. Sexsmith, of Tweed, was buried at Christ Church cemetery on Sunday last.—Floyd's rags are leaders. Call and see them.—The annual canvassing and entertainment in connection with St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Tamworth, will be held on Friday evening, December 3d, in the Town Hall. Admission 25c.

MOSCOW.

We have good prospects of sleighing.—Cut is from a number of horses sick with bowel trouble, and Dr. McCormick, V.S., of Napanee, has been a frequent visitor.—"Sandy" the well known Clydesdale stallion, owned by VanLuven Bros., has been very low, and Dr. Boulter, of Tweed, and a veterinary from Toronto were called in consultation with Dr. McCormick on Monday, much better but not out of danger. His owners are using no expense or trouble to save him. The loss of such a popular sire would mean a great deal, not only to the owners, but to the community in which he travels and is so favorably known on account of his fine stock.—Mrs. Archie Asselstine visited friends at Tamworth on Wednesday.—Mr. Earl Martin is buying poultry.—Mr. Foster has gone to Toronto with a car of potatoes.—The rain on the wires has brought them down in many places, and there is no communication over some of the rural lines, which makes places seem a long way apart.

Forethoughts On Christmas Gifts!

Who of us hasn't worried over the Christmas Gift? Each Christmas finds us fretting and worrying and hustling at the last moment to get something suitable for mother and father and grandmother and the boys and girls, and saying all the time that next year we'll get this Christmas business settled in advance, and we'll be sure that father does not get a necklace, nor mother a drum, nor grandma a toque, nor Willie a set of hair ribbons, nor Lucy a pair of spectacles. "No Sir! Next year we'll get at the job early." But have we? Here it is only four weeks away. Make out your list now. To help you we have prepared

5,000 Little Christmas Folders

Full of suggestions for Christmas Gifts, and opposite each suggestion is a space to put the initiale of the friend or re'ative for whom the article is wanted. We want you to have one. You will find them very handy. Be sure and ask some of our staff to procure you one. If there are any left they will be delighted to do so.

How do you distribute the Christmas gifts in your family? In the December issue of The Ladies' Home Journal there is a page of suggestions, entitled "When You Distribute the Gifts." It is made up of ideas contributed by Journal readers. This page will give you just the scheme you want to surprise and please the members of your family on Christmas.

"How Christmas Came to the Little King," by Charles Major, will please the little folks and grown-ups alike. It is the story of the child head of King Louis XVI. of France.

"What Other Women Have Found Out About Christmas," is a column of suggestions about those important but little things that you are apt to forget around Christmas time.

The Ladies' Home Journal Patterns will be of decided assistance to you in preparing the Christmas embroideries for the baby. The patterns for these embroideries, as well as numerous other designs are on sale at our counters.

The Journal, itself, is on sale at our magazine counter. Ten cents a copy, at 15 cents per copy.

Winter Style Book Quarterly 25c, including a 15 cent Pattern free.

Boys' Winter Overcoats.

We show the smart new cuts in diversified patterns in the most favored materials. Some have Velvet Collars, some have Military College Collars, some have Ulster Collars. All are stylish in cut and pattern, all newest of the new, all the high Robinson Co. grade. The Overcoats at $5.00 and $7.50 are especially good. Children's Overcoats, sizes 21 to 28, beautiful stylish effects for the little men, prices $2.50 to $7.50. Boys' Overcoats, sizes 28 to 33. Prices $4.00 to $10.00.

Men's Handkerchiefs for Christmas Giving.

We have thousands and thousands of Men's Handkerchiefs for you to choose from in all linen, linen lawn, cotton, excelda, silk, etc. They are imported by us direct from the manufacturers in the Old Land and are as good values as you can find anywhere in Canada.

15c All Linen Handkerchiefs at 7½c for half a dozen.
20c All Linen Handkerchiefs, at $1.00 for half a dozen.
25c All Linen Handkerchiefs, at $1.25 for half a dozen.

Exceldas, with any initial, beautifully embroidered in the corner. Price 20c each.

Genuine Exceldas, with colored borders, or in the newer effects of checks, at 2 for 25c. These are the real Exceldas, not the imitation called by another name.

Red, Blue or large White Handkerchiefs at 5c and 10c each.

White hemstitched Linen Lawn at 10c each, or 3 for 25c.

This is the great Handkerchief store of Napanee.

Eastern Brand Caps

For Men and Boys. Knit Woolen Bands. Fur Bands. Felt Linings. We have our stock of Caps in such a splendid shape to show you that it will only take a few minutes. They are splendid styles this year. Caps that look dressy and yet are warmer and more comfortable than used to be dreamed of. Prices 25c to $1.50.

Young Men's Overcoats.

We could fill a book about our Winter Overcoats for young men, as each group would serve as a text. We are showing a great variety of patterns. Styles at $8.50, $10.00, $12.50 and $15.00, are particularly nice. Cheaper ones of course if you want them.

Christmas Neckwear, Mufflers, Shirts, Gloves, ETC., FOR MEN.

Our store is full of new things, up-to-date handsome Neckwear that will be most pleasing to anyone. Two or three weeks will not find nearly as complete an assortment. We have never had a greater variety.

Neckwear, 10c, 15c, 25c and 50c.
Mufflers and Scarfs, 25c, 50c, 75c up to $1.50.
Shirts, 49c to $2.00. Gloves, 50c to $2.50.
Coat Sweaters, $1 0 up to $3.50.

Xmas Net Waists—One of a Kind.

If you appreciate one of a kind styles you will be interested in this lot of Fancy Waists. Creams, White, Dresden, Black and color Nets; 31 new styles just opened. Fresh, crisp, smart looking garments. The colored and Dresden Nets are ideal for Suit Waists.

The "Suit the Suit Waist" is the proper touch.

Fancy Towels and Towellings.

OLD BLEACH TOWELS, as used to Royalty, $1.00 to $4.00 pair. For advertising purposes the Old Bleach Co. let us have each season a large hemstitched towel for 25 cents each. We have about 10 dozen to distribute now. They beat all others for value at that price.

FANCY TOWELINGS.—High class goods that are nice to put your own hemstitching and initials on. Rose, Shamrock, Fleur De Lis, 30c to 50c yard. Narrow, plain huck, very fine for individual guest towels, 40c yard.

White English Longcloth—12½c for 10c yard.

A dealer with whom we had a contract to supply us with English Long Cloth for ten cent retailing, sold more than he could deliver. Result was that he had to fill our order with a regular 12½c cloth. We sell as we buy and it is here for you now.

On the counter to-morrow morning, Saturday, Nov. 27th, English Long Cloth, White, stamped "Durham" for 10c yard. Not more than a piece, 40 yards, to a customer. Take all you can get.

See our display of Maish Comforts

The Maish Comfort is the ideal winter covering. With it you can sleep in a room with plenty of cold fresh air yet be perfectly warm.
Try the Maish.
Sleep under one.
See the difference.
It is so warm yet so wonderfully light.
We want you to know the luxurious restfulness of sleep under the Maish. Come in now and let us show you the Maish filling and our selection of Maish Comforts.

It isn't so difficult to straighten a man's Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or relieving the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out this great truth. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs", said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is the leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell you. Sold by all dealers. 49d

"BILLY."

When the steamship "Florida" anchors at the Grand Opera House in Kingston, on Tuesday, Dec. 28th, with a full complement of passengers it will have aboard some of the most prominent people who are to participate in the three "Billy" acts, which originated with New York's greatest manager, Joseph Brooks. The concerts are gaining the place here for the first time with Edgar Atchison-Ely and the original "Billy" Belvedere in charge of the "Florida," in view of the fact that all of the scenes take place aboard the ship. Billy Hargraves, a football hero of Tri-Delphian, has lost four bets both in the last game and after an enforced illness of a few months, during which he is in retirement at his home, he takes passage on the "Florida" for Havana.

OBITUARY.

The death occurred on Tuesday at the General Hospital, Kingston, of Frank T. Sills, a well-known and respected resident of Richmond township. The deceased suffered a stroke of paralysis about a month ago and was taken to the general Hospital, Kingston, for treatment, from which he was about very low at age. He leaves three children, two sons and one daughter. About three years ago his wife died from the effects of a fire in their home. The remains were taken to the home of his brother, Mr. Charles Sills, Richmond, and the funeral took place from there on Thursday morning at eleven o'clock, interment in Riverview cemetery.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

The non-jury sitting of the High Court of Justice opened at the Court House, Napanee, on Monday, Nov. 22nd, at 10 o'clock p.m. His Lordship Sir William Mulock presiding. The following cases were tried:

Hasler vs. Township of Kaladar.—This was an action brought by Emeline Hasler, widow of the said Township of Kaladar, against the Corporation of Kaladar, Anglesea and Effingham to recover damages for injuries sustained by falling into a hole in a defective sidewalk in the Village of Flinton, in the said township. Judgment as follows: "I find the defendants guilty of negligence by reason of the non-repair of the sidewalk which caused the accident, and that the plaintiff is entitled to recover damages to the extent of $200.00, and I award her $150.00 costs, or if the defendants so elect costs to be taxed on the superior court scale, judgment to be entered accordingly, 30 days stay." Wills & Wright, of Belleville, for plaintiff. W. N. Herrington, K.C., and H. M. Deroche, K.C., for defendants.

Abbott vs. Trenton.—An action for Arch Abbott, of Trenton, on his own behalf and on behalf of all the ratepayers of the Town of Trenton, against the Town of Trenton and the Trenton Electric and Water Co., Ltd., to set aside an agreement entered into between the said defendants and to quash the By-law empowering the execution of said agreement and for an injunction. Judgment reserved. Mr. Masson, K.C., of Belleville, for plaintiff; Mr. McKay, K.C., of Toronto, for defendants. Town of Trenton, and Mr. Chisholm, K.C., of Toronto, for defendants, The Trenton Electric and Water Co.

Notice to Deaf People

THE DEAF CAN HEAR.

The Acoustician is bringing happiness to multitudes of deaf people throughout the world. By its use thousands of religious people attend church and listen to the service, securing a privilege of which they have been deprived for perhaps many years. A deaf business man is no longer handicapped, but with the use of the Acoustician he can hear and transact business the same as before his affliction. While those interested in the Acoustician are not putting out the instrument on a charitable basis, still the price is within the reach of every one, and the Co. is willing to demonstrate its efficiency by permitting a thorough test of it in every way. If you are afflicted at all with deafness attend to it at once. A chance for everyone to see it demonstrated at

FRUIT FOR THE HEALTH

By experience, the world has found that fruit contains the most healthi-giving properties of any nourishment that can be taken into the human stomach. The different kinds of fruit act by virtue of the different organs of the body. Pears act on the kidneys, and if used freely the year round, would never have diseased kidneys, and those who had diseased kidneys, would by their liberal use fresh from trees or in a preserved state, be cured at a very little cost. Sugar is required to save them—not more than 1 pt. of lb. or sugar to 1 lb. or fruit, and 2 of a lb. of sugar to 1 lb. of pears would do. Beside, they are in nutritiveness over one-half of that of beef, which is very hard on the kidneys but easy on the stomach. Apples slightly larger in nutrition value than pears, act on the bowels, and prevent, and will cure costiveness if used freely. Gooseberries very high in nutrition, and are a stomach saver and curer if used even sparingly. It will prevent and cure indigestion. Blackberries and strawberries will cure summer complaints. Cherries are high in nutrition and are healers on inflamatory organs.

Peaches and plums, oranges, etc., act on the liver in fact all kinds of fruit should be eaten freely the year round for good health. It has been said that an apple before going to bed and then the doctor may beg his bread.

Again, the cause of so many pale faces, is using agateware for boiling and cooking their food, because the pots are given to clean but of the coal of the iron pot was still used as was by our grandfathers the pale face would disappear by sufficient iron from the pot to the food going direct into the system, and far ahead of iron pills or any other kind of pills. Use sense in living right and you don't want pale faces or pale pills.—Mr. Pillsbury", the millionaire flour-barrel, is a sub-path on the light way of health.

In conclusion I would say more fruit and less meat and you will enjoy better conditions of health, and cook all vegetables, meats, etc., in iron pots and the result will be fat-well to the pale face.

Adieu for the present

THE REASON WHY

Vinol

IS THE BEST STRENGTHENING TONIC

for Feeble Old People, Delicate Children, Weak, Run-down Persons, and to Counteract Chronic Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis, is because it combines the two most world-famed tonics—the medicinal, strengthening, body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil and Tonic Iron, without oil or grease, tastes good, and agrees with every one.

We return your money without question if Vinol does not accomplish all we claim for it.

Letter From Spain

The following interesting letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rose from their daughter, Mrs. C. Sale, who is now travelling in Spain:

Madrid, Oct. 29th, 1909

My dear Mother and Father,—After I wrote you yesterday I went out with a Spanish lady and her daughter. We went to see the collection of old pictures here, principally by Spanish artists. They are said to be the best or one of the best collections in the world. I was a little bit disappointed in them, especially those of Velasquez, the great Spanish painter. I did not like the subjects, so much war and so many of Spanish history, which I did not understand. It was a huge gallery, larger than the National gallery in London. After seeing that we looked and walked about two miles and saw the public buildings, which are all very large and, quite fine. There are many of them of plaster and some brick, and do not look as fine as if they were of stone. There is a very fine statue of Christopher Columbus in one of the squares. In their public buildings they went to think size is everything. The Bank of Spain is a very fine building. I saw the church the King was married in. I also saw the King's baby daughter driving with her nurse and a lady in waiting in an open carriage with only a coachman and footman, just like any other baby. She is a very fine child but looks quite English.

I went to tea with the Spanish ladies, and had tea with hot milk. I came in and had dinner with Charlie. The hotel cooking is quite French, except that there are always eggs on every shape and form. This morning Charlie went off very early to see some more works of art. Interested in and the daughters of the Spanish friend came with their father and mother to take me out into Spanish girl is allowed to go out alone in a carriage. These two were followed to go alone with me. The some ladies had a carriage and we drove to a modern art gallery

These Grate Bars Mean a Clean Fire and no Coal Wasted.

There are four grate bars in the "Hecla." Each can be shaken separately. When the center of the fire is bright, and the outside dead, simply shake the outside bars. If any part of the fire needs cleaning, that one part may be cleaned, without disturbing the live coals or unburnt fuel in any other part of the fire-pot.

"Hecla" Grate Bars are easy to shake, clean the fire without a poker, save coal and make sifting ashes unnecessary.

The "Hecla" also has the famous Fused Joints—that make this furnace absolutely and permanently gas, smoke and dust proof.

Have you our latest catalogue? You should, if you are going to put a new furnace in your home this season. Write for free copy. 92

ODESSA.

As Odessa correspondent must be dead, we thought the people would like to hear that we are not all buried at any rate.—Accidents seem to be the most now-a-days. On Sunday evening, as church was out, a somebody's top buggy was pushed into a yard near Doctor Mabee's house, with an axle broken. Nobody hurt, only a shaking up. On Thursday of last week as John E. Storms, of Wilton, was helping Ross Peters husk corn, something went astray and caught Mr. Storms' hand and mangled it in a terrible manner. Only for being so heavily dressed he would have been more mangled. They phoned for Dr. Mabee immediately, and he dressed it. Mrs. Jas. C. Perry of this village is carrying her right hand in a sling from the effects of a cut from a fresh cut pane of plate glass out of a door, which had been laid on the bed. She went to dust and threw her hand against it, thinking it to be dust, cutting it so badly that but for the arrival of Dr. Mabee coming along at the time and rendering such attention as he deemed necessary, of putting in stitches in it, she could have bled to death in a very short time, as her and her young daughter were alone. Mr. Henzy being away to a neighbor's, threshing. But we hope to hear of their speedy recovery. Threshing is done, and coal drawing is at hand.—Weddings are heard of in different directions.—Husking corn is all done too.—Move, move, people move in day light, move after dark, and move before light; in fact it's move all the time.—Mrs. P. A. Mabee is expected home next week. Mr. Harry Wessels has sold out his blacksmith shop to John Barley, our baker. It's the right man in the right place.—We note Mrs. Henzy's sister in our midst, who came here to pass the time with Mrs. Henzy in her trouble.

TISDALE, SASK.

The weather continues fine, after the severe cold spell of last week. Everybody thought winter was coming in earnest. It is snowing at time of writing, and we are likely to have sleighing soon. The water in the rivers and creeks is very low. There has been scarcely any rain here since July. The weather has been very favorable this fall for the farmers. A great deal of fall ploughing has been done. Messrs. J. Pickering and R. Miller finished ploughing eighty acres on Tuesday of last week.—Hauling grain is the order of the day now. Some of the farmers are drawing grain with a horse and rig hitched together. How would that look down east?—Mr. W. B. Foster has added fourteen head of cattle to his stock, among them a fine yoke of oxen. That makes twenty-one head he has to winter.—Mrs. A. Allport and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Comings are moving into New Ontario, where they will reside during the winter.—Mrs. A. Dafoe spent a few days of last week at Mr. Bruce Miller's, Elam Valley.—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest and family spent the 9th of November at George Miller's.—Mrs. H. Barber and daughter Lillian and Miss Armstrong at W. D. Foster's, on Saturday evening.—Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Foster spent Sunday evening at Mr. C. Wallington's. The many friends of Mrs. Wallington will be pleased to hear that she left on Monday evening's train for Winnipeg to enter the General Hospital to undergo an operation for tumor. This is the second operation and her family are anxiously awaiting results. Our sympathies are with the family.—A party from Star City went north last week, looking for homesteads. They report themselves well pleased with the country. That country is filling up fast. Any one desiring a good homestead would do well to get in as quickly as possible.—Mr. Fred Campbell, of Flinton, ont., arrived here on Wednesday of last week. He went to Mellort on Tuesday and secured a homestead. Fred means business.—Messrs. Aubrey and Will Miller will be moving soon to Millertown to settle on their homesteads. About thirty-five of the friends and neighbors met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Miller, on Wednesday night of last week, and quietly took possession of the house. Games were indulged in until twelve o'clock, when a nice lunch was served by the ladies. After lunch Mrs. A. Miller gave several chorus selections on the gramophone. The party broke up at two o'clock, and all went away well satisfied with their night's enjoyment. Mr. and Mrs. Miller will be moving to their homestead shortly, and will be greatly missed by their neighbors here.—Anniversary services will be held in the Methodist church on Dec. 5th. They have secured the services of Rev. Oliver Darwin, of Regina, for Sunday morning. Also the Rev. J. Holmes Toole, of Prince Albert, will conduct S. S. and Chairs. A fowl supper will be held the following evening in the vestry of the church.—Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hawley have moved into town for the winter from Silver Stream.—Messrs. J. Pickering and W. Miller are threshing their grain in to the elevator.—Mr. and Mrs. W. Foster spent Tuesday night at Mr. Jas. Salsbury's, Moira Valley.—Mr. and Mrs. George Bowerman at W. Foster's, on Wednesday evening.—Percy Foster and F. Meeks at G. Miller's, on Thursday evening.—Mr. Jos. Nightengale, of Roblin's Mills, Ont., will leave for Winnipeg on Monday next, after spending several months at Forrester.—Mr. R. H. Head was in town on Saturday. Fred Head has secured a situation with Mr. H. Barber.—A couple of our young men saw a black bear the other morning. They gave chase, but it turned out to be a neighbor's dog. Keep your eyes open, boys.—Master David Lloyd visited his friend, F. Meeks, on Tuesday. They spent the day hunting, but hagged no game.—Mr. Frank Tarpy made a flying trip to Forrester, and called at W. D. Foster's, for dinner, one day last week.—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Miller spent Wednesday at W. D. Foster's.—Typhoid fever has been very bad in some parts of this country. Three new cases went into Mellort hospital on Tuesday.—Several of the homesteaders who went away to work during the summer, never returned to their farms.—Mr. Frank Cummings, with several others, have gone on a hunting expedition north. Frank said he was not coming out until he got something. His friends are not expecting him out very soon.

WARNING.

The Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal in this week's issue are warning their present subscribers to renew earlier than usual this season, as there is an enormous demand from new subscribers and there is apt to be a congestion at the close of the year. The new premium picture, "The Soul's Awakening," is creating a perfect furore of enthusiasm in all parts of the Dominion. It is certainly a beautiful picture and is appreciated more and more the oftener one sees it. It is 19x24 inches, ready for framing. A copy is sent to every subscriber for 1910, and along with such a paper as The Family Herald and Weekly Star at one dollar a year certainly is the best bargain of the year. Clergymen of all denominations are urging parents to become possessors of a copy of this interesting picture.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

Our Indian summer has caught a cold this week, and this vicinity was visited by quite a snow storm on Thursday, but it has turned warmer since.—Mrs. W. Abrams is home again, after spending a few days in Belleville.—Mrs. Ed. Grooms has been spending a few days with Miss Edith Grooms, Slash Road.—Mrs. W. Allenbrack spent Wednesday at Yarker, attending the funeral of her cousin, Miss Love.—Miss Edith Grooms visited one day last week at Mrs. O. S. Davis'.—Miss N. Davis spent a few days recently at Hay Bay, with friends.—Master W. Cole, Harrowsmith, has been spending a few weeks at Mrs. F. Bowen's.

Friday evening, Nov. 19th, was our long looked for tea at the Lutheran church. Although Mr. Weatherman did not send us a very nice evening, we said thank you just the same. The church was filled and supper served of sandwiches, cake, pie, tea and coffee, which our fair sex always prepares in abundance. All were eager to hear the next, the genial pastor, Rev. G. McConnell, called Lieut. Col. Meng, of Napanee, to the platform to act as Chairman. Addresses were given by Rev. W. T. Wickett, of Shannonville, a former pastor of this circuit; Rev. W. H. Emsley, Napanee, and Rev. C. W. DeMille, Bay Circuit. Musical selections were very ably rendered by the choir of the Lutheran, quartette from Morven choir, duett by Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Smith, of Hawley, which was heartily appreciated by all, solo by Master Lou Meng, of Napanee. Recitations were given by Miss Ada Gould, elocutionist, of Napanee. Miss S. Parrott, Fellows; Miss M. Gould, Morven. Miss Sagar—Rumor says a Xmas tree is being talked of in aid of the Sunday School.

NEWS NOTES.

Ex-Ald. Peter Bayne died at Hamilton.

The House of Lords passed the Irish land bill, allowing certain amendments which the Commons had declined to accept.

Plans are on foot to hold an exhibition in 1913 to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the freedom of the negro race in America.

It some business men were judged by the printed matter they send out they would do mighty little business. A business man or a business house not thoroughly known if often judged this way. You can afford to take chances with poor printing when good work in this line costs little, if any, more.

MOST WONDERFUL STUFF.

D. D. D. CURED ANNIE M. WIGGINS OF WEEPING ECZEMA.

Anyone who has ever seen or suffered from Eczema knows how stubborn it is to ordinary treatment and doctors' prescriptions, and how very difficult it is to get rid of it. Miss Annie M. Wiggins, Fort Qu'Appelle's Springs, Sask., was finding it so till she heard of and tried D. D. D. Prescription.

Then came relief, from the very first time she used it. She writes:—"I use D. D. D. for eczema I had completely and I must say it is the most wonderful stuff I have ever used. I started with weeping eczema for about two months and doctor's care and was getting worse rather when a friend advised me to send for a sample bottle of D. D. D. Prescription. It seemed to help me, and I set some sent for a $1.00 bottle, and before I had used half the face was as well as ever. I have recommended it to lots several and am sending for $1.00 bottle for a friend who tried some of mine."

If you or any of your friends have been suffering from torturing eczema or any other skin disease, get D. D. D. just as quick as you can. It relieves instantly and positively cures.

For free sample bottle of D. D. D. Prescription write to the D. D. D. Laboratory, Department N.B., 23 Jordan St., Toronto.

MARYSVILLE.

Quite a number attended the ball held in the C. M. A. hall, in aid of St. Mary's Church, on Monday night. Oh, say, the roads were muddy.—The torrent rain on Monday made the roads a perfect flood of water.—Quite a number spent a recent Monday evening with Miss Mary Traynor.—The young men around here are putting in a good time, attending euchre parties around the neighborhood.—Mr. John Maracle has moved in Mr. Hugh McCarthy's tenant house at the village.

BAY CENTRE.

One of our old and much esteemed residents in the person of Mrs. Jane McCabe, passed peacefully away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Geo. Butcher, Deerouto, on Saturday, at the ripe old age of eighty-three years. The funeral was held in the Sand Hill Presbyterian church on Monday, conducted by Mr. Ansley and was largely attended. She leaves to mourn her loss two sons and three daughters. The sons are Simeon P., of this place; Myro, of Napanee, and the daughters are Mrs. George Butcher, Deerouto; Mrs. Ben. Frink, Hawley, and Mrs. Geo. Bruce, of this place. Mr. and Mrs. F. Sherman and daughter Mildred, and Mr. and Mrs. S. Wamsley spent Sunday at E. O. McCabe's.—Miss Jennie McCabe was visiting friends in Napanee last week, and took in the opera "The Lily and the Prince."—Mr. and Mrs. A. Janes, Gosport, spent Monday at P. Brown's.—Miss Annie VanAslyne spent Thursday last at Robt. Rennie's. Duck hunting is the order of the day, but not many ducks.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Galt, Gosport, at A. McCabe's, on Sunday.—Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hambly, and Miss Maggie Moore spent Sunday evening at J. Moore's, Bay View Farm.—Rumor says a Xmas tree in the near future. Particulars later.—Miss Cora McCabe, Mr. C. McCabe and Mr. F. Moore at J. McCabe's, on Sunday.—Miss Elsie and Mr. Ward Sherman spent Sunday evening at J. Sherman's, Tirrina.—Our mill drawers finished drawing milk last Saturday, and we will have nothing to disturb our slumbers until next spring.

Dust is a danger your home shouldn't endure

The floor that is coated with the glass-like, germ-proof, sanitary, lifeless finish Floorglaze gives will exude practically no dust. That ought to mean much in your home.

Floorglaze

Nearly every malignant disease finds dust its best messenger. And this floor-finish, in any of its ten eye-pleasing shades, deprives dust of its chief stronghold—the floor.

Floorglaze costs little—a gallon covers 800 square feet. Anyone can apply it right. It just CAN'T wear out—who'll does dry hard in a single night.

Floorglaze is so durable, and stands hard wear so well, that it serves perfectly for floors exposed to the weather—balconies, summer houses, verandas, etc.

Most dealers sell Floorglaze. If yours doesn't happen to, tell us his name and receive a Free Book you'll like to read.

HER PHYSICIAN ADVISED

Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Columbus, Ohio.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during a change of life. My doctor told me it was good, and since taking it I feel so much better that I can do all my work again. I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a nine remedy for all woman's troubles, and I never forget to tell my friends what it has done for me."—Mrs. E. Hanson, 304 East Long St., Columbus, Ohio.

Another Woman Helped.

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored my health and strength, and proved worth mountains of gold to me. For the sake of other suffering women I am willing you should publish my letter."—Mrs. Charles Barclay, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

RAPLEY IS ALIVE, SAYS STRATHROY MAN.

Strathroy, Ont.—Strathroy relatives of Burton F. Rapley, the missing Belleville commercial traveller, who mysteriously disappeared some weeks ago from a hotel at Napanee, where he had registered, now have assurance that the young man is alive and well, and did not meet with foul play as was at first supposed. Mr. Rapley passed through Strathroy over the G. T. R. and disclosed his identity to one of our citizens who happened to be at the station, requesting him to inform his uncles here that Burton Rapley had passed through the town. The gentleman did as he was bid and positively identified Rapley's photograph, which was shown to him a day or two later. Various reasons are ventured to explain the young man's strange action, but nothing is as yet known concerning his motive.

Facts For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Bellevier, Que. "Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I suffered like a martyr and thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I went to a hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had a tumor. I went back home much discouraged. One of my cousins advised me to take your Compound, as it had cured her. I did so and soon commenced to feel better, and my appetite came back with the first bottle. Now I feel no pain and am cured. Your remedy is deserving of praise." — Mrs. Emma Chatel, Valleyfield, Bellevier, Quebec.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

Why Canadians Should Insure In a Canadian Company

BECAUSE experience covering a period of forty-six years has proven that the death rate of insured lives is about 15 per cent. greater in the United States than in Canada.

BECAUSE a Canadian does not need to assist in paying for this extra heavy death rate in a foreign country.

BECAUSE a Canadian insuring in a foreign Company is sending his money out of Canada. If retained in Canada he and Canadians generally will benefit by its circulation and investment.

BECAUSE in the Policy-Holders Mutual Life (of Canada) he can secure his insurance at lower rates and on easier terms than in any other Company.

BECAUSE in the Policy-Holders Mutual Life (of Canada) he will be insured in a Canadian Company incorporated by special act, especially safe-guarding his interests, thoroughly democratic in its principles of management, with every safe-guard and security to make it the strongest stock company can lay claim or which Government deposit, reserve and inspection can secure.

The Policy-Holders Mutual Life Insurance Co. (of Canada).

A little more sweet and a little less sour.
A little less seed and a little more flower.
A little more song and a little less sigh.
A little less earth and a little more sky!

George Washington, hatchet in hand, had just concluded the famous interview with his father. "It's lucky," he remarked to the hired man, "that I went after a cherry tree instead of the North Pole. Otherwise my motives and veracity would have been subjects of controversy for generations.

IN MEMORIAM.

Centreville lost one of its most respected citizens, and the R. C. church one of its ablest supporters, on the evening of November 16th, when death called peacefully away Mr. Michael Ingoldsby. He will be sadly missed by the whole community in which he resided, as his kindly disposition and gentle manner made him revered and loved by his neighbors, friends and relatives. As a son of Bernard Ingoldsby, and the youngest of eight children, he first saw the light of day September 29th, 1841, but spent most of his younger days in the township of Sheffield, afterwards returning to Centreville to the old homestead, where he has since resided. He married in 1872 Mary Ann Bromgole, who predeceased him eight years. He was a kind husband and a loving father to his eight children who survive him and mourn his loss. They are Mrs. John Kidd, Erinsville; Mrs. W. D. Kenney, Kingston; Bernard and Michael, of Watertown, N.Y.; Mrs. A. Allore, of Tweed, and Charles, Annie and Estella, on the homestead. A large concourse of friends followed his corpse to the R. C. church on Thursday, where a solemn requiem mass was sung by Rev. Father MacCarthy, after which his remains were placed in the vault to await future interment.

FRIENDS NOT KNOWN.

Henry T. Clute Found in His Room in an Unconscious Condition.

Not Likely to Recover.

Hamilton Herald, Nov. 24th, 1909.

The City Hospital authorities would like to get some information about H. T. Clute, who was taken there on Monday morning last in an unconscious condition, from 134 North John street, where he roomed. Nothing is known here about his relatives, though it is understood his home was formerly in Sillsville, near Napanee, and it is believed that some members of his family reside there.

Mr. Clute is about 75 or 80 years of age, and has been in the city for the last few years. He was agent for the Singer Sewing Machine Company for a time, of late he has been employed by the Ninth Division Court here.

Mr. Clute had very little to say about his past, but it is believed he had considerable means, which he lost. His manner indicated that he had been accustomed to a different life than had been his lot for the past few years. His speech and bearing were refined and gentlemanly always, and he was liked by all with whom he came in contact.

Anyone can furnish information about Mr. Clute, Mr. C. H. Peebles, Clerk 9th Div. Court Wentworth, Court House, Hamilton, Ont., will be pleased to have it.

KEEL PLATES LAID OF TWO WARSHIPS.

The keel plates of two monster warships, the Orion (the improved Broadnought battleship) and the Lion (the cruiser battleship) were laid Monday at Portsmouth and Devonport, respectively. The bulk of the material for both vessels is ready and all arrangements have been made for their completion within two years.

The construction of the Lion will mark a notable stage in the evolution of the cruising battleship. She will have 70,000 horse-power, while her immediate predecessor had 45,000. She will displace 21,000 tons and her length will be 700 feet, constituting her the longest man-of-war ever laid down. What is technically known as her "trim of deck" indicates an intention to equip the cruiser battleship with ten 12-inch guns, thus placing her, as regards armament, on an equality with the latest battleships. She will have probably a nominal speed of 27 knots an hour.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

ENGLISH FRUIT PUDDING.

Soak one half of a pound of stale bread-crumbs in one cupful of scalded milk one hour. Add two-thirds of a cupful of sugar, the beaten yolks of five eggs, one cupful of raisins seeded (cut in pieces and dredged with one and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour), two-thirds of a cupful of currants, one-half of a cupful of chopped English walnut meats, one-half of a cupful of finely chopped figs, and one-half cupful of finely-cut citron. Chop one-half of a pound of suet and work until creamy, using the hands. Add first mixture, and when thoroughly mixed, add one-half of a grated nutmeg, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-third of a teaspoonful of cloves, one-third of a teaspoonful of mace and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt; then add the whites of five eggs, beaten until stiff. Turn into a buttered ring mold, cover with buttered paper and steam four and one-half hours.—Women's Home Companion for December.

HEN COOP LOOTED.

Ogdensburg, N.Y.—A farmer named Jones, residing in Morley, went to his coop a few days ago and found all of his hens gone. In looking around he came upon a pocketbook. It contained about $70 in cash and checks, bringing the value of the find up to about $150. It also contained cards containing an address assumed to be that of the owner.

The finder said nothing about the pocketbook at the time, deciding to await developments. They came in the form of the man whose name appeared on the cards. He drove to the Jones farm and inquired if Jones had any poultry he would sell. Jones said he had sold his poultry. The visitor finally managed to find an excuse to get to the coop, and when Jones expected he at once became busy looking about. He failed to find anything and later drove away without mentioning the pocketbook. Jones conferred with some of his neighbors, to whom he told the story, but so far no negotiations have been opened between the interested parties.

TO A FRIEND.

Through drenching drops a ship is sailing,
A battered, broken journeyer,
And yet she keeps her course unfailing—
A harbor waits for her.

Hope of that port her way doth order.
How far soever on the sea,
Ah, so thy heart, beyond the Border,
Beckons and governs me.

—George Herbert Clarke, in the December Canadian Magazine.

GREW RICH IN WEST.

Winnipeg—E. A. Gwillimin, of Forget, Sask., came to Canada from France eighteen years ago, borrowed $10.00 from a farmer by whom he was employed, expended the money staking a homestead, and is now one of the west's most prosperous agriculturists, being worth a quarter of a million dollars.

Alternately working his homestead and hiring out to nearby farmers to secure money to carry him along, Gwillimin began to prosper. His first crop was a good one and from then on his road to wealth became smoother, and from time to time he purchased adjoining lands, until today his homestead of 160 acres forms but a portion of his farm, which consists of forty-two other quarter-sections, or 6,880 acres of the best farming land to be found in Saskatchewan. Of this land Gwillimin had sown 4,000 acres in crop this year, and in round figures threshed 30,000 bushels of wheat, the same of oats, and 7,000 bushels of barley, the proceeds from which alone are a small fortune. To run this large farm 30 horses are used, besides farming machinery and a threshing outfit worth $25,000.

KILLED BY TRAIN ON EVE OF TRIP.

An intended trip to Boston, where her niece was going to enter a hospital as nurse, came to a sad ending Monday morning for Miss N. Aylesworth, a middle-aged resident of Ernestown, who is well known in this town. She was fatally injured by being struck by a Grand Trunk train and died at the General Hospital, Kingston, Monday afternoon.

Miss Aylesworth and her niece had just alighted from their rig at the Ernestown station. No one saw how the accident occurred, but it is thought that the victim stepped off the platform and did not notice an incoming immigrant special train.

A Concordia boy observed the amount of the contribution his mother made to the church collection. On the way home the mother complained about the quality of the sermon. "Oh, well, ma," the boy answered, "you can't expect much for a cent."

Just after a severe electrical storm a timid patron of a rural telephone system, aware that the telephones were not equipped with lightning arresters, called up central and asked: "Can I talk with safety now?" "There is no such person on the line," replied the new girl at central.

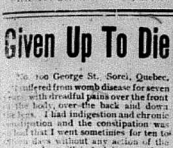
Given Up To Die

Mrs. Noo George St., Sorel, Quebec, suffered from womb disease for seven years with dreadful pains over the front of the body, over the back and down the legs. I had indigestion and chronic constipation and the constipation was so bad that I went sometimes for ten to fifteen days without any action of the bowels. I was ill in bed, for one whole week at one time. I was so low that everyone thought I was going to die, and the last Rites of the Church were administered to me. I was treated by different doctors without any benefit.



MADAME JOSEPH URETTE

Then I got a sample of "Fruit-a-tives," but I had no faith in them at all, and I would not have taken them only my husband had so much faith in them. As soon as I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" I grew better, the pains were relieved, the sleeplessness ceased, my stomach acted, and the bowels were moved, but above all the dreadful womb pains were made easier. I have taken eighteen boxes in all and I am now perfectly well again."

Mrs. JOSEPH URETTE.

"Fruit-a-tives" is for sale at 50c box—or trial box 25c, at dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

The Younger Set

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS, Author of "The Fighting Chance," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Robert W. Chambers.

"You know this?"

"Alixe told me when we were schoolgirls. And for days she was haunted with the fear of what might one day be her inheritance. That is all I know, Phil."

He nodded and for a while made some pretense of eating, but presently leaned back and looked at his sister out of dazed eyes.

"Do you suppose," he said heavily "that she was not entirely responsible when—when she went away?"

"I have wondered," said Nina simply. "Austin believes it."

"I can't believe it," he said, starting, at vacancy. "I refuse to." And, thinking of her last frightened and evasive letter imploring an interview with him and giving the startling reason, "What a scoundrel that fellow Ruthven is," he said, with a shudder.

That night he wrote to Alixe:

If Ruthven threatens you with divorce on such a ground he himself is likely to be unbalanced mentally unsound. It was a brutal, stupid threat, nothing more, and his insult to your father's memory was more brutal still. Don't be stampeded by such threats. Disprove them by your calm self control under provocation. Disprove somehow your discretion and self confidence. Give nobody a single possible reason for gossip. And, above all, Alixe, don't become worried and morbid over anything you might dread as misfortune, for you are as sound today as you were when I first met you, and you may be sure that you could ever be in anything else. Be the woman you can be. Show the pluck and courage to make the very best out of life. I have always found it attempt it, and it is not difficult if you convince yourself that it can be done.

To this she answered the next day:

I will do my best. There is dinner, inevitably, everywhere, and if it becomes unendurable I shall put an end to it in one way or another. As for his threat—nobody is admitting that I still go to your room and defying him to dare believe evil of me for doing it—I can laugh at it now, Horace, when I stress you. I was terrified, remembering how mentally unbalanced my father was when I died.

But, as you say, I am sound, body and mind. I know it. I don't doubt it for one moment—except, at long intervals, when, for days of nothing, a faint sensation of moral coma creeping.

But I am sound. I know it so absolutely that I sometimes wonder at my own perfect sanity and understanding, and so I am so faithfully, so precisely sane my mind work that—and this I never told you—I am often able to see the almost mental inadequacy in many people around me, the stupidest deviation from the correct, the slightest degree of mental inferiority. And it would amaze you, too, if I should tell you how many, many people you know are in some degree more or less impaired.

How very correctly disagreeable to me I am, and we are almost nothing to one another except over the card tables. Gerald has been winning rather heavily. I am glad to say—and as long as I cannot prevent him from playing. And yet I may be able to accomplish that yet in a roundabout way, because the apple visited and he graciously Mr. Secord has apparently become my slavish creature—quite infatuated. And as soon as I've fastened on his collar and made sure that Redmond can't unhook it I'll try to make him shut down on Gerald's playing. This for your sake, Phil—because you ask me and because you must always stand for all that is upright and good manly in my eyes. Ah, Phil, what a fool I was! And all, all my own fault too!

This ended the sudden eruption of correspondence, for he did not reply to this letter, though in it he read enough to make him gravely uneasy, and he fell once more into the habit of brooding, from which both Boots Lansing and Eileen had almost weaned him.

Also he began to take long, solitary walks in the park when not occupied in conferences with the representatives of the Lawn Nitro Powder works, a company which had recently approached him in behalf of his unperfected explosive, chaselite.

Lying back there to his desk chair one evening, Selwyn suddenly remembered that Gerald had come in. They had scarcely seen one another since that unhappy meeting in the Stuyvesant club, and now, remembering what he had written to Eileen, he emerged with a start from his contented dreaming, sobered by the prospect of seeing Gerald.

For a moment or two he hesitated, but he had said in his letter that he was going to do it, and now he rose, looked around for his pipe, found it, filled and lighted it and, throwing on his dressing gown, went out into the corridor, tying the tasseled cords around his waist as he walked.

His first knock remaining unanswered, he knocked more sharply. Then he heard from within the muffled creak of a bed, heavy steps across the floor. The door opened with a jerk. Gerald stood there, eyes swollen, hair in disorder and collar crushed and the whole evening tie unknotted and dangling over his soiled shirt front.

"Hello," said Selwyn simply. "May I come in?"

The boy passed his hand across his eyes as though confused by the light. Then he turned and walked back toward the bed, still rubbing his eyes, and sat down on the edge.

Selwyn closed the door and seated himself, apparently not noticing Gerald's disheveled.

"Thought I'd drop in for a good night pipe," he said quietly. "By the way, Gerald, I'm going down to Silverside next week. Nina has asked Boots too. Couldn't you fix it to come along with us?"

"I don't know," said the boy in a low voice. "I'd like to."

"Good business! That will be fine. What you and I need is a good stiff tramp across the moors or a gallop if you like. It's great for mental cobwebs, and my brain is disgracefully unswept. By the way, somebody said that you'd joined the Slowithn club."

"Yes," said the boy listlessly.

"Well, you'll get some lively trout fishing there now. It's only thirty miles from Silverside, you know. You can run over in the motor very easily."

Gerald nodded, sitting silent, his handsome head supported in both hands, his eyes on the floor.

That something was very wrong with him appeared plainly enough, but Selwyn, touched to the heart and mildly apprehensive, dared not quer tion him unasked.

And so they sat there for awhile, Selwyn making what conversation he could, and at length Gerald turned and dragged himself across the bed, dropping his head back on the disordered pillows.

"Go on," he said; "I'm listening."

So Selwyn began to speak, pleasant inconsequential observations, and Gerald lay with closed eyes quite motionless until, watching him, Selwyn saw his hand very cautiously move and be clinched beside him. And presently the boy turned his face to the wall.

Toward midnight Selwyn rose quietly, removed the enlighted pipe from between his teeth, knocked the ashes from it and pocketed it. Then he walked to the bed and seated himself on the edge.

"What's the trouble, old man?" he asked coolly.

There was no answer. He placed his hand over Gerald's. The boy's hand lay inert, then quivered and closed on Selwyn's convulsively.

"What's right," said the elder man; "that's what I'm here for—to stand by when you hoist signals. Go on."

The boy shook his head and buried it deeper in the pillow.

"Bad as that?" commented Selwyn quietly. "Well, what of it? I'm standing by, I tell you. That's right"—as Gerald broke down, his body quivering under the spasm of soundless grief—"that's the safety valve working. Good business. Take your time."

It took a long time, and Selwyn sat silent and motionless, his whole arm numb from its position and Gerald's crushing grasp. And at last, seeing that was the moment to speak, he said:

"Now let's fix up this matter, Gerald. Come on!"

"Good heavens! H-how can it be f-fixed?"

"I'll tell you when you tell me. It's a money difficulty, I suppose, isn't it?"

"Yes."

"Cards?"

"P-partly."

"Oh, a note? Case of honor? Where is this I. O. U. that you gave?"

It's worse than that. The—the note is paid. Good God—I can't tell you!"

"You must. That's why I'm here, Gerald."

"Well, then, I—I drew a check—knowing that I had no funds. If it—if they return it marked"—

"I see. What are the figures?"

The boy stammered them out. Selwyn's grave face grew grave yet still.

"That is bad," he said slowly, "very bad. Have you—but of course you couldn't have seen Austin."

"I'd kill myself first!" said Gerald fiercely.

"No, you wouldn't do that. You're not that kind. Keep perfectly cool, Gerald, because it is going to be fixed. The method only remains to be decided upon."

"I can't take your money!" stammered the boy. "I can't take a cent from you after what I've said—the beastly things I've said."

"If isn't the things you say to me, Gerald, that matter. Let me think a bit, and don't worry. Just lie quietly and understand that I'll do the worrying. And while I'm amusing myself with a little quiet reflection as to ways and means just take your own bearings from this reef and set a true course once more, Gerald. That is all the reproach, all the criticism, you are going to get from me. Deal with yourself and your God in silence."

And in silence and heavy dismay Selwyn confronted the sacrifice he must make to save the honor of the house of Erroll.

It meant more than temporary inconvenience to himself. It meant that he must go into the market and sell securities which were partly his capital and from which came the modest income that enabled him to live as he did.

There was no other way unless he went to Austin. But he did not do that—dared not think what Austin's action in the matter might be. And he knew that if Gerald were ever driven into hopeless exile, with Austin's knowledge of his disgrace rankling, the boy's utter ruin must result inevitably.

Yet—yet—how could he afford to do this—unecupled, earning nothing, he rect of his profession, with only the chance in view that his chaselite might turn out stable enough to be marketable? How could he dare so strip himself? Yet there was no other way. It had to be done, and done at once—the very first thing in the morning, before it became too late.

And at first, in the bitter resentment of the necessity, his impulse was to turn on Gerald and bind him to good conduct by every pledge the boy could give. At least there would be compensation. Yet with the thought came the clear conviction of its futility. The boy had brushed too close to dishonor not to recognize it. And if this were not a lifelong lesson to him no promises forced from him in his dire need and distress, no oaths, no pledges, could bind him. No blame, no admonition, no scorn, no contempt, no re

THE BEST LIVER PILL. The reason why they are easily discouraged is because children are exposure to the elements, overeating some favorite food, eating dirt, drinking, are a few of the causes. But there may be the cause. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills can be relied upon as the best corrective that can be taken. They are the leading pills and they have no superiors among such preparations.

COMFORT FOR THE DYSPEPTIC.—There is no ailment so harassing and exhausting as dyspepsia, which arises from defective action of the stomach and liver, and the victim of it it is to be pitied. Yet he can find ready relief in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, a preparation that has established itself by its prompt and effective use. These pills are widely advertised as the greatest ever compounded, but not one of them can rank in value with Parmelee's.

Often what appear to be the most trivial occurrences of life prove to be the most momentous. Many are disposed to regard a cough as a slight thing, deserving of little consideration, and this neglect often results in fatal consumption after enduring years of suffering. Drive out colds and coughs with Dr. Hibbs's Antiseptic Syrup, the recognized remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

CURES CATARRH, ASTHMA, Bronchitis, Croup, Coughs and Colds, or money back. Sold and guaranteed by T. B. WALLACE.

MI-O-NA
Relieves Stomach Misery Almost Immediately.

If the food you ate at your last meal did not digest, but laid for a long time like lead on your stomach then you have indigestion and quick action should be taken.

Of course there are many other symptoms of indigestion, such as belching up of sour food, heartburn, dizziness, shortness of breath and foul breath, and if you have any of them, your stomach is out of order and should be corrected.

Mi-o-na tablets have cured thousands of cases of indigestion and stomach trouble. If you have any stomach distress, Mi-o-na will relieve instantly.

But Mi-o-na unlike most so-called dyspepsia remedies, does more than relieve; it permanently cures dyspepsia or any stomach trouble by putting energy and strength into the walls of the stomach, where the gastric juices are produced.

A large box of Mi-o-na tablets costs but 50 cents at T. B. Wallace's and are guaranteed to cure or money back. When others fail, Mi-o-na will be the best is this; it does the cures. It is a producer of flesh when stomach and bowels; purifies the blood and makes rich red blood.

"Quality" and "Castle"

I am putting on two grades of Flour, called "Quality" and "Castle". The former we can recommend as being second to none and a little better than most brands, and the latter, "Castle", is a trial of a quality that these users will produce the most palatable bread in the world. "Quality" will cost you $2.80 per 100, and "Castle" $2.90. Give a trial order for your next order, and you will become a steady customer.

MITE BOX SOCIAL.

As announced last week, the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian Church will hold their mite box social next Monday evening, Dec. 6th, in the Sunday School room, at 8 o'clock. A very fine programme of solos, readings and recitations, also an address by Rev. Mr. Cleveland Master in the College, are in store. Admission, 15c. All come and help the ladies, and enjoy a very pleasant evening.

DROWNED IN LAKE.

About a month ago Clark Johnson, a well known resident of Napanee, took a trip to Kingston, and had not been heard from until Tuesday last, when the mystery was cleared up, as his body was found floating in the lake near Kingston. At the time of his disappearance it was learned that he had accidentally fallen into the lake, but the speed of his whereabouts was unknowable until the news reached here on Tuesday of the finding of the body. The remains were brought to Napanee on Wednesday interment being made at Riverview cemetery Thursday morning. Deceased was 42 years of age, and leaves a wife and two children. Besides a sister, Mrs. Samuel Howard, to whom his sympathy is extended.

Y. W. C. T. U.

A group-publishing scheme to send in the names of the people in the town with regard to their subscription to the Y. W. C. T. U. Appeals have come to the Union that the relief of Hamilton's 3,000 they have been unable to grant, simply because so far that purpose has been placed at their disposal. The special local work they have undertaken is in the form of evangelistic meetings and classes for instruction in sewing. The receipts from the sale and raisings sale hands over the rest of the month, and a basketful for sewing are to be sent to the W. C. T. U. rooms, where it does all the evangelistic effort is made the medium for the distribution of God's Word alone, but this rule does not prevail here, and the Union wishes it to be understood that unless their gifts are for charitable purposes are placed in their trust that the different churches must still be responsible for the support of their own people.

MISSIONARY ADDRESSES.

One of the most inspiring missionary addresses we have ever been privileged to hear was those delivered by Mrs. J. Goforth, of Honan, China, in the Presbyterian Church, on Monday afternoon and evening. The afternoon meeting of ladies, Mrs. Goforth traced the growth of the Honan Mission from its beginning 23 years ago, when she and her husband were sent out to that Province of eight million souls, with not a single Christian. By consecration and prayer, in their part, God had led them through all the darkness and trials of the Boxer rebellion, and made them of use in establishing a church of over two thousand souls. Appealing for the women at home, that they might be spiritually aroused to give up worldly aims and pursuits, and by prayer and consecration live a higher life of knowledge. That it was possible for women to take a broader view of life, without neglecting their home and children, she demonstrated by her own experience and example. In the evening, the general public were given a broader view of the work in "The Awakening of China." Rev. Mr. Coon presided. The influence of mission work upon the many changes so recently introduced into that country were shown, especially in the edicts regarding opium, and those regarding educational advantages, though it is to the white man's disgrace that the British and American cities are flooding the country with cheap cigarettes to take the place of the forbidden opium. As in the afternoon, the speaker made a touching plea for the spiritual awakening of the Canadian Church, that Bible study and prayer take a larger place in the Christian's life. We need to empty our lives of whatever hinders us, cleanse it and fill with the Spirit till it overflows in service for others. Without doubt, much good has been done by Mrs. Goforth's visit to our community.

WILSON BROS.

HAPPY EVENT.

Mrs. Symington invited "Our Bible Class" of the Western Methodist Church, on Thursday evening, to Mr. Caton's luncheon parlors, where they were bountifully served with oysters and everything else that a good appetite could wish for. After tea the present and past officers and many of the class gave short and pithy addresses on the blessings and benefits they had received from the study and teaching of the word. Mr. T. Symington gave a fine talk on the powers of organization, a subject he handled to his credit, and a help to the class. Miss Thompson sang several solos in her sweet clear voice and responded to encores. Mrs. Symington gave a summary account of one of her eastern trips, taking her class in thought from home to Liverpool. Then she gave a description of Malta, which was fresh in their minds, having recently been there with the great Apostle Paul on his way to Rome.

Mrs. Symington spoke of her great pleasure in meeting her class at the annual home gathering of her class. That she looks upon them as her brothers and sisters.

The nucleus of this class was established in the year 1875, thirty-three years ago, and taught by her ever since. It was organized and chartered in 1907, and now numbers seventy-five members. Master Jas. Webedale gave a summary account of the Ontario Sabbath School Convention held lately in Toronto. Mr. Gibbard, the S. S. Superintendent, gave an address and closed with prayer.

PUBLIC MEETING.

A meeting of the business men was held in the Council Chambers, on Tuesday evening, for the purpose of having the dredging in the river completed. Mr. J. L. Madill acted as chairman. The matter was discussed, and was found that it would take in the neighborhood of $40,000 to put the river in first class condition. The captains of several of the schooners were present and said it was impossible to navigate the river in its present condition with a full cargo. A committee was appointed to get the facts of the case and will report on Monday evening to the Council, and then will appoint several of our business men to go to Ottawa, and put the facts before the Minister of Public Works. The following is a letter received by Mr. F. S. Wartman, Collector of Customs from Capt. Christie, of the Brockville and will explain itself:

November 26th, 1909.

Mr. Fred Sir, I am writing you again concerning the state of the channel in the Napanee River. First, I wish to thank you for the manifest interest you took to the personal inspection of the channel on Tuesday last, and I wrote you, was a fortune to be able to accompany me, as otherwise I would have had to depend upon the assignation of the river, but as it is, I feel better and have been better able to judge of the channel. From above Napanee, nearly all the way to the bridge, there is room for continued right on our part, and a very small and necessary improvement. You are no doubt aware that the depth is now 6 feet, this season of the year, and particularly this year, and the Government should be made aware of the necessity of immediately deepening at this favorable time, as the dredge is available.

I am decidedly anxious for the completion of this dredging from the fact that my Company's route and time of navigation is over for the most year's business, and it is necessary that we have an idea of the extent of the work proposed in the channel this year before we can finally purchase boats, and the present conditions would of necessity close us from public navigation for the old navigation of the river.

Any assistance you can lend will appreciated by the public, and especially by myself as interested in marine trade on this river as a result of what you have already accomplished, and I am sure you will interest yourself enough to see that the work is carried on to completion, and will interest yourself enough to see that the work is carried on to completion, and will interest yourself enough to see that the work is carried on to completion, and

For Weak, Run-Down People.

"I was run down and weak from indigestion and general debility, also suffered from vertigo. I saw a cod liver preparation called Vinol advertised and decided to give it a trial, and the results were most gratifying. After taking two bottles I regained my strength, and am now feeling unusually well." — HENRY CUNNINGHAM, Elder Baptist Church, Kinston, N.C.

Vinol contains the two most world-famed tonics—the medicinal, strengthening, body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil and Tonic Iron. Vinol contains no oil, and is by far the Best Strengthening Tonic obtainable. We return your money without question if Vinol does not accomplish all we claim for it.

proach, could help him to see more clearly the pit of destruction than he could see now.

"You need sleep, Gerald," he said quietly. "Don't worry. I'll see that your check is not dishonored. All you have to see to is yourself. Good night, my boy."

But Gerald could not speak, and so Selwyn left him and walked slowly back to his own room, where he seated himself at his desk, grave, meditative eyed, his sniffled pipe between his teeth.

And he let there until he had fitten clean through the amber mouthpiece, so that the brier bowl fell clattering to the floor. By that time it was full daylight, but Gerald was still asleep. He slept late into the afternoon, but that evening, when Selwyn called him to go with them to Silverside, Gerald was gone.

They waited another day for him. He did not appear. And that night they left for Sorrentido without him.

Chapter 17

DURING that week-end at Silverside Boots behaved like a school lad run wild. He romped with the children and the other children, and for a dozen dogs as ill-trained minds and beastly manners as the Grand Dorbidon, he secured the association from Surf point to the Hills of words from Wonder land to Sky land.

Nina, Elleen and Selwyn formed a genuine and leisurely rear guard, frequently and deliberately signaling the absence of Boots and his mob, and then accordingly the two examy men shotgunned it to each other across the splendid, effortless enlightenment and gratification of the children.

Elleen and Selwyn were standing on one of the frozen hills, a ribbons tangle of crimson sumac and flowers, looking out to sea across Sky pond. He had a rod, and he stood he lily switched the ugly colored flies back and forth.

Standing there, fairly swimming in the delicious upper air currents, she looked blissfully across the rolling moors.

"After all," she said, "what more is there than this—earth and sea and sun and a friend to show them to? Because, as I wrote you, the friend is quite necessary in the scheme of things to round out the symmetry of it all. I suppose you're dying to dangle those flies in Brier Water to see whether there are any trout there. Well, there are. Austin stocked it years ago, and he never fishes, so no doubt it's full of fish."

Looked blissfully across the rolling moors.

The Brier Water, a cold, deep, lonely stream, deserved its name, if anybody ever haunted it with hostile designs upon its fishy denizens, Austin at least never did. Belted kingfisher, heron, mink and perhaps a furtive small boy with pole and sinker and barnyard worms—these were the only foes the trout might dread. As for a man and a fly rod, they knew him not, nor was there much chance for casting a line, because the water everywhere flowed under weeds, arched thickets of brier and alder and leafy branches crisscrossed above.

"This place is impossible," said Selwyn scornfully. "What's the use in about to let it all grow up and run wild"—

He reeled in his line until only six inches of the gossamer leader remained free. From this dangled a single silver bodied fly, glittering in the wind.

"There's a likely looking hidden under those briers," he said. "I'm going to poke the top of my rod under—this way— Hah!" as a heavy splash sounded from depths unseen and the reel screamed as he struck.

Up and down, under banks and over shallows, rushed the lusty fish, and Selwyn could do nothing for awhile but let him go when he insisted and check and recover when the fish permitted.

Elleen, a spray of green mint between her vivid lips, watched the performance with growing interest, but when at length a big, fat, struggling speckled trout was cautiously but successfully lifted out into the grass she turned her back until the gallant fighter had departed this life, under a merciful whack from a stick.

"That," she said faintly, "is the part I don't care for. Is he out of all pain? What? Didn't feel any? Oh, are you quite sure?"

She walked over to him and looked down at the beautiful victim of craft.

"Oh, well," she sighed, "you are very clever, of course, and I suppose I'll eat him, but I wish he were alive again down there in those cool, sweet depths!"

"Killing frogs and insects and his smaller brother fish?"

"Did he do that?"

"No doubt of it. And if I hadn't landed him a heron or a mink would have done it sooner or later. That's what a trout is for—to kill and be killed."

She smiled, then sighed. The taking of life and the giving of it were mysteries to her. She had never wittingly killed anything.

"Do you say that it doesn't hurt the trout?" she asked.

"There are no nerves in the jaw muscles of a trout— Hah!" as his rod twitched and swerved under water and his reel sang again.

And again she watched the performance at once more turned her back.

"Let me try," she said when the cup de grace had been administered to a lusty, brilliant tinted bull trout. And, rod in hand, she bent breathless and intent over the bushes, cautiously thrusting the tip through a thicket of mint.

She lost two fish, then hooked a third, a small one, but when she lifted it gasping into the sunlight she shivered and called to Selwyn:

"I think it and throw it back! I—I simply can't stand that!"

Splash! went the astonished trout, and she sighed her relief.

"There's no doubt about it," she said, "you and I certainly do belong to different species of the same genus. Men and women are separate species. Do you deny it?"

"I should hate to lose you that way," he returned teasingly.

"Well, you can't avoid it. I gladly admit that woman is not too closely related to man. We don't like to kill things. It's an ingrained distaste, not merely a matter of ethical philosophy. You like to kill, and it's a trait common also to children and other predatory animals, which fact," she added nitrily, "convinces me of woman's higher civilization."

"I would convince me, too," he said, "if women didn't eat the things that man kills for her."

"I know. Isn't it horrid? Oh, dear, we're neither of us very high in the scale yet—particularly you."

"Well, I've advanced some since the good old days when a man went woo ing with a club," he suggested.

"You may have. But, anyway, you don't go wooing. As for man collectively, he has not progressed so very far," she added demurely, "as an example that dreadful Draymore man accidently bent my wrist."

Selwyn looked up quickly, a shade of female annoyance on his face and a vision of the fat sybarite before his eyes. He turned again to his fishing, but his shrug was more of a shudder than appeared to be complimentary to Percy Draymore.

She had divined somehow that it annoyed Selwyn to know that men had importuned her. She had told him of her experience as innocently as she had told Nina, and with even less embarrassment. But that had been long ago, and now, without any specific reason, she was not certain that she had acted wisely, although it always amused her to see Selwyn's undisguised impatience whenever mention was made of such incidents.

So, to torment him, she said, "Of course it is somewhat exciting to be asked to marry people—rather agreeable than otherwise."

"What!"

Waist deep in bay bushes he turned toward her where she sat on the bank of an oak which had fallen across the stream. Her arms balanced her body; her ankles were interlocked. She swung her slim, rose shod feet above the brook and looked at him with a touch of coquetry new to her and to him.

"Of course it's amusing to be told you are the only woman in the world," she said, "particularly when a girl has a secret fear that men don't consider her quite grown up."

"You once said," he began impatiently, "that the idiotic importunities of those men annoyed you."

"Why do you call them idiotic?" with pretense of hurt surprise. "A girl is honored"—

"Oh, bosh!"

"Captain Selwyn!"

"I beg your pardon," he said sullenly and fumbled with his reel.

She surveyed him, head a trifle on one side, the very incarnation of youthful malice in process of satisfying a desire for tormenting.

"When I pretended I was annoyed by what men said to me I was only a fearling," she observed. "Now I'm a wo-year, Captain Selwyn. Who can tell what may happen in my second season?"

He reeled in his line.

"You said that you were not the— he marrying sort," he insisted.

"Nonsense. All girls are. There are zen," she said dreamily, "who might hope for a kinder reception next winter."

"Oh, no," he said coolly, "there are a dozen gentlemen. If there were you wouldn't say so."

"Yes, I would. And there are!"

"How many?" jerkingly and now quite ensnared.

"One!"

"You can't frighten me," with a shade less confidence. "You wouldn't tell if there was."

"I'd tell you."

"Die?" with a sudden slump in his remaining stock of reassurance.

"Certainly. I tell you—and Nina things of that sort. And when I have fully decided to marry I shall, of course, tell you both before I inform other people."

How the blood in her young veins was racing and singing with laughter! How thoroughly she was enjoying something to which she could give neither reason nor name! But how satisfying it all was—whatever it was that amused her in this man's uncertainty and in the faint traces of an irritation as unreasoning as the source of it!

"Really, Captain Selwyn," she said, "you are not one of those old fashioned literary landmarks who objects through several chapters to a girl's marrying, are you?"

"Yes," he said, "I am."

"You are quite serious?"

"Quite."

"You won't let me?"

"No; I won't."

"Why?"

"I want you myself," he said, smiling at last.

"That is flattering, but horridly selfish. In other words, you won't marry me and you won't let anybody else do it."

Glancing around at her, he caught her eyes, bright with mischief.

"You're capable of anything today," he said. "Were you considering the advisability of starting me overboard?" And he nodded toward the water beneath their feet.

"But you say that you won't let me throw you overboard, Captain Selwyn."

"I mean it, too," he returned.

"And I'm not to marry that nice young man?" mock ugly sweet. "No? What! Not anybody at all—ever and ever?"

"Me," he suggested, "if you're as thoroughly demoralised as that."

"Oh! Must a girl be pretty thoroughly demoralized to marry you?"

"I don't suppose she'd do it if she wasn't," he admitted, laughing.

She considered him, head on one side.

"You are ornamental anyway," she concluded.

"Well, then," he said, lifting the leader from the water to inspect it, "will you have me?"

"Oh, but is there nothing to recommend you except your fatal beauty?"

"My mustache," he ventured. "It's considered very useful when I'm mending perplexities."

"It's clipped too close. I have told you again and again that I don't care for it clipped like that. Your mind would be a perfect blank if you couldn't get hold of it."

"And to become imbecile," he said, "I've only to shave it."

She threw back her head and her deep laughter thrilled the silence. He laughed, too, and sat with elbows on his thighs, dabbling the crinkled leader to and fro in the pool below.

"So you won't have me?" he said.

"You haven't asked me—have you?"

"Well, I do now."

She mused, the smile resting lightly on lips and eyes.

"Wouldn't such a thing astonish Nina?" she said.

He did not answer. A slight color tinged the new sunburn on his cheeks. She laughed to herself, clasped her hands, moved her slender feet and bent her eyes on the pool below.

"Marriage," she said, pursuing her ridiculous aloud, "is curiously unnecessary to happiness. Take our pleasure in each other, for example. It has from the beginning been perfectly free from silliness and sentiment."

"Naturally," he said. "I'm old enough to be safe."

"You are not!" she retorted. "What a ridiculous thing to say!"

"Well, then," he said, "I'm dreadfully unsafe, but yet you've managed to escape. Is that it?"

"Perhaps. You are attractive to women! I've heard that often enough to be convinced. Why, even I can see what attracts them"—she turned to look at him—"the way your head and shoulders set—and—well, the—rest. It's rather superior of me to have escaped sentiment, isn't it?"

"Indeed I do. Few—few—scenes where many meet to worship at my rocky feet. I think that without conceit is due to my mustachios. Tangled in those like web tied flies, imprisoned hearts complain in sighs—in fact, the situation vies with moments in Boccaccio."

Her running comment was her laughter, sung deliciously amid the trees until a wild bird, restlessly attentive, ventured a long, sweet response from the tangled green above them.

After their laughter the soberness of reaction left them silent for awhile. The wild bird sang and sang, dropping fearlessly nearer from branch to branch until in his melody she found the key to her dreamy thoughts.

"Because," she said, "you are so unconscious of your own value I like you best, I think. I never believe quite realized just what it was in you."

"My value," he said, "is what you care to make it."

"Then nobody can afford to take you away from me, Captain Selwyn."

He flushed with pleasure. "That is the prettiest thing a woman ever admitted to a man," he said.

What must be there that still and silence in each other and our content?" she said.

And, as he did not respond: "I wonder if you realize how perfectly lovely you have been to me since you have come into my life. Do you? Do you remember the first day—the very first—how I sent word to you that I wished you to see my first real dinner gown? Smile if you wish—ah, but you don't! You don't understand, my poor friend, how much you became to me in that little interview! Men's kindness is a strange thing. They may try and try, and a girl may know they are trying and, in her turn, try to be grateful, but it is all effort on both sides. Then, with a word, an impulse born of chance or instinct, a man may say and do that which a woman can never forget and would not if she could."

"Have I done that?"

"Yes. Didn't you understand? Do you suppose any other man in the world could have what you have had of me—of my real self? Do you suppose for one instant that any other man than you could ever obtain from me the confidence I offer you unasked? Do I not tell you everything that enters my head and heart? Do you not know that I care for you more than for anybody alive?"

"Gerald!"

She looked him straight in the eyes; her breath caught, but she steadied her voice.

"I've got to be truthful," she said, "I care for you more than for Gerald."

"And I for you more than anybody living," he said.

"Is it true?"

"It is the truth, Elleen."

"You—you make me very happy, Captain Selwyn."

"But did you not know it before I told you?"

"I—yes; I hoped so." In the exultant reaction from the delicious tension of avowal she laughed lightly, not knowing why.

"The pleasure is it," she said, "is the certainty that I am capable of making you happy. You have no idea how I desire to do it. I've wanted to ever since I knew you—I've wanted to be capable of doing it. And you tell me that I do, and I am utterly and foolishly happy." The quick, mischievous sparkle flashed up, transforming her for an instant. "Ah, yes, and I can make you unhappy, too, it seems, by talking of marriage. That, too, is something—a delightful power—but"—the malice dying on a spark in her brilliant eyes—"I shall not torment you, Captain Selwyn. Will it make you happier if I say, 'No; I shall never marry as long as I have you?' Will it really? Then I say it. Never, never will I marry as long as I have your confidence and friendship. But I want it all—every bit, please. And if ever there is another woman—if ever you fall in love—crack—away I go"—she snapped her white fingers—"like that," she added, "only quicker. Well, then, be very, very careful, my friend. I wish there were some place here where I could curl up indefinitely and listen to your views on life. You brought a book to read, didn't you?"

He gave her a funny, embarrassed glance. "Yes; I brought a sort of book."

"Then I'm all ready to be read to, Captain Yes. Please steady me while I try to stand up on this log. One hand will do."

Scarcely in contact with him she crossed the log, sprang lithely to the ground and, lifting the hem of her summer gown an inch or two, picked her way toward the bank above.

"We can see Nina when she signals us from the lawn to come to luncheon," she said, gazing out across the upland toward the silver tinted hillside where Silverside stood, every pane glittering with the white eastern sunlight.

In the dry, sweet grass she found a place for a seat and settled into it, head prone on a lump of scented, boy leaves, elbows outward and fingers linked across her chin.

"What book did you bring?" she asked dreamily.

He turned red. "It's—it's just a chapter from a little book I'm trying to write—a—a sort of suggestion for the establishment of native regiments in the Philippines. I thought, perhaps, you might not mind listening"—

He wrote simply and without self consciousness. Loyalty aroused her interest. Intelligence sustained it, and when the end came it came too quickly for her, and she said so frankly, which delighted him.

"Hark! Ear to the ground! My atavistic and wilder instincts warn me that somebody is coming!" she said.

"Boots and Drina," said Selwyn, and he hailed them as they shambled into view above. Then he sprang to his feet, calling out: "And Gerald too! Hello, old fellow! This is perfectly fine! When did you arrive?"

"Oh, Gerald," cried Elleen, both hands outstretched, "it's splendid of you to come! Dear fellow, have you seen Nina and Austin? And were they not delighted? And you've come to stay, haven't you? There, I won't begin to urge you. Look, Gerald—look, Boots—and Drina, too—only look at those beautiful big plump trout in Captain Selwyn's creel!"

"Oh, I say," exclaimed Gerald, "you didn't take those in that little brook, did you, Philip? Well, wouldn't that snare you! I'm coming down here after luncheon. I sure am."

"You will, too, won't you?" asked Drina, jealous lest Boots, her idol, miss his due share of piscatorial glory. "If you'll wait until I finish my French I'll come with you."

"Of course I will," said Lansing reproachfully. "You don't suppose there's any fun anywhere for me without you, do you?"

"No," said Drina simply, "I don't."

Selwyn turned to Gerald. "I hunted high and low for you before I came to Silverside. You found my note?"

"Yes; I saw it," said Gerald the boy, coloring. "Come ahead, Elly; Boots and I will take you on at tennis —and Philip too. We've an hour or so before luncheon. Is it a go?"

"Certainly," replied his sister, unaware of Selwyn's proficiency, but loyal even in doubt. And the five, walking abreast, moved across the uplands toward the green lawn of Silverside, where, under a gay lawn parasol, Nina sat, a "nature book" in hand, the center of an attentive gathering composed of dogs, children and the cat, Kit-Ki, blinking her topaz tinted eyes in the sunshine.

The young mother looked up happily as the quintet came strolling across the lawn. "Please don't wander away again before luncheon," she said. "Gerald, I suppose you are starved, but you're only an hour to wait. Oh, Phil, what wonderful trout! Children, kindly arise and admire the surpassing skill of your frivolous uncle!" And as the children and dogs came crowding around the opened fish basket she said to her brother in a low, contented voice: "Gerald has quite made it up with Austin, dear. I think we have to thank you, haven't we?"

"Has he really squared matters with Austin? That's good; that's fine! Oh, no, I had nothing to do with it—practically nothing. The boy is sound at the core—that's what did it." And to Gerald, who was hailing him from the veranda: "Yes, I've plenty of tennis shoes. Help yourself, old chap."

Elleen had gone to her room to don a shorter skirt and rubber soled shoes. Lansing followed her example and Selwyn, entering his own room, found Gerald trying on a pair of white footgear.

The boy looked up, smiled and, crossing one knee, began to tie the laces.

"I told Austin that I meant to slow down," he said. "We're on terms again. He was fairly decent."

"Good business!" commented Selwyn vigorously.

"And I'm cutting out cards and cocktails," continued the boy, eager as a little lad who tells how good he has been all day. "I made it plain to the fellows that there was nothing in it for me. And, Philip, I'm boning down like thunder at the office. I'm horribly in debt, and I'm busting to pay up and make a clean start. You," he added, coloring, "will come first."

"At your convenience," said Selwyn, smiling.

"Not at all! Yours is the first account to be squared, then Neergard."

"Do you owe him, Gerald?"

"Do I? O Lord! But he's a patient soul. Really, Philip, I wish you didn't dislike him so thoroughly, because he's good company, and, besides that, he's a very able man. Well, we won't talk about him, then. Come on. I'll lick the very life out of you over the net!"

A few moments later the white balls were flying over the white net and active white flannelled figures were moving to and fro over the velvet turf.

Drina, aloft on the umpire's perch, calmly scored and decided each point impartially, though her little heart was beating fast in desire for the supremacy of Boots, and it was all her official composure could endure to see how Elleen at the net beat down his defense, driving him with her volleys to the service line.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

It is high time that the oft repeated claim that—"chronic baldness can be cured" be filed away with the old announcement that the moon is made of green cheese. The claim is untrue, and aside from this it induces many people to ignore the chances they have to prevent baldness.

The greatest stride toward the ultimate elimination of baldness was the discovery by Prof. Unna, of Hamburg, Germany (ask your doctor about him), that most hair loss is due to an invisible growth, of vegetable character, in the scalp—literally a "dandruff germ," producing a highly contagious disease. The greatest stride toward the prevention of baldness was the discovery of a prophylactic fluid called NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE, which, if intelligently used—will destroy the dandruff germ and prevent baldness.

Herpicide is the original dandruff germ destroyer and its extraordinary success for dandruff and falling hair, also dull, brittle and lustreless hair has brought out many imitations. Even the sold line hair "growers" and hair "tonics" now claim to kill the dandruff germ. Quite a tribute to Herpicide, isn't it? Also a splendid hair dressing. Stops itching of the scalp almost instantly. Don't wait; try it now.

Send 10 cents in stamps to THE HERPICIDE COMPANY, Dept. L., Windsor, Ont., for sample and booklet. One Dollar Bottle Guaranteed. At Drug Stores. When you call for HERPICIDE, do not accept a substitute. Applications at prominent Barber Shops.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription, Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, if one one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerves. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative first it a few days, and see! Improvement will be prompt and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

HARLOWE.

Death has again visited our village, and taken one of our oldest pioneers, in the person of Mr. Jacob Hillier, who had been ailing for some time, this being the third attack of paralysis. Mr. Hillier was the first member of the Orange Order here, and in politics he was a true Conservative, and a friend in the time of need. He will be greatly missed by all who knew him. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the whole community, on losing a kind husband and loving father. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow, two sons and two daughters. They are Frank, of Huntsville.—Mrs. W. Thompson and Charles, of this place, and Charles at Belmo, Man.—Mr. H. Bishop, Colborne, visited at G. Connery, on Wednesday.—Messrs. F. Neal, D. Neal and T. GROUNDLESS PRIDE.

Roderick Hudson, a well-known designer in the employ of a leading New York dressmaking house, praised at a recent meeting of his union the popular movement for rebellion against Paris fashions.

"What take our fashions slavishly from Pariat?" demanded Mr. Hudson. "American fashions are better. They're the best in the world. Why, then, be hypnotized into the belief that a fashion, just because it's Paris-born, is to be followed like Holy Writ?"

He struck his clenched fist against his palm.

Imitating those Paris fashions blindly," he said, "we are as foolish as the English in their slavish imitation of the King. I remember when I was head cutter for Snip & Co. in Sackville street, Piccadilly. One day a little fat man waddled in to be measured for a frock coat. He looked like an apple dumpling, and as I passed the tape over his soft curves I could hardly keep from laughing. When I came to measure his waist, instead of drawing his stomach in, the way it would naturally does, this chap actually swelled it out.

"Sixty two!" I called to the maker, and the fat man said pompously:

"Perhaps it will interest you to know, sir, that my waist measure is exactly the same to a quarter inch as that of his most gracious majes-

Fresh Nuts

There is a great difference in the taste of a kernel from a fresh nut and one which has been lying in a store for many months. The old stale nuts taste like leather, and you think you are trying to swallow cork.

Nuts contain a certain percentage of oil. In time this oil dries out, and the good qualities of the nut are gone. Always use fresh nuts.

You should see the Hanging Lamps. What we have a Lamp for that. Artistic Novelties you can show your Lamps [illegible]

Why Canadians Should Insure In a Canadian Company

Life insurance covering a period of forty-six years has proven the death rate of insured lives to about 15 per cent. greater in the United States than in Canada.

This difference does not need to assist in paying for this foreign country.

Why not insure in a Canadian Company by sending its premiums and investment

Why not insure in the Policy Holders' Mutual Life (not Canada) he can share in the profits of a Canadian Company incorporated by special act especially safeguarding his interests, thoroughly democratic in its principles and management, with every safeguard and security to which the interest could demand, and fully claiming which Government deposit, reserve and investment requirements.

The two Houses of Congress convened last Washington Monday.

A bill involving the giving of free entry into the United States to Canadian pulp and print paper was introduced to Congress at Washington on Monday.

CRAVEN—HAWLEY.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at eight o'clock, Wednesday evening, December 1st, at the home of Hawley, when their second daughter Annie, was united in marriage to Joseph C. Hawley. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Rural Dean Dibb, Napanee, under an arch of evergreens. The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, who gave her away, to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Clara Craven, sister of the bride. The bride wore a gown of cream crepe de chine, trimmed with allover lace. The only ornament she wore was a beautiful gold pin set with pearls, the gift of the groom. The groom's gift to the pianist was a gold stick pin set with pearls. After receiving congratulations the guests, numbering about thirty-five, repaired to the dining room, where they partook of a sumptuous supper. The bride was the recipient of many, and valuable presents, among which was a substantial cheque from her father. They left amid showers of rice to take the 1.45 train east, to spend the honeymoon in Oswego, Watertown and other points. The bride's travelling suit was of brown broadcloth with waist of cream lace over silk, and hat to match.

IRENE LENORE SAUL.

At the family residence, 145 Burrows Ave., on Friday morning, Irene Lenore, dearly beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Saul, formerly of Camden East, aged 5 years and 2 months. The funeral, which was conducted by the Rev. Mr. C. W. Morrow, at Mcdougal church, was held from the residence of her parents to Elmwood cemetery, on Sunday afternoon. The bearers were four of her cousins, Willie and Lloyd Foulds and his cousin, Robert McCrear, and W. A. Irish of the firm of J. Saul and Irish. The abundance of flowers showed how Irene was loved by all who knew her. The beautiful couch casket was all covered as well as a table by her side. Among those noticed were Mrs. Conboy, spray; Nettie Roberts, spray; Mrs. Geo. Black, spray; Mr. and Mrs. H. Walley, spray; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Saul, large basket; Mrs. Hagerman, spray; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sloan, spray; "Jeff" and Mrs. E. Proud, heart; two little playmates, Irene and Dorothy Spray; Mr. and Mrs. Shannon, heart; Mr. and Mrs. J. McCrary, spray; Rupert McCrary, spray; Mrs. Clive, spray; Mr. and Mrs. Hemsdell, spray; Mr. W. H. Williams, spray; Mrs. Foulds, spray; Mrs. DeToube and daughters, spray; Mrs. Alex. Foulds, large wreath; grandma Ella and Fay, large spray; Mrs. R. Craig, lilies; Mrs. Neals, large spray of lilies and roses.

Jesus, while our hearts are bleeding
O'er the spoiles that death has won
We would at this solemn meeting
Calmly say, "Thy will be done."
The cast down we are apt to scorn
Thy afflicted, not afar off;
Thou didst give and thou has taken,
Blessed Lord. Thy will be done.

God's method our more mind child amidst his shining hand, and so he bent with loving smile and classed our darling's hand

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give five Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

LETTER OF CONDOLENCE

The Directors and Officers of the Leeds and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance Company desire to convey, through the medium of the Napanee press, to the relatives and near friends of the late Mr. Bell, their sincere and heartfelt sympathy in the great loss they have sustained, by the removal from this earthly sphere to the spiritland, of their late colleague, who for the unusually long period of years in the management of affairs of the Company, have found him honest, honorable and fair in all his dealings. Even when we differed from you, you could not fail to be impressed by the honesty of his convictions, and his strong sense of honor, so that we can truly say he enabled us to respect the feelings of his relatives and near friends in the sad bereavement and sorrow, and may it be some comfort for them to know that while we deplore his loss we deeply sympathize in appreciate his christian character, kindness of heart, honest purpose and charitable temperament.

DEATH OF TOM LEWIS

Perhaps the most widely known by children as well as adults—citizen of Napanee passed away suddenly on Tuesday afternoon in the person of Tom. Lewis, who for many years has been a familiar figure on the bus. Deceased, who was in his forty-ninth year, was ill but a week with diabetes. Tom was the largest man in Napanee, weighing 325 pounds, but was as active as a boy. He was well liked by everyone, being of a genial disposition and generous to a fault. The funeral took place on Thursday morning, service being held in St. Mary Magdalene church, Rev. F. T. Dibb officiating. The edifice was filled by representative citizens of Napanee, who deeply regret the loss sustained by the removal of Tom. After the service, the remains were taken to the 11.59 train. Interment at Cataraqui. Beautiful wreaths and sprays were given by friends. The sorrowing widow and relatives have the sympathy of every citizen, as well as commercial travellers, in their bereavement.

BATH.

On Tuesday of seven forty six village was aroused by the cry of "fire," and it was found that the school was on fire. When the people arrived there they found the flames pouring out through the roof of the building, and it was impossible to enter anything either of the school rooms, but the scholars in the vicinity saved all their books, etc., the school will amount to about $6,000. Also the Bath Fife Band library and clothing appratus was all destroyed. The lodge room was soon burnt to the ground and all the contents were burned too. The fire was in the town about 12.40 and the school was not in session yet, so it had been a good hour before there would have been some of the pupils injured in trying to escape from the building. The school is insured for $3,000.00. The trustees at once secured other premises and school will be open on Monday next again.

Monday night was some cue broke in the Bay View hotel, but fortunately only a small amount from the till, as Mr. Risely had only left some change when he went to the depot. The thief took this as an entrance by the kitchen window, prying it open with an axe.

McKETT'S VENTURE BROUGHT $40,000

One year ago it was a question in the mind of Thomas McKett, proprietor of the Manor House, whether it would be worth while opening up a sealed envelope which contained the award in the matter of an arbitration between himself and the city of Winnipeg over the building of the C. P. R. subway.

If he opened the envelope it would be necessary for him to accept whatever the award, and it would be equally equivalent to saying that he would accept the personnel of the arbitration. Would the vindication in the award be worth it? That was the question that worried Mr. McKetty and although the envelope was duly sealed up and the proprietor of the Manor House took no chances, it was plain that a gamble. He might win or he might lose, and the stumpage at stake might be great or small. There was no elimination of that element of chance in the matter. It was simply take it or leave it alone. Mr. McKetty decided to take it.

The arbitrators had entered into an agreement between themselves to disclose the award, and they remained true to their word on the one occasion. Instead of speculation in the minds of many outside as to what the award contains to know the contents of the sealed envelope that it seemed to be generally conceded that the award was favorable to Mr. McKetty. The question in the mind of those connected with the proceedings was, per chance, the amount to which he had been found entitled. That is now known and the payment of the cheque for $40,000 is the result of careful thought and looking at the matter from both sides. Mr. McKetty himself, however, has settled the matter, and Mr. McKetty has settled the matter, and Mr. McKetty has settled the matter, and Mr. McKetty

Vinol

"From Dec. 20, '08, to March 1, '09, I had three bad colds, one on top of the other. I got so weak I could hardly get around. Nothing seemed to help me until I began to take Vinol. The change was magic. Three bottles completely fixed that compound cold and stopped the terrible cough—and what surprises me most, at the same time it cured me of a severe stomach trouble that has bothered me for 20 years.

Vinol is certainly a wonderful medicine."

Mr. Toppan is one of Lynn's most prominent and highly respected merchants, whose word is as good as his bond.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains the two most world-famed tonics—the medicinal, strengthening, body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil and Tonic Iron.

Recommended As An Ideal Remedy

W. S. BOND, Esq.

Tooltown, Ont., March 19th, 1909.
For some years I have been greatly troubled with headaches and indigestion, as well as stomach disorders, constipation and biliousness. I had used remedies with only indifferent success, until "Fruita-tives" came under notice. Being a general storekeeper I was selling a good many "Fruit-a-tives" to my customers and, seeing how pleased they were with the results obtained from using "Fruit-a-tives", I decided to try them and, I am glad to say, the effects were almost magical. Headaches and biliousness disappeared and to-day I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" to my customers as "An ideal remedy".

I might also add that about three years ago I was laid up with LUMBAGO AND SCIATICA—couldn't get out of bed or lift one foot over the floor. A good treatment of "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of these pains and also cured the Sciatica and Lumbago so that to-day I am as well as ever and can do anything necessary.

The Younger Set

BY ROBERT W. CHAMBERS.

Afterward, when the children had been excused and Drina had pulled her chair close to Lansing's to listen—and after that, on the veranda, when the men sat smoking and Drina was talking French and Nina and Eileen had gone off with hockeys, trowels and trailing sheers—Selwyn still continued in conference with Boots and Gerald, and it was plain that his concise, modest explanation of what he had accomplished in his experiments with chaosite seriously impressed the other two.

Boots frankly admitted it. "Besides," he said, "if the Lawn people are so anxious for you to give them first say in the matter I don't see why we shouldn't have faith in it—enough, I mean, to be good to ourselves by offering to be good to you, Phil."

"Half until Austin comes down—and until I've tried one or two new ideas," said Selwyn. "Nothing on earth would finish me quicker than to get anybody who trusted me into a worthless thing."

"It's plain," observed Boots, "that although you may have been an army captain you're no captain of industry—you're not even a nincom."

Selwyn laughed. "Do you really believe that ordinary decency is uncommon?"

"Look at Long Island," returned Boots. "Where does the boom of worthless acreage and paper-city and investors when it explodes?"

Gerald had finished up at the turn in the conversation, and Selwyn severed Lansing into other and safer channels until Gerald went away to find a rod.

And, as Drina had finished her French lesson, she and Lansing presently departed, headlashing fishing rods adorned with the gaudiest of flies.

* * * * * * *

In the rose garden and along that section of the wall included in it the rich, red peonies still glimmered like gold under the sun, and here Selwyn discovered Nina and Eileen busily solicitous over the tender shoots of favorite bushes. A few long stemmed early rosebuds lay in their baskets. Selwyn drew one through his buttonhole and sat down on a wheelbarrow, amiably disposed to look on and let the others work.

In the rose garden.

"Not much," said Nina. "You can start in and 'pinch back' this prairie climber—do you hear, Phil? I won't let you dawdle around and yawn while I'm pricking my fingers every instant! Make him move, Eileen."

Eileen came over to him, fingers doubled into her palm and small thumb extended.

"Thorns and prickles, please," she said, and he took her hand in his and proceeded to extract them while she looked down at her almost invisible wounds, tenderly amused at his fear of hurting her.

"Do you know," she said, "that people are beginning to open their houses to-day? She nodded toward the west. "The Minsters are on the way to Brooklawster, the Orchils have already arrived at Birchwood House and the coachmen and horses were housed at Southlawn last night. I rather dread the dinners and country festivities that always interfere with the jolly times we have, but it will be rather good fun at the bathing beach. Do you swim well? But of course you do."

"Pretty well. Do you?"

"I'm a fish. Glad's Orchil and I would never leave the surf if they didn't literally drag us home. You know Gladys Orchil? She's very nice. So is Sheila Minster. You'll like her better in the country than you do in town. Kathleen Lawn is nice too. Alas! I see many a morning where Drina and I twirl our respective tambs while you and Boots are off with a gayer set.

"Oh, don't interrupt! No mortal man is proof against Sheila and Gladys and Kathleen, and you're not a demigod, are you? Thank you for your surgery upon my thumb." She naively placed the tip of it between her lips and looked at him, standing there like a schoolgirl in her fresh gown, burnished hair loosened and curling in riotous beauty across cheeks and ears.

He had seated himself on the wheel, barrow again. She stood looking down at him, hands now bracketed on her narrow hips, so close that the fresh fragrance of her grew faintly perceptible, a delicate atmosphere of youth mingling with the perfume of the young garden.

Nina, basket on her arm, snipping away with her garden shears, glanced over her shoulder—and went on snipping. They did not notice how far away her agricultural ardor led her—did not notice when she stood a moment at the gate looking back at them and then she passed out, pretty head bent thoughtfully, the shears swinging loose at her girdle.

"You are very like a boy sometimes," said Eileen—"as young as Gerald, often think, especially when your hat is off. You always look so perfectly groomed. I wonder—I wonder what you would look like if your hair were rumpled."

"Try it," he suggested lazily.

"If I don't think I dare." She raised her hand, hesitated, the gay daring in her eyes deepening to audacity. "Shall I?"

"Why not?"

"To touch your hair—rumple it, as I would Gerald's? I'm tempted to—only—only—"

"What?"

"I don't know. I couldn't. I—it was only the temptation of a second." She laughed uncertainly. The suggestion of the intimacy tinted her cheeks with its reaction. She took a short step backward. Instinct, blindly stirring, sobered her, and as the smile faded from eye and lip his face changed too. And far, very far away in the inner cells of his heart a distant pulse awoke.

"Have you misunderstood me?" she asked in a low voice.

"How—why?"

"I don't know. Shall we walk a little?"

When they came to the stone fish pond she seated herself for a moment on a marble bench, then, curiously restless, rose again, and again they moved forward as if hazard, past the spouting fountain, which was a driven well, out of which a crystal column of water rose geyser-like, dazzling in the dissolving sun rays.

"Nina tells me that this water rises in the Connecticut hills," he said, "and runs as a subterranean sheet under the sound, spouting up here on Long Island when you drive a well."

She looked at the column of dashing water, nodding silent assent.

They moved on, the girl curiously reserved, noncommunicative, head slightly lowered, the sun vagine eyes, thoughtful, pacing slowly at her side. Behind them their long shadows trailed across the brilliant grass.

Traversing the grove which encircled the newly clipped lawn, now fragrant with sun crisped grass tips left in the wake of the mower, he meditated moonlight.

She glanced up, then away from him. "You seem to be enamored of the moonlight," she said.

"I want to prowl in it."

"Alone?"

"Sometimes."

"And—at other times?"

He laughed. "Oh, I'm past the spooning age. Are you glad?"

She hatted. "Yes, because I'm quite sure of you if you are; I mean that I can always keep you for myself. Can't I?"

She was smiling, and her eyes were silent and fearless, but there was a wild rose tint on her cheeks which deepened a little as he turned short in his track, gazing straight at her.

"I wish to keep me—for yourself?" he repeated, laughing.

"Yes, Captain Selwyn."

"Until you marry Austin?"

"Yes, until I marry."

"And then we'll let each other go is that it?"

"Yes, that is what I told you that I would never marry. Didn't I?"

"Oh! Then ours is to be a lifelong and anti-sentimental contract."

"Yes, unless you marry."

"I promise not to," he said, "unless you do."

"I promise not to," she said gayly, "unless you do."

"There remains," he observed, "but one way for you and I ever to marry anybody. And, as I'm here conjecture, even that hope is ended."

She flushed; her lips parted, but she checked what she had meant to say, and they walked forward together in silence for awhile until she had made up her mind what to say and how to express it.

"Captain Selwyn, there are two things that you do which seem to me unfair. You still have at times that faraway, absent expression which excludes me, and when I venture to break the silence you have a way of answering, 'Yes, child,' and 'No, child,' as though you were sometime old I had not yet become an adult. That is my first complaint! What are you laughing at? It is true, and it confuses me, because I know I am intelligent enough and old enough to—to be treated as a woman—a woman attractive enough to be welcomed with! But I never seem to be wholly so to you."

The laugh died out as she ended. For a moment they stood there confronting one another.

"Do you imagine," he said in a low voice, "that I do not know all that?"

"I don't know whether you do. For all your friendship—for all your liking and your kindness to me—somehow—I don't seem to stand with you as other women do. I don't seem to stand their chances."

"What chances?"

"The—the consideration. You don't call any other woman 'child,' do you? You don't constantly remind other women of the difference in your ages, do you? You don't feel with other women that you are, as you please to call it, 'born reckoner—out of the running.' And somehow with me it humiliates, because, even if I am the sort of girl who never means to marry, you—your attitude seems to take away the possibility of my changing my mind. It dictates to me, giving me no choice, no liberty, no personal freedom in the matter. It's as though you considered me somehow utterly out of the question—radically unthinkable as a woman. And you assume to take for granted that I also regard you as—as born concerns. Those are my grievances, Captain Selwyn. And I don't regard you so. And I—and it troubles me to be excluded—to be found wanting, inadequate in anything that a woman should be. I know that you and I have no desire to marry each other, but—but please don't make the reason for it either your age or my physical immaturity or intellectual inexperience."

One of those weather stained seats of Georgia marble stood immediately under the trees near where she had halted, and she seated herself, outwardly composed and inwardly a little frightened at what she had said.

As for Selwyn, he remained where he had been standing on the lawn's velvet edge, and, raising her eyes again, her heart misgave her that she had wantonly struck a friendship which had been all but perfect, and now he was moving across the path toward her, a curious look in his face which she could not interpret. She looked up as he approached and stretched out her hand.

"Forgive me, Captain Selwyn," she said. "I am a child—a spoiled one—and I have proved it to you. Will you sit here beside me and tell me very gently what a fool I am to risk straining the friendship dearest to me in the whole world? And will you fix my penance?"

"You have fixed it yourself," he said.

"How?"

"By the challenge of your womanhood."

"I did not challenge."

"No; you defended. You are right. The girl I loved for—the girl who was there with me on River Water—so many, many centuries ago—the girl who, years ago, leaned there beside me on the sundial—has become a memory."

"What do you mean?" she asked faintly.

"Shall I tell you?"

"Yes."

"You will not be unhappy if I tell you?"

"No."

"Have you any idea what I am going to say, Eileen?"

She looked up quickly, frightened at the tremor in his voice.

"Don't—don't say it, Captain Selwyn!"

"Will you listen as a penance?"

"I—no, I cannot."

He said quietly: "I was afraid you could not listen. You see, Eileen, that, after all, a man does know when he is done for."

"Captain Selwyn!" She turned and caught his hands in both of hers, her eyes bright with tears. "Is that the penalty for what I said? Did you think I invited this?"

"Invited! No, child," he said gently, "I was fool enough to believe in myself; that is all. I have always been on the edge of loving you. Only in dreams did I ever dare set foot across that frontier. Now I have dared. I love you. That is all, and it must not distress you."

"But it does not," she said, "I have always loved you—dearly, dearly. Not in that way. I don't know how. Must it be in that way, Captain Selwyn? Can we not go on in the other way—that dear way which I—I have—almost spoiled? Must we be like other people—must sentiment turn it all to commonplace? Listen to me. I do love you. It is perfectly easy and simple to say it. But it is not emotional; it is not sentimental. Won't you take me for what I am and as I am—a girl, still young, devoted to you with all her soul, happy with you, believing implicitly in you, deeply, deeply sensible of your goodness and sweetness and loyalty to her? I am not a woman I was a fool to say so. But you—you are so overwhelmingly a man that if I were in me to lore—in that way—I would be you! Do you understand me? Or have I lost a friend? Will you forgive my foolish boast? Can you still keep me first in your heart, as you are in mine, and pardon in me all that I am not? Can you do these things because I ask you?"

"Yes," he said.

Chapter 19

GERALD came to Silverside two or three times during the early summer, arriving usually on Friday and always remaining until the following Monday morning.

All his youthful admiration and friendship for Selwyn had returned. That was plainly evident, and with it something else of calmer and steadier quality. He did not appear to be as cocksure of himself and the world as he had been. There was less self-confidence about him, less aggressive complacency. Somewhere and somehow somebody or something had come into collision with him, but who or what this had been he did not offer to confide in Selwyn, and the older man, dreading to disturb the existing accord between them, forbore to question him or invite, even indirectly, any confidence not offered. Selwyn and Eileen also noticed that he became very restless toward the end of his visits at Silverside, as though something in the city awaited him—some duty or responsibility not entirely pleasant.

There was, too, something of soberness, amounting at moments to discontented listlessness, not solitary brood ing, for at such moments he stuck to Selwyn, following him about and remaining rather close to him, as though the elder man's mere presence was a comfort, even a protection.

So their relations remained during the early summer, and everybody supposed that Gerald's two weeks' vacation would be spent there at Silverside. Apparently the boy himself thought so, too, for he made some plans ahead, and Austin sent down a very handsome new motor boat for him.

Then at the last minute a telegram arrived saying that he had sailed for Newport on Sweetgarth's yacht. And for two weeks no word was received from him at Silverside.

One day in September Selwyn wrote Gerald, asking him to bring Edgerton Lawn and come down to Silverside for the purpose of witnessing some experiments with the new smokeless explosive, chaosite.

Young Lawn came by the first train. Gerald wired that he would arrive the following morning.

He did arrive, unusually pallid, almost haggard, and Selwyn, who met him at the station and drove him over from Wynsett, ventured at last to give the boy a chance.

But Gerald remained utterly unresponsive, stolidly so, and the other instantly relinquished the hope of any confidence at that time, shifting the conversation at once to the object and reason of Gerald's coming and gayly expressing his belief that the time was very near at hand when chaosite would figure heavily in the world's list of commercially valuable explosives.

It was early in August that Selwyn had come to the conclusion that his chaosite was likely to prove a commercial success. And now, in September, his experiments had proceed so far that he had ventured to invite Austin, Gerald, Lansing and Edgerton Lawn of the Lawn Nitro Powder company to witness a few tests at his cottage laboratory on Storm head, but at the same time be informed them with characteristic modesty that he was not yet prepared to guarantee the explosive.

He frose chaosite and boiled it and baked it and melted it and did all sorts of hair raising liberties with it, and after that he ground it to a powder, placed a few generous pinches in a small hand grenade and fired a primer, the secret composition of which he alone knew. That was the key to the secret—the composition of the primer charge.

"I used to play baseball in college," he observed, smiling, "and aimed to be a pretty good shot with a rock."

They followed him to the cliff's edge, always with great respect for the awful stuff he handled with such apparent carelessness. There was a black, sea soaked rock jutting out above the waves. Selwyn pointed at it, poised himself and, with the long, overhand, straight throw of a trained ball player, sent the grenade like a bullet at the rock.

Something unsuiting had come into the world.

had suddenly come into the world, something unpleasant, but indefinite, yet sufficient to leave her vaguely apprehensive.

Somebody threw a bundle half at her. She caught it and hurled it in return, and for a few minutes the white, felt covered balls flew back and forth from scores of graceful, eager hands. A moment or two passed when no balls came her way. She turned and walked to the foot of a dune and seated herself close beyond the line of the sand, her serious, beautiful eyes fixed steadily on a distant white spot—the spanson canoe where Gladys and Selwyn sat in the paddle blades flashing in the sun.

How far away they were! Gerald was with them, a curious that Selwyn had not seen her waiting for him. knee deep in the surf curious that he had seen Gladys instead! True, Gladys had called to him and signaled him, and he had responded. Gladys was very pretty—with her lovely, dark hair and melting, Spanish eyes and her softly rounded, olive skinned figure. Gladys had called to him, and she had not. That was true, and lately—for the last few days or perhaps more—she herself had been a trifle too apologetic in her greeting of Selwyn—a little less sure than with him. After all, a man comes when it pleases him. His should a girl call him—unless she—is less—unless—

Perplexed, her grave eyes were fixed on the sea when the white canoe pitched nearer, close on now.

When the canoe suddenly capsized, Gladys jumped, but Selwyn went with it, her and Gladys flashing in the sun. Gladys jumped, but Selwyn went with it, her and Gladys flashing in the sun. Then she was lost in a smother of foam and confusion, and Selwyn was there, and Gladys was there, and Eileen looked on, and looked on, and looked on, and

And The Steel Ribbed Firepots

Fig. 1 separates the radiating surface of the firepot, for the heat obtained from the fuel.

In most furnaces the firepots are made with many flanges or points, to increase the radiating surface. Being castiron, these flanges take up so much room that only a few can be used.

In the "Hecla" Furnace we use steel ribs instead of castiron flanges. By applying our Patented Steel Rib Idea, we are able to fuse 97 steel ribs to the firepot in the same space where before we were able to cast only 17 iron ones.

Diagrams the "Hecla" three times the radiating surface of any other firepot and effects a saving of 25 to 30 % in fuel, as proved by a three year's test.

OLIVE ROBINSON

The one scientific way of doing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart and Nerves is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why prescriptions like Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed entirely to the cause of these troubles. It is not stimulation. Shoop's Restorative is not a tonic, nor a nerve. It isn't made to stimulate. It is to strengthen. Weak Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, it one goes at it correctly. Don't dose with stimulating nerve drugs. When these nerves fail, then these organs fail, then these troubles. Shoop's Restorative contains vital truths or leading drugging strengthens. Shoop's Restorative is not a few drops, and is therefore a complete and strictly tablet. Sold by all dealers.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Albion Bay, Nov. 29th, 1909.

Editor Napanee Beaver

Dear Sir:—Perusing the paper this Monday morning of your valuable paper I saw a most startling account of your miraculous escape from a would-be assassin shot and the miraculous escape made possible only by a bend of the pistol ball. A scriber promptly paying you on before subscription and sewards packet that it should be a little more next to the vital organ. And now bearing another blood-thirsty assault attacks you at Napanee, and as a protection of your life and one-half dollar, which Uncle Sam makes large and very protective and as you can place a good sized coin in each breast pocket as life preservers. I am so glad I have helped so many editors in pay for your paper when some kind friends will write each obituary.

To the praise of God, I can say my health was never better than now. I can work with pleasure. Have been working a garden of over two acres of ground, did all the work, ploughing, cultivating, weeding and harvesting all myself, and had a splendid crop. Keep one cow, a calf and a large lot of poultry. Also I am called to preach and sing, and called to many funeral services, and preach many funeral sermons. And in this way you will see I have a busy life for one of my years.

In reading over the correspondence from Bath I saw the account of the death of Mrs. Smith, a very kind school teacher of fifty years ago. Her name brought back remembrances of some fifty three years ago, when he was a cheerful bright pupil in my singing school at the Stone School house at Mervyn. And as I write, bright scenes of those long ago school days come on and I can see the crowded house of happy faces, and hear them voices ringing in cheerful song. I call up in memory Smiths, Fralicks, Perrys, Dunbars, Bridges, Millers, Dolleys, Bayers, Johnsons, Gordons, Rogers, Rockwells, Canfields, VanSlyke, Rombaughs, and many many others, numbering in all three hundred families represented. I conducted at that time six schools each week, Mervyn, Odessa, Napanee, Moscow, Newburgh and Napanee Mills. I continued each winter to teach vocal music for some thirty or more years, from the County of Hastings west to Frontenac east. In all that time I only had to refuse once. I preached, sang at scores of country and old fashioned teamgetings. These remembrances of those days I think help me to feel young and vigorous. Thanking you for space.

I am, JACOB CLANCY

The bodies of Mrs. McLachlan and her two little boys were removed at Wyoming to furnish evidences in the trial of McLachlan for murder.

NAIRN CENTRE

We are having fine weather here. There is extensive lumbering going on here this winter, and lots of employment for men, and fair wages. Samuel Kirk is here from Tamworth. He is driving team for the firm of A. Bigwood Lumber Co. Samuel thinks he will go prospecting in the spring. David Bell is here also from the same place. He is with the same Company. He has charge of a gang of men in the camp. He is running what they call the Beaver gang, cutting roads, and he is the boss Beaver. David is progressing fine.

RIDING ON HAY RAKES

Many good stories about rides have been told, but the following, which is told on Brockville Free Press, takes the cake. It seems that while taking a ride on a hay rake recently, a couple of young people, in order to make the ride more pleasant, decided to get married, and on the steps and entered the parsonage. The minister, who was also a farmer, was busy raking hay in the field, and when he saw the hay rake coming to the house he thought that some one was in a hurry for him to perform the ceremony, and he hurried to the house. He had not even time to change his clothes, and when he entered the room he was still wearing his overalls. The couple were married and then went on their way rejoicing. The minister was also married, and when he got back to the field he found that his hay had been raked into windrows by the horses, and that the rake had gone home without him. He had to rake and cock the hay himself, and when he got home he found

...SUCESSFUL AND... Modern Christmas Gift Giving!

GIFTS OF SERVICE FOR EVERYONE

Gift-giving at Christmas time has become modernized to a great extent. To-day the average person takes into consideration in choosing a gift for a friend. The real value and service, such a remembrance, will be to the recipient. It's altogether different now to what it was a few years ago. Then anything that appealed to the donor as something that would be kept for an unlimited length of time was quite suitable. Not so now. The chief object is to give something of service, something that will be used and appreciated and give pleasure to the person receiving it. Christmas comes every year, and every year you have the same chance to show your good fellowship, so why not give a gift that will fill a desire that you know your friend has, perhaps a little better than he or she would buy for themselves. Give this a thought and have a look to our fine stock of gifts for everyone. Just come and look through the different departments. There are hundreds of Gift Suggestions.

Handkerchiefs for Men, Women and Children; all kinds.

Beautiful Hosiery of Real Gift Qualities.

Charming Novelties in Neckwear for Women and Misses.

Handsome Belts in All Smart New Shades.

Gloves for Every Hand and Every Occasion.

Only Medicine That Did Any Good

After Suffering Tortures For Years, This Lady Found Happy Relief In "Fruit-a-tives".

Prudeville, Ont., June 11th, 1908.

"I have received most wonderful benefit by taking "Fruit-a-tives." I suffered for years from headaches and pain in the back, and I consulted doctors and tried every remedy obtainable without relief. Then I began taking "Fruit-a-tives" and this was the only medicine I ever did me any real good. I took four boxes altogether, and now I am perfectly well of all my dreadful headaches and backaches.

MRS. FRANK EATON

I take "Fruit-a-tives" occasionally — but I am quite cured of a trouble which used to be incurable. I give this testimony voluntarily, in order that others who suffer as I suffered may try "Fruit-a-tives" and be cured."

(Signed) MRS. FRANK EATON.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c, or by 6 for $2.50 or trial box, 25c — or post paid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Author of "The Fighting Chance," Etc.

"What is disturbing our friendship?" she asked. "Do you know? I don't. I went to my room after lunch—and lay down on my bed and quietly deliberated. And do you know what conclusion I have reached?"

"What?" he asked.

"That there is nothing at all to disturb our friendship and that what I said to you on the beach was foolish. I don't know why I said it. I'm not the sort of girl who says such stupid things, though I was apparently for that one moment. And what I said about Gladys was childish. I am not jealous of her, Captain Selwyn. Don't think me silly or perverse or sentimental, will you?"

"I wish to ask you something."

"With pleasure," she said. "Go ahead." And she settled back, fearlessly expectant.

"Very well, then," he said, striving to speak coolly. "It is this: Will you marry me, Eileen?"

She turned perfectly white and stared at him, stunned. And he repeated his question, speaking slowly but unsteadily.

"No," she said, "I cannot. Why—why, you know that, don't you?"

"Will you tell me why, Eileen?".

"I—I don't know why. I think—I suppose that it is because I do not love you—that way."

"Yes," he said, "that, of course, is the reason. I wonder—do you suppose that—in time—perhaps—you might care for me—that way?"

"I don't know." She glanced up at him inwardly, fascinated, yet repelled. "I don't know," she repeated pitifully. "Is it—can't you help thinking of me in that way? Can't you be as you were?"

"No, I can no longer help it. I don't want to help it, Eileen."

"But—I wish you to," she said in a low voice. "It is that which is coming between us. Oh, don't you see it so? Don't you feel it—feel what it is doing to me? Don't you understand how it is driving me back into myself? Eileen am I to go to it not to you? What am I to do if your affection turns into this—this different attitude toward me? I—I loved you so dearly—so fearlessly."

Tears blinded her. She beat her hand, and they fell on the soft, delicate cloth of her gown, flashing downward in the sunlight.

"Dear!" he said gently, "nothing is altered between us. I love you in that way too."

"Do you really?" she stammered, shrinking away from him.

"Truly. Nothing is altered. No, a fig of the hand between us is wasted on the contrary, it is strength added. You cannot understand that now. But what you are to believe and always understand is that our friendship is unaltered."

"I want to ask you something," she said, "merely to prove that you are a man for an illogical. May I?".

He nodded, smiling.

"Would you and I care for each other more than we may do if we were married?"

"I think so," he said.

"Why?" she demanded, astonished. Excitedly she had expected another answer.

He made no reply, and she lay back among the cushions considering what he had said, the flush of surprise still lingering in her cheeks.

"How can I marry you?" she asked, "when I would—would not care to endure a—a caress from my own mouth from you? It—such things—would spoil it all. I don't love you that way. Oh, don't look at me that way! Have I hurt you, dear Captain Selwyn? I did not mean to. Oh, what has become of our happiness? What has become of it?" And she turned, face downward in the swing, and hid her face in the silken pillows.

He looked down at her, slowly realizing that it was a child he still was dealing with—a child with a child's innocence, repelled by the graver phase of love, unresponsive to the deeper emotions, bewildered by the glimpse of the mature role his attitude had compelled her to accept. That she already had reached that milestone and for a moment had turned involuntarily to look back and find her childhood slipping behind her frightened her.

Thinking perhaps of his own years and of what lay behind him, he sighed and looked out over the waste of moorland where the Atlantic rolled in upon the sands of Surf point. Then his patient gaze shifted to the east, and he saw the surface of Sky pond, blue as the eyes of the girl who lay crouching in the cushioned corner of the swinging seat, small hands clinched over the handkerchief, a limp bit of stuff damp with her tears.

"There is one thing," he said, "that we mustn't do—cry about it, must we, Eileen?"

"No—"

He was silent, and presently she said, "Is the reason of it—my crying—is b-b-because I don't wish you to be unhappy."

"But, dear, dear little girl, I am not."

"Really?"

"No, indeed. Why should I be? You do love me, don't you?"

"You know I do."

"But not in that way."

"N-no; not in that way. I w-wish I did."

A thrill passed through him. After a moment he relaxed and leaned forward, his chin resting on his clinched hands. "Then let us go back to the old footing, Eileen."

"Can we?"

"Yes, we can, and we will—back to the old footing when nothing of deeper sentiment disturbed us. You know how it is. A man who is locked up in paradise is never satisfied until he can climb the wall and look over. Now I have climbed and looked, and now I climb back into the garden of your dear friendship, very glad to be there again with you—very, very thankful, dear. Will you welcome me back?"

She lay quite still a minute, then sat up straight, stretching out both hands to him, her beautiful, fearless eyes brilliant as rain washed stars.

"Don't go away," she said. "Don't ever go away from our garden again."

"No, Eileen."

"Is it a promise—Phillip?"

Her voice fell exquisitely low.

"Yes—a promise. Do you take me back, Eileen?"

"Yes, I take you. Take me back, too, Phillip." Her hands tightened in his; she looked up at him, faltered, waited, then in a fainter voice: "And—and be of good courage. I—I am not very old yet."

An hour later, when Nina discovered them there together, Eileen, curled up among the cushions in the swinging seat, was reading aloud "Evidences of Asiatic Influence on the Symbolism of Ancient Yucatan," and Selwyn, astride a chair, chin on his folded arms, was listening with evident rapture.

Chapter 21

Hitherwood House, opened from end to end to the soft sea wind, was crowded with the gayest, noisiest throng that had gathered there in a twelvemonth. The Orchils and the Lawns were there, the Minuters, the Craigs from Wyossett, the Grays of Shadow Lake, the Laymores, Fanes, Mottys, Cardwells—in fact, it seemed as though all Long Island had been drained from Cedarhurst to Islip and from Oyster Bay to Wyossett to pour a stream of garrulous and animated youth and beauty into the halls and over the verandas and terraces and lawns of Hitherwood House.

It was to be a lantern frolic and a lantern dance and supper, all most formally and impressively informal. And it began with a candle race for a big silver gilt cup and a motor boat race won by Boots and Gerald. Out in the bay lay Neergard's yacht, outlined in electricity from stem to stern, every spar and funnel and contour of hull and superstructure twinkling in jeweled brilliancy.

On a great improvised open pavilion set up in the Hither woods, garlanded and hung thick with multi-colored paper lanterns, dancing had already begun, but Selwyn and Eileen lingered on the lawn for awhile, fascinated by the beauty of the fireworks pouring skyward from the Niborara.

"They seem to be very gay aboard her," murmured the girl. "Once you said that you did not like Mr. Neergard. Do you remember saying it?"

He replied simply, "I don't like him, and I remember saying so."

"It is strange," she said, "that Gerald does."

Selwyn looked at the illuminated yacht. "I wonder whether any of Neergard's crowd is expected ashore here. Do you happen to know?"

She did not know. A moment later, to his annoyance, Edgerton Lawn came up and asked her to dance, and she went, with a smile and a whispered "Wait for me, if you don't mind; I'll come back to you."

At intervals, he caught glimpses of Eileen through the gay crush around him. He danced with Nina and suggested to her it was time to leave, but that young matron had tasted just enough to want more, and Eileen, too, was evidently having a most delightful time. So he settled into the harness of pleasure and was good to the pink and white ones, and they told each other what a "dear" he was and adored him more inconveniently than ever.

Truly enough, as he had often said, these younger ones were the charmingly wholesome and refreshing antidote to the occasional misbehavior of the mature. They were, as he also asserted, the hope and promise of the special fabric of a nation, this younger set.

Supper and then the Woodland cotillion was the programme, and almost all the tables were filled before Selwyn had an opportunity to collect Nina and Austin and capture Eileen from a very ready bridegroom and indignant boy who had quite lost his head and heart and appeared to be on the verge of a bending declaration.

"It's only Percy Draymore's kid brother," she explained, passing her arm through his with a little sigh of satisfaction. "Oh, here come Nina and Austin. How pretty the ladies look all lighted up among the trees! And such an uproar!" as they came into the jolly tumult and passed in among a labyrinth of tables, greeted laughingly from every side.

Under a vigorous young oak tree thickly festooned with lanterns Austin found an unoccupied table. There were a great deal of racket and laughter from the groups surrounding them, but this seemed to be the only available spot; besides, Austin was hungry, and he said so.

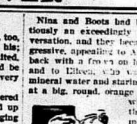
Nina with Selwyn on her left, looked around for Gerald and Lansing. When the latter came sauntering up Austin questioned him, but he replied coolly that Gerald had gone to join some people whom he, Lansing, did not know very well.

"Why, there he is now!" exclaimed Eileen, catching sight of her brother seated among a very noisy group on the outer edge of the illuminated zone. "Who are those people, Nina? Oh, Rosamund Fane is there, too; and—and"—

She ceased speaking so abruptly that Selwyn turned around, and Nina bit her lip in vexation and glanced at her husband, for among the overanimated and almost boisterous group which was attracting the attention of everybody in the vicinity sat Mrs. Jack Ruthven. And Selwyn saw her.

For a moment he looked at her—looked at Gerald beside her, and Neergard on the other side, and Rosamund opposite, and at the others whom he had never before seen. Then quietly, but with heightened color, he turned his attention to the glass which the servant had just filled for him and, resting his hand on the stem, stared at the bubbles crowding upward through it to the foamy brim.

Nina and Boots had begun ostentatiously an exceedingly animated conversation, and they became almost aggressive, appealing to Austin, who sat back with a frown on his heavy face, and to Eileen, who was feigning her mineral water and staring thoughtfully at a big, round, orange tinted lantern which hung like the harvest moon behind Gerald, throwing his curly head into silhouette.



Stared at the bubbles.

What conversation there was to carry, Boots and Nina carried. Austin silently satisfied his hunger, eating and drinking with a sullen determination to make no pretense of ignoring a situation that plainly angered him deeply. And from minute to minute he raised his head to glare across at Gerald, who evidently was unconscious of the presence of his own party.

When Nina spoke to Eileen, the girl answered briefly, but with perfect composure. Selwyn, too, added a quiet word at intervals, speaking in a voice that sounded a little tired and strained.

It was that note of fatigue in his voice which aroused Eileen to effort—the instinctive move to protect, to justify him. Conscious of Austin's suppressed but increasing anger at her brother, amazed and distressed at what Gerald had done—for the boy's very presence there was the act of wrong—they disapproved was an affront to them all—she was still more sensitive to Selwyn's pride, and in her heart she responded passionately.

Nina looked up, surprised at the sudden transformation in the girl, who had turned on Boots with a sudden flow of spirits and the gayest of challenges, and their laughter and badinage became genuine and so persistent that, combining with Nina, they fairly swept Austin from his surly abstraction into their toils, and Selwyn's subdued laugh, if forced, sounded pleasant now, and his drawn face seemed to relax a little for the time being.

Once she turned, under cover of the general conversation which she had set going, and looked straight into Selwyn's eyes, flashing to him a message of purest loyalty, and his silent gaze in response sent the color flying to her cheeks.

McIVER—YORK

A very pretty wedding took place at 9 o'clock on Monday, 6th Dec., at the residence of Mr. Clayton York, Banning street, Port Arthur, when his sister, Nellie, was united in marriage to Mr. Archibald McIver. Rev. J. W. Churchill officiated. The bride looked charming in a princess gown of light grey silk with hat to match. After the ceremony the immediate relatives of the bride and groom, about twenty in number, sat down to the wedding supper. The bride received some handsome and useful presents. Mr. and Mrs. McIver will reside on Algoma street south

WALLACE'S

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE TOWN OF NAPANEE.

Realizing that no opportunity will be available for me to report to you, as your representative in the County Council, what has been done in the Council during the current year in the interests of the Town of Napanee, I am using the public press to publish this report.

The County Council, in striking the standing committees for the year, placed your Reeve upon the Finance and Education and Printing Committees, on both of which Committees he acted as Secretary.

The Finance Committee, during the year, has kept the rate of taxation for the County rate the same as last year, but, in order to provide for an existing floating indebtedness, arising from good Roads System in the County, a debenture of $18,000 was sold at 4½ per cent. interest at a premium of $50.00 over par to the Merchants' Bank of Canada, which speaks well for the credit of the County.

The present debenture debt of the County stands today at $66,300, but a debenture falls due in January next of $10,300, which will leave the County debenture debt at $56,000, and this amount practically represents the expenditures under Good Roads System of the County over and above what was raised by the County rate and the amount contributed by the Government. The old consolidated debt of the County will be paid, when this $10,300 debenture is paid in January.

The Educational Committee had to adjust the Inspectorate District of the Public Schools of the County of Lennox and Addington and the County of Frontenac and to avoid the alternative of having to appoint two Inspectors for each County, a joint arrangement was made between the Counties, by which a new district was created partially of Lennox and Addington and partially of Frontenac, and Mr. M. R. Reid, B.A., was appointed Inspector of the new Public Schools Inspectorate. Mr. Reid to begin with a salary of $1500, to be increased in two years to $1700; half of this salary is paid by the Government and the other half paid by the two Counties in the proportion of three-eights to be paid by Lennox and Addington and five-eighths by the County of Frontenac.

The Educational Committee at its last session, had the question of the appropriations for Newburgh High School and Napanee Collegiate Institute to deal with, and the report of the Committee granting to Napanee $300.00 more for the Collegiate Institute purposes than last year, was adopted by the Council. The County contributing to the Collegiate Institute now $7300.00 instead of $3000.00 as last year.

At the November meeting the Council granted towards the payment for the construction of the new bridge in Napanee $600.00 and at the December meeting the Napanee Poultry Show got the usual grant of $25.00, and a liability arising out of the County scheme for the care of the poor, should between $200.00 and $300.00, due from Napanee to the County, under by-law No. 233 as well as similar accounts due from the different local municipalities to the County for the care of the poor in Kingston by the County came up for consideration and the County Council thought the wisest course would be for the Council to assume these accounts and pay for the poor of the County without trying to bill the local municipalities for the amounts incurred by them from the different municipalities, and a By-law was passed repealing By-law 233 which authorized the charging back of these amounts, and in the future all the poor sent from the County to Kingston will be paid for by the County Council.

A grant of $50.00 was made to the Hay Bay ferry on road promoted by the business men of Napanee.

Another important matter that received the attention of this years Council was the present system of County Roads and finally a resolution was passed at the last session condemning the existing system of County Roads and recommending that the Council of 1910 adopt a better, improved and more satisfactory system of construction or abandon County Roads entirely. This action of the Council does not financially effect Napanee, as the increased County rate, under Good Roads System has been introduced, is about equal to the County grant to Napanee for designated roads.

Wishing you the Compliments of the Season, I have the honor to be

Your obedient servant,
G. F. RUTTAN, Reeve.

ONTARIO ARCHIVES

FATHER 80-MOTHER 76

The aged father and mother of a prominent Boston lawyer safely carried through the last two winters by

Vinol

The son says: "My father and mother owe their present strength and good health to Vinol. During the last two trying winters neither of them had a cold, and were able to walk farther and do more than for years. I think Vinol is perfectly wonderful. It certainly is the greatest blood-making, strengthening tonic for old people I ever heard of."

We want every feeble old person in this town to try Vinol. We will return their money without question if it does not accomplish all we claim for it.

FREE TO YOU—MY SISTER

FREE TO YOU AND EVERY SISTER SUFFERING FROM WOMEN'S AILMENTS.

I am a woman.
I know what suffering is.
I have found the cure.
I will mail, free of all charge, my home treatment with full instructions, to any sufferer who cares to write me. I want to tell all women about this cure—how, by using it at home, they may be made healthy, strong, womanly, as you should be. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home and in the privacy of your own room, of Leucorrhœa, Displacements or Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors or Growths, all or pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing-down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, kidney and bladder troubles where caused by weakness peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you complete 10 days treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, that it will cost you nothing to give this treatment a fair trial, and if you should wish to continue, it will cost you only about 12 cents a week. I will not interfere with your present occupation, but if you send me your name and address, full instructions, which, and it will send you the treatment by return mail, prepaid, in a plain wrapper. I will also send you free a copy of my 64-page BOOK—"WOMAN SO WELL MEDICAL ADVISER," containing many interesting illustrations, showing the diseases peculiar to women, and telling many things you should know. Every woman should have a copy. Then when the doctor says: "You must have an operation," or when you have tried the best you can with no home cure, and are disheartened and discouraged, you will not submit to the unnecessary suffering and expense, but will cure yourself at home in private, as thousands of others have done. Many women have written me, after using my home treatment, that they cured all women's diseases and make women happy. Don't suffer another day, but write me at once for this home treatment and my 64-page book, both entirely free. Every letter is held sacredly confidential, and I do not use nor sell testimonials. Address in confidence,

MRS. M. SUMMERS, Box H 227 - WINDSOR, ONT.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity?
Will you tell some sick friend of this, my remarkable offer?

To this end, that you have learned of a medicine certain that its maker dare say to the sick:

It is absolutely and unconditionally free.

I do not doubt already know of it. Those who have tried it are telling others. Those who have been benefited write me letters of gratitude. Those who have been cured write me letters of thanksgiving. Those who have been saved from the suffering, the heartaches, the lingering, the fatality of consumption write me letters of appreciation. Those who have been saved from the grave write me letters of thankfulness.

Why should the sick take any other medicine, when they can get this one free?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be cured?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be saved?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be made well and strong?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be happy?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be rejoicing?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be grateful?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be thankful?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be glad?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be joyful?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of praise?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of gratitude?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of thankfulness?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of joy?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of happiness?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of peace?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of love?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of hope?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of faith?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of life?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of health?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of strength?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of vigor?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of energy?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of vitality?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of power?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of might?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of glory?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of honor?

Why should they not write me for it, and try it, and be full of praise?

CHRISTMAS

Calendars, Prices and Right Values

The proposition of calendars is a time worn idea. If the prices and values are right, the goods will sell themselves.

Modern business methods adopted by us demand broader principles and everybody knows that indirectly they pay for calendars. We do not give calendars. This year look for values and right prices.

All that the Tree Must Hold is Here.

IF your baking goes wrong, investigate — find the cause. Look to your stove, your yeast, your baking methods.

If you succeed in pinning the trouble down to the flour—then take up the flour question in dead earnest.

Consider that flour, to be successful from a baking standpoint, must be fine to produce light bread or pastry, pure to make that bread or pastry wholesome, and rich in nutriment to make it nourishing.

Ogilvie's Royal Household

has these three qualities in the greatest degree.

Ogilvie's Royal Household is milled by the most modern methods, and made only from Manitoba Hard Wheat which contains the highest percentage of nutriment.

DREDGING NAPANEE RIVER.

Mr. Wilson states: wase to the House on December 7th, 1909.

Mr. T. Wilson (Lennox and Addington). Mr. Speaker, I wish to call attention to a matter of considerable importance to many people in my riding. At a public meeting on November 30 of representative men in the town of Napanee, the state of the Napanee river was discussed. In justice to the Minister of Public Works I should say that last year, although there was no appropriation for the dredging of the river, he gave me a pledge across the floor of the House that he would see if he could get a dredge and have a certain amount of dredging done. He made an appropriation of $2,000. I talked the matter over with him and I supposed if he did some dredging in the shallow places it would greatly assist the navigation of the river. But it turns out that there was only a very narrow channel made about twenty feet wide. The captain of the dredge was, that public meeting and explained the condition of the river. Marine men stated that the river was worse than it had been before the dredging was done. The captain said that only a narrow cut was made and when the dipper of the dredge came up it would dump an overflow and pile up logs and stones and mud, forming a ridge on one side of the cut. Thus, if the vessel happens to get out of the channel she is in much shallower water than before the dredging was done. Captain Christie, of the steamer Brockville, quite a considerable steamboat, says that it is very important to his company to know what is going to be done about the dredging of the river, because unless the navigation of the river is improved his company will have to withdraw their boats from that route. He is anxious to know because he says they always make their preparations the year before, so they will know what they are going to do in the spring. A question of mine asked to whether it was intended to make an appropriation this year for the dredging of the Napanee. The Napanee river is one of the constituents is one of the countries. I have been very little money in return for what we contribute to the revenues of the country. We do not wish to be unreasonable, but we think this is a very important matter, inasmuch as the town of Napanee and the entire surrounding country are deeply interested because we get our coal from the United States. It has to come in vessels, and the river is so low for want of dredging in certain places that only the small net vessels can come in, and they are decreasing in number. Having to use the small vessels naturally increases our freight rates. The Minister of Public Works, I am sure, is disposed to deal fairly by us, and I hope that a reasonable appropriation will be made in the supplementary estimates for this work of primary ...portance. I hope I will not be told, as the Minister of Finance often tells members on this side, that we are continually finding fault with the large expenditure that is made, but are still asking for more. What we want is that the appropriations should be made for useful public works, not for works like the New-market canal. You could dredge Scotch five rivers like the Napanee River for the money wasted on the Newmarket canal. I allude to this in order that the minister may not think I am unreasonable and want expenditures for purposes which are not necessary. I now leave this matter in the hands of the government, hoping the minister will reply and that I may be able to let the people of my riding know what I have asked.

Hon. Sam Pugsley (Minister of Public Works). Mr. Speaker, as my friend, Mr. T. Wilson has mentioned the subject of the dredging of the Napanee river, and has intimated that one of the captains has made the statement that navigation is more dangerous than before, I think perhaps I should call the attention of the House to what has actually been done during the past season. Before doing so I may say that before we began working upon that river during the season of 1908 the river, for seven miles, was full of obstructions, such as sunken logs and stumps. We also, in the early week right in the channel of the river and it was a serious menace to navigation. It was expected to do not only by my hon. friend but also by prominent citizens of Napanee, by captains of vessels as well, that the dredging of this river was necessary in order to get satisfactory navigation. Well, Sir, it is true, as my hon. friend mentioned a number of other gentlemen in Napanee, who communicated with me upon this subject, that there was no special appropriation made at the last session of parliament for this work, but I stated that it possible I would endeavor to get a dredge and have the work done. We had no government dredge available for the purpose, as they were all busily engaged elsewhere, but we did succeed in making a very satisfactory arrangement with the Windsor Dredging Company, what I think every one who is familiar with the position of affairs in that river will say was a satisfactory arrangement, the price being 14 cents per yard performed for the depth of 8 feet below low water at various points in the river where most required. The dredge was working from 25 to 30 feet and the remains of the old wreck were entirely removed. Altogether during the past season this company dredged some 20,000 cubic yards of material in addition to removing the wreck. The dredging ...mpiture has been in the vicinity of $2,500. I think from this report and from what I have heard outside of the report the work which has been done has been very satisfactory and the excellent value has been got for the money which has been expended. I may say to my hon. friend that the question of continuing the dredging will receive careful consideration, but I do trust that my hon. friend recognizes that, at his own request and at the urgent request of a number of prominent citizens of Napanee, I made arrangements under considerable difficulty to do this work, believing that it was a justifiable work just as all other work which is done by my department is justifiable work and necessary in the public interest. I can assure my hon. friend that he would make a stronger case for the dredging of the Napanee river if he would simply rely upon the merits of the work which we have on hand and not seek to disparage the public work which is being done in other places. I think it is a great mistake when one desires that some work should be done in his own locality, that he should feel it necessary to throw out the suggestion that every expenditure made in any other part of the country is a waste of money and that the only place in the whole Dominion of Canada where money can be expended to public advantage is in the particular locality in which he resides.

Mr. T. Wilson. I did not throw out any such insinuation. I did not intend to, and I think, Mr. Speaker, you will bear me out when I say that I gave the minister full credit for his generosity last year. I acknowledge that under difficulties he made this appropriation. I have a letter from Captain Christie which bears out everything I have said in reference to the dredging. I will let the minister see it.

Mr. Uriah Wilson.

1. Is it the intention of the government to do any dredging during the coming season in the Napanee river?

2. Is the government aware that the said Napanee river is in a very bad state for navigation purposes owing to the inefficiency of the dredging the past season?

Mr. Graham.

Until the large number of applications which are before the department, for dredging during the next season have been carefully considered, it is impossible to say whether or not it will be possible to do any dredging next season in the Napanee river.

The district engineer reports that the present condition of the Napanee river is not due to the inefficiency of the dredging performed during the past season by the department, but rather to the extraordinary low stage of water in Lake Ontario and the Bay of Quinte which governs the depth of the Napanee river. The difference between the level in September last, when the work was performed, and that of to-day, at the close of navigation, is 14 inches.

HOPE FOR THE CHRONIC INSPECTOR.

Perhaps some consideration of the bodily needs of certain persons allow disorders of the digestive apparatus to endure until life becomes a burden and existence fraught with suffering. To these a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills is recommended as a sure and speedy way to regain health. Headache, biliousness, constipation and kindred disorders yield to the magic-like influence of these pills.

INGLE

Xmas is almost here and yet no sleighing; still we hope to hear the merry jingle of the bells before long—Mr. and Mrs. Henry McLaughlin returned home on Wednesday, after spending some time visiting with friends and relatives in Thurlow and Belleville. Mr. George Dean received the sad news of the death of his nephew, whose home is in Farraday, and who was shot while deer hunting. Messrs. Herb Asselstine and Frank McLaughlin accompanied Mr. Dean Asselstine to Montreal last week to view the sights of that grand city. We regret to learn of death of Mrs. Wm. South, sister of Mr. John McKnight, of this place. Mr. Manson York has returned from the West.

Fresh Nuts

There is a great difference in the taste of a kernel from a fresh nut and one which has been lying in a store for many months. The old stale one tastes like leather, and you think you are trying to swallow cork.

Nuts contain a certain percentage of oil. In time this oil dries out, and the good qualities of the nut are gone. Always use fresh nuts.

We have choice fresh nuts of all kind.

OBITUARY.

J. J. Minchinton, an old and highly respected resident of Napanee, died on Friday last. Deceased had been in poor health for the past three years, and a great sufferer. He leaves besides his widow, three sons, Gordon, in Toronto, and Reginald, at home. The funeral occurred on Sunday afternoon, the remains were placed in Riverside cemetery vault.

A NEW RAILWAY FOR NAPANEE

The Toronto World states that the Canadian Northern has decided to run their new line along the water front from Port Dalhousie to Kingston, and from thence to Ottawa. This will mean running through Deseronto, Napanee and Bath. The last named place would make an ideal cooling station and divisional point, and no doubt the clever railway managers have some such plan in view. It would behove these three towns to unite in pushing the project in every way possible.

LOCAL OPTION.

The people of Ernestown are awake to the importance of doing their duty in the coming local option campaign. They have secured the services of Rev. T. E. Ryckman, of Kingston, to deliver an address in Bath Town Hall, on Friday evening, the 17th, and in the Village of Odessa, on Saturday evening, 18th, at 7.30 o'clock. He is a powerful speaker and every ratepayer and all good citizens should come to hear him. They will also have meetings at Switzerville and Wilton. They are bound to banish the bar and put a stop to the treating system in order that druggists may exist, and are looking for the support of all citizens and ratepayers to be firm to their obligations and christian duty. The officers are L. L. Gallagher, President; E. A. Mater, Secretary; Willis Mills, Treasurer. Com.

CHRISTMAS PASTORAL.

To the Members of the Church of England, in the Diocese of Ontario.

Dear Brethren,—The coming of Christmas reminds us of God's marvellous love to man, manifested in the incarnation of His Son, Who took our nature upon Him, that He might take our place, and do for us what we could not do for ourselves. The spirit of Christmas is to give. It is a time to remember the unthankful and the evil feel then an unwonted glow of generosity. What season presents a better channel shall it be? Do not self and selfishness dominate. A Canon of Synod declares that the offerings on Christmas Day shall be given to the Clergyman of the Parish. Let it not be a mere form, but a loving reality. Make it as liberal as our loving Father has made His gifts to you and to our country this year, for God has indeed crowned the past year with His goodness, and made His cloud to drop fatness. He gave to this country an abundant harvest. No class of persons share so little in the general prosperity as the Clergy. The country has grown and prospered, and prices have gone up, they have relatively grown poorer. Expenses have increased, but not the Clergyman's salary. In consequence, he is frequently less worldly than we are, to know nothing of, and free from debt, and to present a creditable appearance. It is a problem that often with him the clevrest mathematician would puzzle the most ingenious. His sermons and his ministrations are not infrequently seriously affected by the vexed and vexing question, how to make the stipend cover the bare cost of living in the plainest way. If the spirit of Christmas finds an entrance into your life, you will willingly embrace your Clergyman's head and brighten his home by your gifts. Him, whose Home was not even his own, but with joy and gladness, through you a Happy Christmas.

Your faithful friend and Father,

MILL HAVEN

CAMDEN EAST

Last Sunday was a cold day, but on Monday it was rain and sleet all day. Just enough to spoil the merry sleigh-bells which again last Tuesday afternoon, and a good many were enjoying the snow and pleasuring around the village. The reopening of the Methodist church was held last Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Seventh, of Edinburgh gave two splendid sermons, morning and evening. In a crowded house on Monday evening last the tea meeting was held in Hinch's Hall owing to the storms during the evening was only fairly well attended, but all report a splendid time. The excellent programme of Miss Tosti of Belleville that entertained us was highly appreciated by all. Miss Stewart and sister, Mrs. Hodgins, gave a fine selection. Miss Ferris gave a good recitation. The choir gave some good singing on Sunday and Monday evening. Rev. Mr. Seventh, of Newburgh, and Rev. Mr. White, of Enterprise, gave short addresses. Rev. Mr. Spencer, of Lake Ontario, was to have spoken very highly of the new building, calling the people to worship. Mr. Paul Wright and Tamworth ably filled the chair. Proceeds of the tea meeting were $74.00. Miss Frances Ferris, of Bath, is visiting her friend, Miss Rose and Mr. Wright, of Westbrook, at Mr. Stewart's, and Mr. Allen Orchard has left for Bath to teach for the remainder of the term. There were several other people visiting in the village during the two opening services of the Methodist church—Mr. B. Parrott, who has been in Toronto for several days, returned home last Saturday.—Mr. Bert Amey is loading a car at the station with potatoes.—Mr. Bone has gone to Montreal.—Rev. Mr. White, of Enterprise, was a guest at Mr. McGinnes' while in the village last Monday and Tuesday.

MORVEN.

A very interesting Temperance entertainment was held in the Union Church, Morven, on Friday evening, Dec. 10th, under the auspices of the R. H. Cross of Morven Council No. 1. F. Lake, teacher, and Mrs. Wm. Sallean, ex-teacher of the class, and Mrs. Lorne Allison had charge of the programme, which consisted of choruses, readings, recitations, solos, quartettes and two excellent addresses given by Rev. W. S. P. Hoyes, B.A., B.D., Wilton, and Rev. S. F. Dixon, of Tamworth. Rev. Mr. Boyce gave an account of the local option situation in Ernestown and Rev. Mr. S. F. Dixon gave an address on the wider aspects of the local option question. All the young people taking part in the programme acquitted themselves very creditably indeed, and the universal verdict was a very profitable evening. The only regrets being that there was not a larger gathering to get the benefit of the entertainment. We are looking forward with anticipation for Jan. 3d, 1910, and when the votes are counted, we hope that the local option by-law shall prevail. "Be sure and vote for local option."

McLEAN.

Mrs. Will Lowry, of Latimer, returned to her home on Tuesday, after spending a few days with her sister, Mr. Dan. Kirk, of this place.—On Friday, Dec. 3d, John Kirk was taken out of the vault and laid to rest beside his parents in Parham cemetery. His funeral sermon was preached on the following Sunday at McLean, by the Rev. Mr. Richmond. The text was taken from 1 Corinth. 15th, 54th verse. Paper and 8th verse. "And every man shall receive his own reward according to his own labor" — We are all glad to see the smiling face of Mr. and Mrs. G. Foster, after an absence of about four months. —The sound of sleigh bells is to be heard once more, and makes us think it must be winter again. D. Kirk and Johnnie Vanvolkenberg are craft is improving, after a severe attack of tonsolitis.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Vanvolkenberg and Miss M. Breeze at Fred Kirkham's, Wagerville, on Sunday.—Mrs. D. MOSCOW.

We are blessed with fine sleighing and fine weather, and everyone is joyfully anticipating Christmas.

The revival services being held by the Friends' church here have closed after a great amount of good being done. The lecture by Miss Brooks, a returned missionary from China, was enjoyed by all who heard her. The lecture was instructive and interested both old and young. The W. M. S. workers are in hopes there will be a largely increased membership to help in such a worthy cause.—Miss Marie Johnston, a student at Queen's University, Kingston, is home to spend the holidays with her parents here.—A number of our young people, former students of the Newburgh High School, intend attending the Commencement concert at Newburgh.—We are to have a skating rink here in the near future. —Canning is greatly enjoyed by our young people here.—Johnnie Evans, Kingston, is home at his father's, Mr. Evans, here.—We are pleased to report our young friend, Percy Henn, much better, from an attack of appendicitis.—Mr. Alfred Martin lost a horse on Tuesday, one of his greys.—Mrs. Levi Evans is visiting Chatterton week with friends in Toronto.—Mr. Fred Johnson is also in Toronto this week on business.—Mr. Horatio Bell is busy getting out stone at the Mowse quarry for his new house in the spring.—Dear Beaver, on behalf of your many admirers at Moscow, I wish you a merry Xmas and a happy New Year.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

We are enjoying nice winter weather, and the light fall of snow has caused the merry jingle of the sleigh bell. A dancing party at Mr. Mark's on Tuesday evening, last week, was patronized by a few in this vicinity. Everybody is busy preparing for Xmas and Santa Claus. Miss L. Rose has spent last week at Mr. O. S. Davis'.

Mr. W. Aloombeck spent a few days at Mrs. S. Martin's, who is quite recently. Mr. C. Aloombeck left on Wednesday, the 15th inst., for High River, to see her son Will Bartley. He is not as well as we would like to hear. Mr. Archie Turnbull has arrived from the west to spend Christmas.

Get a pair of Hockey or Skating Boots and enjoy yourself while the ice is good. WILSON BROS.

52b

To the Electors of Napanee

Ladies and Gentlemen, Having decided to again enter the field as Councillor for 1910, I solicit your vote and influence. If elected, I will serve you faithfully as I have done in the past, and will endeavor to look after the welfare of the town to the best of my ability.

Wishing you all the Compliments of the Season, and thanking you for your generous support in the past, I remain,

Your obedient servant,
W. A. STEACY.

52b

To the Electors of Napanee

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I respectfully request your vote and influence for the position of Councillor at the forthcoming municipal election. I will exercise the same careful administration of the town's affairs that has characterized my conduct in the Council this year. Thanking you for the same generous support you accorded me last year.

Wishing you all the compliments of this season, I remain,

Yours truly,
M. C. BOGART.

To the Electors of Napanee

I have consented to allow my name to be put in nomination for Councillor for the Town of Napanee for the ensuing year. I have had several years experience as Councillor for the Town of Napanee and believe, if elected, I can serve you satisfactorily. I therefore solicit your votes and support at coming election.

W. A. ROSE.

52b

To the Electors of Napanee

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Having served you faithfully the last few years as a member of the Town Council, and being one of the largest ratepayers, I believe I am fully entitled to asking your support for Councillor for the year 1910, if elected. I will fill that position to the best of my ability and use my influence to try and reduce the high rate of taxation.

Your obedient servant,
A. S. KIMMERLY.

DESERONTO.

Mr. W. W. Carter, of Frankford, spent a few days in town last week on business.

Misses Eva and Hattie Harrison are spending their Xmas holidays with their mother, Dundas street.

H. Vandusen was a visitor in Picton for a few days last week.

Col. Hathhen was one of the delegates from Napanee that interviewed the Government in the deepening of the Napanee River.

The amount of business done by the merchants this month so far is far ahead of the same period last year.

Mr. J. Beasley returned on Tuesday after seven months on the upper lakes.

Mr. M. Harrigan met with an accident on Monday evening. While delivering some parcels to a rig in the shed, he slipped on the ice and fell, breaking his shoulder blade. Drs. Vandervoort and Pashner attended to the fracture.

Mrs. Chas. Bruton has been seriously ill for the past few days.

Mr. John Bruton has completed the rink, and he only requires some good freezing weather for good skating.

The Public School Board held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening, for the transaction of regular business. Mr. W. J. Malley handed in his resignation as school trustee.

The Town Council held a special meeting on Monday, to consider a matter of importance in connection with the Deseronto Furniture Co. It was agreed that the town would throw off its exemption in connection with the factory, since it was handed over by the Furniture Co., amounting to some $800, to effect a sale.

Come and see Sadler as chairman of the Industrial Committee, and Mayor Education from the Lead Smelting Company, asking what they had to offer as to sites, etc. The Council passed a motion to exempt all new industries from taxation except school taxes.

The pool and billiard business was transferred from Wm. Hewitt to Mr. Bonter, owner of the tables and room. Hewitt retires.

The president calls a regular meeting of the Council for next month, going through this year.

The officials of the Deseronto Furniture Company held a meeting on Monday evening and it is reported that the factory at Picton and Napanee will be closed down.

CENTREVILLE.

Owing to the snow storms of last week the sleighing is grand. The annual cheese meeting of our factory will be held on the 29th. Mr. Gerow invites all the patrons to attend.

Misses Myrtle Metcalf and Ella Bell are home from Ottawa, where they are attending Normal School.—There will be services in the Methodist church on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.—The nomination of the members of our Council will be held in the Town Hall, on Monday next.

The school meeting of S. S. No. 19 will be held on Wednesday next. The annual meeting of Centreville Methodist church will be held on New Years night. An excellent programme has been prepared.

ENTERPRISE.

A pretty house wedding was celebrated on Wednesday, 15th inst., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Lockwood, when their only daughter, Miss Lora Elsie, was united in marriage to Arthur Switzer, second son of Mr. Coleman Switzer, of Desmond. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Sexsmith, of Newburgh, assisted by the Rev. Mr. White, of Enterprise. The bride, given away by her father, looked charming in a robe of white silk. Her veil was caught with a chaplet of orange blossoms. Miss Myrtle Switzer, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, and wore a lovely gown of pale pink muslin, while O. C. Jackson performed the duties of best man. Miss Ada Storms presided at the organ. After the ceremony the happy party adjourned to the dining room, where a grand spread awaited them. The bride received many handsome presents from friends far and near, the groom's present being a beautiful set of sable furs. The happy couple left on the afternoon train amid a shower of old shoes and rice. The bride will be greatly missed in church and juvenile work, she being organist of the Sunday School and Vice-President of the League, but what is our loss is other's gain, and we all unite in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Switzer bon voyage down the stream of life.

NEWBURGH.

In Dr. M. J. Beeman's address to the pupils of the High School, at the Literary meeting on Friday afternoon last, he gave them a very instructive talk on bacterial disease, with special reference to the great white plague. The doctor explained the method of operation of the minute bacilli and indicated some of the ways in which we unwittingly make their work easy. When we find that this dread enemy of the race is responsible for 10,000 deaths annually in Canada, from one-fourth to one-third of which mortality is between the ages of 15 and 45, it behoves us to adopt every possible measure for its prevention. Fresh air, sunlight, exercise and proper diet will do much to place us beyond reach of the death-dealing germs, and in these directions scrupulous care should be taken. The address was highly appreciated. Mr. H. A. Nesbit, LP.S., also made a short speech, emphasizing the paramount importance of maintaining physical health, towards which he made valuable suggestions. The rest of the programme was brief. Miss Gee Club, under Miss Johnston gave a reading; Miss Carscallen a humorous duet, and Mr. H. Beeman and Miss E. Lewis enjoyed violin duett, and the Glee Club a closing chorus. Archie Babcock read an essay written by James Lapum.

Mr. J. M. Courtney had on exhibition last week a magnificent large specimen of a black bear skin from an animal shot by Mr. Ira Davidson, of Wilton.

The Woman's Missionary Society had charge of the service on Sunday night in the Methodist church, when two very interesting addresses were given. Mrs. Courtney, president of the local auxiliary, presided and Mrs. Snow, Watrman and Mrs. Jessop Paul of the Wesley Auxiliary assisted on the devotional exercises. Miss Brooks, missionary on furlough from China, then gave a very interesting address on the work in which she is interested. She pointed out the needs of the province. Christian missionaries labor in the midst of a population of 400,000,000 of population, and medical, educational and evangelistic work is accomplishing this end. The people listen to good. With remarkable progress the anti-foot binding movement is gaining ground and a revised China is being evolved. Miss Brooks concluded with a reference to the responsible position of the Home Base. Show the immediate result of the consecrated prayer. Miss Hannah Paul, of Toronto, Field Secretary, was announced to speak, but Mrs. Simpson, B.C., made an interesting and brief address on the progress of the work, emphasizing the need of a practical result of the work in the hearts of the Girls and Boys. Homes and missionaries. Rev. Mr. Sexsmith made the impressive service.

A full church greeted the Methodist Sunday School on Christmas entertainment on Monday night and thoroughly enjoyed the programme rendered. Especial mention might be made of Mr. H. B. Shaws as Santa Claus. Mr. Percy Switzer as Punch, Queen as Judy, Mr. Wagar and Miss F. Nesbit, Mr. Nesbit, B.A., superintendent of the Sunday School, presided and made an appropriate address.

The advance guard of the Christmas holidays arrived at Bridge College students, Messrs. W. D. Moore, from Osgoode Hall; Perry Patterson from Queen's, and McGillivary Aylesworth and Frank Rose from Varsity.

Mrs. Dr. Meacham, Mrs. J. M. Denyes and Fleda and Flora Denyes left on Monday to attend the wedding of Mr. Reg. Meacham at Bridgewater, on Wednesday of this week.

Mrs. Sharpe and daughter Laura visited relatives in Belleville, last week.

Dr. Beeman attended the regular quarterly meeting of the Provincial Board of Health this week in Toronto.

Miss Blanche Estis, of Toronto, is home for the holidays.

Mrs. Carter, of Camden Township, has purchased the residence formerly occupied by Mr. J. Bird's family, and removed to it this week.

Miss Effie Welbanks reached home from Toronto on Tuesday for the Christmas vacation.

Service will be held in St. John's church Christmas morning at 9 o'clock sharp.

Visitors—Mr. and Mrs. Bell, of Ottawa, Mrs. Harry Ballard and Mrs. Wm. Miller, Arden, at Mr. H. J. Wood's; Mrs. J. W. Denyes, Mrs. Dr. Meacham, Bridgeville, and Miss Brooks, Chen Tu, China, at J. M. Denyes.

Mrs. and Mrs. Harry Ballard and family leave on Friday to spend Christmas with relatives in Madoc.

The Bazaar held last week by the ladies of St. John's Woman's Guild was a great success. These ladies, under the presidency of Mrs. H. J. Ryan, had worked indefatigably for several weeks in preparation for this event and feebly deserved the very favorable outcome of their efforts, and the generous patronage they received. The excellence of the goods offered for sale was universally commented upon and the ladies are to be congratulated. The receipts were very satisfactory.

Professor Somers attended the Convocation exercises of the High School on Wednesday night of this week, and the concert in connection therewith to a crowded house, greeted the High School Literary Society on this occasion, and heard an excellent programme. The expression of satisfaction at the close being universal. Mr. H. J. Paul presided very ably and tactfully occupied the chair and made an appropriate address. He spoke enthusiastically of the Collegiate Institute in its connection with the High School and commended strongly the grand opportunities before the boys and girls of to-day. Normal, Entrance and Matriculation certificates were presented to graduates, by the school by Messrs. D. A. Nesbit, B.A., and C. H. Finkle, Chairman of the Board of Education. The musical part of the programme was contributed by instructors, number, a piano duett by the two pianists of the Literary Society, Mr. Wesley and Beeman a mandolin solo by Mr. Herbert Eckardt a violin solo by Mr. H. Beeman and Miss Ella Switzer, a piano solo by Miss Switzer, a vocal solo by Mr. Percy Nesbit (an encore) chorus by the Glee Club, a reading by Miss Gee Club, a vocal solo by Miss Johnston, and a piano quartette, which, under the leadership of Mr. Wesley Switzer, Beeman and Ainsworth Paul, of the programme was concluded with a chorus by the Glee Club and the singing of the school, colors, which for hundred generations have never been surpassed in Newburgh. The girls wore pink and the boys headed by Miss A. H. Gross.

The Literary Society programme was given up to a drama, "Farmer Lawrence" Eckardt and Ainsworth Paul, the leading actors. The drama was well rendered by the cast, and a number of others were given here, with the cast comprised Misses Cecil, Sadie and Ethel Wright, Emma Beeman and Eleanor Dales, and Messrs. Timothy Donnelly, Wesley Switzer, Archie Babcock, Fred Beare and John Gee, the latter rendering an excellent solo as an encore. Miss Ainsworth presided at the piano and added to his part and also a quilted Hungarian dance, which was highly entertaining. The presentation of the prizes followed.

The thanks of the staff and Literary Society are due to the ladies and others who assisted in the success of the concert, to the Principal and the evening closed with the National anthem. The prizes consisted of the piano quartette and a book.

Miss A. E. Gross and Mr. W. A. Beeman, B.A. of the High School staff left on Thursday for their respective homes in Newcastle and Toronto.

Mr. P. D. Ross and family, of Ottawa, spent Christmas with relatives at Cataract.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul, who are living in the High School house, will be "at home" to their friends on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week.

High School graduates are requested to be present on Wednesday evening next.

The usual concert of the holiday season, under the auspices of the Methodist church, will be held on Friday evening of next week, the 31st inst., when Rev. Mr. Hall, of Napanee, and an excellent programme will be rendered.

The annual Presbyterian tea meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, the 28th inst., in the North Port Presbyterian church. Rev. Mr. Sexsmith, of Newburgh, and Rev. Mr. Hall, of Napanee, will be present and address the meeting.

WILTON.

The usual carol singing on the streets on Christmas eve will be omitted this year, but a concert will be given in the Methodist church on Monday evening, Dec. 27th, when an excellent programme will be rendered by the choir and others. The Wilton Xmas entertainment was always the best and most successful of the season, and the committee in charge of the affair are determined to maintain the high standard. Further particulars next week. Mr. Bowen and family have moved into the house recently vacated by Mr. Bland Ashley. Mr. Bowen is employed in the Rathbun Co.'s office. Mr. Bowen and family have been welcomed to Wilton.

Miss Lillie Pomeroy, who was seriously ill with typhoid fever, is recovering nicely.

Miss Ethel Wright, of Napanee, is spending a couple of weeks with her friend, Miss Mabel Wagar.
